"I may be pardoned for calling attention to the rather unusual fact that all, or nearly all, of the progressive leaders are great political lawyers who have never had business experience and for whom it may be difficult to see the commercial viewpoint. They will undoubtedly appreciate this fact and seek counsel of honest and patriotic business men of wide accomplishments. Selfishness may be trusted, usually, to care for the commercial side of the nation's interest, leaving another and, in the past, rarer instinct to develop and guard the ethical interest. Personally, I believe that Theodore Roosevelt is not only a marvelous leader, but is unselfish and is not aiming at personal political gain; that he is a teacher and preacher whose power for usefulness is greater as a private citizen than as president.

"Our race will not be one for martial supremacy of the world, but for love and mercy and justice. The impudence and unhappiness of wealth will disappear before the better attribute of heart. There will be no servant and no master, but a friendship and brotherhood where the strong will help the weak. Until these things come to pass the thin veneer of civilization will illy conceal the barbarian beneath.

"So let us work together for our mutual refinement and improvement, nor fearing Pope's lines:

"Truths would you teach or save a sinking land?
All fear, none aid you, and few understand."

The great telescope of the Paris exposition of 1900 which was built at a cost of $160,000 is now offered for sale by the receiver of the exposition at about one-tenth of its cost. Its housing requires a building 130 feet long.

Tremendous was the drain on the horseflesh of the world caused by the Boer war. In that war England sent 399,339 horses and 103,000 mules to South Africa, four times as many animals as the Germans took to France in August, 1870.

WELLMAN SAILING BALLOON O'ER SEA

Europe Is Destination of Party Travelling in Big Gas Bag.

PARTY OF FIVE MEN WITH HIM

Messages From Aviators Indicate That Thick Fog Is Interfering With Flight—Washington Authorities Show Interest.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 17.—Folks who learned from the Sunday papers that the officers and crew of the outbound steamer Cosmo were the last to report having seen Walter Wellman and his five companions who left here Saturday morning in the airship America, headed for Europe, hurried to Bob Miller's wireless station on the million dollar pier and learned that the ship had been spoken some place off Nantucket.

The last message from the America, which Miller received during daylight hours, had been picked up by the wireless operator at Siasconset, on the southeast corner of Nantucket Island, at 12:40 o'clock p. m. Siasconset relayed the message through the Sagaponk station to Bob Miller.

"All well," said the message received by Miller. "No trouble with machinery. Expect to make the trip." The message was signed by both Wellman and Jack Irwin, wireless operator of the America.

From reports from Siasconset there was not enough of the off shore breeze to roll away the fog into which Wellman had nosed his way from here. The strength of the wireless response to Siasconset's call led to the belief that the America was close to Nantucket, but the fog prevented the Siasconset operator from sighting the airship. Later, however, he sent word to Bob Miller that he believed he had just seen the ship through his glasses, and that she appeared to be swinging a little more to the north whether with tide on heading for the Grand Banks and steamer lanes or to keep near the shore.

The Nantucket operator followed his first message with one to Miller that he had again picked up the America. Wellman had reported in this second message that all was still going well aboard and that the ship was headed east by north throuhg the fog.

If the America were off Nantucket she would have travelled the 300 miles in twenty-five hours, an average speed of twelve miles an hour. At this rate it will take ten days to make the trip.

Joseph W. Salus, president of the local syndicate which backs Wellman, is staunch now in his belief that Wellman will make a hard fight to reach the other side of the ocean. This message was sent to Wellman:

"Walter Wellman, aboard the airship America. God speed your project. Success means your enrolling as a second Columbus. Do everything possible to keep your friends in Atlantic City and your family informed of both your daily situation and progress. Mrs. Wellman, Mrs. Vanniman and others most hopeful."

The federal authorities at Washington, showed their interest in the voyage by sending out a request to wireless stations and ships to try and send assurances to the America's crew that they need have little fear of the West Indian hurricane which the weather bureau reported as headed toward the north Atlantic coast from off the Florida Keys. The weather bureau sent out word that the hurricane had blown itself out.

Outlook Not So Favorable.

Woodshole, Mass., Oct. 17.—The first message caught at Siasconset read: "Have shut down motors and am heading east, northeast. Making 25 knots an hour without engines. Saving juice for wireless. Dynamos not working. Thick fog. No observation obtainable. WELLMAN."

Later this message was picked up: "The outlook not so favorable, but we are keeping up the fight. "WELLMAN."

Clemen-Bayard Airship With Seven Persons Aboard Circles St. Paul's Cathedral—Travels 259 Miles.

London, Oct. 17.—The passage from France to England by means of a dirigible balloon was accomplished for the first time when the new Clemen-Bayard airship, on which a British parliamentary committee has an option, made an uneventful voyage over the channel. It started from Lamotte Breuil, near Paris, at 7:15 Sunday morning, and reached London in a little less than six hours.

It circled round St. Paul's cathedral at 1 o'clock and reached Wormwood Scrubbs, where the Daily Mail erected a garage for it months ago, at 1:30. The weather was perfect throughout. The airship travelled with the greatest steadiness for the whole 259 miles. Mr. Clement, the designer, and six others were aboard.

STANLEY KETCHEL DIES OF GUNSHOT

Champion Middleweight Pugilist Shot by Farm Hand.

REWARD OFFERED FOR SLAYER

Goldie Smith Held as Accessory to the Shooting, as She Is Alleged to Have Told Murderer That Ketchel Insulted Her.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 17. — Stanley Ketchel, champion middleweight pugilist of the world, died in the hospital here without regaining consciousness after being shot in the back by Walter Hurtz, a farm hand on the ranch of R. P. Dickerson, near Conway. Hurtz has fled.

Goldie Smith, a woman who was with Hurtz, is being held as an accessory. She is alleged to have made a statement to Sheriff Shields that Ketchel insulted her and she told Hurtz. This, according to her statement, is the cause of the killing.

Dickerson has offered a reward of $5,000 for the body of Hurtz, nothing for the live man. Two bloodhounds took the trail leading into heavy timber around the Dickerson ranch, and twenty armed men, followed, determined to get the assassin.

Every effort was made by his host to save the fighter's life, three physicians being rushed to his bedside on a fast train soon after the shooting. But all their efforts were unavailing, the wounded man sinking lower and lower. The pugilist was brought to the hospital here on the special train.

Death came easy, Ketchel lapsing into unconsciousness shortly after he was brought from the train. On the train he seemed ard talked some to the few in the coach.

Before retiring Ketchel told Superintendent Charles Bailey of the ranch that Hurtz had remarked to him earlier in the evening that "he would not run Dickerson's dise barrow for $20 a week." Ketchel told Bailey that he had not quarreled with Hurtz, the latter merely remarking to him that he wat not getting enough for his labor, and as far as running a dise barrow was concerned he would not do that at any price.

Ketchel was seated at the breakfast table in the kitchen of the ranch house when Hurtz walked in through the rear door of the kitchen and approached the table.

The farm hand, who carried a 22-caliber target rifle in his hands, aimed at Ketchel and fired. The leaden pellet entered Ketchel's body just below the right shoulder. The bullet ranged upward about three inches and lodged in the right lung.

When Hurtz fired the shot he went out of the house, around to the front door, and then into Ketchel's room, where he picket up Ketchel's automatic revolver. In going out, he stepped over the body, and bending over, struck the fallen man a blow over the left eye with the butt of the gun.

Ketchel's Slayer Taken by Farmers.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 17.—Walter A. Hurtz, alias Walter Dipley, who shot and killed Stanley Ketchel at the ranch of R. H. Dickerson, seven miles from Conway, Webster county, Missouri, was arrested by three farmers near Niangua, Webster county, seventeen miles from the scene of the crime.

SENATOR DOLLIVER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Iowa Solon Dies Suddenly at Fort Dodge Home.

ACUTE INDIGESTION IS CAUSE

Had Suffered From Indisposition Following Recent Trip Through Wisconsin on Speechmaking Tour for Senator LaFollette.

Fort Dodge, Ia., Oct. 17. — United States Senator Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver died suddenly at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night at his residence while being treated by an osteopathic physician.

The cause of death was dilatation of the heart, due directly to an attack of acute indigestion. It had been believed that he had almost entirely recovered from the attack of indigestion from which he had been suffering for a week, but his exertions in the political campaign had weakened his vitality.

The progressive Republican leader had been sitting up all day and made a trip down town from his residence. He told several men whom he met that he had recovered from the indisposition which followed his recent trip through Wisconsin on a speechmaking tour for Senator LaFollette.

While working over the senator the physician, Dr. E. M. Van Patten, used an instrument to listen to the heart action. He had counted fourteen regular strokes and informed his patient.

"That is good," said Mr. Dolliver, "The most I have been able to get is seven."

Two more strong heartbeats were recorded and then two faint ones. Then the physician heard nothing. He thought for an instant that his stethoscope was faulty. He glanced up and discovered the patient was dead.

It was learned that a consultation of physicians was held a week ago. The decision then was that the senator might prolong his life by relinquishing his work, but that he never again would speak in the senate or thrill an audience from the public platform.

Mrs. Dolliver said the senator, while in Washington last winter, studied the tariff schedules constantly, far into the night, taking little time to eat and then going back to work immediately. Such work told on his physician powers, undermining his naturedly rugged constitution.

Death cut short Mr. Dolliver's plans to help Senator Beveridge in the Indiana campaign and to aid Senator Clapp in Minnesota. At the state convention he declared he would enter every one of the ninety-nine counties in Iowa, whether invited or not, to speak in support of the state ticket. He met Col. Roosevelt at Omaha on the latter's recent western trip and accompanied the former president to Sioux City. From there he returned to Fort Dodge. It was his last campaign work.

Margaret Gay Dolliver, dean of women at Morningside college, Sioux City, a sister, and the Rev. R. H. Dolliver, of Redfield, S. D., a brother, have been notified.

President Wires Sympathy.

JOHN E. REDMOND VISITS CHICAGO

Irish Patriot Greeted by Enthusiastic Audiences.

SEES HOME RULE IN IRELAND

Declares the Outlook Was Never So Favorable As at the Present—Is Soliciting Funds to Further the Cause.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Irish-American residents of Chicago crowded the parlors of the Congress hotel to meet John E. Redmond, Irish leader in parliament, who is making a tour of America in the interest of Ireland's struggle for home rule.

They were enthusiastic audiences that greeted the Irish patriot when he told the assembled Irish-Americans that home rule, for which the Irish have yearned for years, would soon be realized.

"The outlook never was so favorable for home rule in Ireland as it is today," he said. "The interesting thing about it is that the people here in the United States are responsible for this roseate condition, though you do not realize it.

"Ireland could have home rule today if it were not for the house of lords. In the house of commons there is a majority of 124 in favor of granting home rule to Ireland. England knows that the United States is heartily in favor of the home rule movement, and for that reason she looks with favor on it now as never before."

Redmond is accompanied by his wife. They will be guests of honor at a luncheon given by the Irish Fellowship club, and Mrs. Redmond will be entertained at many social parties.

The Irish leader will visit many American cities on his present tour. He is soliciting funds to further the cause of home rule.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

I OWE MY CURE TO FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

This is quoted from a letter written by Mrs. H. Armistead, 47 Greenely St., Adrian, Mich. "I suffered for many years with uraemia, or uric acid poisoning. Doctoring had no effect, and my system was full of the poison due to poor kidney action. I felt miserable, tired readily, could not retain my food, my ankles were swollen. My friends recommended for such trouble and I commenced taking them. I began to improve and three bottles removed all my trouble, cleared my system of uric acid, and made my kidneys act properly. I now enjoy excellent health and I owe my cure entirely to Foley Kidney Pills and shall always recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Her serene highness told me so herself."

A roar of laughter went up, for the majority of them thought that Gretchen was indulging in a little pleasantry.

"Ho-ho! So you are on speaking terms with her highness?" Herr Goldberg laughed.

"Is there anything strange in this fact?" she asked.

"Strange!" echoed Herr Goldberg. "Since when did goose girls become intimate with her serene highness."

"Does not your socialism teach that we are all equal?"

The vintner thumped with his stein in approval, and others imitated him. Goldberg was no ordinary fool. He sidestepped defeat by an assumption of frankness.

"Tell us about it. Tell us under what circumstances you met her highness. Every one knows that this marriage is to take place."

Gretchen nodded. "Nevertheless, her highness has changed her mind." And she recounted picturesquely her adventure in the royal gardens, and all hung on her words in a kind of maze.

"Hurrah!" shouted the vintner. "Long live her highness! Down with Jugendheit!"

There was a fine chorus.

A police officer and three assistants came down the stairs quietly.

"Let no one leave this room!" the officer said sternly.

The dramatic pause was succeeded by a babel of confusion.

"Ho, there! Stop him, you!"

It was the vintner who caused this cry, and the agility with which he scrambled through the window into the blind alley was an inspiration.

"After him!" yelled the officer.

But they searched in vain.

"Out into the street, every mother's son of you!" cried the officer. "This is your last warning, Goldberg. The next time you go to prison."

Gretchen alone remained. It was her duty to carry the steins up to the bar. The officer, rather thorough for his kind, studied the floor under the window. He found a cutting from a newspaper. This interested him.

"Do you know who this fellow was?" with a jerk of his head toward the window.

"He is Leopold Dietrich, a vintner, and we are soon to be married."

"What made him run?"

"He is new to Dreiberg. Perhaps he thought you were going to arrest every one."

"Ask him if he is not a spy from Jugendheit," the officer said roughly.

The steins clicked crisply in Gretchen's arms. One of them fell and broke at her feet.

CHAPTER IX.

LOVE'S DOUBTS.

GRETCHEN, troubled in heart and mind over the strange event of the night, walked slowly home.

A footstep from behind caused her to start. The vintner took her roughly in his arms and kissed her many times.

"Gretchen?"

She did not speak.

"What is it?"

"You ask?"

"Was it a crime, then, to jump out of the window?" He laughed.

Gretchen's face grew sterner. "Were you afraid?"

"For a moment. I have never run afoul the police. I thought perhaps we were all to be arrested."

"Perhaps you did not care to have the police ask you questions?"

"What is all this about?" He pulled her toward him so that he could look into her eyes. "What is the matter? Answer."

"Are you not a spy from Jugendheit?" thinly.

He flung aside her hand. "So! The first doubt that enters your ear finds harbor there. A spy from Jugendheit! That is a police suggestion, and you believed it."

"Do you deny it?"

"Yes," proudly, snatching his hat from his head and throwing it violently at her feet—"yes, I deny it. I am not a spy from any country."

"I have asked you many questions," she replied, "but you are always laughing. It is a pleasant way to avoid answering."

The vintner saw himself at bay.

"Gretchen, I have committed no crime. But you must have proof. We will go to the police bureau and settle this doubt."

"When?"

"Now, tonight, while they are hunting for me."

"Forgive me," brokenly.

"I insist. This thing must be righted publicly."

"And I was thinking that the man I loved was a coward!"

"I am braver than you dream, Gretchen." And in truth he was, for he was about to set forth for the lion's den and only amazing cleverness could extricate him. The police bureau was far away, but the distance was nothing to these healthy young people. It was Gretchen who drew back fearfully.

The subchief of the bureau received them with ill concealed surprise.

"I have learned that you are seeking me," said the vintner, taking off his cap.

Immediately the subchief did not know what to say. This was out of the ordinary.

"You are not a native of Dreiberg," he began.

"No, herr; I am from Bavaria. You will find that my papers were presented two or three weeks ago."

The vintner's passports were produced. The subchief compared them to the corresponding number in his book. There was nothing wrong about them.

"What is your business?"

"I am a vintner by trade, herr."

"Why did you jump out of the window?"

"I was frightened at first, herr. I believed that we were all to be arrested."

"You accused him of being a Jugendheit spy," broke in Gretchen.

"I am here because of that accusation," said the vintner.

"What have you to say?"

"I deny it."

"Read this."

It was the cutting. The vintner read it, his brows drawn together in a puzzled frown.

"I can make nothing of this, herr. When I cut this out of the paper it was to preserve the notice on the other side." The vintner returned the cutting.

The subchief read aloud:

Vintners and presses and pruners wanted for the season. Find and liberal compensation. Apply Holtz.

Gretchen laughed joyously; the vintner grinned; the subchief swore under his breath.

"The devil fly away with you both!" he cried, making the best of his chagrin. "And when you marry don't invite me to the wedding."

After they had gone, however, he called for an assistant.

"Did you see that young vintner?"

"Yes."

"Follow him night and day. Find out where he lives and what he does and ransack his room if possible. He is either an innocent man or a sleek rascal. Report to me this time each night."

On reaching the street Gretchen gave rein to her laughter. As they turned into the Krumerweg they almost ran into Carmichael.

"Herr Carmichael!" said Gretchen. "And what are you doing here this time of the night?"

"I am looking for a kind of ghost, a specter in black that leaves the palace early in the evening and returns late, whose destination has invariably been 40 Krumerweg."

The vintner started.

"My house?" cried Gretchen.

"Yours? Perhaps you can dispel this phantom?" said Carmichael.

"She was a lady who comes on a charitable errand. But now she will come no more. The object of her visits is gone," Gretchen answered sadly.

"My luck!" ruefully.

"Are you not afraid to walk about in this part of the town so late?" put in the vintner.

"Afraid? Of what? Thieves? Bah, my little man! I carry a sword stick, and, moreover, I know how to use it tolerably well. Good night." And he swung along.

The vintner was not patient tonight.

"Who is this mysterious woman?"

"I am not free to tell you."

"Oh!"

"Leopold, what is the matter with you tonight? You act like a boy."

"I am wrong, Gretchen. You are right. Kiss me."

She liked the tone; she liked the kisses, too, though they hurt.

"Good night, my man!" she whispered.

"Good night, my woman! Tomorrow night at 8."

He turned and ran lightly and swiftly up the street.

From the opposite doorway a mountaineer, a carter, a butcher and a baker stepped cautiously forth.

"He heard something," said the mountaineer. "He has ears like a rat for hearing. What a pretty picture!" cynically. "All the world loves a lover—sometimes. Touching scene!"

No one replied; no one was expected to reply. More than that, no one cared to court the fury which lay thinly disguised in the mountaineer's tones.

"Tomorrow night; you heard what he said. I am growing weary of this play. You will stop him on his way to yonder house. A closed carriage will be at hand. Before he enters, remember. She watches him, too long when he leaves. Fool!"

The quartet stole along in the darkness noiselessly and secretly.

The vintner had indeed heard something. He knew not what this noise was, but it was enough to set his heels to flying. His room held a cot, a table and two chairs. Out of the drawer in the table he took several papers and burned them. Ah! A patch of white paper just inside the door caught his eye. He fetched it to the candle. What he read forced the color from his cheeks, and his hands were touched with transient palsy.

"The devil! What shall I do now?" he muttered.

What indeed should he do? Which way should he move? Carmichael, Carmichael! The vintner chuckled softly as he scribbled this note:

If Herr Carmichael would learn the secret of No. 40 Krumerweg, let him attire himself as a vintner and be in the Krumerweg at 8 o'clock tonight.

"So there is a trap, and I am to beware of a mountaineer, a carter, a butcher and a baker? Thanks, Scharsenstein, my friend, thanks! You are watching over me."

* * * * * * *

Colonel von Wallenstein curled his mustaches. It was a happy thought that had taken him into the Aldergasse. This Gretchen had been haunting his dreams, and here she was coming into his very arms, as it were. Gretchen stopped, a cold flurry in her heart.

"Herr, I wish to pass."

"That is possible, Gretchen."

"Will you stand aside?"

"You haunt my dreams."

"That would be a pity."

"I am not going to let you pass till I have had a kiss."

"Ah!" Battle flamed up in Gretchen's eyes.

IT GROWS HAIR

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course, in none of these cases were the hair roots dead, nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair, and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. B. J. Pulver, Tecumseh.

The Sentinel Tribune of Bowling Green, O., has the following which will be of interest to many as T. D. Strong and family were at one time residents of Tecumseh

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Strong, 317 South Church street this (Wednesday) afternoon uniting Miss Grace Strong to Mr William Donahey of this place. Only the nearest relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony.

Promptly at half after three o'clock the bridal party descended the stairs and wended their way toward an artistic bank of palms and ferns where they were met by the Rev. M. L. Donahey, father of the groom who officiated, a beautiful ring ceremony being used.

The bride was most attractive in an alluring Semi-Hobble French gown of Peau De Leva Satin, carrying a shower boquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley.

Congratulations were bestowed generously after which a prettily appointed wedding dinner with covers for 22 was served at tables elaborately decorated in pink and white roses, blending to the color scheme.

METHODISTS HONOR PASTOR WITH A DINNER.

On picking up our Hudson exchange the smiling countenance of Rev. D. Stanley Shaw met our gaze. The people of the congregation have given him a warm welcome. We clip the following from the Hudson Post:

The Methodists honored the new pastor Rev. D. Stanley Shaw last Wednesday evening by giving a dinner at the church with an excellent opportunity before and after for pastor and family to become acquainted with the congregation. There was a big attendance, and an unprecedented good time

The dinner was served in the old-fashioned style and what is more delightful that the big table bending beneath the burden of good things, less style and more to eat? A pleasant wave of conversation kept the company in the best of humor and after the feast of the inner man, Orlin Rumsey arose and announced that the occasion was good enough to repeat as often as once every two weeks and introduced R. H. Wade as toastmaster of the after dinner speeches. Happy in the role he had an appropriate introduction for every toast. The post-prandial speeches were very clever and witty and excited prolonged applause:

"Our Pastor"—Prof. O. M. Miles.
"Our Ladies"—Mrs. G. J. Perkins.
"Relation of Official Board to the Pastor"—T. H. Howes.
"The Epworth League—A Recruiting Station"—Dora E. Hart.

Following the toasts, Rev. D. Stanley Shaw responded to the welcome which the members of the church had given himself and family in a very happy manner. All enjoyed themselves.

NATURAL SODA FOUNTAIN.

One of the Most Interesting Gushing Wells in the World.

One of the most interesting and novel gushing wells in the world, and perhaps without a rival in either respect, is a geyser of soda water that recently came up at Wendling, just across the Mendocino County border from Sonoma, Cal.

This well produces soda water—genuine soda water—and of a quality that would warrant bottling for the general trade, in such quantities as were never struck before. There is so much of this water that it is turned into a huge long flume, and used to float great logs from the forest to the lumber mills.

An artesan well borer was recently employed to secure an adequate water supply for a large sawmill in that region. He drilled to a depth of 200 feet, the lower 110 feet being through solid granite. Then a slight trace of water was found. The artesian man then placed fifty-four sticks of dynamite at the bottom of the well, and exploded them. Instantly water gushed up, rising 20 feet above the surface of the ground, pouring forth in enormous volume. That was days ago, and since then there has been no indication of a cessation of this vast "natural soda fountain."

Builded Better Than He Knew.

"There is a woman up in the front of the car who hasn't paid her fare," said the conductor to the man in the rear seat, "but I can't place her."

"Perhaps I can give you a pointer," said the helpful man. "Pick out the woman who fingers her hatpins all the time. That is the latest wrinkle of the female street car pirate. Reading her neighbor's paper and gazing into futurity are out of date. Everybody has got off to those tricks. But the woman that beats her way has to do something to hide her guilt, so she fiddles with her hatpins."

"Maybe you are right," said the conductor. "Anyhow, I'll try."

After a little he reported to the helpful man.

"That worked all right," he said. "She owned up. She said you would pay for her."

"Me?" exclaimed the helpful man. "What have I got to do with it?"

"Everything, apparently," said the conductor. "She happened to look back here when I spoke to her. She said she knew you, and that it would be all right. There she is now, standing up and nodding at you. Know her?"

"Yes," said the man weakly, "she's my wife."

Well Dressed.

The custom attributed to the Hollanders of wearing several pairs of breeches at a time has been a source of amusement to those who do not relish the idea of carrying all their wardrobe on their own persons, but the Miami Record man knows of a recent comer from the Tropics who rather "beats the Dutch" in that respect, and tells this story in Thursday's issue: "A young man who was raised in Nassau was asked by his employer yesterday, if he was not suffering from the cold, 'No, siree,' was his answer, 'I have on five shirts and three pairs of pants, and old Jack Frost can't get me.'"

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This emptying of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clear head, a lightness of step, good appetite and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Cathartics are too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong, but the child refuses them because of their bad taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is mild, pleasant-tasting and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but there is nothing better to be found for children. They like its taste—you will not have to force them to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell would like to send you a sample bottle free of charge. In this way you can try it before buying. Later, when convinced of its merits, you can get it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. D. W. Spangler of Strattonville, Pa., as well as that of Mr. A. F. Johnson of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way and now write that it is their one family necessity next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample of this remedy.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Gibraltar, Oct. 17.—Ex-King Manuel and his mother, ex-Queen Amelie, and Dom Affonso, Manuel's uncle, sailed from here on the British royal yacht Victori and Albert for England. Their embarkation was attended by the full ceremony observable in the case of a reigning sovereign.

The military honors ashore included the playing of the Portuguese anthem. The warships were dressed in bunting and saluted the party as they boarded the yacht. Manuel's grandmother, Maria Pia, sailed on the Italian warship, Regina Elena, for Italy.

The Hat Straw Crop.

The greater part of the straw employed for making summer hats comes from Italy. To obtain a suitable straw for this purpose the wheat is sown as thickly as possible in order that the growth of the plant may be impoverished as well as to produce a thin stalk. The Italian wheat blooms at the beginning of June and is pulled up by hand by the roots when the grain is half developed. Should it be allowed to remain in the ground a longer time the straw would become too brittle for the purpose for which it is grown. Uprooted straws to the number of about five dozen, the size of the compass of the two hands, are firmly tied together in little sheaves and stowed away in barns. After that the straw is again spread out to catch the heavy summer dews and to bleach in the sun. When the product has been sufficiently bleached it is put into small bundles and classified. The last step is to cut it close above the first joint from the top, when it is again tied up in small bundles containing about sixty stalks each and is then ready for the market. —Harper's Weekly.

Salad of the Shoes.

Freshmen have troubles the world over. The "conscrits," as they are called at the famous Ecole Polytechnique in Paris, are subjected to an amusing initiation called the salad of shoes. The freshmen report some days before the upper class men so that they can receive their uniforms and become familiar with the routine of the school. The first morning after their tormentors return the freshmen are aroused by a demand that they throw their shoes out of the windows into the courtyard. The shoes are gathered into a heap, and, kneeling in a big circle around this, the freshmen are obliged to go through some ridiculous gymnastic movements at the command of their superiors. When the study bell rings they have but a minute to appear in the class rooms, and it is a strenuous minute around that pile of shoes.

A Henpecked Astrologer.

Lilly, the astrologer and alchemist, could not see for himself sufficiently far into that future which he professed to be able to scan so clearly for others to guard him against making a fool of himself by marrying. He caught a vixen, "of the temper of Mars," to use his own words, and the fact that she brought him £500 as dowry did not count for much in the way of compensation, seeing that "she and her relations cost him £1,000."

THE TEST OF MERIT

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well. What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kidney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had also been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1906, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

AVOIDS TRUTH AND FAIRNESS

Democratic Candidate For Governor Plays the Demagogue.

THE FACTS IN THE CASE

Many Corporations In His Home County Pay Taxes on Less Than 20 Per Cent of Their Actual Value, Yet Hemans Raves Over Upper Peninsula Mine Taxation Question.

Is Mr. Lawton T. Hemans, the Democratic candidate for governor, interested to the slightest extent in the question as to whether or not the corporations of Michigan shall pay their share of taxes, or is he playing the part of a political demagogue?

Thus far in his discussion of the tax subject, Mr. Hemans has referred only to the upper peninsula property. He evidently has it in mind that these properties represent a very limited territory and a comparatively small number of people and that an attack in that direction will yield very largely to his political candidacy through prejudice and the sectional division he hopes to create.

But as a matter of truth and fairness, is Mr. Hemans at all interested in the question of equal taxation in Michigan? Is he even interested in the matter of having all the corporations of Michigan pay their fair share of taxation? He is so as to that in Ingham county, where Mr. Hemans lives and which he has represented in the state legislature, there are 26 corporations. The aggregate amount of the real and personal property of these corporations subject to assessment, as represented to the secretary of state, in sworn statements, amounts to $7,648,482.

Yet these Ingham county corporations are paying taxes on a valuation of only $1,495,576, less than 20 per cent of their actual value, as shown by the sworn statements filed with the state by the corporations themselves.

When Mr. Hemans says that the mining companies of the upper peninsula are not assessed to exceed 26 per cent of their actual value, he should also include the further statement that the corporations of Ingham county are assessed at less than 20 per cent of their actual value and on less than 17 per cent of their value based on the amount of capital stock subscribed.

It is known to be true, however, that Mr. Heman's comparisons are not based on the value of mining properties as shown by sworn statements, but largely on the market value of their stock. If he will apply this same market value test to the corporations of Ingham county he will find that the percentage of assessed valuation to market value will not exceed 10 per cent.

The market value of the Reo Motor Car company, for instance, is over $6,000,000. Just recently it was announced through the newspapers that negotiations were under way for the purchase of the Reo company by the General Motors company and that the price asked was $7,000,000. This company is on the assessment rolls of Ingham county for only $331,800. Based on its market value it should be on the assessment rolls for $6,000,000.

When Mr. Hemans is discussing the question of dividends paid by the mining properties he should also mention the fact that the Reo Motor Car company has returned in dividends since its organization, less than ten years, $40 for every dollar of the original investment.

While these facts must be known Mr. Hemans, unless he has given his attention to the subject of taxation for political purposes only, he has made no reference to it as a citizen, and not the slightest effort to bring about any of the conditions of fairness or equality in the sharing of tax burdens to which he is giving so much of his talk as a political speechmaker.

The purpose here is not to single out the corporations of one county or of a single section for discussion and criticism as Mr. Hemans has thought best to do, but to make it very plain to the people of Michigan that the Democratic candidate for governor is either not possessed of the information which enables him to fairly and fully present this question or he purposely avoids fairness and truth in order to assist his personal and party purposes.

One declaration made to the assembled representatives of the Republican party at Detroit that was generously applauded not only because its expression was in harmony with all the actions and movements of the state convention but because it briefly yet fully expressed the position earnestly indorsed and everywhere proclaimed by the Republican candidate for governor, Chase S. Osborn, was this: "We stand for efficiency in public office and pledge our nominee to an administration in which every public dollar shall buy as much as a private dollar whether in services or supplies. We likewise stand pledged to a business-like administration, with the fewest possible employes and the lowest limit of expense consistent with good service and satisfactory results."

TAFT'S VACATION ENDS

President and Family Leave for New York for Short Visit.

Returns to White House Much Benefitted by Stay at Summer Capital —Gains in Weight.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 17.—President Taft's vacation ended today when he will leave Beverly for New York city. The president will go back to his desk at the White House in fine physical condition, except for a sore foot which he is obliged to favor slightly.

The president's lameness had just about disappeared when he overtaxed the injured foot on the golf course the other day and he will have to go easy with it during his three days' stay in New York. The president, notwithstanding his golfing this summer, is going back several pounds heavier than when he arrived on the north shore about July 1.

The president left Beverly this morning and will arrive in New York early in the evening. He will be a guest at the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft, during his stay in the city. Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Helen Taft will accompany the president on the trip.

The hunters had alighted from a train but a few minutes before the accident occurred and were on their way to the camp at Hartwood Club. Purdy stumbled and the gun discharged. His wounds are considered fatal.

MAN TARRED AND FEATHERED

Morrisville, Pa., Residents Punish Man for Giving Minor Liquor.

Trenton, Oct. 17.—Residents of Morrisville, Pa., a village just across the river from this city, took a summary method of punishing Amos Wright for giving liquor to a minor.

A number of men took Wright to a shed, smeared him with tar and rolled him in feathers. Then he was turned loose on the streets, looking like a fit character for a comedy part in Chantecler. Wright says he knows his tormentors, and will punish them.

CAYMAN ISLAND HIT BY STORM

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 17.—The steamer Prinz Eitel Friederich, which has arrived here, reports that the Cayman Islands have been devastated by a hurricane which passed over them last week.

BUYS LAND FOR NEW STATION

Pennsylvania Road Pays $8 a Square Foot for Chicago Ground.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company has purchased five acres south of Polk street for an extension of its freight terminal, and buildings are being torn down to make way for tracks. The improvement is said to be part of the company's plan to build a $20,000,000 passenger station on the site of the Union depot at Canal and Adams streets.

The tract acquired was the property of the Western Electric company, and the price was $1,800,000, or $8 per square foot.

Quinlault Indians' Fisheries.

The Quinlault Indians deserve praise for the efficient and far seeing methods adopted in the management of their fisheries. They have learned the lesson taught by their white brethren that if the salmon is to be conserved the fish must be permitted to go up-stream to the spawning grounds. This year the Quinlaults adopted a rule under which they kept a runaway in the stream free from nets, and many thousands of "bluebacks" were seen to pass up the stream. Heretofore the nets have been set promiscuously and no attempt was made to conserve the fish.

But even with a runaway kept open the Indians enjoyed the greatest catch in the memory of old men of the tribe this year. The 120,000 salmon caught had a value of about $45,000, and of this sum $24,000 will go to the heads of thirty families. That is $800 to the family, a sum sufficient to provide well for an Indian family a year. —Tacoma Ledger.

WIFE HELD AS SLAYER

Mrs. Etta Young Johnson Kills Husband for Love of Boy.

Indiana Woman of 40 Accused of Poisoning Husband to Get $12,000 in Life Insurance.

Newcastle, Ind., Oct. 17. — Charged with the death of her husband, George E. Johnson, formerly of Crawfordsville, by administering carbolic acid to him so that she could get $12,500 on insurance policies carried on his life and made payable to her, Mrs. Etta Young Johnson was arrested at her home in Spiceland, near this city and is now in jail.

Mrs. Johnson, who is about 40 years old, was infatuated, it is alleged, with Clarence Porter, 23 years old, of Crawfordsville, Ind., and it is believed wanted to get rid of her husband and get the life insurance money and marry Porter. Brothers of Johnson started to investigate when they learned that $11,000 of the insurance had been taken out since last February.

Analysis of the stomach of Johnson, made by Prof. Garner of Wabash college, revealed a quantity of carbolic acid, and the 16-year-old son of the woman testified to the grand jury that he had purchased acid for his mother.

When the young woman admitted that she had had three husbands and was about to take the fourth, County Clerk Vosburg was amazed.

Her first husband was named Zell. The next to give her his name was Blaine Deerwester. A divorce from him, remarriage to him and a second divorce followed.

The parents are in great distress and the police of surrounding cities have been notified. One of the women was found in Terre Haute, but gave no trace of the two men who took the children away.

Optimism in Business.

The commercial life both encourages and needs the optimist spirit. Its rewards are not ideal nor vague, but tangible and well within the reach of human effort, and they are accessible to the hopes, at least, of all classes. Moreover, one's advance in it may be vastly accelerated at any moment by some lucky or skillful stroke. And, on the other hand, a sanguine, confident mood is peculiarly needed for the enterprises and speculations by which alone commerce can be sustained and expanded. In the most thoroughly and intensely commercialized community that has ever existed a sufficient concentration of thought on the "bright side" will certainly be effected by the mere facts of the case, and if the forces of altruism and old-fashioned religion have any quarrel to prosecute with the spirit of trade, they may, it seems, feel themselves free to carry on these quarrels a l'outrance without weakening their opposition by any alliance in respect of "optimism."

Taft Considering Democrat for Chief Justice.

President, However, Has Not Given Up Idea for Honoring Hughes with the Position.

Washington, Oct. 20.—It is learned that among the candidates for chief justice of the supreme court of the United States whom President Taft is considering is Associate Justice Edward Douglass White, who is strongly urged for the place, and President Taft is giving serious consideration to the recommendations.

Justice White was appointed to the supreme court from Louisiana and is a Democrat. It is believed the president will give great weight to political consideration in making the appointment.

While the president is considering both Senator Root and Justice White for the highest honor on the supreme court bench, he has not entirely given up the idea of appointing Hughes chief justice.

Elbert H. Gary Addresses Steel Men at Chicago.

Banquet at Blackstone Hotel Represents a Wealth of More Than One Billion Dollars.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Elbert H. Gary, addressing the members of the American Iron and Steel institute, and many notable foreign guests, at a banquet at the Blackstone hotel, said the efforts of the men who are striving to drive out dishonest men from positions of power and influence in the industrial world are justified and essential.

Without mentioning names he praised the work of the men who have sought to improve the moral tone of the citizenship of the United States, and said it was of slight significance whether the individual men and public sentiment have always been exactly right or fair, if the intentions to bring about the desired improvement have been good.

The banquet probably surpassed anything of the kind ever held in the United States for magnificance. Seated under the great canopy of southern smilax and roses were men representing a wealth of more than one billion dollars. Leaders of the steel and iron business throughout the world hobnobbed with lawmakers, state and city officials and captains of commerce.

HARAHAN RESIGNS PRESIDENCY OF I.C.

Park May Be Chosen Illinois Central President.

REPORT ON GRAFT SCANDAL

Director Hackstaff Declares the Stockholders Have Not Lost Confidence in the Management of the Railroad.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Retirement of J. T. Harahan as president of the Illinois Central railroad company was acknowledged formally at a meeting of the directors. Mr. Harahan's successor will not be announced until Jan. 1, and he will remain in office until that time. He has reached the 70-year age limit, and thus retires from the office automatically.

Official investigators of the Illinois Central, who have been working in the graft inquiry, made their report to the directors. What action is to be taken by them regarding the graft scandal was not revealed. It is believed, however, that steps will be taken to insure the company against the possibility of such gigantic losses through fraud in the future.

No new directors were elected at the meeting. Three of the old directors were re-elected. They were J. T. Harahan, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Henry W. De Forest.

President Harahan will be chairman of the board of directors hereafter. He will be retired from the presidency on a pension, but will remain active in the administration of the road's affairs. He has devoted most of his life to the railroad business.

Speculation as to who might be elected to succeed President Harahan is rife. Many railroad men are of the opinion that W. L. Park, first vice president, will be the new chief.

With the annual meeting of stockholders invaded by deputy sheriffs armed with subpoenas for the directors of the Illinois Central road in a $10,000,000 "damage suit," and Attorney Maxwell Edgar making sensational charges of mismanagement and corruption against the officials of the company, the session was thrown into an uproar.

The praecipe in the suit was filed in the circuit court in the name of Mrs. Jeanne Edgar, wife of the attorney, who owns two shares of Illinois Central stock. The defenants named are the principal directors of the road. A resolution demanding investigation of the charges of corruption was presented by Edgar but was voted down.

"The stockholders have not lost confidence in the management of the road because of the recent fraud scandals, and the stockholders' meeting represented more proxies this year than at any previous meeting in years," declared A. G. Hackstaff, one of the directors. "The road is in good condition," he added.

FOELKER ON STAND IN GRAFT HEARING

Tells of Attempt to Bribe by Ex-Senator Gardner.

GARDNER CITED FOR CONTEMPT

New York Graft Committee Hearing Testimony of Huge Corruption Fund Used to Defeat Passage of Anti-Racing Bills.

New York, Oct. 20. — A corruption fund of $500,000, raised in an unsuccessful effort to defeat the passage by the legislature of the anti-racing bills, was brought out at the session of the legislative investigating committee.

Congressman and former State Senator Otto C. Foelker, of Brooklyn, gave direct testimony of efforts made to bribe him by former State Senator Frank J. Gardner and former Quarantine Commissioner Frank Schroeder, now in Sing Sing.

Robert Elder, first assistant district attorney of Kings county, repeated a story which he testified had been told to him by Frank Gardner that the anti-race track bill had been passed because Senator Patrick H. McCarren, the Brooklyn boss, was piqued that he had not had the exclusive handling of the fund, and to punish those who had thus slighted him he failed to use the influence he possessed and which, if used, would have defeated the bill.

Frank J. Gardner, recently arrested in Scranton, Pa., and indicted on charges connected with the bribery scandal, had with him his young wife, formerly May Yerkby, an actress, with whom he was on his wedding journey when he was arrested, in a front row.

When Gardner took the witness chair, he tossed a typewritten document to Chairman Merritt, saying: "That embodies the only statement I shall make before this committee."

Witness did answer just one question as to his residence, saying that it was at 20 Wadsworth avenue, this city. In response to the question how long he had resided there, the witness replied, "I shall at this time decline to answer any and all questions on the grounds that the information elicited may tend to incriminate me." He was declared in contempt and the district attorney notified.

Foelker said he was coming down from Albany during the session of 1908 when a man named Jacob Elperin whom he believed was a partner of ex-Senator Gardner, came to him and told him that Gardner wanted to see him, the witness, in the Pullman stateroom. He went into the stateroom, and Gardner said to him:

"Sit down, Otto. We need your vote against the race track bill. I want to make it worth your while from a financial standpoint; in fact, I will give you $2,000 more than the other senators are getting." He said "They were getting $10,000. He said he would pay $2,000 down then and there, $3,000 after the legislature adjourned and $5,000 of the balance, in case the governor would call an extra session."

Witness testified that he told Gardner he could not vote against the bill. The constitution prohibited gambling in spite of the Percy-Gray act. In response to this objection of the witness Gardner, he said, had said:

"This matter will soon blow over; it is one of those nine day wonders, that will be forgotten, and in case when the fall comes along and you want to be re-elected, I will help you." The witness refused to consider the offer and that interview ended.

Other witnesses were heard and the committee resumed the hearing this morning.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

I OWE MY CURE TO FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

This is quoted from a letter written by Mrs. H. Armistead, 47 Greenely St., Adrian, Mich. "I suffered for many years with uraemia, or uric acid poisoning. Doctoring had no effect and my system was full of the poison due to poor kidney action. I felt miserable, tired readily, could not retain my food, my ankles were swollen and I had headaches. I was recommended for such trouble and I commenced taking them. I began to improve and three bottles removed all my trouble, cleared my system of uric acid, and made my kidneys act properly. I now enjoy excellent health and I owe my cure entirely to Foley Kidney Pills and shall always recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

THE SAVIOR'S TEACHINGS
BROOKLYN TABERNACLE
BIBLE STUDIES

WILT THOU THAT WE COMMAND FIRE?

Luke 9:51-56—October 23

"And it come to pass, when the days were well nigh come, that he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem and sent messengers before his face."

THIS week's study relates an incident which occurred on the occasion of our Lord's journey from Galilee to Jerusalem just before his crucifixion. He knew that his hour was come; that his sacrificial life of three and a half years should be accomplished. The Great Teacher was full of courage. "But of the people there were none with him" in the sense of sympathetic appreciation of the conditions. True, he had informed the twelve Apostles respecting the consummation of his work and its nearness, but they had been slow to believe all the things written in the Law and the prophecies concerning him. Their minds naturally grasped the glorious things spoken of the Messiah. They were so busy thinking of his glorious Kingdom, and of their glorious association with him in that Kingdom, that they failed to note the other prophecies which, with equal distinctness, foretold his sufferings and ignominy. Similarly, they overlooked the Master's own words concerning his death. They thought of him as speaking in some figurative, hyperbolic manner. And Peter even attempted to rebuke him, saying, "Be this far from thee, Lord; it shall not happen unto thee."

Refused by the Samaritans

Another account intimates that James and John visited the Samaritan city for the purchase of bread and supplies for the party. The Samaritans recognized them and inquired, would the Great Teacher recognize the Samaritans and heal their sickness or would he treat them as Jews in general treated them—unkindly? They believed the latter. The Apostles frankly told them that the Great Teacher was sent only to the Jewish nation and would not stop to heal their sick ones, because he was "not sent save to the lost sheep of the house of Israel."

Naturally enough the Samaritans resented this and were angry. They said, Very well. Buy bread from the people whom you instruct and whose sick you heal.

St. John and St. James were greatly incensed at this. Was not Jesus the greatest Teacher? Was he not the Messiah? Had he not, as such, the right to determine the will of God respecting who should and who should not receive his benefactions? With this answer they came to Jesus and, relating the circumstances, asked, "Wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven to destroy these men and their city?"

What Spirit Are Ye Of?

We listen with keen interest for the Master's response. As we once viewed the matter of the Divine program it would have seemed right for the Great Teacher to say to the Apostles, Never mind, my dear Disciples; wait just a little while and all those Samaritans will die and my Heavenly Father will deliver them over to the devils for an eternity of torture. In comparison with eternal torture that which you purpose in the way of burning up their city and incidentally burning them for a few minutes would be as nothing. I appreciate, my dear disciples, your spirit, that it is God-like; that you desire to do all the roasting and burning within your power, and I commend you for it. Continue to thus copy your God and to cause suffering to as many as possible of your fellow-creatures who do not think exactly as you do.

Was this the answer of the Great Teacher? Thank God, No! His teaching was the very reverse—sympathetic, loving, kind. And he had the Father's Spirit and understood it and followed it perfectly. In answer to their query, we read, "Jesus turned and rebuked them" and said, "Ye know not what spirit ye are of! The Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them!"

"A Savior and a Great One"

The language spoken in Palestine in Jesus' day was the Syriac. One of the Great Teacher's titles is The Savior. And this, in the Syriac language, signifies, "The Life-Giver." The whole world was damned enough before Jesus came. He came not to damn (condemn) them more, but that they through him might have life (John x. 10; iii, 17).

Life! Did they not have life? No. All human life was forfeited through father Adam's disobedience. All mankind are dying as a result. A Life-Giver, a Savior from death (and not from eternal torment), was what was needed.

The first work of the Savior is the redemptive work of Calvary. His second work is the selection of his Church to be his joint-heirs in the Kingdom. His third work will be the saving of Adam and all his race from sin and death—from all the mental, moral and physical degradation which came through father Adam's disobedience and through his children being born in sin and shapen in iniquity and in sin conceived by the mothers.

The saving of the Church is a great work! How faithful we should be if we have heard, if our eyes have seen, if our hearts have tasted of the grace of God in this wonderful privilege of becoming members of the Bride of Christ. However, we cannot suppose that the saving of merely a handful of select ones is the purpose of God in the creation of the world and in the redeeming of the world. On the contrary, this elect "Little Flock" is spoken of as a "first-fruits unto God of his creatures" (James i. 18; Revelation xiv. 4.) This implies an after-fruitage much more numerous. While God does not propose to save anyone out of death and to life eternal contrary to the individual will, he does propose that every creature lost in Adam and redeemed by Jesus shall be brought to a clear knowledge of the Truth, that they may be saved. He does propose that only the willingly obdurate shall be lost; and their loss will be the loss of life—as the Apostle declares, "everlasting destruction."

HON. JOHN V. SHEEHAN.

John V. Sheehan, of Ann Arbor, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Second Congressional District of Michigan, was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., 55 years ago. He is a graduate of the Ann Arbor high school, and of the law department of the University, and has been a constant student of economics and of government all his life.

Having finished his collegiate life, Mr. Sheehan entered upon a business career. He established the University bookstore at Ann Arbor in 1873, which was the leading bookstore for many years for the students attending the University.

In 1896, Mr. Sheehan founded, in connection with the above, J. V. Sheehan & Co., at Detroit, which is today one of the half dozen largest retail bookstores in the United States.

Mr. Sheehan has always been a consistent tariff reformer, and if elected to Congress, he will cast his vote with the insurgent Republicans and the Democrats, for tariff reform, for the conservation of our national resources, for an income tax on incomes exceeding $10,000; and in the matter of a United States bank of issue, he will stand for government control, and the profits thereof accruing thereto going to the people instead of to special interests.

He has never held a political office, and upon the earnest solicitation of his numerous friends, he finally consented to become a candidate for Congress.

Mr. Sheehan insists that nothing but a Democratic Congress can destroy the system known as Cannonism; a system devised by the interests and trusts to defeat any legislation proposed for the benefit of the people, and which must be destroyed by the aroused conscience and wrath of the people.

In a recent speech by Mr. Sheehan, among other things he said:

"It is the high tariff that has led the nation into the byways and boulevards of extravagance and profligacy. It is the high tariff that has filled the coffers of the trusts with the money by which they corrupt courts, defeat justice and debauch legislators. It is the tariff that has made 95 per cent of our people groan under the advanced cost of living. It is the tariff that compels a poor man to pay $6 for a woolen blanket that he can buy for $3 in Germany or England. It is the tariff that compels every family of five persons to pay $25 more annually for the sugar they consume than they would have to pay for the same amount of sugar in Europe. It is the tariff that takes $100 a year extra out of a skilled mechanic to clothe himself and family. It is the tariff that takes from 4,000 families in Ann Arbor $100 yearly in excessive profits and high prices that should remain in the pockets of the people, or be deposited in our banks. Think of it, bankers; think of it, merchants; think of it, everybody, what $400,000 would do yearly for the prosperity of this community."

1ST. ANNIVERSARY

Fred Rosacrans and Sons

The fine store of Fred Rosacrans & Sons presents a very pretty appearance on this their first anniversary. Autumn leaves and flowers vie with the lovely shades of the goods. The dress goods in wool's and silks, in satins and velvets are so rich and dainty in their coloring and the beautiful trimmings blend so nicely that it leaves little to be desired.

The table linens need no word of praise for they always appeal to a woman's heart. Did you notice that piece of brown linen, the table cloth in the window? It was spun and woven by hand over one hundred years ago, spun on just such a wheel as the one in the window that has passed its hundredth year of serving. Call and see these relics and then compare with the improvements of the hundred years.

We congratulate the firm on their success of the past year and hope the coming ones will be just as satisfactory as this one has been.

DEMOCRATIC BANQUET

Adrian Tuesday Oct., 18.

Those who attended the Democratic Banquet in Adrian last Tuesday evening reports a most enjoyable time. The meeting was held in Schoolcrafts rink which was very prettily decorated with chrysanthemums, salvia and ferns, small U. S. flags were used in profusion. The scene was lighted with numerous candles which lent a mellow glow.

The ladies of St. Mary's church have a great deal of credit for the able manner in which they served the crowd.

The Imperial band furnished the most excellent music. A most sumptuous banquet was served after which Frank D. Eamans of Detroit acting as toastmaster gave a short address full of wit and pleasantries introduced the Democratic Candidate for governor Lawton F. Hemans.

Mr. Hemans made an able address impressing on all democrats the necessity of electing the democratic ticket to save "Michigan my Michigan" Edmund C. Shields followed with an address on "Party Organization", John V. Sheehans on "Its time for a change" John T. Winship on "What Maine did, Michigan can do" Hon. Morris Sheppard of Texas spoke on "Congress and the tariff" he was a fine talker and held the attention of his audience closely. The evening was fully occupied and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

CHURCH KEEPS NAME

At the late Episcopal Convention held in Cincinnati the vote to change the name of the church was lost and they will still bear the name of Protestant Episcopal. Rev. Carl E. Grummer, Rector of St. Stevens church Philadelphia expressed the opposition in the following forcible speech.

"No scholar with any respect for his scholarship nor any student who has respect for his language could favor the name proposed," he said. "It would put us in a ludicrous position, from which we would be obliged to recede, if we advertised ourselves as being that part of the Holy Catholic church known as the Episcopal church. It would seem to foreigners as though we were traveling under an alias.

WASHINGTON LETTER

October 17, 1910.

Ex-President Roosevelt has been getting himself into a lot of trouble of late. The question is now being discussed throughout the country as to whether this truly wonderful man is a statesman first and a politician afterwards, or a politician first and a statesman afterwards. A great many Western Insurgents are inclined towards the latter view. When he was sweeping the west a short while ago on waves of unceasing ovations, he was hailed as a leader of leaders of the Insurgent or Progressive movement in the Republican party. The rock on which the Republican party split into Insurgent and Stand-Pat Camps was the Payne-Aldrich tarriff. The Progressive Republicans have attacked that measure with more bitterness and virulence than the Democrats have ever done.

Roosevelt Indorses Payne-Aldrich Tarriff.

At the recent New York convention which Roosevelt dominated in a manner to suit himself the tariff bill was indorsed and also President Taft. In regard to President Taft the Insurgents as a rule indorse his good intentions only, which are admitted even by Democrats as well as Republicans, but many of his acts the Insurgents do not indorse, so when a convention goes furthur than to indorse President Taft's good intention it goes outside the realm of Insurgency into the Stand Pat camp.

Mr. Roosevelt has been called upon to explain whether he is working both ends against the middle, as the saying is, or what?

WEDDING IN AUTUMN SHADES

The Marriage of

MISS MINNIE GAY COREY

to

MR. EDWIN JOSEPH STEBBINS

Celebrated at St. Peter's Church on Wednesday, October 19, 1910.

The many friends of Miss Minnie G. Corey were delighted on receiving invitations to her wedding, that it was to be solemnized in her old home town and in St. Peters church where from childhood she had worshipped and been an active member; also that the reception was to be held in the Parish House, which was made possible by the generosity of her family.

The color scheme in both church and Parish house was carried out most judiciously with cannas, flowers and autumn leaves, the beauty of the Red-hot Poker, with its flaming red, intensifying the effect of the red, yellow and green.

Preceding the ceremony the entertainment of the guests was provided for by the soft and mellow strains of the organ played by Mrs. Look, the harpist, Miss Bryan of Detroit, playing during the ceremony.

At a given signal the strains of Lonengrin's Wedding March announced to the waiting audience the approach of the wedding party, preceded by the four ushers, Berry Johnston of Pittsburg, Harry Fee of Adrian, Lawrence Ketcham of Toledo, and P. W. A. Fitzsimmons of Tecumseh. Following these came little Meredyth Smith, a neice of the bride, as flower girl. She was dainty and sweet in her filmy white dress and carried a basket of yellow flowers.

The charming bride leaning on the arm of her uncle Walter S. Ballou of Providence, R. I., came next. Her simple but artistic Parisian gown was of white lace over white satin, made entrain and decollete, with trimmings of satin and pearls. She carried a boquet of lavender orchids and lillies of the valley and wore a scarf veil, a gift from her mother who recently returned from abroad. The groom, Edwin J. Stebbins, and his best man Frederick Bury of Cleveland, and the Rev. Chester C. Kemp met them at the altar, where the beautiful service of the Episcopal church was impressively pronounced, a double ring service being used.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the music rendered the joyous notes of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Stebbids going at once to the Parish House where they received the congratulations of their many friends, during which time the harpist assisted in the entertaining of the guests with several fine selections.

In the receiving line with the bride and groom was the bride's mother, Mrs. M. E. Corey, who wore pearl grey satin with rich embroidery in silver; Mrs. Mary Colvin sister of the groom, in black lace with pearl grey trimmings and Mr. and Mrs. Ballou. The latter was beautifully dressed in white lace over peach bloom satin. Also Mrs. Stanley Gardner Smith in a gown of lavender chiffon cashmere embroidered in silver.

After congratulations a dainty buffet lunch was served by Misses Edyth Shull, Nettie Kaiser, Hazel Zimmerman, Josephine Hayden, Florence Rosacrans, Ruth Kloffenstein, Bonnie Brown and Josephine Orr.

At the conclusion of the lunch, dainty white boxes tied with satin ribbon containing the wedding cake were passed to the guests by Misses Meredyth Smith, Nerissa Fitzsimmons Camilla Hayden, Burton and John Garlinghouse and Perry Hayden.

The going-away gown was a raisin-colored cloth suit, with hat to harmonize. They will take a short wedding trip after which they will return to Tecumseh for a few days' visit with their friends, before leaving for their home in Citronelle, Alabama, where Mr. Stebbins has resided for the past two years.

Mr. Stebbins, better known as "Ed," was born and brought up in Adrian, and while living there, enjoyed many social functions with Tecumseh young folks at which time he met Miss Corey, and the wedding of October 19 is the consummation of a love affair of a number of years

The best wishes of her host of friends go with her to her new home, the only regret being that it takes her so far away.

The many exquisite gifts received attest to the high esteem in which she is held by her friends and they will always be a reminder of this beautiful October day.

A wedding would not be completed without rice and confetti and Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins were generously showered as they took the auto that bore them away.

Many beautiful gowns were in evidence and we note a few worn by some of the out-of-guests. Mrs. Frank Stebbins of Adrian wore blue messaline, corsage and sleeves of Persian lace and pearls with diamond ornaments. Mrs. Fred Stebbins was gowned in brown opalescent silk with white lace trimmings. Mrs. Dr. Hughes of of Adrian, cousin of the groom, wore a brown Marquisette silk with medallions of coral satin. Mrs. Chas. Hart in rose chiffon and picture hat looked charming. Mrs. Ed. Baird of Dayton, O., wore silver grey brocade draped with a scarf of silver embroidery.

Mrs. Harry Fee of Adrian wore pink Marquisette with a large picture hat. Mrs. Harry Watts in an elaborate cream silk trimmed with fur, decollete and bobble-skirt, with large picture hat in black and gold. Mrs. Chas Whitney was gowned in lavender Marquisette over pink silk, with white lace trimmings and picture hat in same shade. Mrs. Tobias wore a gown of white silk mull with large pink roses over pink silk with trimmings of pearl and wore diamonds.

Mrs. Berry Johnston wore a black velvet gown made entrain with large black velvet picture hat. Mrs. Chas. Benedict was in black and gold with black hat. Mrs. Lawrence Ketcham of Toledo wore a dainty gown of white batiste trimmed in baby irish and val lace and wore pink roses. Miss Ethel Slayton of Ann Arbor was gowned in old rose messaline. Mrs. A. W. Slayton wore blue satin with white trimmings. Mrs. Fredrick Burry of Cleveland was beautifully gowned in a figured yellow silk, wearing yellow roses and a large picture hat in black and yellow.

Aside from these the following were present Mrs. D. C. Loree of Ann Arbor, Miss Wooleen of Detroit, Messrs B. Tobias, Fred Stebbins, Chas Benedict, Chas. Whitney, Harry Watts and C. Hart of Adrian, Roy DeWolf of Ann Arbor and Tribou LeBaron of Toledo.

FRUIT SHOWER

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Chas. Hooten last Thursday evening when the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mable Shurtz to Will Pocklington of Detroit was made, Her friends and neighbors showered her with canned fruit and pickles to start her on the road to house-keeping. Light refreshments were served. The date for the wedding is set for November 1.

The Dignified dozen were entertained at the home of H. B. Eaton on Wednesday afternoon a fine time was enjoyed by all and the refreshments were fully enjoyed by all who participated. It was a sort of good by visit as Mr. and Mrs. Eaton and Mary leave for Calif., next week where they will spend the winter.

LADIES OF THE MACCABEES OF THE WORLD

Is Not Raising Its Rates Nor Making Any Change or Readjustment.

Local members of the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World have called attention to the confusion which seems to exist in the minds of the public on account of the similarity of the name of that order with the name of another fraternal insurance society for women.

The Ladies of the Maccabees of the World has absolutely no connection with the Ladies of the Modern Maccabees, an order which is at present re-adjusting. Its management is and has always been wholly by women and its funds have always been entirely separate from those of any other order.

It has a membership of 154,000 women in 54 states and provinces of the United States and Canada.

It is further distinguished from other orders by the fact that it is the original woman's order on adequate rates. The Ladies of the Maccabees of the World is not raising its rates, nor making any change or re-adjustment. It has been on an adequate rate basis for many years. Its members, both old and new, are and have been paying rates recommended as adequate by a competent actuary, Mr. Abb Landis.

Although established in 1892, this order did not begin to work in Michigan until 1904. Its growth here has been steady, and it now has in this state a large number of members, all of whom are paying rates based on the National Fraternal Congress Mortality table. These rates provide for a reserve fund for the safe protection of the home without increased cost to the members. This fund, which now amounts to $4,512,561.64, is safely invested in municipal bonds, and draws interest annually of $175,000 and over.

Women who join the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World need not fear any increase in cost in years to come as they advance in years or possibly fail in health. Each member pays the cost of her own protection.

The following figures, taken from the Report for 1909 of the Michigan Insurance Department, and from published official reports of the Order, show its splendid financial condition and substantial growth:

The Ladies of the Maccabees of the World.

Total Membership, Dec. 31, 1909	153,878
Benefit Membership, Dec. 31, 1909	129,145
Social Membership, Dec. 31, 1909	24,733

Balance on hand, Relief Fund, Dec. 31, 1909	$7,628.80
Total Net increase in benefit membership for 1909	3,211
Net increase in benefit membership for Michigan in 1909	182
Total admitted assets, Dec. 31, 1909	$4,316,911.27
Amount above all liabilities on hand to protect contracts, Dec. 31, 1909	$4,186,888.33
Amount available assets, September 1, 1910	$4,569,632.70
Net increase in benefit membership for 1910 to September 1	1,073
Total benefit membership, September 1, 1910	130,218

The association is widely known among business men from coast to coast as a responsible business institution with a high standing as to financial stability and fair dealing. Hon. James V. Barry, insurance commissioner for Michigan, writes in reply to an inquiry from a member:

Dear Madame: Answering your inquiry of the 3rd inst., permit me to say that the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World is financially one of the strongest fraternal societies doing business in this state. On December 31 last this society had admitted assets of $4,316,911, and liabilities of $130,022. The larger proportion of the society's invested assets is in high grade municipal bonds. Very respectfully, JAMES V. BARRY, Michigan Commissioner of Insurance.

The headquarters are at Port Huron, in the World's Maccabee Temple. Mrs. Lillian M. Hollister is Supreme Commander, and Miss Bina M. West is Supreme Record Keeper of the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World.

Mrs. Alberta Droelle, of 411 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, is the State Commander for the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World for Michigan, and will gladly give any further information desired about the standing of this Order, and its insurance, social and fraternal advantages, or this may be secured from the headquarters of the Order at Port Huron, Mich.

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This emptying of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clear head, a lightness of step, good appetite and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Cathartics are too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong, but the child refuses them because of their bad taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is mild, pleasant-tasting and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but there is nothing better to be found for children. They like its taste—you will not have to force them to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell would like to send you a sample bottle free of charge. In this way you can try it before buying. Later, when convinced of its merits, you can get it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. D. W. Spangler of Strattonville, Pa., as well as that of Mr. A. F. Johnson of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way and now write that it is their one family necessity next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample of this remedy.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.600 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

CUB TEAM HOME TO PLAY THIRD GAME

West Side Fans Will Welcome Ball Men on Home Grounds.

CHANCE STILL CLAIMS VICTORY

Peerless Leader Contends the Cubs Will Yet Win the Series—Immense Crowd Will See First Game of Series at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Coombs and Ruelbach will be the pitchers in today's game, unless Managers Mack and Chance change their plans. It is a possibility that Connie Mack will send Plank to the front against Big Ed, but his original plan was to use Bender in the first game and Coombs in the second and then, if the two men were successful, to come right back with the two men.

What Chance's plans are for Friday's game is unknown. He may send Cole or Richie to the slab, or he may call on Brown again. Thomas will likely do the catching for the whole series for the Philadelphia team.

Kling will continue behind the bat for the Cubs. The American League team would be stronger in the field if Mack should switch Lord to center and put Hartzel in left.

A great crowd is expected at the first game of the series here. All reserved seats were spoken for long before the national commission put the pasteboards on sale. Of course a number of the prize seats fell into the hands of scalpers at the downtown hotels, who are now reaping a hervest.

Thousands of fans from out of the city are on their way here for the games. Hundreds of them will line up with the mobs who will storm the ball park at dawn in hopes of getting inside first, in order to get the best possible seat.

The gates will be thrown open today at 11 o'clock. For hours before that time the crowds will be lining up waiting for the general admission tickets to be dealt out by the national commission representatives.

The Athletics went to the LaSalle hotel upon their arrival. The Cubs went to their homes about the city.

Manager Mack of the American League champions kept away from the public gaze as much as possible. The tall leader of the team which has made the Cubs twice take the short end of the score is not a great talker. Mack wore a broad smile as he stepped off the train and said he was satisfied with the showing of his players.

Charles P. Taft, owner of the Cubs, was the most complacent member of the big party. He did not show any great amount of concern over the outcome of the two first contests of the game, but it was quite evident that he was greatly interested in the work of his team.

The party travelled on a special train to Wood Morton, the residence of the Duke of Orleans, where they will make their home while in England.

THE TEST OF MERIT

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well. What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts.; Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kidney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had also been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1906, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

OSBORN WILL MAKE GOOD GOV.

If Elected, Soo Man Will Give Michigan Grand Administration.

WAS GOOD R. R. COMMISSIONER

He Accomplished Things, and Made the Office a Substantial Benefit to the Public—It Cost Money to Do Business His Way, but He Got Results, Says C. S. Brown.

"I see that Lawton T. Hemans, the Democratic nominee for governor, is making campaign remarks to the effect that Chase S. Osborn, the Republican nominee, conducted the most expensive administration the state ever had, during his term as state railroad commissioner," said Charles S. Brown, of Grand Rapids, to a Detroit Free Press representative.

"I want to say, and say it with all the emphasis I can, that since the office of state railroad commissioner was created, Michigan has never had a man in the position before or since who accomplished so much good for the traveling public as Chase S. Osborn. Every commercial traveler in the state who knows anything about it will bear witness to that fact. He did things, and the office under him was not a sinecure, but a real and substantial benefit to the public. I take it for granted that it cost more to do business in that way, but we got results for the money."

Brown has been a commercial traveler for upwards of 30 years and is one of the best known in the state and throughout the middle west.

He is the man who was selected by President Roosevelt in 1906 to be inspector of the government printing office at Washington, an office which the president created for the purpose of cleaning out the graft which had infested the big establishment for so many years that it required the keenest kind of an expert to ferret it out and get rid of it. Brown stayed there one year and made a house cleaning that made him famous all over the country. He was offered all kinds of inducements to remain, but after the cleansing was done he preferred to return to private life and business.

"I have known Chase Osborn," said he, "for more than a quarter of a century, and he is not only a big man mentally, but one of the squarest and most efficient men I ever met. Michigan will have one of its old time fine administrations if he is elected governor. He will do in that office just what he did as railroad commissioner, accomplish results for the good of the state and its people. I shall make it a point to be in Michigan on election day so as to vote for him."

15 YEARS OF PROGRESS.

State Banking Business Shows Increase of 600 Per Cent.

If the Democratic candidate for governor in this state cared to give a fair review of what has been accomplished in Michigan during the past 15 years, he could present a review that would not only add to his pride in his state, but would prevent the use of the sort of criticism upon which his sole hope for election seems to be based. A very important line of development to which Mr. Hemans does not even, directly or indirectly, refer is that which is indicated through the recent history of the Michigan state banking department.

When the present banking law went into effect in 1889, there were 92 state banks, transacting an aggregate business of $39,000,000. According to the last bulletin issued by the commissioner of banking for 1910, there are now 387 banks and five trust companies, with total footings of $300,000,000, constituting a gain of 320 per cent in point of number since 1889, while the volume of business transacted has increased over 600 per cent.

Since 1889 the increase in deposits amounts to the enormous sum of $220,000,000. For the same period loans have increased $200,000,000, and there has been added to banking capital $17,000,000, and by additions to surplus $10,000,000.

A large part of this increase has occurred since the year 1900, deposits showing a gain of $130,000,000, capital stock $10,000,000 and surplus fund $9,000,000.

In the ten years ending Dec. 31, 1909, the number of depositors in state banks increased from 306,000 to 745,000.

At the close of the year 1889 there had been made 92 examinations of state banks at a net cost to the state of $2,806.30, or at a cost of $30.52 per examination. Seven hundred and thirty-eight examinations of state banks were made in 1909 at a net cost to the state of $7,498.11, or $10.16 per examination, a decrease in actual cost to the state per examination of 67 per cent.

In 1889 two examiners were employed to inspect the 92 state banks. At the present time the services of ten examiners are necessary in order to make 780 examinations of state banks in 1910.

In other words, 46 banks, with an average total business of $800,000 were examined by one man in 1889, while in 1910, 78 banks, with average total footings of $3,800,000 each, were examined by one man.

The total reserve maintained by Michigan state banks, according to the last bulletin issued by the commissioner of banking, amounted to $50,800,000, or 19 6-10 per cent, or $10,000,000 over the requirements of the banking law; the total cash reserve amounted to $17,200,000, or 16 6-10 per cent.

The mortgage and bond investments of Michigan state banks exceeded the requirements of the law by $31,000,000, and the total savings investments, including the savings reserve, exceeded the amount of the savings deposits by $2,300,000.

FOUGHT FOR TWO CENT RATE

Chase Osborn Also Was Instrumental in Forcing Railroads to Pay Their Share of State Taxes.

"I am appealing for a united Michigan, a greater Michigan, a Michigan that knows no Straits of Mackinac."

This declaration by Chase S. Osborn, the Republican candidate for governor was heartily cheered by the more than 600 Republicans of Berrien county participating in the fourth annual Republican banquet of that county held in the auditorium at St. Joseph, Wednesday night.

Mr. Osborn had been referring to the effort being made by Mr. Hemans, the Democratic candidate for governor, to create class and sectional divisions in Michigan, and to secure political profit for himself through creating dissension and arousing prejudice along lines not legitimately related to the present campaign or to any campaign.

Mr. Osborn called attention to the fact that the demand for equal taxation in Michigan had been a feature of his political faith and an important purpose of all his political efforts since the early days of his acquaintance and co-operation with Governor Pingree.

He had made the demand for equitable taxation applicable to the mines of the upper peninsula and to the great producing properties of the lower peninsula an important plank in his primary election campaign platform, notwithstanding the fact that he was many times told by members of his own party that he would be inviting defeat through so doing.

Mr. Hemans was making the growth of expenses in Michigan, the most prominent feature of his campaign work, Mr. Osborn said, but if the Democratic candidate wished to be fair in his argument he should state the further fact that no other state in the Union had so greatly increased its income during these same years as had the state of Michigan.

"It was a privilege I will always prize higher than even a nomination or election to the office of governor that I had an early part and an important part in the general movement for equal taxation through which the railroads of Michigan are paying $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 each year into the state treasury, while when this fight was entered upon the total income from all the railroads of the state was less than $1,000,000.

"It is further true that when I became railroad commissioner there was a law on the statute books which compelled the railroads of the lower peninsula to grant a fare of two cents per mile when the earnings reach a certain figure per mile. But no effort had been made to ascertain whether the earnings had reached the point fixed in the statutes.

"I took the matter up immediately, and, after getting clear through to the United States supreme court, compelled a half dozen of the big roads to grant the two-cent fare. This saved hundreds of thousands of dollars to the people of Michigan and is today saving other thousands. The investigation which led to the successful prosecution of the suits cost money, and I spent it. I also enforced the law with regard to grade crossings, something which had been a dead letter, and more money was spent. I ordered statistics on freight and passenger rates, fatalities and other matters relating to railroads, gathered from every section of the world, so that we might understand just where Michigan stood on railroad matters."

The cordial reception given to Mr. Osborn and the earnest approval expressed for his position in this campaign and for the things he had stood for, and had assisted in accomplishing for Michigan, shown by the Republicans of Berrien county, made it quite evident that many of the people will promptly and unitedly respond to his leadership and keep step with the onward demands that have given to Mr. Osborn his present position in the Republican party and in the state.

That the Democratic state platform was made up with the idea of including more or less "ringing declarations" in opposition to the Republican candidates and Republican principles rather than with any thought of having its statements practically applied to real situations or actual conditions, is taken note of by the Grand Rapids Herald in a very effective way. "For example," says the Herald, "the Taft administration is charged with 'wanton extravagance;' and yet it is the first administration in years to attempt scientific reduction of the public expense; the first administration to reduce American government to the budget system; the first administration to oppose 'pork barrel' rivers and harbors bills; the first to reduce department expenses to such a degree that, for example, an annual postal deficit of $17,000,000 has already been wiped out in less than two years."

PRINCE OF TECK DEAD

Francis, Brother of Queen Mary, Victim of Pleurisy.

King George and the Queen Completely Exhausted by Their Long Vigil at Bedside.

London, Oct. 22.—Prince Francis of Teck, brother of Queen Mary of England, is dead of pleurisy.

King George and Queen Mary were with the sick man nearly all night and left just before his death after they were completely exhausted by their long vigil.

King George and the queen canceled their proposed visit to Woodnorton, in Worcestershire, where they were to visit Manuel of Portugal and the Queen Mother Amelia.

BIG HERD OF CARIBOU SEEN

Capt. Barnette States His Pack Train Was Stopped 4 Hours by Animals.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 24.—A herd of caribou, probably numbering 100,000, formed an amazing sight which stopped caravans on a lonely trail between Fairbanks and Circle City, Alaska, early in September. The scene is described as the most impressive ever witnessed by Capt. E. T. Barnette, the Fairbanks banker.

Barnette believes the drove to have been of greater proportions than any other ever before viewed by a white man. His pack train halted on the hill four hours while one wing of the herd passed. The flock was nearly a mile wide, stretching out for several miles.

In the collision an oil car on the local was upset and its contents were dashed over the cattle train. A spark from one of the engines started the fire, which made living torches of the animals.

Twenty-nine names were chosen in 1900; eleven in 1905, and eleven names in the present election, making the total now inscribed in the Hall of Fame fifty-one.

CRIPPEN IS FOUND GUILTY OF CRIME

Verdict of the Jury Carries the Death Penalty.

CASE CANNOT BE APPEALED

Only Chance for Crippen to Escape the Noose Is Commutation of the Death Sentence by the Home Secretary.

London, Oct. 24.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen is guilty of the murder of his actress wife, Belle Elmore. So says the jury which has sat in his trial.

The verdict was returned after thirty minutes' deliberation. The convicted man nearly collapsed when the finding was read and had to be revived.

The chief justice then donned the black cap that has rested near him throughout the trial and pronounced the sentence of death, the execution to take place No. 15.

As the lord chief justice concluded a policeman stepped forward and, in the hush that had fallen over the court room, led Crippen from the dock.

Clara Leneve, the typist, who fled to America with Crippen, was not tried. She is under indictment as accessory after the fact.

The court room was crowded in anticipation of the verdict. Order had to be restored when the jury's decision became known.

The prosecution is supposed to have won its case on the admission wrung from Crippen that he had purchased a certain deadly poison but once and on his failure to name anyone for whom he had prescribed the poison as a diluted medicine.

No appeal is possible. The only loophole for Crippen to escape hanging is commutation of the sentence by the home secretary. This is not considered probable.

A crowd gathered about the New Bailey long before the doors of the court room were opened.

When the proceedings were resumed Lord Chief Justice Alverstone called Crippen to the stand and asked him regarding the use of hyoscin, the poison with which, it is charged, he killed his wife. The justice elicited the information that hyoscin was administered through the mouth and hypodermically.

Richard Muir then began the closing speech for the prosecution. He said the defense had relied largely on the theory that Crippen was too kind-hearted to commit murder. Counsel pointed out that the defendant for months had lived a life of hypocrisy, mocking the grief of his wife's dearest friends.

The prosecutor's address occupied little more than an hour. He closed by saying that the prosecution had proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the body found in the cellar of Dr. Crippen's home was that of his wife, and that none, except the prisoner could have cut up the body and buried it where it was found.

Later—It is reported that Dr. Crippen will ask for a rehearing.

ROOSEVELT HAS A BUSY WEEK AHEAD

Colonel Leaves for Ithaca on a Speechmaking Tour.

OHIO SPEECHES IN PROSPECT

Mr. Roosevelt Declines to Discuss Ex-Senator Foraker's Attack on His New Nationalism—Itinerary for Week's Campaigning.

New York, Oct. 24.—Mr. Roosevelt got back to town Sunday in time to take dinner and catch a train out of Jersey City for Ithaca early last evening. The colonel had been in Boston and New Hampshire speaking for one regular ticket and one progressive ticket of the ultra type. He was much pleased at the result of his trip.

So far as Mr. Roosevelt is concerned, the Republican campaign in this state has opened in real earnest. His departure last night marked the beginning of a week's jaunt through the state with visits to a half dozen cities, where he will hold forth.

A special car will haul the colonel on this trip. When he arrived in Ithaca this morning he was met by Congressman Dwight and Prof. L. H. Bailey, of Cornell. These gentlemen conducted him to an automobile and the party started on a 100 mile ride over the deserted farm regions. The purpose of the day's run is merely sociological, but it will be topped off by a political speech at Binghamton this evening.

Tuesday will find Mr. Roosevelt on his way to Syracuse. On Wednesday he will speak at Ogdensburg; Thursday in Ithaca, where Mr. Sherman resides, and Friday at Rochester. There will be numerous rear platform speeches to folks along the line.

On his way from Boston to this city Mr. Roosevelt was quizzed about the Indianapolis episode where he is reported to have said unkind things about Judge Anderson and about ex-Senator Foraker's attack on the new nationalism.

"I am responsible only for what appears over my own signature or for what I say in public," the colonel answered. "I cannot discuss stories that come from other sources."

He will undoubtedly speak in Ohio next month, but arrangements for that have not been completed and won't be for several days. At that the colonel will probably talk along the same lines that he has pursued in the past few months. Mr. Roosevelt's voice is in pretty good shape despite the fact that he used it incessantly while he was away Friday and Saturday. He anticipated no difficulty on that score.

O'MALLEY NEAR BOMB VICTIM

Police Believe Dynamiters Got Name Confused With Gamblers.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—The attempt to wreck the home of Austin O'Malley, 2140 Bissell street, when three sticks of dynamite with a fuse and cap attached were thrown through a window, is now believed by the police to have been intended for the house of John F. O'Malley, 47 Superior street, the saloon keeper.

The latter, believing his home was in danger of being dynamited, appealed to Inspector John Revere and four detectives were sent to guard his home. The dynamite, enough to wreck several houses, rolled out into the front parlor while the fuse and cap remained in the rear room, near the small hallway. O'Malley seized the dynamite and threw it out of the window through which it had come, and then notified the police. He said he had no enemies and could not account for the attempt to kill his family.

ATHLETICS DEFEAT THE CHICAGO CUBS

Connie Mack's Team Are Now World's Champions.

BIG CROWD WITNESSES GAME

Receipts Were $37,116.50 and 29,374 Fans See Final Struggle at Chicago West Side Park—Score in Last Game 7 to 2.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—The Philadelphia Athletics are champions of the world. They won that title by defeating the Cubs, champions of the National League, by the score of 7 to 2. The largest crowd that has ever attended a game on the West Side witnessed the downfall of their pets. The official figures given out by the national commission indicate that 27,874 people were present to witness the struggle. The total gate receipts were $37,116.50.

It was a pitcher's battle between Jack Coombs and Miner Brown, the three-fingered wonder, for seven innings, then the once famous pitcher from Terre Haute blew up and when the smoke cleared away after the conclusion of the eighth inning five runs had been put over the plate by Connie Mack's team.

As in previous games, with the possible exception of the game played Saturday when "King" Cole pitched, the Athletics outplayed and out-hit the Chicagos.

It put an end to as desperate a battle as was ever fought on the West Side and such rooting as marked the early innings had seldom been heard upon any field. The fans rooted as only desperate fans could, who are watching a machine believed to be invincible, being trampled upon by younger men.

The fans went wild as the Cubs scored in the second and when the Athletics took the lead again in the fifth the fans begged and pleaded for the old guardsmen to come back. But after that fatal eighth, they sat back to watch the work of the youthful machine, one that triumphed over the old, looked upon as unbeatable.

The hitting of Collins featured the attack of the Mack men. He drove out two doubles and a single, and when the battle was won, stole third that he might display his speed. And such weather. Had the members of the national commission consulted the managers of the two teams and then ordered, the brand could have been no better. The sky was without a cloud, its color deep blue. The sun shone brilliantly. Betting in many places down town was brisk. In several of the hotel lobbies large sums of money were put up at even money that the Cubs would win this game.

A good deal of kicking was done by the Cubs on the decisions of Umpires Sheridan and O'Day. One decision in particular was hotly disputed by Chance when Schultz was declared out stealing second in the fifth inning. Another dispute was caused at Sheridan declaring Hartsel safe in the eighth when he stole second. The Cubs and most of the crowd declared he was out. However, Sheridan's ruling prevailed. The score:

Philadelphia ..100010050	7	11	1
Chicago 010000010	2	9	2

Coombs and Lapp; Brown and Archer.

The Cubs won the game played Saturday in a hotly contested ten inning contest by a score of 4 to 3. Cole and Brown pitched for the Cubs, while the Athletics' battery was Big Chief Bender and Thomas.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Doctoring had no effect and my system was full of the poison due to poor kidney action. I felt miserable, tired readily, could not retain my food, my ankles were swollen. The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Will you let me be peacefully?"

"After the toll—after the toll."

Too late she started to run. He laughed and caught hold of her. With a supreme effort she freed herself and struck him across the face. Quick as a flash she whirled around and ran up the street. The one hope for Gretchen now lay in the Black Eagle, and into the tavern she darted excitedly.

"Frau Bauer," she cried, "may I come behind your counter?"

Wallenstein came in. His hand, held against his stinging cheek, was telltale enough for the proprietress of the Black Eagle.

"Shame!" she cried. "She shall stay here all day," declared Frau Bauer decidedly.

"I can wait." The colonel made for the door. But there was a formidable bulk in the doorway.

"What is going on here, little goose girl?" asked the grizzled old man.

"Herr Colonel insulted me."

"Insulted you!" The colonel laughed boisterously. "Out of the way!" he snarled.

"He tried to kiss me," said Gretchen.

"The man who tries to kiss a woman against her will is always at heart a coward," said the mountaineer.

The colonel seized the old man by the shoulder to push him aside. He put out one of his arms and clasped the colonel in such a manner that he gasped. He was in the clutch of a Carpathian bear.

"I will kill you for this!"

"So?" The old man thrust him back several feet without any visible exertion. He let his staff slide into his hand.

"I WILL KILL YOU FOR THIS."

The colonel drew his saber and lunged toward his assailant. The old man laughed. He turned the thrust with his staff. Then the old man struck back. The saber rattled to the stone flooring. The victor put his foot upon it.

On his part the colonel's blood suddenly cooled.

"My sword," the colonel demanded.

"I could have broken it half a dozen times. Here, take it. But be wise in the future and draw it only in the right."

Outside the old man laid his hand on the colonel's arm.

"You must never bother her again. Listen. You are Colonel von Wallenstein; you are something more besides."

"What do you infer?"

"I infer nothing. Now and then there happens strange leakage in the duke's affairs. The man is well paid. He is a gambler, and one is always reasonably certain that the gambler will be wanting money. Do you understand?"

"Who are you?"

"Who I am is of no present consequence. But I know who and what you are. If you behave yourself you will be allowed to continue in prosperity, but if you attempt to molest that girl again there will be no more gold coming over the frontier from Jugendheit. Now do you understand?"

"Yes," weakly.

"Go. But be advised and walk circumspectly."

The colonel, pale and distrait, saw in his mind's eye a squad of soldiers, a wall, a single volley and a dishonored roll of earth. Military informers were given short shrift. The colonel went to the barracks.

CHAPTER X.

GRUMBACH PICKS UP A LOCKET.

"I AM going into the garden, Gretchen. Bring me a stein of brown."

The mountaineer smiled genially.

"But I am not working here any more," said Gretchen.

"She has had a fortune left her," said Frau Bauer.

"Well, well!" The mountaineer seemed vastly pleased. "And how much is this fortune?"

"Two thousand crowns." Gretchen was not sure, but to her there always seemed to be a secret laughter behind those clear eyes.

"Handsome! And what will you do now?"

"Study for the opera."

The old man was jubilant.

"Where were you going when this popinjay stopped you?" he cried.

"To the clock mender's."

"I've nothing to do. I'll go with you. I've an idea that I should like to talk with you about a very important matter. Will you come into the garden with me now?"

"Yes, herr."

"So you are going to become a prima donna?" he began, seating himself opposite her on a chair in the garden.

"I am going to try," she smiled.

"Have you any dreams? I mean the kind one has in the daytime—when the eyes are wide open."

"Oh, yes!"

"Who has not dreamed of riding in carriages, of dressing in silks, of wearing rich ornaments?"

"Ah!" Gretchen clasped her hands. "And there are palaces too."

"To be sure. How would you like a dream of this kind to come true?"

"Do they ever come true?"

"In this particular case I am a fairy. With one touch of my wand—this oak staff—I can bring you all these things you have dreamed about. How would you like a little palace, with servants at your beck and call, with carriages to ride in, with silks and velvets to wear and jewels to adorn your hair?"

A shadow fell upon her face.

"By what right should I possess these things?"

"By the supreme right of beauty—beauty alone."

"Come, let us go for your clock," he said, rising. "I am an old fool."

Gretchen had gone home with her clock, but still Herr Grumbach, as the mountaineer called himself, tarried in the dim and musty shop.

"I've a watch I should like you to look over," he said to the clockmaker.

The clock mender literally pounced upon it. "Where did you get a watch like this?" he demanded suspiciously.

"It is mine. You will find my name engraved inside the back lid."

The clock mender pried open the case, adjusted his glass and dropped it, shaking with terror.

"Carl, you are innocent of it all. Come to Jugendheit."

"No, Ludwig; this is my country, however unjustly it has treated me."

"Yes, yes. But if your gypsy fails you?"

"Still I shall remain. I am only sixty-eight, yet no one would believe me under eighty. There were letters found in my desk, all forgeries. I fled to Paris. I wrote Herbeck once while there. He believed that I was innocent."

"He keeps a steady hand on the duke."

"But you—what are you doing in Dreiberg in this guise?"

"Well, once upon a time there lived a king. He was young. He had an uncle who watched over him and his affairs. This prince regent had an idea regarding the future welfare of this nephew. He would bring him up to be a man, well educated, broad minded and clean lived. The lad grew up clean in mind, strong in body, liberal, a fine prince. In his palace few saw anything of him after his fifteenth year. He went into the world under an assumed name. By and by he came home quietly. In one month he was to be coronated. And now what do you think? He must have one more adventure, just one. And one morning his uncle found him gone. Ah! The prince regent set it going that his majesty had gone a-hunting in Bavaria. Then the prince regent put on some old clothes and went a-venturing himself."

"And the end?"

"God knows," said Ludwig.

"And fatuous fool that this uncle was. He tried to marry off his nephew."

"I understand. But if you are discovered here you will be harshly dealt with."

The other shrugged and picked up his watch. "Can I be of material assistance? No? Proud old imbecile!" said the mountaineer kindly. "You have been deeply wronged, but some day you will be right. I myself shall see what can be done with the duke."

"PROUD OLD IMBECILE!"

"He will never be brought to reason unless indubitable evidence of my innocence confronts him. The place once occupied by my name is obliterated. I have given the best of my heart and of my brain to Ehrenstein—for this! I am innocent."

"I believe you, Carl. Remember, Jugendheit will always welcome you. I must be going."

* * * * * * *

Carmichael walked his horse. This morning he had ridden out almost to the frontier and was now on his return.

No longer did Carmichael take the south pass for his morning rides. That was the favored going of her highness, and he avoided her now. In truth, he dared not meet her now; it would have been out of wisdom. She was to marry the king of Jugendheit; it was in the order of things that he ride alone.

The road to Eissen began about six miles north of the base of the Dreiberg mountain. It swerved to the east. As Carmichael reached the fork he heard the faroff mutter of hoofs. Coming along the road from Eissen were a trio of riders. Carmich[illegible] Should he meet

But you believe, Ludwig?"

"And fatuous fool that this uncle was. He tried to marry off his nephew."

"I understand. But if you are discovered here you will be harshly dealt with."

The other shrugged and picked up his watch. "Can I be of material assistance? No? Proud old imbecile!" said the mountaineer kindly. "You have been deeply wronged, but some day you will be right. I myself shall see what can be done with the duke."

"He will never be brought to reason unless indubitable evidence of my innocence confronts him. The place once occupied by my name is obliterated. I have given the best of my heart and of my brain to Ehrenstein—for this! I am innocent."

"I believe you, Carl. Remember, Jugendheit will always welcome you. I must be going."

Carmichael walked his horse. This morning he had ridden out almost to the frontier and was now on his return.

No longer did Carmichael take the south pass for his morning rides. That was the favored going of her highness, and he avoided her now. In truth, he dared not meet her now; it would have been out of wisdom. She was to marry the king of Jugendheit; it was in the order of things that he ride alone.

The road to Eissen began about six miles north of the base of the Dreiberg mountain. It swerved to the east. As Carmichael reached the fork he heard the faroff mutter of hoofs. Coming along the road from Eissen were a trio of riders. Carmich[illegible] Should he meet [illegible] the made the turn? He waited.

She came in full flight, rosy, radiant, as lovely as Diana. With a short nod of her head she signaled for the two soldiers to fall back.

The two were embarrassed.

The little cavalcade directed its course toward the city.

"You have not been riding of late," she said.

Then she had missed him. Carmichael's heart expanded.

"I have ridden the same as usual, your highness, only I have taken this road for a change."

"Ah!" She patted the glistening neck of her mare. So he had purposely tried to avoid her? Why? She stole a sly glance at him. Why were not kings molded in this form? All the kings she had met had something the matter with them—crooked legs, weak eyes, bald, young or old, and daft over gaming tables and opera dancers. And the one man among them all—at least she had been informed that the king of Jugendheit was all of a man—had politely declined.

"I am guilty of lese majesty," he suggested.

"I shall not lock you up," she said, and added under her breath, "as my good father would like to. "Besides," she continued aloud, "I rather like to set the court by the ears. Ah, but I shall lead some king a merry life!" with a wicked gleam in her eyes.

"Frederick of Jugendheit?"

"Is it true that you have not heard yet? I have declined the honor."

"Your highness?"

"This, of course, is as yet a state secret, and my reason for telling you is not a princess's, but a woman's. Solve it if you can."

Carmichael fumbled the reins blindly. "They say that he is a handsome young man."

"What has that to do with it? The interest he takes in his kingdom is positively negative. There will be only one king in Jugendheit, and that will be the prince regent."

They were silent for a few minutes. Finally the ambassador spoke.

"I have some news for your highness. I am about to ask for my recall."

The color on her cheeks paled a shade lighter.

"Is not this sudden?" she asked.

"I am essentially a man of action, your highness. I am growing dull and stupid amid these charming pleasures. I am wicked enough to wish for war."

"Cherchez la femme!" she cried.

"There is a woman?"

"Oh, yes!" recklessly.

"Then go to her, my friend; go to her." And she waved her crop over his head as in benediction.

He did not speak, but caught up the reins firmly. She did most of the talking, brightly and gayly, but his ears were dull for the undercurrent passed by him. He was thinking deeply of her.

Within a few hundred yards of the gates Carmichael saw a lonely figure sitting on the parapet. He would have recognized that square form anywhere.

"Your highness, do you see that man yonder on the parapet? We fought in the same cavalry. He is covered with scars. Not one man in a thousand would have gone through what he did and lived."

"Is he an American?"

"By adoption. May I present him? It will be the joy of his life."

"Certainly. Brave men interest me."

Grumbach rose, thinking that the riders were going to pass him. But his friend Carmichael stopped his horse.

"Herr Grumbach," said Carmichael, "her serene highness desires me to present you."

LONG BEACH, CAL.

At this point on the Pacific Coast, the Ocean is south of us and for this reason many visitors are "turned around" as they expected to see the Ocean west instead of south. Those of us living here soon become accustomed to it and have no difficulty in telling "where we are at."

The city has over five miles of water frontage with a breach extending east and west of the city, to San Pedro on the west, to Alamitos on the east, a distance of about nine miles, which at high tide affords a delightful ride or walk and from which the city takes its name. This strip of land between the average high water line back to the bluff is occupied mostly by residences, east of the pier, which occupies a position near the center of our five mile water front; west of the pier is the Pike or amusement section of the city. Here are found a great variety of such attractions as afford pleasure and amusement to all classes and all ages of the purely pleasure seekers.

There extends through the center of this section and for a long distance east of the pier, a 20-foot cement walk through the center of which extends a row of iron lamp posts surmounted by one large electric globe within which is a cluster of bulbs and smallones which gives to it the name of "The Walk of a Thousand Lights." When all of these lights are burning, it is an illumination of much beauty and the great auditorium, the large bath house, the roller coaster, the large dance pavilion and many other buildings, and the tower of the spiral air ship with the thousands of electric lights affords an illumination which once seen will long be remembered as a most beautiful sight.

On special occasions this illumination is augmented in beauty by other thousands of colored lights, strung across the Walk of a Thousand Lights overhead. Standing upon the pier and looking down upon all these beautiful lights and the hundreds, often thousands, of people moving to and fro beneath them, affords a sight worth going a long ways to see, and when one discovers that there is no drunkeness or roughness of any kind to be seen or heard, such a favorable impression is made on the beholder that he or she become a fast friend of our orderly city. So much for an evening view of the strand.

Now for a daylight view. Between the Pike and the ordinary tide line is the Strand, a strip of sand about 200 or 300 feet wide extending for a long distance east and west from the pier and gently sloping to the waters edge. In the summer months this strand is covered with all classes and and ages of humanity, sitting in bench, chair or on the sand, or reclining on the sands, chatting, reading, writing, or watching in pensive mood the passing to and fro of the pleasure craft playing between Long Beach and San Pedro; or the ebb and flow of the tides, or with pleased interest the many, sometimes hundreds, of bathers sporting in the surf with gorgeous hilarity, or lunching in little groups, munching popcorn or peanuts with dull care thrown to the winds.

Right here appears the one great blot on our otherwise almost perfect pleasure resort i. e. the appearance of men by the hundreds in their indecently abbreviated bathing suits, which are but little better than the fig leaf costume of Adam and Eve in Eden and the most disgusting feature of the matter is the indecent manner in which the men roll about on the sand or parade about among the hundreds of ladies sitting or reclining on the sand with an air which seems to carry with it the impression that they are affording a much desired pleasure to the onlookers. This practice on the part of adults has a bad effect on the boys and girls teaching them carelessness, boldness, immodesty. I have never been able to understand why our city council allows it against the protest of many gentlemen and ladies of the city.

The women bathers are much more decent in their attire and conduct on the strand, but there are a few of them who lop around on the sand with the men. This is one most undesirable feature of any seaside resort where the practice is allowed. Some of these fellows will parade through some of the streets and alleys for blocks in their disgraceful attire.

Long Beach affords a remarkable contrast in people in the Sunday crowds. A stranger visiting the amusement section first on that day would very naturally conclude that this was not a church going community. We have 30 religious organizations holding services on Sunday and a stranger noticing the throngs of people winding their way to Sunday school and church would readily form the opinion that there were not many down at the beach. This condition is easily explained. A great number, probably a large majority of pleasure seekers come from Los Angeles and other inland cities and the rural districts.

These scenes of which I am telling you are almost daily the year through except, of course, the Sunday church attending. Since I began this letter our city has been visited by the most serious fire for many years. The building burned was a brick garage and althoug the fire was confined to this one building, the heavy loss was in the burning of 20 autos, varying in value from $200 or $300 to $4000 which were housed there by citizens and the loss of the machines fell on them.

In the wreckage of the Times building at Los Angeles 21 lives were lost. No clue to the guilty parties has resulted in their arrest at the present writing, Oct. 15.

With the Editors permission I will tell of the two extremely high tides that did much damage to that portion of the city along the beach.

The old girls of the college have quite an orginal stunt which they practiced on the new girls this year. At a small expense they had cards printed which entitled the holder to the use of the chapel. Now of course this is free anyway. But did they bite? Well, if you had seen the spread Thursday night that the old girls had out of the fifteen cents per card chapel fee you would probably say yes!

In regards to the Newlow Spreaders purchased of S. W. & L. E, Temple; would say it works perfect' very easy to load as it is so much lower than other kinds and the one wheel in front is a great advantage over those spreaders that have two wheels.

CLINTON, MICH., Oct. 13, 1910,

This is to certify the Newlow which we purchased does the best of work, in fact, better work than we have ever seen done with a spreader. We put it under the most severe tests. The one wheel is an improvement, it is so very low to load and is very easy on the team.

There was a handsomely decorated brides cake and plenty of flowers. salvia and dahlias.

The friends left many little gifts of china and glass ware as evidences of their good feeling toward the bride who has lived in their neighborhood for several years. HARVEST HOME BANQUET.

Tecumseh Grange No 116 Friday Oct. 21 1910

Despite the dismal rain of Friday about 125 of the faithful ones gathered at the grange hall for their "Harvest Home" banquet. Though it was dark and dreary without yet inside all was brightness and jollity. Are farmers happy people? Well I should say yes, and they are sure of a good time when they meet together as they did on Friday night and then the good things that graced their tables would make an epicure envious. Chicken patties made from genuine farm chickens creamed potatoes cabbage salad white bread brown bread pickles, baked apples, jelly, pumpkin pie, cake, coffee. Nearly everything on the menu raised on the farm. Dont that appeal to you? At the close of the banquet, A. O. Howard as toast master made his best bow to the assembed guests. And "the feast of reason and the flow of Soul" was in evidence as the various ones reparted to the toasts as given.

Our Men was very ably responded to by Mrs. D. T. Hall she knew her subject and spoke most feelingly. An instrumental solo by Mrs. N. L. Bryan was heartily enjoyed. Our women John L. Boyce tried to do the subject justice and having a noble woman for a help meet could not fail of doing well. Our boys and girls Lee H. McConnll handled his subject in a very able manner, and the boys and girls fully appreciate him, a violin solo by Archie Boyd was next on the program and was received with much pleasure C. H. Bramble was right at home when he spoke on Our grange and made some telling remarks a song and chorus by the ladies closed this part of the meeting. Judge J. L. Omealy had to send his regrets at the last moment as he was suffering a severe attact of the grippe. Taken all together this was an most delightful evening and each and everyone were glad that they made an made an extra effort in spite of the storm, and took in this Harvest Home. Special credit should be given to the committee under the leadership of Mrs. J. K. Waldron who spent several days in decorating the hall a d the tables they surely displayed much taste and skill and here again the product of the farm lent itself to good effect Mrs Eva Nelmere and Miss Hazel Hall were must efficient helpers in this work.

"A farmers life is the life for me
I own it is most dear,
And every season full of glee.
I labor with good cheer,
To plow to mow to reap and sow and in the barn to thrash
All's one to me, I plainly see
It brings me health and cash.

Free Sample Aids Old Men

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly and in consequence many elderly men suffer not only from the basic trouble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and then to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary but harmful, and something mild will do the work just as well.

After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do only temporary good at best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative tonic that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and yet is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist, who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and he will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and families like Mr. O. P. Wisher's of Sycamore, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culler's of 325 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its grand value to every member of the family.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 8.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

RATTLER BITES HUNTER

A. J. Sarventi Has Thrilling Experience Deer Hunting.

Reptiles Pursue Him and One Bites Him When He Stumbled and Fell—Acts as Own Surgeon.

Newburgh, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Arthur J. Sarventi, a well-to-do cigar dealer of this place, went to Pike county, Pennsylvania, last week in quest of deer. One day, a short distance from Eldred, while following some deer, he came across sixteen rattlesnakes sunning themselves on a rock. As he approached the two largest started for him. Sarventi shot the foremost and, in endeavoring to get away, he slipped and fell on his right hand. The snake which was near him at once struck his hand, puncturing his forefinger, just above the second joint.

Sarventi realized the situation, and as soon as he could get a safe distance took his hunting knife, cut open the finger and sucked the poison out. He hired a rig, drove to Eldred and had his hand attended to by a physician. By this time the hand and arm had swollen to great size. A day or two afterward with his guide he visited the big rock, found the snakes in the sun, killed the big snake that had bitten him and captured the entire family of fourteen small snakes which the guide says are about 6 months old.

THE TEST OF MERIT

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well. What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kidney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1906, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

STATE EXPENSES VS. STATE EARNINGS

Comparisons That Are Complimentary to Republican State Legislation.

Mr. Hemans, the Democratic candidate for governor, says it cost the state of Michigan $40,441,000 to meet its expenses for a period of sixty years. He then recites the further fact that an equal amount, $40,454,000, had been required to meet the state expenses during the past ten years.

Mr. Hemans makes this statement the leading feature of his campaign speech and he throws about it quite a bit of oratorical garnishment.

But here is another fact directly related to these sixty year and ten year periods which Mr. Hemans has failed to take note of.

The total earnings of the state of Michigan applicable to the primary school fund for the sixty years to which Mr. Hemans refers were only $21,697,000, while the earnings from corporation fees and railroad taxes alone applicable to primary school fund during the past ten years have been $40,069,000.

In other words, the earnings of the state of Michigan during the past ten years included in Mr. Hemans' comparison have been almost 100 per cent greater than the income of the state for the entire period of sixty years included in Mr. Hemans' statement.

And there is yet another fact which Mr. Hemans should include in his comparisons.

Two years of Democratic state administration, the only two years of that sort of administration in Michigan within the memory of the present generation, cost the people of the state of Michigan $400,000 more than twenty-four years of a previous period had cost.

At that rate ten full years of Democratic administration would have cost the people of Michigan as much as 120 years under other management.

These comparisons are interesting and valuable, perhaps but they are not valuable to Mr. Hemans for Democratic party purposes if they are given an the records of the state present them.

RECORDS COMPARED.

Lawton T. Hemans Did Nothing Himself, Yet Is Finding Fault With Osborn's Accomplishments.

The same exaggerated statements as to expense accounts which are now being made by the Democratic candidate for governor with reference to Chase S. Osborn's expenses as railroad commissioner have been made in connection with every successful effort to compel the railroads of Michigan to reduce their railroad rates and passenger fares and to pay increased taxes.

The expenditures about which Mr. Hemans is finding fault have increased the income of the state of Michigan from railroad sources from less than $1,000,000 to more than $5,000,000.

They have resulted in reduction of railroad fares from three cents to two cents per mile.

They have brought to the people of this state advantages and conveniences and safety appliances in connection with railroad movements hardly equalled in value and desirability by those required in any other state in the union.

As a member of the legislature through two terms Mr. Hemans did nothing and said nothing in the direction of the work successfully accomplished by Mr. Osborn.

Mr. Hemans voted for all appropriation bills. He insisted that Michigan legislatures had never been extravagant and exhibited not the least interest or concern in any direction of state need or state economy.

No stronger appeal could possibly be made in behalf of the Republican candidate for governor as compared with his opponent than a fair comparison of the official accomplishments of Chase S. Osborn with the official record of Lawton T. Hemans

L. T. HEMANS' OFFICIAL RECORD

Why Nothing Is Being Said of It In This Campaign—Served as State Legislator.

ATTENDED HALF OF SESSIONS

Drew Full Pay, However—Introduced Bill to License Bucketshops in Michigan, and Voted For More Appropriation Bills Than Any Other Member.

It is worthy of note in this campaign that Lawton T. Hemans, the Democratic candidate for governor, is making no reference to his own official record. Not a word has he uttered touching his official performances or attempted accomplishments.

Yet Mr. Hemans was on the salary list through two full terms as a legislator. He was not present at more than half the sessions of the body to which he belonged, but he drew pay for full time.

He introduced a bill to provide for an additional state board. But as a candidate for governor he is now denouncing the existence of so many state boards.

Mr. Hemans introduced a bill to license bucketshops in Michigan. His bill sought to make the pretended sales and purchases through bucketshops "legitimate legal transactions." What the people of Michigan think of the bucketshop business which would have been licensed and legalized if the Democratic candidate for governor had secured the passage of his bill is shown by the fact that at the same session of the legislature following his effort a bill entirely prohibiting the existence of bucketshops in Michigan became a law.

Mr. Hemans is now seemingly distressed over state expenditures, but he voted for more appropriation bills than any other member of the legislature during his terms of service, and afterwards made an address in the constitutional convention declaring that it was not true that Michigan legislators had ever made extravagant appropriations.

As a member of the constitutional convention Mr. Hemans opposed the proposition that the legislature of Michigan should have power to enact laws relative to the hours and conditions under which women and children may be employed.

This proposition was especially urged by the labor organizations of Michigan. They petitioned that the constitution should give this power to the legislature. And the justice of the request was recognized by the majority of the members of the constitutional convention. It was adopted by the constitutional convention and later on was approved by the people, and is now a part of our state constitution.

But Lawton T. Hemans made a speech against it and voted against it, sneeringly referring to it as "a little piece of sentiment." Why is Mr. Hemans not referring to this feature of his official record?

It will be observed that Mr. Hemans has an official record. He was a member of the legislature through four years. Why does he entirely fail to base any claim to favor from the people of Michigan on the work he performed, or attempted to perform, as a supposed representative of the people?

IT WOULD BRING DISASTER.

Business Stagnation Would Follow Democratic Victory at Polls.

An appeal that should receive earnest consideration from every every Michigan voter comes from the State Republican of Lansing. Referring to the importance of results involved in the coming election, the State Republican says:

A Republican defeat in November would in all probability precipitate a more serious setback for all the great industries than came in the latter months of 1907. A Democratic house of representatives, if elected this year, would destroy all chances for getting the progressive legislation the Republicans promised in their platform of 1908, and would nullify everything that the Republican president and senate should attempt to do in the last half of the Taft administration.

Do the voters remember the panic of 1893, which the Republican defeat of 1892 caused? The panic came shortly after the Democratic president entered office and before the Democratic congress had a chance to assemble. Everybody who was old enough to recall the disaster of eighteen years ago will pray that no such calamity will visit the country again. The country at this moment is exceedingly prosperous. It will be still more prosperous by next fall and winter if the Republicans carry the country this year. A Democratic victory, however, would, because of the uncertainty it would bring, unquestionably call a halt on enterprise, would close many mills, would reduce wages in the mills which would continue to run, and would bring back some of the dark days which the country saw a decade and a half ago.

Eighteen years ago, the Democrats preached tariff for revenue and denounced the Republican doctrine of protection to American labor. Some Republicans—a number sufficient to make a majority—were convinced and the Democratic tariff for revenue was tried.

Business was demoralized.

Millions of men were thrown out of employment.

The farmers' market was destroyed.

Women and children went hungry because the husbands and fathers could not find work.

Men slept by night on the floors in the corridors of city halls, or in hay stacks or barns, and by day they walked the city streets or the country highways pleading for the privilege of working at any wage, or no wage except for something to eat.

That was not very long ago.

The present tariff bill may not be perfect, but it is far from a destructive measure. It's revision should be completed by a Republican congress and not by a Democratic congress.

Your vote will count for disaster and industrial stagnation, or for continued advancement and satisfactory progress.

Which shall it be?

SHOT DOWN BY THUGS

Three Young Men on Way Home from State Fair Attacked.

Eight Persons Badly Hurt When Rebing Auto Collides With Motor Cycle and Goes Through Fench.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 24.—About 1 o'clock Sunday morning H. A. White, Otis Clark and J. W. Roberts, three young men from Cooper, Delta county, Texas, were shot by two men, whom they met on Gibbe and Griffin streets, and had some words over brushing against them. The two men immediately opened fire on their unarmed opponents. White was shot through the body just above the heart. Surgeons have little hope of his recovery. Clark was shot through the left shoulder and is wounded seriously. Roberts was shot in the left side, but will recover. The two men who did the shooting escaped. White, Roberts and Clark had been attending the state fair and were on their way to their rooming apartments when attacked.

Eight persons were seriously injured and three of them may die as the result of an automobile accident at the state fair grounds. The Packard Gray Wolf, a famous racing car, collided with a motor cycle as the two were trying out the track preparatory to the races that begin next Thursday, and then becoming unamanagable, dashed through a fence into a crowd of a thousand persons.

The injured persons were hurried in automobiles to the Emergency hospital on the fair grounds, where their wounds were dressed temporarily. Ambulances were summoned to convey them to the Baptist Memorial sanitarium, where they now are.

WILSON TO LIVE AT PRINCETON

New Jersey Candidate for Governor is Pleased With Conditions.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 24.—Woodrow Wilson has arrived here, coming by train from Newton, N. J., where he spoke Saturday night. Mr. Wilson went immediately to his home, where he will live till a cessation of campaigning permits him to get another house. The candidate for governor was in the best of spirits and said that he was perfectly well.

Most of the Democrats themselves think that Mr. Wilson's election will be nothing less than a popular upheaval, but of such an upheavel there have unmistakably been many signs.

HEROIC CAPTAIN IS SAVED FROM SEA

Hollisswood and Nervy Captain Towed Safely Into Port.

UNCONSCIOUS WHEN RESCUED

Rescued Man Refused to Leave Boat When Crew Left Him Some Days Ago—Charges Capt. Berg With Poor Treatment.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 28. — The steamship Barkwood, Capt. J. Falcon, Trinidad to Galveston, has reached port, having in tow the schooner Hollisswood and its skipper, Capt. F. E. Walls, who was picked up about 100 miles off the coast of Campechy, Mex., on Thursday, Oct. 20. The aged captain was delirious, and exposure and hunger and third were fast claiming him when the steamer, which had been blown about 200 miles out of its course, responding to the distress signals flying from the derelict came alongside. Unable to stand up, the skipper, prostrate on the storm bespattered deck, weakly gave orders to his crew, which he imagined was still around him. But a week's nourishment and nursing aboard the Barkwood brought him back to normal conditions and he told the story of how his crew of seven men quit him Monday Oct. 17 when the steamship Harold, Capt. Berg, bound for New York, came alongside.

The crew begged the captain to abandon her and go aboard the Harold. He refused unless the Harold would take the schooner in tow, but Capt. Berg of the Harold said a man would be insane to attempt such a risk. Seven sailors and the shepherd dog were taken aboard the Harold.

"I couldn't ask the boys to stick to the schooner after their bitter experience in the hurricane, and considering the battered condition of the ship," said Capt. Walls, who appears little the worse for his experience, "but the master of the Harold might have left me food and fresh water. No, not a drop nor a crumb did they leave me. Of course our stores were ruined before we sighted the Harold, but because I wouldn't abandon my boat they were not anxious about supplying me with food or water, presuming that in a few hours I would be a dead one.

"I gave the mate a note to send to Pendleton Bros. of New York, the owners, but they didn't get any letter from me for my wife. That was too trifling a matter to bother about. I asked the mate to wait a few minutes until I could pencil a few words to my wife and I did write a few lines. But when I came upon deck again the Harold was steaming away from the ship and I resigned myself to my fate.

"I knew if the Hollisswood stuck together the 700,000 feet or more of lumber would help keep her afloat and it did. On the night of the second day after we parted I lost consciousness and when I woke up I was on board the Barkwood and the old Hollisswood, which the seven brave laddies deserted, was alongside in tow."

ROOSEVELT TALKS TO LARGE CROWDS

Colonel Made Several Rear Platform Speeches on Trip.

SPEAKS AT UTICA, N. Y. TONIGHT

Speeches of Day Were Along the Line of Recent Talks in Which Mr. Dix Was Denounced and Mr. Stimson Praised by Speaker.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Oct. 27. — Mr. Roosevelt hit the trail north from central New York and landed at the St. Lawrence river last night. He kept swinging the political axe at the head of Candidate Dix with more vehemence than ever. He developed little that was new in the day's speeches.

The colonel continued to thump Mr. Dix and his alleged connection with the wall paper trust, and stood his ground on everything that he has accused Mr. Dix of. He based his resolute attitude against the Democratic nominee on information he is alleged to have received from the secretary of state.

Mr. Roosevelt made light speeches. He began at Phoenix in the morning and ended up with two addresses here at night. The crowds yelled everywhere and it was pretty easy sledding for him. There was a good bit of enthusiasm along the line. But then it was in a red hot Republican country.

The colonel took up as his leading point of attack on Mr. Dix the speech that the Democratic candidate made at Buffalo. He deplored the fact that Dix had attacked Stimson because of what Stimson had done in connection with the sugar trust.

The colonel said that he had learned from the secretary of state that the new Standard Wall Paper company, without any change of name, was incorporated in 1902 with a capital of one and a quarter million of dollars. The incorporators, said he, were the same men as those who were in the old company. It took over all of the assets of the old company and assumed all their obligations, including the stock of the trust, the Continental company. In other words there really was no new company at all in the sense of there being any different company, it was simply the reorganization of the old company, and there was no kind of a change to the legal statue of the company in its obligations to or in its connection with the trust.

Most of the other topics that the colonel has been expounding were taken up during the day. He roasted James Gordon Bennett, talked the new nationalism, the supreme court and discussed all the issues of the campaign up to date. Phoenix and Fulton were favored with rear platform speeches, just like Richland.

Today Mr. Roosevelt will drop down from the north and will skirmish around Herkimer and Oneida counties, and at night he will talk in Utica.

[illegible] record had been set at 1,193 miles by Count Henry De La Vaulx in a flight from Vincennes, France, to Korostichev, Russia, in 1900.

While the official announcement will not be made for some time, the figuring of the Aero club people and the contestants themselves, places the leading balloons in the following order: America II, (1); Dusseldorf II, (2); Germania, (3).

When Mr. Perkins, who in spite of sailing with the Dusseldorf II is a Bostonian, was convinced that Hawley and Post had the record he took another look at the spot on the map which showed the perils which must have confronted the America's crew said: "Well, they're a blame plucky pair, and anyway I'm glad the United States wins."

The telegram sent from St. Ambroise by Hawley and Post shows that they came to earth on the same day that the Dusseldorf landed and that the difficulties of travel were so great that it took them a whole week to get back to the end of a telegraph wire. St. Ambroise is not big enough to get on the map, but it is about forty miles north of Chicoutimi, where the Caguenay river steamers make their last stop northward bound. How many of those seven days were spent in an unaided struggle with the wilderness cannot be known until Hawley and his companion send details.

VICTORS ON WAY TO QUEBEC

Messrs. Hawley and Post Traveling Out of Canadian Wilderness.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 27.—Hawley and Post, of the balloon America II, are now on their way by vehicle from St. Ambroise, to Chicoutimi, the last forty miles of an arduous trip from Lake Chilogoma, at the source of Pernbonk river, where they landed on the 19th.

They were seen last Wednesday afternoon, passing over St. Felicien, which is almost on the border of Lake St. John and forty miles northwest of Kiskisink, where the Dusseldorf II, until now hailed as victors, landed. Louis Spdinler has left Toronto for Quebec to meet the balloonists.

TEDDY FACES LAWSUIT

Attack on Judge Baldwin Said to Be Basis for Action.

Members of New Haven Chamber of Commerce May Also Withdraw Invitation to Banquet.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 27.—That Judge Simeon E. Baldwin, Democratic nominee for governor, is seriously thinking of suing former President Roosevelt for slander was given out at state Democratic headquarters in this city. Chairman C. W. Comstock, of the Democratic state committee, first gave the tip on the judge's intention, and then Judge Baldwin practically verified the story.

The former president has called the judge retrogressive as shown in his decisions, and the judge has called upon the ex-president to retract. Roosevelt has written a letter to the press in which he does not retract to suit Judge Baldwin.

As the result of action taken by several prominent Democratic members of the New Haven Chamber of Commerce, the invitation extended to Col. Roosevelt to attend the banquet of the chamber next December may be withdrawn. The Democratic members of the chamber, who number approximately one-third of the 2,000 in the body, will hold a meeting in the next few days and drew up a petition demanding that the invitation to Col. Roosevelt to attend the annual banquet be withdrawn because his presence might tend to stir up a partisan feeling. This movement was inspired by Mr. Roosevelt's attack on Judge Baldwin.

HAWLEY AND POST SAFE; U. S. VICTOR

World's Records Are Broken In Race

LANDED IN WILDERNESS

Seven Days Required to Reach a Point Where News Was Sent.

DETAILS OF FLIGHT ARE LACKING

Distance Covered Is Said to Be 1,325 Miles; Worlds Record

New York, Oct. 27.—Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, of the America II, are safe; not only that, but they have broken the world's record for distance travelled in a balloon. A dispatch announcing the safety of the balloonists, of whom no certain news had been heard since the start on Oct. 17, was received at the Aero club Wednesday afternoon. It was signed by Hawley and Post, and read:

"St. Ambroise, Sagueny, Quebec, Oct. 26.—Landed near Peribonka river, north of Lake Chilogoma, on nineteenth. All well; returning."

When the man who got the message had done a war dance to give outlet to his feelings, he thought of the club's secretary, Charles Heitman, who was leaving for Ottawa to take part in the hunt for the missing balloonists. A messenger jumped on board the train a minute before starting time and told him the good news.

When he reached the club Heitman lost no time in calling up William Hawley, the balloonist's brother, who has spent the last week either at the club or at the end of a telephone wire waiting for news. He got Hawley and it was a bit hard to make Hawley understand that his brother was really safe, but when he did, Mr. Heitman heard a fervent "Thank God," and then apparently Mr. Hawley dropped the receiver.

When the excitement had cooled down a bit the thoughts of every one at the Aero club turned to the question, "Did they beat the Dusseldorf II?" Samuel F. Perkins, who with Pilot Hans Gericke manned the Dusseldorf II, led the rush for the chart room. It took some time to figure the thing out, but the club experts finally decided that the America II had landed about 75 miles ahead of the Dusseldorf II, and that the race and world's record was theirs.

The Dusseldorf II came to earth near Kiskisink, Quebec, which is estimated to be about 1,250 miles from the starting point and was the world's record until the America II reported. If the Aero club experts figured the thing right, the America II's flight was 1,325 miles in an air line from St. Louis. Later advices received at St. Louis from Lewis Spindler, of the St. Louis Aero club, who was in charge of the search for Hawley and Post in Ontario, gives the America II's landing place as "About 120 miles northeast of Coocooche, Quebec." Mr. Spdinler's dispatch says that Coocooche, which is the point at which the Germania landed last Wednesday, is 1,185 miles from St. Louis in an air line, and that Hawley and Post's distance is figured by him as 1,305 miles from the starting point. It doesn't matter whether it is 1,305 or 1,325, either distance is

HON. JOHN V. SHEEHAN,

Of Ann Arbor, Democratic Candidate for Congress for the Second District,

Stands for a revision of the tariff downwards, and a reduced cost of living, for conservation and the "square deal," the separation of big business from politics, and politics from business.

Mr. Sheehan desires to call the attention of his constituency to the following extract from a speech delivered in the United States Senate by Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver of Iowa, Republican, on June 13, 1910:

"What a farce to send men around talking about the rule of majorities, when before the eyes of all men, and with no dispute of the truth of it possible, the most important business of the American people has come down to the bargain counter: and men authorized to say, 'This is the citadel of protection; if any of you have constituents that want anything, come here; we are the dispensing power; support what we want, and take anything you think you need;' and the man who does not like it, and has no stomach for the fight, is requested to depart. If that is to be the continued practice of the government of the United States, I think nearly everybody will depart.

"How long does the Senate of the United States propose that these great interests, affecting every man, woman and child in the nation, shall be managed with brutal tyranny, without debate and without knowledge and without explanation, by the very people that are engaged in monopolizing the great industries of the world that propose to impose intolerable burdens upon the market place of our country?"—Senator Dolliver, Republican, in U. S. Senate, June 13, 1910.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town!

A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.

If you have not already tried it, get at least a 25 cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief.

B. J. Pulver, Druggist.

SISTER'S BEAU

When sister's beau comes on Sunday nights
We always turn on all the lights,
And pa and ma and Sis and me
We entertain the company.
He sits across the room from Sis
Like this.

Our bedtime's nine o'clock you know
(I just pretend but do not go.)
The lights they seem too strong for him
And so they turn 'em awful dim
And he sits on the couch with Sis
Likethis.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflomed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

This is quoted from a letter written by Mrs. H. Armistead, 47 Greenely St., Adrian, Mich. "I suffered for many years with uraemia, or uric acid poisoning. MAKE THIS TEST

How to Tell if Your Hair is Diseased.

Even if you have a luxuriant head of hair you may want to know whether it is in a healthy condition or not. 98 per cent of the people need a hair tonic.

Pull a hair out of your head; if the bulb at the end of the root is white and shrunken, it proves that the hair is diseased and requires prompt treatment if its loss would be avoided. If the bulb is pink and full, the hair is healthy.

We want everyone whose hair requires treatment to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We promise that it shall not cost anything if it does not give satisfactory results. It is designed to overcome dandruff, relieve scalp irritation, to stimulate the hair roots, tighten the hair already in the head, grow hair and cure baldness.

It is because of what Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has done and our sincere faith in its goodness that we want you to try it at our risk. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, B. J. Pulver.

OBITUARY

Hudson W. Conklin fell asleep Tuesday afternoon at 2:40 o'clock For a long time he had been in failing health but had kept up bravely until about three weeks ago he fell and fractured his hip, from that time on he was a great sufferer and death came mercifully to his relief. It is over twenty years ago since his wife suffered a similar accident but she was younger and rallied from the shock but was an invalid for all the years that intervened until a year ago when she was taken home, all this time he washer faithful attendant, and during the last year of her life when she was helpless and confined to her bed for a good share of the time, he ministerd to her when he himself was suffering from pain and disease. But God is all merciful and when tired nature could stand no more with a smile and a sigh he closed his eyes on earthly things and passed on to the heavenly.

Had Mr. Conklin lived until Dec., 24 he would of reached his 80 birthday. His mind continued active all these years and it was a pleasure to converse with him as you met him on street. He leaves one daughter Mrs. L. C. Blood and several grand children, two of whom Mrs. Clarence Symonds and Lester VanNess have lived with him since the death of their mother who died when Lester was a babe, he also leaves one brother Henry C. Conklin of this place.

Our sympathies go out to these sorrowing friends who will miss the dear familiar face in the days to come but for him we rejoice that he is at rest.

ALL HALLOWEEN

It is a singular fact that so little is known of the origin of Holloween. Burns Says, it is thought to be a night when witches, devils and other mischief making beings are out on their baneful midnight errands particularly those aerial people. The fairies are said to hold a grand anniversary on that night. In the West of Scotland it is a night big with prophecy to the peasantry and they have many a trick and prank to commemorate the night.

Why all this should be so, seems strange as Halloween is the night before All Saints day and one would think that the good spirits would be in evidence instead of the mischief makers. Never the less it has become a night of fun and frolic of mischief both good and bad and the small boy and girl as well as the older ones are wide awake to the occasion.

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Doan's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer? All druggists sell it.

NURSES NON MEDIDAL MEN.

From "A Forgotten Letter" by Florence Nightingale in November Century.

"Nurses are not medical men." On the contrary, the nurses are there, and solely there, to carry out the orders of the medical and surgical staff, including, of course, the whole practice of cleanliness, fresh air, diet, etc. The whole organization of discipline to which the nurses must be subjected is for the sole purpose of enabling the nurses to carry out intelligently and faithfully such orders and such duties as constitute the whole practice of nursing. They are in no sense medical men. Their duties can never clash with the medical duties. Their whole training is to enable them to understand how best to carry out medical and surgical orders, including (as above) the whole art of cleanliness, ventilation, food, etc, and the reason why this to be done this way and not that way.

"My child was burned terribly about the face, neck and chest I applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The pain ceased and the child sank into a restful sleep." Mrs. Nancy M. Hanson, Hamburg, N. Y.

The Best Story of the West

"The Lost Trail"

BY ANTHONY E. WILLS

"The Lost Trail" is the best thing in the line of popular-priced western melodrama. It's a good show, because there is little of the clap-trap; because it has a plot that's not too melodramatic; because it is filled with conceivable situations, because its story is well told, and because a company of unusually clever people present it."—Detroit News.

NEWLOW SPREADER

CLINTON, MICH., Oct. 13, 1910.

In regards to the Newlow Spreaders purchased of S. W. & L. E. Temple; would say it works perfect very easy to load as it is so much lower than other kinds and the one wheel in front is a great advantage over those spreaders that have two wheels.

George W. Miller

CLINTON, MICH., Oct. 13, 1910,

This is to certify the Newlow which we purchased does the best of work, in fact, better work than we have ever seen done with a spreader. We put it under the mosr severe tests. The one wheel is an improvement, it is so very low to load and is very easy on the team.

Chas. O. Cole.

AMUSEMENTS!

A BEVY OF PRETTY GIRLS.

Beauty and Wit, Music and Comedy by the Manhattan Gaiety Girls.

The much talked of musical review and burlesque, known as the MANHATTAN GAIETY GIRLS, heralded far and wide as the best dressed show on the road, has been specially engaged to play here at the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, when the patrons will have the opportunity of seeing the very best attraction of this nature now before the public.

The corking good farces are presented by a company of players who can play them. An olio an hour in length is introduced between the two burlesques. The sensational premiere danseuse Collentie, is a special feature with the show; and the big hit with the boys is the chic Capitola Snider, a wise young lady. Also Jessie Collins, wise and otherwise. An artistic innovation is Mabel Webb's beautiful presentation of her "English Models," masterpieces of art, presented in a manner par excellence.

The chief laugh-provoker, Mr. Wm. Jennings is right there with the goods, and he has with him six real comedians to back him up. There are singers, dancers, soubrettes, prima donnas, popular music, vaudeville specialties and last, but by no means last, comes the girls. Twenty juvenile editions of Lillian Russell's and Maxine Elliott's are circulated throughout the performance in a way to make their presence felt. If all this show in one evening don't satisfy ones appetite, then the MANHATTAN GAIETY GIRLS will play a return date.

The organization is under the direction of Jennings & Connell, two wide-awake hustling managers who have not overlooked any opportunity to make this attraction one of merit, and judging from the immense business at every performance they have certainid made good.

The comedy in the capable hands of Mr. Jennings, a comedian known to everybody everywhere, is of a snappy, breezy kind that penetrates, and his work with clever Mabel Webb in a specialty called "A Bunch of Nonsense," is screamingly funny.

The famous beauty chorus is constantly in evidence during the performance—such swell girls—such dressed girls. Seventeen times do they appear, and on each occasion a complete change of costumes is made.

Ladies, do not fail to see this grand display of gorgeous and costly wardrobes, and a good, wholesome clean-cut show—a show for the people.

Gentlemen, you are advised to see the MANHATTAN GAIETY GIRLS You will like them.

"THE LOST TRAIL"

"THE LOST TRAIL," now on its sixth annual tour to the Pacific Coast, the attraction at this theatre TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, is from the pen of Anthony E. Willr and it is to his credit tha t he has resisted the temptation to make a red fire melodrama out of material that seemed particularly suited to that purpose. The author shows how the love of a woman can transform men from reckless dare devils into something higher and as Bud Larrabee says, "put them on the right trail." The daughter of the General in charge of the military post in Colorado comes from the East to spend the summer among the soldiers; her brother is a lieutenant under the father; she is engaged to marry a ranking officer who has deceived her and who in the end is proven false; the love once borne the cultured army officer is transferred to the rough cowboy whose new life begins upon the entrance of the girl into the post

Instead of red fire there is real life; instead of threats of murder and the torture of the innocent, there is a villain and a hero, who are neither impossible nor smirched beyond cleansing; and a heroine who shields the man she loves from the results of a crime she knows him innocent, and then there is an abundance of scenery which is properly correct, and one can almost whiff the sage brush and the alkali.

Many life-like characters are required in the unfolding of the story which has frequently been considered superior to "The Virginian" and "The Squawman."

All Free Ann ouncements must be written and handed in to the Herald Office before 9 o'clock on day of Publication.

Free Sample Aids Old Men

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly and in consequence many elderly men suffer not only from the basic touble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and then to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary but harmful, and something mild will do the work just as well.

After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do only temporary good at best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative tonic that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and yet is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist, who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and he will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and families like Mr. O. F. Wisher's of Sycamore, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culler's of 325 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its grand value to every member of the family.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

CHICAGO SHORT OF FUEL

Predicted That a Sudden Cold Spell Will Cause Suffering.

Indiana Coal Fields Are Practically Idle and Fuel Shortage Becomes More Apparent Daily.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Chicago faces a coal shortage according to city dealers. Many yards are almost empty, with the incoming supply about equal to the demand, and it is predicted that a sudden drop in temperature would result in suffering.

Present conditions are attributed to a shortage of cars on the railroads. Several large Indiana coal fields were practically idle, with a demand for fuel which would have justified working every mine to its full capacity. When work was suspended the reason given was that the railroads supplied

Tecumseh People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand than the statement of a Tecumseh resident who has been cured and has stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Sts.; Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Sharp shooting pains across the small of my back were the first symptoms of my kidney trouble. Other difficulties set in later and I was made miserable. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and the pains soon disappeared. For years I had also been bothered by gravel but Doan's Kidney Pills removed this trouble."

The above statement was given on Dec. 10, 1906, and Dec. 9, 1908, Mrs. Stevenson confirmed it in detail, adding that her cure had been permanent.

WOULD ABOLISH STATE TAXES

James W. Helme Has a Practicable Plan.

OTHER STATES ARE IN LINE

Democratic Candidate For State Senator Proposes to Work For Such a Plan, If Elected—Would Also Abolish Useless Offices.

In fifteen years our state tax has doubled in amount—from $2,058,538 in 1896 to over $4,000,000 in 1908.

Everyone agrees that something must be done to relieve this tax burden. While other candidates deal in glittering generalities, like "Business Administration," "Retrenchment and Economy," etc., Mr. Helme has a safe and sane plan, which is set forth below to abolish all state tax now levied on the real estate of the state, both city and county, replacing the direct ad valorem state tax with a system of specific state taxes.

Abolish State Taxes.

There are now a number of states in the union that raise no state tax directly from the farms and homes of the state. Pennsylvania has for many years raised her entire state tax from specific tax on corporations. When Mr. Roosevelt was governor of New York he forced the legislature to adopt a system of specific taxes on corporations so that not a dollar of state tax is raised on the farms, homes or factories in New York. The New England states have a similar system. Minnesota has recently adopted this system of separation of state and local taxes.

Michigan can do the same. All that is necessary is to increase our revenue from specific taxes and reduce our expenses to take off the $4,000,000 state tax now borne by the farms and homes.

How to Increase Revenues.

In the creation of the universe the Creator placed in the upper peninsula vast stores of mineral wealth, comprising iron and native copper. These minerals were not placed there for the benefit of a few stockholders of the mines, residing in Pittsburg and Boston, that they might become wealthy, but they were for the use of all mankind.

Had these mines been discovered at the present time the state would not have relinquished control of the same. We hear much about the great mineral wealth of Alaska, and already, under the policy originated by Mr. Roosevelt, we are told that no mineral rights will be hereafter sold to private individuals, but that the government will retain the title to all minerals, and allow private capitalists to mine the same upon paying a royalty to the government. Everybody admits now that this is the just and right way to treat the natural resources of the nation and everyone admits that in the early days the state and nation made a great mistake in selling outright the natural resources to private individuals. This was the policy pursued in northern Michigan by the state so that today these vast stores of mineral wealth, instead of enriching the state by royalties, as they should, are enriching largely non-residents of the state, who comprise the steel trust and the copper trust. The state is deprived of its natural revenue on one side, and by these two great monopolies the consumer is in turn robbed on the other side, and great profits accrue to these corporations.

Mr. Helme believes the mines of Michigan should justly bear a greater burden of taxation that any other industry, and the reason he so believes is this: That the mining industry is the only industry that is not increasing the wealth of the state. Every other industry adds millions of dollars to the wealth of the state in the form of manufactured products and increased buildings and machinery, and population around it, but the mining industry takes away from the state millions and millions of dollars never to be returned, and the larger the mining operations the quicker the state is robbed, the poorer it becomes, and in a short time nothing but great holes in the ground will remain of Michigan's great natural wealth.

State Being Stripped of Resources.

Since the discovery of iron in Marquette county in 1844, the upper peninsula has produced more than two hundred and twenty-five million tons of iron ore, valued in the neighborhood of seven hundred million dollars. All this has been so much natural wealth taken from the state never to be returned. The output of the iron mines of the upper peninsula in the year 1909 was over thirteen millions of tons, valued at over forty millions of dollars.

Since the mining of copper commenced in the state of Michigan there has been shipped out of the state the pounds of pure copper, valued at the sum of over seven hundred millions of dollars. The copper mines have paid over two hundred millions of dollars in dividends.

Everyone must concede that with the output of the mines constantly increasing that it cannot be but a comparatively short time before the state of Michigan will be entirely stripped of its mineral wealth. If the state is to receive any benefit from this vast wealth, it must take steps to secure it now.

How the Mines Dodge Taxes.

The laws of the state of Michigan provide that all property shall be assessed at its true cash value, and not what it would sell for at a forced or auction sale." When Gov. Pingree began his great fight for equal taxation in 1897, he did not, as many would have you believe now, insist on applying the ad valorem system of taxation to all property. He did insist that railroads should be taxed ad valorem for the reason that under the specific tax on their earnings the railways were furnishing the amount of the earnings, and it had been discovered that the railways were making false statements, and virtually fixing the amount of their own taxes, so Gov. Pingree wanted a change in the system of taxing railways. Now, the mines then, as now, were being taxed ad valorem, and Gov. Pingree likewise wanted a change from the ad valorem system to the specific system, for the reason that the mines were the great dominating influences in their localities, and that almost invariably then, as now, the supervisor who assessed the mine was an officer or employe of the mine. Consequently under the ad valorem system it was impossible to secure justice in taxation for the balance of the state.

To show how the copper mines, by having their employes act as supervisors, undervalue their own property, Mr. Helme procured from the state tax commission this year the assessed value of the copper mines of Michigan. They were assessed at $66,481,694.

On the same day the true cash value of thes mines, as shown by the quotation of their stocks on the Boston stock exchange was $153,419,000.

Mich. Resources Make Millionaires.

The Calumet & Hecla mine is the dominant force in the copper country. A brief review of its history will show the amount of wealth it has been taking from the state of Michigan, leaving the state that much poorer.

The company was organized under the laws of Michigan in 1871. There was a capitalization of $2,500,000, which is to say 100,000 shares of par value of $25 each. Of this original allotment only $12 per share has been paid in. No more was needed! The dividends did the rest. Wonderful story of dividends! Despite the fact that Calumet & Hecla has had its comparatively lean years, when mishaps befell the great workings, or when the public did not care to buy much copper, or pay much for it, there has been paid out in dividends on the comparatively insignificant investment the approximate sum of $120,500,000.

No other mining corporation in the history of the world, whether its output were gold, precious stones, mica or coal, has ever approached this showing of added increment. No dreamer of the old days ever dared paint such a yellow glitter into his mystic hazes, and no hard-fisted money getter of modern times has been able to pile the coin so high in the given time. Calumet & Hecla stands absolutely alone as the corporation that has hit "Nature's softest spot."

In 1904 the company began the policy of buying stock in other mines until it has a controlling interest in 15 other Lake Superior copper companies.

How Mines Should Be Taxed.

The recent Republican state convention at Detroit adopted the following:

We ask the coming legislature to consider the expediency of so amending the public land act that no title shall hereafter be given to settlers or purchasers of public lands that does not reserve for the benefit of the people a definite percentage of the value of the natural resources, discovered or developed thereon.

This is the correct principle. Had we done that forty years ago, the royalty from these mines would have paid our entire state expenses.

But why not "do it now?" For forty years millionaires in Boston and Pittsburg have been enriched from Michigan's copper and iron mines.

Why not commence now to take a royalty from their product under the specific tax clause of the new constitution?

If elected, Mr. Helme will introduce a bill providing that a tax be levied of 1-2 cent per pound on all copper mined and ten cents per ton on all iron ore mined in the state.

There will be mined in Michigan this year fifteen million tons of iron ore, and Mr. Helme would tax this output ten cents per ton, which tax would yield a yearly revenue of a million and a half for the state treasury. The production of copper is about two hundred and twenty million pounds yearly, and at 1-2 cent per pound this would yield a revenue of over a million. So from these two sources we would obtain a revenue of $2,700,000 toward the $4,000,000 to pay our annual state tax.

Specific Tax on Mortgages.

Michigan's present mortgage tax law is unjust and unequal. If a private person owns a mortgage it is subject to tax. If a bank owns mortgages they are not taxed. This drives private capital into the banks and gives them control of the rate of interest. Most mortgages are now held by banks. Mr. Helmes favors a specific tax of one-half of 1 per cent on every mortgage, payable to the register of deeds when the mortgage is recorded. New York now has this law and gets more taxes from mortgages annually than under the old system which was exactly like ours. The estimated receipts from this tax are $500,000.

Other suggested sources of revenue are as follows:

Increase the franchise or incorporation fee from one-half to 1 per cent of capitalization.

Increase the tax on life insurance companies.

Put a specific tax on the power companies of the state.

Abolish Useless Offices.

The following offices are useless and should be abolished:

Commissioner of mineral statistics. He gets $2,500 a year.

One inspector of the office in his last annual report stated that the office was useless and should be abolished. All mining authorities agree that the office is useless.

The state oil inspector and twenty-

Originally this office was created to keep unscrupulous manufacturers from adulterating kerosene oil with gasoline, a cheaper oil.

With the advent of the gasoline engine and autos, gasoline is now the dearer oil, and the necessity for inspection has passed away.

Of 432,523 barrels of oil inspected last year only twenty-one were rejected.

The state salt inspector and his numerous deputies should be discharged. Why inspect our salt any more than our sugar?

All salt manufacturers say the inspection is useless and a farce.

All boards of state institutions should be consolidated into one governing board. Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Ohio have all done this with marked economy.

Some Appropriations Can Be Cut.

Our university is our most expensive institution. It costs $1,000,000 annually to run it. Of this amount $675,000 is raised by direct tax. There are 2,781 students from Michigan and 2,230 students from other states and foreign countries. Foreign students pay a tuition fee of $55 annually. Colleges like Yale, Harvard and Chicago charge foreign students $150 annually. Why should we educate students from China and Japan at bargain counter prices? It costs the state over $1,000 to graduate each student.

If foreign students were made to pay what other colleges charge it would save Michigan taxpayers $311,850. In 1900 we raised $279,275 for the university. In 1908 it was $663,287. Students come from all over the world to get our cheap rates on education. Michigan taxpayers foot the bill.

In 1900 we were taxed $99,666.46 to support our militia. In 1909 the tax for our "army" had increased to $168,800.

Why increase military expenses when we are advocating universal peace? This appropriation should be cut $50,000.

Lack of space forbids a recital of further economies, but with the mining tax and these economies our entire state tax would be wiped out.

To bring about the above reforms is a work of years, but it can be done. All reforms are brought about by agitation and someone has to be the pioneer agitator. Mr. Helme's knowledge of state affairs and his temperament peculiarly fit him to start the ball rolling. Why not elect him to make the start?

Abolish Abstract Monopoly.

Did you ever get skinned good and plenty by an abstractor?

There is no need of this. If we had the Torrens system of land transfers in force, you need no abstracts and no lawyers when you sell or mortgage your land. Every civilized country, including Canada, has this system in force, except the United States, and several of the states have recently adopted it.

When a member of the senate in 1899, Mr. Helme introduced the first bill to establish this system in Michigan. The lobby of the abstractors killed it. On his re-election in 1901 he again introduced the bill and secured its passage in the senate. It was smothered in the house. The bill has been introduced at every session since, but it has never got out of the committee pigeon hole, so powerful has been the abstract lobby. If elected, Mr. Helme will endeavor to force this measure to passage.

Direct Legislation.

Mr. Helme believes that all reforms demanded by the people would come much easier if the people had the right to make laws direct and to remove incompetent and corrupt public officials.

This system known as the initiative, referendum and recall has been in force in Oregon since 1902. If elected Mr. Helme proposes to ask for the submission of an amendment to the constitution of Michigan providing for the Oregon system in Michigan. In a speech in the United States senate last May, Senator Bourne of Oregon said:

"Oregon has the best system of popular government in the world today. The Australian ballot, registration of voters, initiative and referendum, direct primary, corrupt practices act, recall—an absolute government by the people."

Lack of space prevents a detailed account of this great system, but if anyone wishes further details of what has been accomplished in Oregon and will drop a postal to Mr. Helme, he will send free the great speech of Senator Bourne showing all that has been accomplished in that state.

Over one million copies of this speech have already been circulated.

Direct legislation is now in force in the states of Maine, Oklahoma, Montana, Missouri and Arkansas.

It has been endorsed by both parties in their party platforms in the states of Kansas, Illinois, Nebraska and Colorado, and in the Republican platform of Wisconsin.

STREET RIOT AT LAPORTE

Arrests of Saloon Keepers Over Closing Law Starts Trouble.

Combatants in Fracas Bear Usual Marks of Having Engaged in the Game of Fisticuffs.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 27.—There was a street riot here on Main street in front of the office of Prosecutor R. N. Smith, between a number of saloon keepers and members of the Law and Order League. More than 200 people were involved in the affair, and it required a squad of police, with Chief Meinke at the head, to quell the disorder. Four men were arrested. Black eyes, bruised faces and bloody noses were the general order of those who were in the thick of the fight.

Eight saloon keepers had been arrested for violating the closing laws and after reaching the sidewalk, and while in front of the prosecutor's office, the bad blood between the members of the league and the saloon keepers cropped out. One word led to another, and in a second the crowd was in a mix up.

WOMAN'S AWFUL CRIME

Mrs. Annie Davis Kills Herself and Her Two Children.

Brooding Over Separation From Her Husband Is Thought to Have Caused the Crime.

New York, Oct. 31.—Separated for two months from her husband, Mrs. Annie Davis, 31 years old, killed her two children, Elsie, 3 years old, and Ella, 5 years old, and took her life in her apartment at No. 480 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn. Neighbors in the apartment house noticed an odor of gas and finally traced it to the Davis apartment, where the mother and two children were found in bed.

No cause is known for the triple tragedy beyond the woman's brooding over a separation from her husband. Mrs. Davis was declared by neighbors to be deeply interested in religion. An open Bible, which had apparently slipped from her hand as she succumbed to the fumes of the gas, lay half opened upon the floor by the bedside. A note left by Mrs. Davis was addressed to her husband. It read:

"Lizzie has the insurance book. I am sorry, but this is the easiest way out of it all. The children are asleep and won't know anything about it. I can't stand it no longer." The note was signed "Annie."

STRENUOUS WEEK FACES ROOSEVELT

Colonel Will Speak in New York, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio.

VISITS CHICAGO ON THURSDAY

Stay in Big City Will Be Short—James R. Garfield to Accompany Him on Ohio Speech Making Tour Closing Campaign.

Oyster Bay, Oct. 31.—The last week of whirling about the country begins today. If Mr. Roosevelt follows his schedule, he will put in one of the liveliest weeks that he has had since he returned from the African lion hunt. The colonel visited Dr. Holbrook Curtiss in New York and the doctor advised him to use his voice as little as possible, but thought that the colonel could stand one more week of jaunting.

It is not with exuberant spirits that Mr. Roosevelt is looking forward to the tour of Manhattan, that the state committee has mapped out. He realizes that the rush and jamming coincident with meetings all over town are not calculated to rest a weary soul.

As soon as the last meeting is over they will hustle the colonel to the station so that he can catch the midnight train for Buffalo. On Tuesday morning he will speak in a number of places along the line, which haven't been entirely selected as yet. The big speech of the day will be in Buffalo, where Fred Greiner is rampant. Before that Mr. Roosevelt will measure his voice with the roar of Niagara Falls.

Arrangements have been made for Mr Roosevelt to go from Buffalo to Baltimore, but they were changed, and now it is all fixed for him to return to New York Wednesday morning, remaining long enough to have breakfast and then pull out for Baltimore. There he will dine with the Methodist bishops and make a speech to the teachers and students of Goucher college.

After that the colonel will start west. There will be a two hours' stop in Chicago Thursday night. Mr. Roosevelt will visit Des Moines and will deliver car end speeches whenever he gets a chance.

The call in Iowa is for the purpose of campaigning. At Davenport the colonel will say kind words for Charles Grilk, who is running for congress. There is some wonderment being expressed as to how they will receive Mr. Roosevelt in Iowa now, after the dissatisfaction expressed by the insurgents upon the adoption of the Saratoga platform in New York. Senator Cummins came east a while ago for the very purpose of discussing the situation with the colonel and placing the facts before him.

But Saturday in Ohio gives promise of even more interest than the other visit. After Senator Foraker's attack on Roosevelt upon the new nationalism, there was some curiosity as to what Mr. Roosevelt would do. As things stand, he will do just as he planned. His present intention is to deliver the same kind of addresses that he had been delivering here. James R. Garfield will be with him on the train as it slides across Ohio.

BERLIN RIOTERS IN FIGHT WITH POLICE

RENEWAL OF TROUBLE FEARED

Officers Charge Mob With Drawn Swords While Rioters Hurl Bottles, Bricks and Other Missiles—Many Are Injured.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—A riot emulating the recent Moabit outbreak started suddenly Saturday evening in northern Berlin. The trouble originated in a strike of fifteen butchers, who resented the dismissal of co-workers. The strikers and their sympathizers stoned the employers and while the Saturday night trade was at its height, they abused and hustled customers.

A huge crowd gathered and the employer telephoned for the police, whose appearance, as usual, was a red rag to the mob. The first attempt of the police to clear the street led to fighting, which went through the customary features, the mob showering missiles and the police charging. The latter eventually triumphed and the bulk of the force was withdrawn, whereupon the rioters gathered again, and with the re-arrival of the police the fighting became worse.

Mounted police charged the mob with drawn swords while the rioters pelted them with bottles, bricks and other missiles. Some revolvers were fired. The streets were dark, the strikers having extinguished the lamps. Somebody broke a street fire alarm and summoned the fire brigade. When the latter arrived the mob attacked the engines and tried to wreck them.

Many rioters and policemen were wounded. The tumult lasted until 2 o'clock in the morning. The district is patrolled by armed police, especially Koeslinerstrasse, which has a most evil reputation as a haunt of criminal service. Everything is quiet except that a few chunks of coal were thrown at the police. The police predict a renewal of the trouble today.

CORKWELL ADJUDGED INSANE

Motorman Held in Connection With Kingsland Wreck Examined.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 31. — Benjamin T. Corkwell, the injured motorman indicted in connection with the Kingsland trolley disaster in which forty-three were killed, was declared to be of unsound mind by a commission after inquiry into his mental condition.

An effort will be made to obtain Corkwell's admission to the East Haven hospital at Richmond. The physicians agreed that Corkwell is suffering from traumatic psychosis, which renders him temporarily insane, but they believe he will recover.

GOV. STUBBS HITS AT FREIGHT RATES

Kansas Governor a Witness Before Commerce Commission.

OPPOSES PROPOSED INCREASES

Declares Assertions of Western Roads False, and Accuses Them of Stock and Profit Juggling —Valuation Wrong.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Assertions made by western railroads in justification of the proposed increase in freight rates were held by Governor W. R. Stubbs of Kansas to be false and the roads guilty of stock and profit juggling. Governor Stubbs was testifying before the interstate commerce commission at its session here in rate hearing.

He made one of the strongest witnesses that the shippers had placed on the stand. He insisted that the valuation the roads had put on their property was altogether excessive and he offered to reproduce all the lines in Kansas for $25,000 a mile and to give a bond of $1,000,000 for performance. Such a figure, he said, would yield him 10 per cent profit at least.

Much of the stocks of the railroads, according to the governor, consisted of water and profits, and are juggled through the placing in permanent improvements of surpluses and then the capitalizing of the improvements.

The governor proved a tartar for the railroad attorneys when cross-examined, and his sallies kept the officials and others at the hearing in gales of laughter. His first retort came when he was asked if he was not a candidate for re-election, with the election only a short time away.

"Yes, I am," he replied, "and I would like to be back in Kansas making speeches."

"Don't you think the speeches you have made on the stand will be read in Kansas?" asked former Judge John Barton Payne, counsel for the Chicago Great Western railroad.

"Yes, I am in hopes the papers will send them out there," replied the governor quickly.

rians was stricken dumb.

She piled him with a number of questions—how many battles they had fought in, how many times they had been wounded.

Her highness' mare grew restive and began pawing the road. She reined in quickly. As she did so something yellow flashed downward to the ground. Grumbach hastened forward.

"GOTT!" HE MURMURED.

"My locket," said her highness anxiously.

"It is not broken, highness," said Grumbach.

Then he handed it to her gravely.

"Thank you!" Her highness put the locket into a small purse which she carried in her belt, touched the mare, and sped up the road, Carmichael following.

Grumbach returned to the parapet.

"Gott!" he murmured.

His face was as livid as the scar on his head.

CHAPTER XI.

THE WRONG MAN.

HERBECK dropped his quill, and there was a dream in his eyes. He sat there motionless, rapt. And thus the duke found him. He held a letter in his hand and tossed it to Herbeck.

"I shall throw 10,000 men across the frontier tonight."

"War again?"

"Read that. It is the second anonymous communication I have received within a week. As the first was truthful, there is no reason to believe this one to be false."

Herbeck was genuinely startled.

"What do you say to that?" triumphantly.

"This—let them go quietly back to Jugendheit."

"No!" blazed the duke.

"Are we rich enough for war?"

"What the devil is my army for if not to uphold my dignity, Herbeck?"

"Rather let me reason. This is some prank. They would never dare enter Dreiberg for aught else."

"I have seen this writing before," said Herbeck.

The duke struck the bell violently.

"Summon the chief of police," he said to the secretary.

"Will your highness leave the matter in my hands?" asked the chancellor.

"Herbeck, in some things you are weak."

"And in others I am strong," smiled the chancellor. "I am weak when there is talk of war; I am strong when peace is in the balance."

"Is it possible, Herbeck, that you do not appreciate the magnitude of the situation?"

"It is precisely because I do that I wish to move slowly. Wait. Let the police find out why they are here. There will be time enough then to declare war. They have never seen her highness. Who knows?"

"Ah! But they have violated the treaty."

"That depends upon whether their presence here is or is not a menace to the state. If they are here on private concerns which in nowise touch Ehrenstein it would be foolhardy to declare war."

"What do you advise?" wearily.

"Wait. In a day or so arrest them under the pretext that you believe them to be spies. If this invasion is harmless and they declare themselves the matter can be adjusted in this wise: Ignore their declaration and confine them a day or two in the city prison, then publish the news broadcast. Having themselves broken the letter if not the spirit of the treaty, they will not dare declare war. Every court in Europe will laugh."

The duke laughed. "You are right, Herbeck. Ah, here is the chief."

Herbeck read the letter in part to the chief, who jotted down the words, repeating aloud in a kind of mutter: "A mountaineer, a vintner, a carter, a butcher and a baker. You will give me their descriptions, your excellency?"

Herbeck read the postscript.

"But you didn't tell him who"—

"Why should he know?" said Herbeck, glancing shrewdly at the duke. "His ignorance will be all the better for the plot."

"One is as big and powerful as a Carpathian bear. Look out," warned Herbeck.

"And he is?"

"The mountaineer."

"And the vintner?"

"Oh, he is a little fellow and hasn't grown his bite yet," said Herbeck dryly.

The duke laughed again.

"I thank you, Herbeck. You have neatly arranged a fine comedy. When the arrest is made, give it as much publicity as possible. Take a squad of soldiers. It will give it a military look."

"No, your highness," touching the papers which strewed his desk. "This will keep me busy well into the evening."

The duke left the cabinet. Herbeck instructed the chief.

"Begin with the mountaineer and the vintner; the others do not matter so much." Then Herbeck laughed. The chief raised his head. "He had not heard his excellency laugh like that in many moons. "Report to me your progress. Good luck to you!" said Herbeck with a gesture of dismissal.

Her highness found the duke waiting in her apartments.

"Why, father," kissing him, "what brings you here?"

"A little idea I have in mind." He drew her down to the arm of the chair. "We all have our little day dreams."

"Who does not, father?" She slid her arm round his neck.

"Herr Carmichael is a fine fellow, brave, witty, shrewd. If all Americans are like him America will soon become a force in the world. I have taken a fancy to him, and you know what they say of your father—no formality with those whom he likes. Humanly I am right, but in the virtue of everyday events in court life I am wrong. Herbeck has spoken of it, the older women speak of it, and they all say"—

"What do I care what they say?" hotly. "Are you not the grand duke, and am I not your daughter?"

"You must ride no more with Herr Carmichael. It is neither wise nor safe."

"Father!"

He was up with his arms folding around her. "Child, it is only for your sake. Listen to me.

"You must be a princess. You must steel your heart against the invasion of love unless it comes from a state equal or superior to your own."

"Yes, father. I shall not ride with him any more."

"Be a brave heart, and I shall engage to find a king for you."

"I don't want any playthings, father," with the old light touch, and then she looked him full in the eyes. "I promise to do nothing more to create comment if, on the other hand, you will promise to give me two years more of freedom."

The duke readily assented and shortly returned to his suit rather pleased that there had been no scene—not that he had expected any.

Considerable activity was manifest in the police bureau the rest of that day.

To return to Carmichael, he had never before concerned himself with resignations. Up to this hour he had never resigned anything he had set his heart upon. So it was not an easy matter for him to compose a letter to the secretary of state resigning the post at Dreiberg. True, he added that he desired to be transferred to a seaport town, France or Italy preferred. The high altitude in Dreiberg had affected his heart. However, in case there was no other available post they would kindly appoint his successor at once. It took courage indeed to face the matter squarely and resolutely. That she was not going to marry the king of Jugendheit did not alter his affairs in the least. It was all hopeless. He must go.

Some one was knocking on the door.

"A letter for your excellency," said the concierge.

"If Herr Carmichael would learn the secret of No. 40 Krumerweg let him attire himself as a vintner and be in the Krumerweg at 8 o'clock tonight."

This note was as welcome to the recipient as the flowers in the spring. An adventure? He was ready, now and always.

"I shall need the costume of a vintner this evening," he said.

"Oh, that will be easy," affirmed the concierge.

So it came about that Carmichael, dressed as a vintner, his hat over his eyes, stole into the misty night and took the way to the Krumerweg. He knew exactly where he wished to go—No. 40. After all, who was the lady in black, and why should he bother himself about her? She probably came from the back stairs of the palace. And yet the chancellor himself had been in this place.

A step? He trained his ear. But even as he did so his arms were grasped firmly and twisted behind his back, and at the same time a cloth was wrapped round the lower part of his face, leaving only his eyes and nose visible. He was helpless. He was fighting against three.

Then one of the three whistled. A minute or two after a closed carriage came into the Krumerweg, and Carmichael was literally bundled inside. His feet and hands were bound.

The carriage began to move slowly. One turn after another he counted, fixing as well as he could the topography of the town through which they were passing. Once the road outside of Dreiberg was reached a fast pace was set. At the Jugendheit barrier the carriage stopped. Presently there appeared at the door an old man dressed as a mountaineer. In his hand was a lantern.

"Pardon me, dear nephew— Fools!" he broke off, swinging round. "He has tricked you all. This is not he!"

Three astonished faces peered over the old man's shoulder. One was a carter, another a butcher and the third a baker.

Carmichael, now freed, stretched himself.

"Well?" he said, with a dangerous quiet.

"Herr Carmichael, the American consul!" The old man nearly dropped the lantern. "Oh, you infernal blockheads!"

Carmichael's anger dissolved, and he laughed. All the mystery was gone. He saw how neatly he had been duped. He still carried the note. This he gave to the leader of this midnight expedition.

"Humph!" said the old man in a growl. "I thought as much." He whispered to his companions. "Herr Carmichael, I shall have the honor of escorting you back to Dreiberg."

VINTNER? NOT MUCH!

On the way it all came back to Carmichael with the vividness of a forgotten photograph come upon suddenly—Bonn, the Rhine, swift and turbulent, a towheaded young fellow who could not swim well, his own plunge, his fingers in the flaxen hair and the hard fight to the landing. All this was a tale twice told. Vintner? Not much!

CHAPTER XII.

HER FAN.

IT was dawn when they began to pull up the road to Dreiberg in a carriage. The mountaineer had been riding with the driver. The carriage stopped.

"I shall not intrude, I trust?" said the old man, opening the door and getting in.

"Not now," replied Carmichael. "What is all this about?"

"A trifle." The old man thought for awhile. "Suppose you had a nephew who was making a fool of himself over a woman."

"Nothing unusual in that."

"Suppose, though of good character, she was vastly his inferior in station; that marriage to him was merely a political contract. What would you do?"

"I believe I begin to understand."

"I am grateful for that."

"Your nephew is an ungrateful wretch. He knew all along who I was," went on the American. "I dragged him out of the Rhine upon a certain day, and he plays this trick!"

"You? Carmichael, Carmichael, of course; I should have remembered the name as he wrote me at the time. Thank you! And you knew him all the while?"

"No. I recalled his face, but the time and place were in the dark till this early morning. Here we are at the gates. What's this? Guards? I never saw them at these gates before."

After some trouble they passed the guards.

The mountaineer got out quickly, closed the door, spoke a word to the driver and slipped into an alleyway.

Carmichael arrived at the Grand hotel in time to see her serene highness, accompanied by two of her ladies and an escort of four soldiers, start out for her morning ride. He waited till they had passed, then slunk into the hotel. The concierge gazed at him in amazement. Carmichael winked. The concierge smiled. He understood. Americaner or Ehrensteiner, the young fellows were all the same.

"Guards at the gates," mused Carmichael as he soaked his head and face in cold water. "By George, it looks as if my friend the vintner was in for some excitement!"

Gretchen! Carmichael stopped, his collar but halfway around his throat. Now, by the Lord, that should not be! He would wring the vintner's neck. He was not in an amiable mood. Some one hammered on the door.

Grumbach entered.

"You are angry about something," he said.

"So I am. But you are always welcome."

"You have overslept?"

"No; on the contrary."

"You are disturbed. I'd like to know what's going on in that bullet head of yours."

"I have resigned the consulship."

"And for what reason?"

Carmichael silently drew on his coat.

"Ach! So you have one too?"

"One what?"

"One secret."

"Yes. But it's the kind we can't talk about."

"I understand. Have you had breakfast?"

"No."

"Neither have I. Let us go together."

There was a large crowd outside the palace that night, which was clear and starry, because of a great ball. A troop of cavalry patrolled the fence. Carriage after carriage rolled in through the gates, coming directly from the opera.

And close by the sentry box Carmichael saw Gretchen and her vintner. Carmichael could not resist stopping a moment. He raised his hat to Gretchen to the wonder of those nearest.

"Do you know where the American consulate is?" he asked low, so that none but Gretchen and the vintner heard.

"Yes," said the vintner, blushing with shame. "I live above the agency."

"Good! I shall expect to see you in the morning."

But the vintner was determined that he shouldn't. He would be at work in the royal vineyards on the morrow.

"Tomorrow?" repeated Gretchen, to whom this byplay was a blank. "Why should he wish to see you?"

"Who knows? Let us be going. It is half after 10," he added, as if to put forward some logical excuse for leaving at this moment.

A man followed them all the way to the Krumerweg.

Carmichael threw himself eagerly into the gayety of the dance. He was an accomplished waltzer, after the manner of that day, when one went round and round like some mechanical toy wound up. This would be the last affair of the kind for him, and he wanted a full memory of it. Between times he exchanged a jest or two with the chancellor or talked battles with old Ducwits. Thrice while on the floor her highness passed him. But there was never a smile, never a glance. He became careless and reckless. He would seek her out and talk to her and

CAROLINE BARTLETT CRANE

Every magazine of late has something to say of Caroline Bartlett Crane of Kalamazoo, one of the most progressive and energetic women of the age. She is sought for from one state to another, and for what? Because of her keen insight into the need of the various cities where she is called from time to time. A minister to municipalities. Nothing escapes her notice as she goes about the streets an unsightly garbage pile, disorderly back yard, bad drainage, butcher shops, play grounds, any thing that comes under her gaze, she approves and disapproves as the case may be and she is listened to, and act upon her suggestions.

In her earlier days she was a pastor of an Unitarian church in Dakota, and in 1889 was called to the first Unitarian church in Kalamazoo. 1896 she made a dramatic hit with her congregation at a musical on New-Years eve., the organ overture began a wedding march and she stepped to the altar clad in white and was met by one of the leading physicians of the town and before the congregation realized the situation she became Mrs. Crane. She continued her pastorate just the same to the great satisfaction of her people.

In her house to house visits she took in the conditions about the homes and took photographs of those that needed reconstruction, then she organized a Civic Improvement League, held a lantern exhibition of Kalamazoo back yards. The effect was marvelous for within the next 24 hours a magical cleaning up time wrought wonders in Kalamazoo.

She has brought about many improvments and state after state is calling upon her for advice. We are proud of her as a Michigan woman with a brain to work and a will to do for the good of mankind everywhere. All honor to Caroline Bartlett Crane.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER,

WASHINGTON, D. C., OCT 31, 1910.

One of the most scanting denunciations of the present tariff that has gone on record so far this fall, was made by Eugene Foss, an insurgent Republican who is candidate for governor of Massachusetts on the Democratic ticket and a manufacturer.

Mr. Foss says the present tariff gives him a protection of 45 per cent on the products of his factories, and he does not need it, but it enables the stock holders of his company to draw larger dividends on the stock they hold.

In other words the tariff now in operation gives to the factories as Mr. Foss and thousands of other, the right to wrest a profit out of the earnings of the poor on the cotton and woolen goods that they wear.

Aldrich, Cannon and Payne, who are more responsible than any other three individuals for the shape of the present tariff have been boasting that it does not raise the duty on a single article of food.

This on its face is apparently true but it is nevertheless, in fact an infamous lie.

For instance there is no tariff on macaroni which is largely imported unto this country and is a cheap article of food, but the tariff imposes a heavy duty on the particular wrapping in which the macaroni is shipped, thereby imposing an indirect tariff on the goods itself.

By such trickery methods as this they have forced a tariff by stealth on a number of articles of food.

It is kind of trickery that makes the American people made quite as as much as the hardships imposed by the tariff has a great deal to answer for in regard to the high cost of living for everything that a poor man needs took a jump as soon as the new tariff law became effective.

"THE LOST TRAIL" which had a most successful run at the 14th St. Theatre, New York City, six years ago will be presented at the Opera House TONIGHT headed by that sterling romantic actor Ferdinand Tidmarsh who will be seen in the part of Bud Larrabee, said to be one of the most appealing characters on the stage today. The play, which combines a little tragedy with a great deal of genuine comedy, tells an unconventional story of army life. The metropolitan press was loud in proclaiming "THE LOST TRAIL" a play true to life and to aid in the effect, a cast of particular excellence has been chosen, while the scenic vestiture is perfect.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Richard Holdway passed away Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock after an illness extending over 8 months in her 88th year.

She had been a resident of Tecumseh for nearly 50 years coming here from Emmettsburg, Canada. She was always of a social pleasant nature and endeared herself to all who knew her, and when the heavy hand of sickness was laid upon her it was a grievous affliction but was borne wite much patience. She leaves four children to mourn her loss, Thomas, Edward and Mrs. Mary Stevenson of Tecumseh and Mrs Bentz of Goshen, Ind. Mrs. Bentz being an invalid was not able to be here at the time of the mothers death. All that loving hearts and tender hands could do to make the way pleasant for the mother was done and when the angel of death said "Come up Higher" she left them with a smile upon her lips.

We extend our sympathy to these mourners in this, their time of great sorrow, and we rejoice with them that for her there shall be no more suffering and pain. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the home. Rev. C. C. Kemp officiating.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks to all those who were so kind to us during the sickness and death of our mother, also to those who sent the beautiful flowers and to the singers and every one who ministered unto us in this our time of sorrow.

Thomas Holdway and wife,
Ed. Holdway and wife,
Mrs. Mary Stevenson.

Mrs. John Beland was born in Bavaria Sept. 7, 1829, and was there reared and educated. In early life she united with the Lutheran church in which faith she remained until her spirit made its homeward journey on the bright morning of Oct. at 10 a. m. She remained in her own country until she was 24 years of age, at which time she embarked in a sailing vessel at Bremen to seek her fortune in a country which promised more to an industrious and enterprising person than she could hope to obtain in her own native Bavaria. After a voyage of 43 days she landed in New York City. She remained in the metropolis a short time after which she traveled to Pennsylvania, where she was married to John Beland, her deceased husband. They together came to Michigan and little by little as their means would allow them, bought the many acres of land they possessed and long before her death she knew many comforts money could buy. She was mother of eight children, four sons and four daughters, all living but the oldest daughter. One son and two daughters were left in her home to comfort and care for her and the darkest and last hours of her life were well lighted by the sunshine of contentment and loving care administered by these three. She was kind to all. As she travelled through life she scattered kind words and gentle deeds. Almost daily she was impressing her good thoughts on the minds and hearts of those around her. May the angels twine for her a wreath of immortality. Home was her kingdom; love her dower. She sought no other wand of power.

To make home sweet, bring heaven near,
To win a smile and wipe a tear,
And do her duty day by day
In her own quiet place and way.

The services were conducted from the Lutheran church by her pastor Rev. Schwede. Interment in the Lake Ridge cemetery beside her husband, who passed away eight years ago. Friends and relatives were present from Saginaw, Manchester, Dundee, Britton, Ridgeway, Tecumseh.

Jerome Cleveland for many years a resident of Tecumseh died suddenly Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. He had been in failing health for a number of months from heart disease and while his death was not unexpected yet he seemed so much brighter for a few days that it was a shock when the end came.

He leaves to mourn his loss his faithful companion for over 50 years and his two daughters, Mrs. Stella Boyd of Warsaw Ind., and Mrs. Addie Hand of this place. A few years ago they moved west of town on Chicago St. where he busied himself with his garden. Out-door work seemed to benefit him but his 82 years of hard work had weakened him and the burden of life grew heavy so a loving father called him home to rest.

"The Lost Trail"
BY ANTHONY E. WILLS

"'The Lost Trail' is the best thing in the line of popular-priced western melodrama. It's a good show, because there is little of the clap-trap; because it has a plot that's not too melodramatic; because it is filled with conceivable situations, because its story is well told, and because a company of unusually clever people present it."—Detroit News.

Difference in Coal.

We have had experience in the coal and wood business long enough to know what fuels are the most desired. We have this aim in veiw at all times and if you will give us a share of your business you will get Quality, Price, Satisfaction.

One of our leaders at the present time is the RED BRAND, a Kentucky coal, which has all the good points of the old Jackson Hill, which is impossible to get now. A trial order will convince you of the desirability of this coal.

In wood we are selling a lot of Oak Slabs, not the thin slab that you used to buy, but a good, heavy wood and the best part of it is the price, $2.25 per cord delivered.

Phone in your next order and you will get "just what you want" and get it quick.

MANHATTAN GAIETY GIRLS--A Stunning Lot Comedians and Fun in Abundance

Gaiety, frivolity and hilarity will bring matters to a lively climax at the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE, on WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 2, when the popular MANHATTAN GAIETY GIRLS will be ushered in and introduce to local theatre patrons many new and novel features. The attraction is a musical burlesque of class—it serves the purpose in all the term applies.

There are two one-act burlesques, the first being called "My Uncle's Reception," said to contain 100 laughs. Following this comes an olio of seven specialties—the pick of the vaudeville stage. The second burlesque is entitled "A Trying Situation;" when the brand of comedy let loose is not laughs, but screams from beginning to end.

The principal comedian is Mr. Wm. Jennings, the best in his line and once seen becomes firmly established with his audience. Supporting Mr. Jennings are such expert fun makers as Jas. E. Daly, Sam Shaw, Patrick Kearns, Morris Bernstein and others.

While the ladies who have parts in the skits includes that petite and vivacious personage, Mabel Webb, the essence of frivolity and mirth—a soubrette with a prima donna voice, a versatile gift rare indeed. Capitola Snyder is with the big show, and if "Cap" don't "cop" your heart by her own inimitable style you will have to possess supernatural power, and then you will have the coquettish Jessie Collins to encounter, if you can dispel her charms and "get by" Jessie, you will be doing pretty well, far a while. The next to face you will be the peerless Colientle, a premiere danseuse of the sensational order, an act that inspires. Then comes the English Models, Magel Webb's big number, presenting a series of classic tableaux, and vivid portrayals of modern pose and poetry in a befitting manner, while the big noise of the MANHATTAN GAIETY GIRLS is the girls themselves. An aggregation of beauty and charm, gorgeously and stunning ly attired in 27 changes of costume. These beauties and ponies appear constantly during the performance in the newest musical numbers and dances. The songs are the latest New York hits, the kind the boys will be whistling after leaving the theatre.

All this beauty, magnificence, splendor, comedy and merriment crowded into one evening should certainly please the most fastidious.

It is a show for the people.

LADIES as well as gentlemen.

THE LOST TRAIL

Miss Trixie Tyler who portrays the part of Ouray, the frolicsome mail girl, in "THE LOST TRAIL," which will be seen at the Opera House TONIGHT, had an amusing experience in New York several weeks ago. When "made up" for her part she looks extremely youthful, in fact not over 10 years of age, and as the laws are particularly stringent in that city with regard to allowing minors on the stage, a representative of one of the children's societies waited upon her after her exit in the first act of the opening performance and informed the young lady that she would not be permitted to finish the engagement.

Miss Tyler tearfully replied that "she wasn't as young as she looked." But the agent was obdurate and demanded the whereabouts of the manager. "I don't know where you will find him" was the rejoinder of the actress "but if you want to see my husband, he's over there sitting on that trunk." Needless to say the agent betook himself to other fields.

HE TESTIFIED TO THEIR INTEGRITY

Lawton T. Hemans Was Spokesman For Republican Legislators.

As a member of the constitutional convention and speaking as a citizen of Michigan and not as a partisan candidate, Lawton T. Hemans made this statement with reference to Michigan recent state legislatures:

"As one not in accord with the majority of the legislatures that have met in the state of Michigan, but speaking as one who loves the honor of the state and with kindly remembrance of the associations of men who have formed that majority for the last decade, I bear them the testimony of a high character, for their patriotism, their integrity and their honor. If there are defects in our system, let us recognize that they have no foundation in want of patriotism, integrity or honor in the law making branch of the great state of Michigan."

Mr. Hemans made this declaration after he had served as a member of the legislature through two terms. He has performed no official service since this declaration was made, and the only incident that has occurred that could in any way have changed his opinion or his point of view was his nomination as the Democratic candidate for governor.

Mr. Hemans is asking the Republicans of Michigan to lay aside their party sympathies and their party loyalty in his behalf, but it is here evident that he is illustrating a degree of partisanship and desertion of his true judgment and honest opinions unequalled in Michigan political history.

If Mr. Hemans' declarations as a member of the Michigan constitutional convention was at all sincere or worthy of any consideration his statements at the present time are evidently compiled by party exigency and over-anxious personal ambition.

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Fleener, Unionville, Ind., J. F. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FLYERS HURT IN AIRRACE

Brookins and Le Blanc Meet Disaster in Speed Contests.

Grahame-White Wins Bennett Trophy at International Meet in New York at Belmont Park.

Belmont Park, New York, Oct. 31.—Two aviators, American and French, contestants, were injured and their flying machines wrecked in the international airship race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy at the Belmont park meet.

Walter S. Brookins of the American team, starting in a Wright biplane, had flown scarcely 1,000 feet when he lost control of his machine and it was wrecked. Brookins was injured, but no bones were broken.

From some unknown cause his machine dipped and plunged to the earth, turning completely over. Brookins fell under the wreck, but rose and staggered back, then fell over. At the hospital he was quickly revived. It was found apparently that he had been only shocked by the fall.

Alfred Le Blanc lost control of his machine at the southeast corner of the course in the nineteenth lap and his aeroplane ran into a telegraph pole. The pole was cut in two and the machine wrecked. Le Blanc's face was cut, but his injuries were not serious, although he was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Meanwhile Claude Grahame-White, England, who started ahead of all others, finished the course in the elapsed time of 1:01:04 3-10. He made extra laps to provide for possible penalties.

The course was sixty-two miles. Mr. Grahame-White also wins a purse of $5,000 which goes with the prize trophy.

How Old People May Prolong Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

HERE IS THE PROOF

A sale is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was breaking down by age and was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people. She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her, but VINOL made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

We bow in sorrow at the taking of this little one, feeling that while the ripened fruit may be gathered it seem cruel that the bud should be taken before it has even opportunity to unfold its blossom. But in nature fruits fall and so do blossoms and buds.

In the ways of kind nature this is perhaps best, and in taking from our arms this little one we will try to except the cross and bear it believing that the bud will yet blossom and bear fruit on the angel land whither the spirit of this little one has so early flown. There is no flock howso-ever well tended, but one dead lamb is there. There is no fire-side howsoe'er defended but has one vacant chair.

CAMPARISON OF THEIR RECORDS

Two Candidates For Governor Have Served the State.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS COMPARED

What Chase S. Osborn Brought About as State Railroad Commissioner, and What Mr. Hemans Did Not Do.

Chase S. Osborn served the people of Michigan through two terms as state railroad commissioner. Lawton T. Hemans was a member of the state legislature through two terms.

During his term of office Mr. Osborn accomplished more in the direction of compelling reduction of railroad taxation, bringing about grade separations, requiring necessary changes relating to dangerous overhead wires, improvements in interlocking arrangements, and the installation of safety appliances on the railroads of Michigan than had been secured in Michigan through all its past history.

During his two terms as a member of the legislature Mr. Hemans accomplished nothing to which he wishes attention called at this time. He was absent from his post of duty a greater part of the time, voted for all appropriation bills when he was present, introduced a bill to legalize bucket-shops, and sought to have a bill passed creating an additional state board.

This is the record to which Mr. Hemans is not referring in this campaign. Based upon their comparative accomplishments during the days when opportunity was given them, it could not to be difficult for the people of Michigan to decide between Lawton T. Hemans and Chase S. Osborn—to decide as to which man would be more capable and more valuable to the state and its people as the responsible leader of state affairs during the coming four years.

COSTS NOTHING TO STATE.

Critics of Oil and Salt Inspection Neglected to Note This.

The Democratic candidate for governor and his political supporters are very insistent in their demand that the state oil inspection and state salt inspection departments shall be abolished. They are making this statement, so they explain, in the alleged interest of state economy. It is evidently not known to Mr. Hemans and his friends that both these departments are sources of net revenue to the state rather than of expense. They are both maintained by fees collected from the oil companies and the salt companies and the results of their operation through recent years have been quite profitable to the state. The state oil inspection department paid into the treasury more than $13,000 last year in excess of all its expenses, and its net profits this year will probably be greater. It may or may not be true that these departments are lacking great practical value to the state, but the fact that they do not cost the taxpayers of Michigan a single cent, but on the contrary are sources of a very comfortable income entirely disposes of Mr. Hemans' objection to their existence

MOISANT CIRCLES LIBERTY STATUE

Chicago Aviator Wins $10,000 Prize For Fast Flight.

THREE CONTEST FOR BIG PRIZE

Claude Graham-White, Who Won International Speed Race, One of the Entrants—Count De Lesseps Was the Other.

BULLETIN

Moisant's victory is final. At a meeting late last night of the International aviation committee, it was announced that all official events closed with Sunday's flights, and that the flying today will be only for special prizes, which total $10,000.

New York, Oct. 31.—John Moisant, of Chicago, exploded upward from the International aviation meet at Belmont park and flew a fifty horsepower Bleriot from Belmont park west by south seventeen miles in an air line to and around the statue of liberty and back to the park, thirty-four miles in all, in 34 minutes, 38.4 seconds for a cash prize of $10,000 donated by Thomas F. Ryan, for the speediest trip to the statue and back during the aviation meet.

Claude Grahame-White, who on Saturday won the international speed race in his 100 horsepower Bleriot, made the trip from the park to the statue and return successfully an hour

THOMAS F. RYAN.
[Capitalist Who Offered the $10,000 Prize for Liberty Flight.]

earlier than Moisant visited the bronze lady, but it took the Englishman's 100 horsepower machine almost a minute longer than it did Moisant's machine. Grahame-White's time for the thirty-four miles was 35 minutes, 31.30 seconds.

Just three minutes before Grahame-White started for the statue from the park, Count Jacques De Lessep of France, made the first start for the statue of liberty that has been made at the meet. Count D Lesseps got away in a Bleriot monoplane of fifty horsepower and made the voyage out and return successfully, but his time was 41 minutes, 56.25 seconds, or about 7 minutes and 18 seconds slower than Moisant.

Moisant and Grahame-White cut for the trip to the statue in a bee-line as soon as they got high enough in the the goddess and the captice balloon which the bronze girl from France was flying above the bay to guide the aviators toward her. De Lesseps left the aviation field along a high air lane that headed more directly into the west, or somewhat to the north of the course taken later by Grahame-White and Moisant. Also when it came to swinging around for the return trip at the statue, De Lesseps circles the statue itself, flying so wide that his machine zipped above Black Tom's Island, over near the Jersey shore, whereas Moisant and Grahame-White were content to circle only the balloon.

Moisant, however brought up the question of whether or not the $10,000 prize could be competed for during the added flights today and filed a protest. The meet officially closed Sunday. The American's victory sent the large crowd into a state of ecstacy.

The accident which necessitated Moisant's quick purchase of the new Bleriot over the telephone from Le Blanc was one of two smash-ups which occurred. The other accident happened to McCurdy's Curtiss biplane when he was landing, and it was slight.

Grahame-White's biplane, owned by Harman, was left standing on the field and Moisant's rudder jammed as he was coming down from a preliminary flight. He plunged into the White machine.

Moisant pulled himself out of the wreckage, yelled some staccato French to his brother, and within five minutes he was racing to the club house in an automobile determined to get Le Blanc over the phone and close the deal with him at once for his machine

SHOULD NOT GO BACK.

Reference to Disgraceful Record of Last Democratic Legislature in Michigan.

It is not necessary for Mr. Hemans to go as far back as sixty years in order to secure comparisons relating in a very important way to his present efforts in behalf of the election of a Democratic legislature. This comment by the Detroit News on the last Democratic legislature is more recent and far more applicable.

"The Democratic legislature has been a failure. Very little good can be said of it. It has had an odor of scandal and corruption connected with it. It has kept up the fight for patronage and boodle actual and prospective. It has wasted quite as much time and done quite as little work as the worst legislature this state has ever known."

This reference to the last Democratic experience with state management in Michigan is respectfully referred to Mr. Hemans as a candidate. As a reader of Michigan history he was always aware of the shameful pages contributed by the last Democratic administration Michigan was burdened with.

TWO HURT IN EXPLOSION

Steam Vulcanizer Blows Up With Fatal Results for Women.

Store of Thomas C. Gould on Broadway Badly Damaged—Women at Dinner at Time of Accident.

Newburgh, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Two women were injured and a building was badly damaged when a steam vulcanizer exploded at the store of Thomas C. Gould, on Broadway. Mrs. Seeber, 90 years old, and her two daughters, Miss Henrietta Seeber and Mrs. H. E. Haring, were in the dining room adjoining the store at dinner when the explosion occurred. Mrs. Seeber was buried under the wreckage and was cut about the face. Her daughter, Miss Seeber, was struck by a flying object and stunned.

The explosion blew out the front and back of the store and drove holes in the ceiling and floor. A part of the machinery weighing five pounds was hurled 200 feet. Gould, the proprietor of the store, left the place about 10 minutes before the xplosion. Hugh Marlin, who lives in an adjoining house, was thrown from his bed by the concussion, which broke many windows in the neighborhood and could be heard for blocks.

CONVICTED GPAFTER MISSING

Hugh Ferguson Disappears and Court Declares Bond Forfeited.

Pittsburg, Oct. 31.—Hugh Ferguson, the attorney-councilman-grafter, who was sentenced to eight months in the Allegheny county jail, is missing and his bail has been forfeited. Sheriff Bruff has issued a caplas for his arrest wherever found.

Ferguson is worth $500,000 and while his close friends say he will likely turn up soon and begin serving his time, the fact remains that he did not appear in court when ordered and no one, not even his family, appears to know where he is. The bondsmen of Ferguson must stand for $10,000.

DEER HUNTERS' POOR SEASON

Sportsmen from Eastern Adirondacks Have Had Very Poor Success.

Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Deer hunters who are returning from the woods are of the opinion that the present reason, which closes tonight at midnight, has been the poorest in years in the eastern Adirondacks. Only about half the usual number of carcasses have been brought to this village, which is the only outlet from the north creek territory.

Hunters ascribe their poor success to the severity of last winter, when many animals died, and the numbers of hunters.

Lisbon, Oct. 31. — Premier Franco has been arraigned before one of the new republican judges on the charge of abusing his power during his dictatorship.

SEEK MAN IN DANVILLE CRIME

Woman is Found Slain in Field—Former Motorman is Wanted.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 31.—If they find a man named Browne, formerly a motorman on one of the street car lines here, the police believe they will be able to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Elsie Cochran, whose body was found in a field near the soldiers' home.

The woman's 9-year-old daughter said that Browne had been calling on her mother for some time at the noon hour and that the woman was afraid of him, as he threatened to kill her should she refuse his suit.

ROOSEVELT TALKS FOREIGN MISSIONS

Colonel Is Guest of Honor of Methodist Church Board.

ARRIVES IN CHICAGO TODAY

Leaves for Iowa to Address Meeting at Davenport and Des Moines—Voice Is Said to Be Trifle Husky From Strain.

Baltimore, Nov. 3.—Mr. Roosevelt, fresh from a strenuous trip in western New York, came here to talk about foreign missions. It was something of a relief from the hard strain he has been under, and he appreciated the more solemn atmosphere that pervaded his visit here. He didn't stay long. The Lyric theater, where the colonel held forth, was jammed. Outside the curious crowd that is always on hand, hung around, while the speech was being delivered. Inasmuch as the colonel had to catch the 8:30 train for the west, he did not have time to speak long. As a guest of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, Mr. Roosevelt had the opportunity to tell of the things he saw in Africa.

He offered a few interesting yarns and told his hearers that their efforts were being rewarded. He dwelt upon the necessity of extending the scope of the missions and hoped that it would be even more world wide than it is now. He was received with great enthusiasm.

The chatter about a break down certainly could not be verified by the colonel's appearance. His voice was a trifle husky, but it carried all right. He was greeted at the Mount Royal station by Bishop Earl Cranston, the Rev. Dr. Eugene A. Noble, president of Goucher college, and Henry S. Delaney. He went first to Dr. Noble's house.

A few minutes later the colonel was making his first speech before the students and alumae of Goucher college in the First Methodist Episcopal church. The place was packed. He spoke on education. At Goucher hall he held a reception and shook hands with the girls of the college and the faculty that teaches the girls. A number of Methodist bishops and missionary workers were present, too.

Dr. Noble was the host at a big dinner last night. The guests were all church folks. After dinner the colonel went to the Lyric theater and delivered his speech. He then made a dash for the train. Today Mr. Roosevelt will be travelling all day on his way to Chicago. He will leave Chicago at 10 o'clock tonight for Iowa, and will speak in Davenport and Des Moines on Friday.

FIRE SHOTS IN STRIKE

Chicago Policeman Beaten After Using Revolver.

Two Desperate Encounters Take Place Between Striking Garment Workers and the Police.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Five hundred frenzied strikers, driven to desperation by the attacks of police on garment workers in the last few days, retaliated, and in two desperate encounters severely beat a number of bluecoats.

In one instance a policeman drew a revolver and fired into a throng of 200 workers. That no one was struck was considered miraculous. As he fired into the throng a score of men rushed forward and beat him into insensibility. After being rescued he was sent home in a serious condition.

Shots were again fired by policemen in a riot at the plant of Shultz & Co. The police here were beaten by the strikers when the latter tried to prevent them from entering the shops.

The robbers fired several shots and fled. They had blown open the outer doors of the office safe, but failed to get to the contents. There was $900 in the safe.

Illinois Central Car Repair Fraud Defendants Are Bound in Bonds of $10,000 Each.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Frank Harriman, Charles L. Ewing and John M. Taylor, defendants in the Illinois Central graft case, were held to the grand jury by Judge Bruggemeyer in bonds of $10,000 each. A motion to dismiss the case was overruled.

The charges against Harriman, Taylor and Ewing were the direct result of car repair swindles which are said to have cost the railroad company over $2,000,000.

The three men now held were accused of aiding car repair firms in which Henry C. Ostermann, formerly a brakeman in the employ of the company, was interested, in securing money for work that was never done.

NIAGARA WATER UNSAFE

State Health Commission Gives Warning Against Use.

Filud Supplied by Water Company Goes Into Section Occupied by Prominent Hotels.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Health Officer Jerauld, of this city, received a startling warning from Dr. Eugene H. Porter, of the state health commission, in there words: "Niagara water suppy by Western New York Water company shows on examination focal organism in one hundredth of a centimeter. Such water is unfit for human consumption. Recommend boiling immediately."

This water company supplies the south end of the city, where all of the prominent hotels are located. The warning has caused great excitement. "Warn everybody in the city of the great danger of drinking unboiled water. The pollutation is so great that it is unsafe to even taste unboiled water," is the additional warning given out by the local health officer.

CABINET MEMBERS PLEAD FOR PARTY

Speakers Claim Ohio Result Has Great Importance.

TAFT TO SEEK RENOMINATION

Messers. Knox, MacVeagh, Wilson and Wickersham Stumping the Buckeye State in Behalf of the Republican Ticket.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—Members of President Taft's cabinet have entered Ohio with an appeal on his behalf. They have waved all state issues aside and have said frankly that the only question to be decided in the present Ohio fight is whether Mr. Taft's own state will indorse him or not. They acknowledge with equal candor that the present struggle in this state will have a most important bearing upon the 1912 national campaign.

"However much you may be assured," said Secretary Knox, speaking here, "that the great issues in this campaign are local, it is not so. They are national. However much the Democratic party may desire victory in other states, it is as nothing compared with their frantic hopes to defeat the Republican ticket in Ohio and thus arm themselves for 1912 with the cry that Ohio has condemned the Taft administration, has repudiated her own son. However the case may be elsewhere, in Ohio, the line of cleavage is the president, his policies and his success and his intelligent and honest purpose in working them out."

While Secretary Knox was making this frank statement to voters in the central part of the state, Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, was on the stump at Toledo putting the same proposition in these words: "We cannot disguise the fact that your election will be given out to the country as an indorsement or a failure to endorse your Ohio president. Now, do not misunderstand me. Even if his own state fails to go Republican the president will continue to grow in popularity and will be the nominee of his party in 1912. But it will be extremely unfair to him and very ungracious on the part of the Republicans of Ohio if the election in this state does not result in a Republican victory."

These speeches came nearer to being an authoritative announcement of his candidacy for 1912 then anything else that has yet occurred. Secretary MacVeagh's reference to 1912 clearly indicates, it is believed, the president's determination to enter the field for renomination, regardless of the action of his own state at the polls.

Both cabinet officers invaded Ohio at the direction of the president, and upon invitation of the local state committee. Secretary Knox will deliver another speech in Cincinnati Saturday night, and Secretary Wilson and Attorney General Wickersham are also scheduled to appear on the stump in the state this week.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—An indictment was returned by the grand jury against Attorney Charles E. Erbstein, on a charge of corrupting a juror. His bond was fixed at $10,000. Erbstein was counsel for Lee O'Neil Browne, minority leader of the Illinois legislature, when he was tried and acquitted on a charge of bribery in connection with the election of William E. Lorimer as United States senator.

The indictment against Erbstein bore the names of Henry F. Stacy, Grant McCutcheon, a juror in the Browne trial; Thomas Hogan, an investigator for Erbstein; Miss Alice Moran, Erbstein's stenographer; Robert L. Huttler, David Murphy, Walter Westen, Scott Hogan, John G. Raum, and F. R. Summers, counsel for Erbstein.

PEABODY BOARD OF TRUSTEES CONFER

Educational Fund Members Plan Distribution of Fund.

MANY NOTABLE MEN PRESENT

Fund Was Established in 1867 by George Peabody, Philanthropist, to Advance Education in Southern States.

New York, Nov. 3.—The annual meeting of the trustees of the Peabody Education Fund dines together at the Waldorf a body of prominent men from the north and south, in what is believed to be the next to the last, if not the last, yearly meeting of the men who have had the trust. Steps were taken looking to the formal dissolution of the board and the distribution of the remainder of the fund.

During the year the members of the board died Chief Justice Fuller and Senator W. Daniel, of Virginia. Of the other fourteen, there were present Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, who was made chairman; Richard Olney, former attorney general; Dr. Samuel A. Green of the Massachusetts Historical society, who is secretary of the board; Ex-Gov. James D. Porter, of Tennessee; J. Pierpont Morgan; Judge Charles E. Fenner, of Louisiana; Gov.-Elect Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Bishop Doane, of Albany; Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts; Greenville Winthrop, of New York, and Gov. Martin Ansel of South Carolina.

The absentees were: Judge Henderson M. Somerville, of Alabama; Senator George Peabody Wetmore, of Rhode Island and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who was in Baltimore.

Mr. Choate delivered a eulogy on the late Chief Justice Fuller and paid a tribute to the late Senator Daniel, and then, after reports and a discussion, a committee was appointed consisting of Messers. Choate, Olney, Ansel, Smith and Bishop Lawrence, which is to consider and "Report whether the terms of the Peabody trust require the board now to distribute the remaining capital and if so to report a scheme for such distribution."

In the opinion of Dr. Green, the secretary and oldest member of the board in point of service, this means that after the committee has met and considered the questions it will probably call a special meeting of the board and the trust will be dissolved, either at some special meeting or at the meeting a year hence.

The Peabody Education Fund was established in 1867 by George Peabody, a native of South Danvers, now Peabody, Mass., who after accumulating a fortune in Baltimore, went to London and established a banking business there. During his life time Mr. Peabody was the most notable of philanthropists. He gave more than a million dollars to Baltimore with which the Peabody Institute was established; he made large gifts to his native town, to Salem and Boston and other cities; gave Harvard and Yale $150,000 each and established a fund of $2,500,000 for the building of lodging houses. In 1867, two years before his death, Mr. Peabody handed over to a board of trustees securities to the value of $2,100,000 to which he later added $1,384,000.

Of the total sum, $1,484,000 represented Mississippi and Florida state bonds, which were afterward repudiated by those states so that the trust was that much short of the amount Mr Peabody thought he was giving. The trustees were to devote this to the cause of education in those southern states where it would seem likely to do the most good. They had authority to expend 40 per cent of the principal during the first two years and the rest was to remain unchanged for thirty years, gifts to be made where the trustees considered proper in the interval from the income.

Dr. Green said that including the million dollars given last year to the George Peabody Normal college at Nashville, Tenn., the benefactions from the fund and its income approximated somewhere in the neighborhood of $5,000,000.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town!

A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.

If you have not already tried it get at least a 25 cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief.

B. J. Pulver, Druggist.

For the Public Good

One hears a good deal about the power of the press but the fact is that no newspaper has very much real power over men or events in these days unless it is known to be standing sanely and steadfastly for the welfare of the whole community and nation. The day of the party organs in past. Sensational papers appealing to popular passionf cannot move thoughtful men—the men who make history. The only kind of newspaper that really has tremendous power in these days is the independent, reliable, disinterested journal of wide circulation whose columns are know to stand always for the general good—for public honesty and a square deal, whatever happens. An excellent example of this sort of journalism is THE CHICAGO RECORD HERALD. It has the enormous circulation that deservedly goes with the printing of all the news but its power lies in its wise, conservative, independent editorial policy, which is shaped with one sole end in view—the public good. Its news and criti al columns show the same spirit. It is an ideal paper for the home.

W. W. WEDEMEYER

CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS SECOND DISTRICT

Mr. Wedemeyer has been making a strong and effective canvass. His last speech of the campaign will be made at Jackson, Nov. 7, the night before election, with Hon. Charles E. Townsend. Not only is Mr. Wedemeyer receiving the enthusiastic support of the members of his own party but members of other parties also, realizing his worth and just claims to recognition, are giving him help, and will vote for him in large numbers.

Mr. Wedemeyers past record gives assurance that his promises will be carried out. He was born and reared on a farm, had to make his own way in the world, and naturally has an intimate acquaintance with the needs and desires of the masses. He got into politics soon after leaving the university, and from one end of Michigan to the other he was recognized as an effective advocate of the reforms in corporation taxation, which have brought millions into the state treasury. Other reforms along the same line must still come.

William W. Wedemeyer is a progressive, capable, self-made man. He has every qualification for the position he seeks; and when elected, as he undoubtedly will be, he will prove himself a splendid congressman and a true representative of the interests of all people

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Steener, Unionville, Ind., J. F. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

How Old People May Prolong Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

A case is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was breaking down, hungry and weak, doctored to the weak and feeble condition of old people. She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her. She tried VINOL, made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

Premier Briand Tenders Resignation of Ministers.

Country Now Faces a Crisis As the Result of Socialist Attacks Upon the Government.

Paris, Nov. 3.—Premier Briand tendered the resignation of the cabinet to President Fallieres.

The country now faces a ministerial crisis as the result of the Socialist attacks upon the government, following the great railroad strike.

Briand was forced to abandon office by the assaults of the Socialists, who declared that he had betrayed them.

The present cabinet was formed in July, 1909.

Which One Will Serve You Best

As Senator in the Monroe-Lenawee District?

Fred B. Kline has been senator for four years and is a candidate for reelection. James W. Helme has also served four years as senator and is a candidate to succeed Kline. Here are some points in the record of each.

Read both records, and vote for the one that you think has served you best.

From Kline's Record:	From Helme's Record:
Kline introduced a bill and forced its passage making Lenawee a judicial circuit. Extra cost of this was: Extra circuit judge at $3,500 a year and stenographer, salary, $1,200 per year, paid by Lenawee county.	A bill to make Monroe a separate judicial circuit was fought by Mr. Helme while in the senate in every possible way.
Kline voted to pay the Detroit state fair out of the state treasury $20,000, the Grand Rapids fair $15,000, the State Horticultural society $5,000.	Helme voted against all such measures when in the senate.
Kline voted to appropriate $25,000 to the Jamestown exposition from the state treasury.	Helme fought and voted against an appropriation of $40,000 to the Buffalo Pan-American exposition in 1901.
Kline voted to increase salaries of state officers as follows: The chief of the corporations bureau to $2,000; law clerk in attorney general's office to $1,800 annually; circuit judges in the state (47 in number) from $2,500 to $3,500 per year.	Helme voted against every salary increase and the creation of every new office during his four years in the state senate.
A bill raising the tax in the state for military purposes from 5 cents per capita to 6 cents per capita, and also calling for a $30,000 tax annually to build armories was passed in 1909. It increases our military tax to be paid this fall to over $200,000, which is an annual increase of over $50,000. On this bill Mr. Kline voted "Yes."	A bill raising the tax in the state for military purposes from 4 cents per capita to 5 cents per capita was passed in 1901. It increased the yearly tax for military purposes from $86,665 to $121,149. Mr. Helme fought the bill and voted "No."
In 1907 Kline voted for a tax of 3-8 of a mill for the university that raised from the tax payers annually $663,287. It is the largest amount raised for any single purpose and showed the reckless extravagance with which state affairs have been managed for the last ten years.	In 1899 Helme voted for a tax of 2-8 of a mill for the university. That raised from the taxpayers of Michigan $279,275 annually. There are 2,230 students at the university from states outside of Michigan and China, Japan and other foreign countries. It costs Michigan taxpayers $1,000 to graduate each student. Each foreign student pays $55 tuition annually. At Harvard, Yale and other universities, foreign students have to pay $150 annually. Why should Michigan give bargain counter prices on education? Mr. Helme, if elected, will urge that tuition to foreign students be increased to $150 annually, thereby saving the state $211,850.
For two sessions of the legislature Mr. Kline has done nothing to help defeat the abstract monopoly and in private conversation has expressed his opposition to the Torrens bill. He also voted for bills to provide a jury commission in every county and for a stenographer for every probate judge.	In 1901 Mr. Helme secured the passage by the senate of the Torrens system of land transfers, which will abolish the use of abstracts and saves land owners thousands of dollars. It was smothered in the house. It has been introduced at every legislature since, but has never got out of the committee pigeon hole, even after a desperate fight by Rep. Baker to get it considered.

It is up to you, Mr. Voter, to consider the above facts before you cast a ballot November 8.

In voting for State Senator you can vote for either extravagance or for economy. Which shall it be?

INTENSE INTEREST IN STATES RESULT

Governors to Be Elected In 28 States, Legislatures In 30.

FORECAST OF PROBABLE RESULT

Warfare in Republican Ranks Jeopardise Party in New York, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Iowa —Democrats Claim House.

Washington, Nov. 7. — President Taft and friends of the administration are looking forward with keen anxiety to the results of Tuesday's elections. They believe the president's political future will depend largely upon the outcome. Mr. Taft's advisors acknowledge that if the Republicans are badly beaten in his own state and the house goes Democratic besides, it will be a blow that will seriously handicap efforts to make the president the party leader again in 1912.

They do not believe, however, that a Republican defeat in New York state will in any way reflect upon the Taft administration. Issues there are too clearly drawn on Roosevelt and the things he stands for. In Ohio, though, the president himself has deliberately set forward the issue that the election is to be either an endorsement or a repudiation of the Taft administration and if Gov. Harmon carries the day the Democrats and the president's enemies within his own party will make the most of the event.

The president, although still clinging to hope is practically reconciled, it is believed, to the fact that the house is going Democratic. If it does the Democrats will find him ready to drive ahead with his legislative program in the hope that merit alone will insure the adoption of at least a part.

Governors will be chosen in twenty-eight states, and in thirty states legislatures will be elected that will be called upon to fill vacancies in the United States senate caused by expiring terms.

Warfare in the Republicans own ranks jeopardizes Republican success in New York, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Iowa and other states. As administration leaders here view the situation the Republicans will lose New York state and Indiana, but having a fighting chance in Ohio. All forecasts that have been made of the congressional elections except that by the Republican committee itself, gives the next house to the Democrats by majorities ranging from five to forty-five.

The indications that the Socialist party will be represented in congress for the first time as a result of Tuesday's balloting. Two members of that party are running for congress in Milwaukee. Victor L. Berger, one of the most widely known Socialists in the country, is running in one of the Milwaukee districts. He is matched against Henry F. Cochems, a LaFollette Republican. Berger has a good chance of election as also has W. R. Gaylord, Socialist.

Election of state officers besides governors will be held in thirty-eight states. Maine, Vermont, Louisiana, Arkansas and Georgia have held their state elections, but the two latter will elect congressmen on Tuesday.

The Prohibition party has tickets in twenty-five states, the Socialists in thirty-four, the Socialist Labor in eight. The Independence League has a full state ticket in New York, the Keystone and Industrial parties each has a ticket in Pennsylvania, the Peoples' Independent is in the field in Nebraska and the American party, an anti-Mormon organization, has candidates up for election in Utah.

Prohibition is a live issue in Florida, Missouri and Oregon, while the wet and dry question also has kicked up a big rumpus in Nebraska. In Texas the incoming legislature will submit to the voters for approval or rejection a constitution amendment providing for prohibition. Oklahoma will vote on a proposed constitutional amendment, substituting local option for the present statewide prohibition.

Three states, South Dakota, Washington and Oklahoma, will vote directly upon the question of granting suffrage to women, while in Oregon a proposed amendment to the constitution grants to all taxpayers regardless of sex the right of suffrage. The largest number of questions to be voted on in any one state is in Oregon. There thirty-two initiative and referendum measures will be on the ballot for approval or rejection.

Leaders of the insurgent Republicans estimate that their number will be increased in Tuesday's election from thirty to approximately seventy in the house. The general line of insurgency drawn now seems to be on whether the candidate has publicly declared for or against Cannon as speaker. Fully 100 of the Republican nominees for congress are recognized now as insurgents, and have made it known that they will stand out against Uncle Joe for re-election as speaker if they are sent to Washington and the house goes Republican.

The Democratic leaders are figuring the possibility of a line up in the next house of Democratic insurgents against regulars, in which event the merry war that enlivened things on the Republican side last winter is likely to have its counterpart among the Democrats.

DAY OF THANKS IS SET BY TAFT EDICT

Thursday, Nov. 24, Is Set Apart As Day of Thanksgiving.

ALL ARE URGED TO OBSERVE DAY

Prosperity of United States In All Lines of Endeavor Touched on in Official Proclamation Issued by Chief Executive.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Thanksgiving Day will be celebrated Thursday, Nov. 24. The president's formal Thanksgiving proclamation, made public at the White House, reads: "By the president of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

"This year of 1910 is drawing to a close. The records of population and harvests which are the index of progress show vigorous national growth and healt hand prosperity and well being of our community throughout this land and in our possessions beyond the seas. These blessings have not descended upon us in restricted measure, but overflow and abound. They are the blessings and bounty of God.

"We continue to be at peace with the rest of the world. In all essential matters our relations with other peoples are harmonious with an ever reality of friendliness and depth of recognition of mutual dependence. It is especially to be noted that during the past year, great progress has been achieved in the case of arbitration and the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

"Therefore, I, William Howard Taft, President of the United States, in accordance with the wise custom of the civil magistrate since the first settlement in this land, and with the rule established from the foundation of this government, do appoint Thursday, Nov. 24, 1910, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, enjoining the people upon that day to meet in their churches for the praise of the Atmighty God and to return heartfelt thanks to Him for all His goodness and loving kindness.

"In witness whereof, I have thereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this fifth day of November in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ten, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred an thirty-fifth.

"By the president,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

"ALVA A. ADEE,

"Acting secretary of state."

FAMINE FROM STRIKE

Supplies Are Cut Off at Sabadell, Spain.

Government Has Been Trying to Settle Labor Trouble There and Also at Barcelona.

Paris, Nov. 7.—Advices from Cerbere, on the Spanish border, say that the town of Sabadell is stricken with famine, as a result of the general strike, which has cut off supplies. The population is excited and disorders are frequent.

Thousands of troops have entrained for Barcelona. All leaves of absence from the army have been canceled.

Senor Sagasta, Spanish minister of the interior, said that he had tried unsuccessfully to secure the arbitration of the strikes at Sabadell, where 6,000 men demand a shorter working day, and at Barcelona, where the metal workers are out.

CANADIAN TREATY WILL BE OPPOSED

Interests Affected by Proposed Plan Send Representatives.

COMMISSIONERS START WORK

Matter of Reciprocal Trade Relations Between United States and Dominion to Be Opposed by Railway Promoters.

Ottawa, Nov. 7. — The arrival of Henry M. Hoyt, solicitor of the department of state of the United States, and Charles M. Pepper, from Washington for the purpose of negotiating a reciprocity treaty with Canada, have been followed by an advance guard of special representatives of many interests likely to be affected by the conclusion of a treaty. Foremost among these is a small army of promoters of new Canadian paper mill enterprises and railway promoters having "paper" charters for projected railways, which if built would become the owners of large tracts of timber lands granted to them by way of subsidies for new railway construction, and in turn offered as desirable acquisitions to prospective builders of paper mills in Canada.

Messers. Pepper and Hoyt refuse to be quoted as to the details of their work here, but they and the representatives of the Canadian department of finance realize that they will be beseiged by scores of interests. The commissioners sent from Washington have only been here two days, and thus far their activities have been confined largely to the performance of official and social duties. Their real work begins today. The commissioners' work will last for many weeks. It was stated, and would be directed to providing material for the expected message from Mr. Taft to congress in December on the subject of reciprocity trade relations with Canada and the necessity of a treaty embodying the president's views.

No attempt will be seriously made to have the prohibition of the export of pulp wood cut from crown lands in the province of Quebec repealed. That measure was adopted by the Province of Quebec, and applies only to land in Quebec and the repeal of the law could not be effected by means of a treaty, as Quebec has sole jurisdiction of its public domain. A treaty might deal with a general prohibition by the Dominion government of such export, but as no such law exists, but is only advocated by a small number of extremists here, the present status will continue and will scarcely be discussed notwithstanding the generally mistaken opinion in the United States to the contrary.

FRISCO AIR MEET ASSURED

Aviation Promoters Decide to Increase Fund From $70,000 to $100,000.

New York, Nov. 7.—According to a telegram received by Israel Ludlow, the proposed aviation meet to be held in San Francisco Nov. 23 to Dec. 2 is now assured. Mr. Ludlow said it has been decided to raise the fund from $70,000 to $100,000.

With this amount he believes it will be possible to take the pick of the aviators to the Pacific coast. Mr. Ludlow said he had already conferred with a number of airmen who are favorable to the proposition and that some have practically agreed to sign contracts.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 7.—Joseph Hoffman, charged with attacking a school teacher near Peoria, was taken to the jail hospital. He is in a serious condition from nervous breakdown due to an attack made on him by fellow prisoners and to his father's refusal to assist him.

EXPRESS STRIKE GROWING SERIOUS

Gompers Visits Trouble Scene and Issues a Statement.

ARBITRATION PLAN IS REFUSED

Several Meetings of Teamsters' Locals Held and Trend of Opinion Seems to Favor a General Sympathetic Strike.

New York, Nov. 7.—The second death, resulting from the express strike, occurred when Peter Roach, 31, a striking Adams Express helper, who was shot by John Berry, a guard during an attack on an Adams Express wagon in front of the Ansonia, died in Flower hospital. Roach was under arrest when he was taken to Flower hospital, on charges of felonious assault and disorderly conduct, and Berry is under arrest on the charge of felonious assault, which may be changed to homicide.

President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor has gone to New York to confer with the National and Local officers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, who are here on the strike matter. When he was seen, he said that the situation was a very serious one. The union officials had gone the full limit in making concessions.

"I cannot understand the position of the companies," said Gompers. "They have taken a position which will, in a short time, leave matters in a desperate condition. Surely no body of strikers could go farther than to offer to arbitrate every point in dispute, even down to recognition of the union. It is the first time I have ever heard of any union making such an offer."

Gompers' would not discuss the question of a general sympathetic strike of all local unions of drivers in the Brotherhood of Teamsters. The representatives of the companies met in the officers of the United States Express company, and announced that their position is unchanged.

Meetings of different locals of the teamsters were held at different halls to discuss the matter of a general strike. Local 807, which met at Washington hall, includes the flour and feed drivers, the paper drivers, the transfer drivers, coal drivers, merchandise drivers, grocery drivers, wholesale dry goods drivers, iron and machinery drivers and the export and import drivers. After the meeting, President Jenkins of the union, said:

"No formal vote was taken, but the sentiment of the meeting is for a strike, if called on. All members of the locals are prepared to quit at once when they get the word."

CRIPPEN DIES TUESDAY

Appeal Court Decides Against the Wife Slayer.

Fact That Juror Was Ill During Trial Had No Effect Upon the Verdict of Guilty.

London, Nov. 7.—Dr. H. H. Crippen's hope for life was dashed when the high court of criminal appeals decided that the fact that a juror was ill for two hours during the trial for murder of his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen, had no effect upon the verdict of guilty and the ultimate death sentence.

Dr. Crippen sat in court with his counsel. He was as dandified as ever in his fancy frock coat and stylishly cut trousers. He wore spats and patent leather shoes.

Although his doom is set for Tuesday, his appearance did not indicate much fear.

smile at her even if the duke threw a regiment in between. He saw Grumbach in the gallery.

"Now, what the devil is the Dutchman doing with a pair of opera glasses?"

Later her highness stood before one of the long windows in the conservatory listlessly watching the people in the square. Was that some one coming for her? She turned.

It was Carmichael.

What an opportunity for scandal! She laughed inwardly. The barons and their wives, the ambassadors' wives and their daughters, would miss them both. And the spirit of deviltry gave a leap upon her heart. She smiled at the man and with her fan bade him be seated at her side.

"You have not asked me to dance tonight," she declared.

"I am neither a prince nor an ambassador."

"But you have danced with me."

"Yes; I have been to heaven now and then."

"And do you eject yourself thus easily?"

"By turning myself out my self esteem remains unruffled."

"Then you expected to be turned out?"

"As I have said, I am not a prince. I am only a consul, not even a diplomat, simply a business arm of my government. My diplomacy never ascends above the quality of hops and wines imported. I am supposed to take in any wandering sailor, feed him and ship him home. I am also the official guide of all American tourists."

"AND BECAUSE I LOVE HER!"

"That is no reason."

"Your father?" He should have said the grand duke.

"Ah, yes; my father, the chancellor, the ambassadors and their wives and daughters! I begin to believe that you have grown afraid of them."

"I confess that I have. I had an adventure last night. Would you like to hear about it?"

"Tell me."

He told her.

"A veiled lady," she mused. "What would you say if I told you that your mystery is no mystery at all? I am the veiled lady. And the person I went to see was my old nurse, my foster mother, with whom I spent the happiest, freest days of my life in the garret at Dresden. Pouf! All mysteries may be dispelled if we go to the right person. So you are to be recalled?"

"I have asked for my recall, your highness."

"And so Dreiberg no longer appeals to you? You once told me that you loved it."

"I am cursed with wanderlust, your highness."

"You promised to tell me what she is like."

Suddenly all his fear went away, all his trepidation. The spirit of recklessness which had vised him a little while ago again empowered him. He was afraid of nothing.

"How shall I describe her?" he said. "I have seen only paintings and marbles, and these are inanimate. Have you ever seen ripe wheat in a rainstorm? That is the color of her hair. There are jade and lapis lazuli in her eyes." He leaned toward her. "And I love her better than life, better than hope, and between us there is the distance of a thousand worlds. So I must give up the dream and go away, as an honorable man should."

Neither of them heard the chancellor's approach.

"And because I love her!"

Her fan dropped to the floor.

"Your highness," broke in the cold, even tones of Herbeck, "your father is making inquiries about you."

Carmichael rose instantly, white as the frill in his shirt.

Hildegarde, however, was a princess. She gained her feet leisurely, with a half smile on her lips.

"Count, Herr Carmichael tells me that he is soon to leave Dreiberg."

"Ah!" There was satisfaction in Herbeck's ejaculation. But there was a glint of admiration in his eyes as he recognized the challenge in Carmichael's. "We shall miss Herr Carmichael."

Her highness moved serenely toward the door. Carmichael waited till she was gone from sight; then he stooped and picked up the fan.

* * * * * * *

The entrance to the vast ducal vineyards was made through a small lodge where the ducal vintner lived and kept his books and moneys till such time as he should be required to place them before the proper official. Upon the morning following the ball at the palace the vintner was reclining against the outside wall of the gates, smoking his china pipe and generally at peace with the world. He discerned a solitary figure approaching from the direction of Dreiberg—a youthful figure, buoyant of step and confident. Herr Hoffman was rather interested. The youth paused at the gate and inspected the old man highly.

"Herr Hoffman, I want work."

"So? What can you do?"

The youth recounted his abilities.

"I have a letter to you also."

"Let me see it."

Hoffman saw it, but with startling eyes. There was, then, something new under the sun. A picker of grapes recommended by a princess!

"Du lieber Gott! You are Leopold Dietrich?"

"Yes, herr."

"How did you come by this letter?"

"Her serene highness is patron to Gretchen, the goose girl, at whose request the recommendation was given me."

This altered matters. The two entered the office.

"Can you write?"

"A little, herr."

"Then write your name on this piece of paper and that. Each night you will present yours with the number of pounds, which will be credited to you. You must bring it back each morning. If you lose it you will be paid nothing for your labor."

Dietrich wrote his name twice. Still Hoffman was not wholly satisfied with his eyes.

"Gottlieb," he said to one of the men, "take him to terrace 98. We'll see what sort of workman he is." He spoke to Dietrich again. "What is Gretchen to you?" For Hoffman knew Gretchen.

"She is my sweetheart, herr." And there was no mockery in the youth's eyes as he said this.

"Take him along, Gottlieb."

Terrace 98 was given over to small grapes. Thus many bunches had to be picked to fill the basket. But Dietrich went to work with a will. His fingers were deft, and his knife was sharp, and by midsun he had turned his sixth basket, which was fair work, considering.

As Hoffman did not feed his employees, Dietrich was obliged to beg from his coworkers. Very willingly they shared with him their coarse bread and onions. He ate the bread and stuffed the onions in his pocket. Once more the youth was alone. He set down his basket and laughed. Was there ever such a fine world? The very danger of it was the spice which gave it flavor.

"I love her, I love her!" His face grew bright again, and the wooing blood ran tingling in his veins. "Am I a thief, a scoundrelly thief, because I have that right common to all men to love one woman? Some day I shall suffer for this; some day my heart shall ache. So be it!"

His fingers were growing sore and sticky and there was a twinge in his back as he shouldered his eighth basket and scrambled down to the man who weighed the pick. He was beginning his ninth when he saw Gretchen coming along the purple aisle.

"What a beautiful day!" said Gretchen, with a happy laugh.

"Kiss me."

"When you fill that basket."

"Not before?"

"Not even a little one," mischief in her glance.

Out came the knife, and the vintner plied himself furiously. Gretchen had a knife of her own, and she joined him.

"There!" he said at last. "That's what I call work. But it is worth it. Now!"

Gretchen put her hands behind her back, closed her eyes and raised her chin. He kissed not only the lovely mouth, but the eyes and cheeks and hair.

"I ask only for your love, Gretchen—only that." And he pressed her hands. "All men are rogues more or less. There are so many currents and eddies entering into a man's life. It is made up of a thousand variant interests. No; man's love is never like a woman's. But remember this, Gretchen—I loved you the best I knew how, as a man loves but once, honorable as it was possible, purely and dearly."

He ripped a bunch of grapes from the vine, a thing no careful vintner should do, and held it toward her.

"Have you ever heard of the kissing cherries?" he asked.

She shook her head. He explained.

"This bunch will do very well."

He took one grape at the bottom in his teeth. Gingerly Gretchen did the same. Their lips met in a smothered laughter. Then they tried it again.

And this Watteau picture met the gaze of two persons on the terrace below. The empurpling face of one threatened an explosion, but the smiling face of the other restrained this vocal thunder. The old head vintner licked a stone savagely. Gretchen and her lover turned.

CHAPTER XIII.

A WHITE SCAR.

"YOU"—began the steward.

"Patience, Hoffman!" warned her highness. Then she laughed blithely.

"Your hat, scoundrel!" cried Hoffman.

The vintner snatched off his hat apologetically and swung it around on the tips of his fingers.

"Is this the way you work?"

"I have picked nine baskets."

OBITUARY

JEROME CLEVELAND.

I have been asked to prepare an obituary notice of my more that 40 years friend, Jerome Cleveland, and I am glad to thus show my love for a most worthy man. He was born in Groveland, Livingston Co., N. Y., on January 25th, 1829, and died at his home on west Chicago St., Tecumseh, October 27, 1910, aged a little less than 82 years.

When little more than a babe his parents moved to Raisin township in this county, so that he has lived in this vicinity practically all his life. In his young manhood he learned the carpenter's trade at which he worked nearly all the remainder of his life. In 1852 he went overland to California remaining there some 3 years. On Christmas day, 1857 he was married to Melissa Sherman with whom he lived for almost 53 years. Of the five children born to them three died in infancy, two remaining to mourn with his widow their great loss. They are Mrs. H. E. Hand of this village, and Mrs. James A. Boyd of Warsaw, Ind. There are also five grandchildren and three great grandchildren to preserve his memory. He was able to work at his trade till about two years ago since which he has done little but work in his garden and chore about his home. Nearly a year ago his heart began to dilate and it was the failure of that organ that finally terminated his life. His remains were buried in our beautiful Brookside cemetery on October 29.

40 years ago he and the writer came together intimately in a carpenter shop in Tecumseh and for three years worked side by side at that calling. There and then I found out just what sort of a man Jesome Cleveland was and it is a pleasure to testify to his honest worth. He was a most honest faithful workman, and a steadfast friend. No overseer was needed to keep him at his task and his work was never slighted. I never knew him have a quarrel with any one, in all those years.

He was not a great talker and in a crowd of noisy men you would hear nothing from Jerome. However if all was quiet and he was asked to relate any of his experiences, he would tell them in a way to interest and charm all his hearers. I vividly recall his descriptions of his early boyhood. His parents lived in the woods on what is now the Holdridge farm 3 miles from Tecumseh where for some winters he got along without shoes, going out and riding down hill in the snow with his bare feet for an hour or more at a time. When his father brought him his first pair of shoes he was so delighted that he got a board and taking it behind the house danced on it until he discovered his parents were watching him round the corner of the corner of the log cabin. As he told in his simple honest way these tails of the early settlers his face would glow with a fervor and his words flow with an elquance that I can not imitate or describe. When he told how he and an Englishman were chased by a grizzly bear in California and how easily he outran his companion feeling sure that the bear would get the other fellow first his hearers were always convulsed with laughter for he had the true knack of a story teller.

As I write these lines I lift my eyes and see the wood work of a room that he did the carpenter work on less than 5 years ago. It is good work, honest work, for the casings are well set and the doors well hung. Not all the good that men do is buried with their bones. For many years to come the houses he helped to build will shelter men and women who will not know who built the house but for all that it will be our gentle friend still blessing others when he is in his grave.

I was much impressed by what his wife said last summer when told that the end of Mr. Cleveland's life was near. With streaming eyes she declared "A better man than Jerome Cleveland never lived." Can any man have higher praise than that? She was in a position to know better than any one else. Her exalted opinion of Jerome Cleveland is shared by the writer of this tribute to his memory.

The German consul at Harbin is reported to have thrashed a Russian official who attempted to collect some taxes from a German merchant. The average German appears to be looking on the matter as a joke, but the foreign office probably can't see it in that light.

The Argentine Republic has a great irrigation project on hand which will cost about $25,000,000. The plan is to have the principle railroads do the work and receive their pay from the government in 5 per cent bonds, with water rentals to take care of the bonds.

There is a woman in a home near Vienna who is now 110 years old and well and happy. She was married when 20, lived with her husband 70 years and watched 10 sons and daughters grow up. She says that her husband earned 24 cents a day and that was quite enough to make her happy and comfortable.

People of Spain have not yet waxed very enthusiastic over the automobile, the general use of the car in that country being restricted by the high price of gasoline and poor roads, according to Vice-Consul-General Dawson at Barcelona. Not more than 3000 cars are in use. The average price of the cars bought is about $3000.

The McClean-Lisaake Automatic gun, which has been sent to Canada by the British government, is a remarkable weapon. It is mounted on a automatic truck, and with a supply of ammunition and a crew of 10 men it will travel at a rate of 25 miles an hour and it is at all times ready to wheel into position and fire. It will hurl three-pound shells a distance of 3½ miles at a rate of 250 per minute. This fusillade can be delivered after a stop in half the time it takes up to unlimber the ordinary artillery.

BURLINGAME-CHAMBERLAIN.

We clip the following from the Detroit News. Roy is well known in Tecumseh and this will be of interest to his many friends.

When Roy C. Burlingame, manager of the department of women's wear in Crowley, Milner & Co.'s store, arrived at his desk Friday morning, after a week's absence, he found a hand some cut glass vase filled with American Beauty roses and a multitude of printed signs with such inscriptions as "Mr. Newlywed," "Just Married," etc. Mr Burlingame wishing to avoid any demonstration on the part of his fellow employes gave out that he was going on a week's business trip which in reality was to be a short honeymoon. The secret leaked out during the past few days and the entire establishment was waiting for him Friday morning.

Mr. Burlingame was very quietly married to Miss Florence Chamberlain daughter of Mrs. M. D. Chamberlain, Saturday evening, Oct. 15. The couple will reside at No. 922 Lafayette-blvd.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Grandma Williams, now in her ninety sixth year was very much pleased last Friday afternoon with a visit she received from some of her old Addison friends and neighbors.

Five ladies who have known Mrs. Williams from childhood came down on the morning train bringing their lunch baskets for a picnic dinner. The party consisted of Mrs. Rebecca Cooley and her two sisters Mrs. Kline and Mrs. Calwell, Mrs. Julia Lewis and Miss Mary Somers. Miss Somers whose home was formerly at Addison now resides at California and has been spending some time in Brstish Columbia, she came to her old home for a visit and in looking up her old friends did not forget Grandma Williams and made up this little party to renew old acquaintance. The day was very pleasantly spent in reminiscences of the early time at Addison and and Round lake. Mrs. Chas Wilson was the hostess and Grandma Williams was very entertaining with her stories of Pioneer times. The visiting ladies left on the 4:02 train leaving some substantial remembrances of their visit beside the memory of a very pleasant afternoon.

TWO CAN PLAY---

"Walter," called the irate diner, "there seems to be a dollar on this bill I can't account for."

"Oh, that's just a joke, sir," apologized the waiter, "just a bit the cashier and I'll have it fixed right away, sir."

"What do you mean about a bet?" asked the diner, detaining him.

"Well, sir, I bet the cashier 50 cents you would see the mistake and he bet you wouldn't, so I win, sir."

"Suppose I hadn't noticed it?"

"He'd have gotten the dollar, sir."

"Oh, I see. Give me your pencil," and he wrote a few lines on the back of the bill, and handed it to the waiter. "Take that to the cashier."

The waiter leaned over the cashier's shoulder as he unsolded the paper. It read:

"I'll bet you five dollars that when you send this back you won't find me."

And they didn't.

THE CHILDREN LIKE IT
KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE
COUGH SYRUP

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Fleener, Unionville, Ind., J. F. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

MACON

A left hand social for the benefit of the organ fund for the School Dist. No, 1 will be held at the home of Mills Hatch on Friday evening Nov. 11. You are cordially invited to attend.

Little Miss Hazel Tice formerly of Macon but now a resident of Ann-Arbor having been afflicted with tuberculosis of the throat if was found necessary to perform a very distressing operation which was successfully done Oct., 29 at the private hospital of Dr. Canfield at 300 S. State St.

The little one is doing nicely and all hopes for her recovery are entertained. She has been so calmly resigned in her affliction seemingly thinking more of mammas sorrow and heart-ache than of self. Her cheerful disposition and loving manner has won the admiration of all her attendants as well as a large circle of friends Showers of post-cards and flowers have been sent to brighten and while the time away and certainly brought sweet smiles and cheer as they were destined.

Just to bring to those who need,
The little word of cheer
Just to lift the drooping heart,
And check the falling tear.
Just to smooth the furrow,
From a tired brow awhile
Just to help dispel a cloud.
Just to bring a smile.
Just to give a helping hand,
Some weary weight to bear.
And lend a heart of sympathy,
Some neighbors grief to share.

The writer with a host of other friends very sincerely wish for a speedy and permanent recovery.

How Old People May Prolong Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

A case is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was breaking down by age and was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people. She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her, but VINOL made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

PRIZE HORSES IN PERIL

Big Stables Contained Many Animals Entered in National Horse Show Which Opens Today.

New York, Nov. 7.—Many blue blooded horses, both of Europe and this city, came near sudden extinction in the fire which swept through the two top floors of the big stables attached to Durland's riding academy at 5 West Sixty-Sixth street. As it happened, nine horses, sequestered by the flames in the hospital floor at the top of the building, were the only ones that were lost of a stable full of from 550 to 600 head, numbering many horses waiting to be entered in the National Horse show which opens today.

Of the horse nobility that escaped there were four owned by Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, which had been brought over to America with royal dignity. The pick of a string of French cavalry horses, several blooded specimens from English and German studs and many animals which are the pride of New Yorkers.

The manager of Durland's put the loss caused by the fire at about $150,000. The loss to the Metropolitan Storage warehouse adjoining was put at $25,000.

TAFT TO VISIT PANAMA

President Will Go to Cincinnati to Cast His Vote.

Returns at Once to White House to Arrange to Visit the Big Ditch, Leaving on Wednesday.

Washington, Nov. 7. — President Taft will leave Washington today at 3 o'clock for Cincinnati, his home city, where on Tuesday he will cast his vote. He will remain in Cincinnati only a few hours, starting on the return trip Tuesday. While it is probable that from Columbus eastward the president will receive partial returns. The president will reach Washington early Wednesday morning and will hurry to the White House for a few hours of business. Late Wednesday the president and those who are going with him to Panama will steam out of Washington perhaps by special train for Charleston, S. C. At Charleston the president and those in his immediate party will be taken aboard the battleship Tennessee, and the newspaper men and secret service operatives will be taken to the battleship Montana. The ships will sail from Charleston at 1 o'clock Thursday. It is estimated that under forced draught the ships can reach Panama in four days. The president expects to spend four days inspecting the work on the canal and visiting the Panama republic, so that he probably will be back in the capital about the 23rd or 24th of this month, ten days before congress meets.

HARD CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Opinion Prevails That Indiana Is in Doubtful Column.

Betting on Results Favor Democrats —Local Option Plank May Defeat Republican Party.

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—The campaign throughout the state has closed and both parties are apparently confident of victory. Senator Beveridge has made a laborious campaign. He has made ninety-three speeches in eighty-two counties.

Estimates of the result differ widely according to the political glasses through which it is seen, but the safest guess at the close of the campaign is that Indiana is doubtful. If it were not for the local option issue, with the liquor element arrayed solidly against the Republicans, there would be no doubt of Republican success, for Beveridge has made a campaign that has appealed to thousands of Democrats and it is believed that practically all Republicans are lined up on his side.

The betting of the past few days has been in favor of the Democrats and there have been few Republicans who cared to take chances even at odds. There is a posted bet of $1,000 to $4,000 that Indiana, Ohio, New York and New Jersey will go Democratic, but it has not been taken.

EDITOR IS SHOT AT IN FEUD

W. B. Westlake Narrowly Escapes Death in His Newspaper Office.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 7.—W. B. Westlake, editor and publisher of the Marion Leader, the county Democratic organ, narrowly escaped being assassinated when two bullets crashed through a window of his office and lodged in the desk where he was writing.

Westlake has been taking an active part in a bitter campaign and issued extra editions contain denunciations of certain Republican candidates, one of whom was Circuit Judge Paulus, whom he accused of bribery.

T. R. CLOSES CAMPAIGN

Colonel Will Address Several Meetings in New York Today.

Will Return to Oyster Bay, Vote Early and Take Long, Needed Rest—Voice in Husky Condition.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 7.—There was no local committees wearing gaudy badges to receive Mr. Roosevelt on his return to Sagamore Hill. No bands played. He came back home just like a plain, ordinary citizen.

The strenuous trip through Maryland, Ohio and Indiana had left the colonel pretty weary of campaigning and his voice husky. As soon as he hit New York he visited Dr. Holbrook Curtis and had his throat examined. He is not alarmed about it, but he means to take every precaution.

Contrary to expectations Mr. Roosevelt will spend the last day of the fight lambasting Dix and Tammany Hall in New York today. He didn't know what his plans would be. Until Tuesday he is in the hands of the county committee. He may make a speech at noon. In the evening he will be the guest of the Hungarian Republican club at a dinner in the Cafe Boulevard.

After dinner he will make more speeches on the east side and afterwards he will return to Oyster Bay. He said that he will remain here until Nov. 17, resting all the time.

Eola, Ill., Nov. 7.—An eagle with a spread of wings of eight feet was killed by Conrad Brummel, when the big "bird of freedom" swooped down on his daughter, Anna Brummell, 6 years old, as she was playing in a pasture.

The child's screams aroused her father, who dropped the eagle after using both barrels of his shotgun. The eagle darted twice at the child, who ran for refuge behind a pet cow.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 7.—The Audit and Bond company of St. Louis reported the result of three months' work on the city books, showing a shortage of nearly $50,000.

W. M. Morrisey, who was city attorney from 1906 to 1909, is blamed for a deficit of $48,875.15. There were heavy deficits in the water account and a deficit from nonanticipation of bonds.

FALL ENDS STAGE CAREER

Jacques Krueger, Comedian, Dies as Result of Fall in Detroit.

Detroit, Nov. 7.—Jacques Krueger, the actor, who while playing with the "Follies of 1910" company, fell from the flies of the Detroit Opera House died at Harper hospital.

Mr. Krueger fell while doing an ascension act. He was impersonating John D. Rockefeller on his way to heaven. He struck on his feet in the center of the stage, but his bones could not withstand the violent jar. One leg was broken in three places, and complicatoins of the heart and kidneys set in and his advanced age prevented recovery.

Weather Forecast.

Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin—Fair and warmer today, unsettled tomorrow, probably rain or snow.

"If."

Joseph Chamberlain, the English statesmnn, was once indebted to a nursery rhyme for a great oratorical hit. In one of his speeches he was criticising Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Salisbury on their return from Berlin, where they had been carrying on negotiations with Bismarck. Both had made speeches explaining their actions, and one of them in the course of his oratory used the word "if" so many times as to give Mr. Chamberlain a chance in his reply to make one of those popular allusions which are remembered longer than any logic.

"What the honorable gentleman has said," he remarked, "remind me of a rhyme I learned from my nurse:

"If all the seas were bread and cheese,
If all the rivers were ink,
If all the lakes were currant cakes,
What should we have to drink?"

The effect on the audience was tremendous. No one ever forgot that "if."

Marriage Mart.

The famous Tunis marriage mart is held twice a year, in the spring and in the autumn. The Tunisian girls attend by the hundreds, each with her dowry in coin and jewelry disposed about her person. The "golden girdle of maidenhood" encircles her waist, and in it is an unsheathed dagger. When the dagger is gently removed by a passing gallant and presently returned, it means that a proposal has been made.

A prettier custom prevails among the Ooraon maids, who, at stated intervals, assemble in the market place. In front of each is a lighted lamp, an emblem of conjugal fidelity. A young man feels attracted and gently blows upon the flame, extinguishing it. When the girl relights it, it is a rejectment: If she allows the lamp to go unlighted, however, the suitor is acceptable.

Wise Elephants.

Elephants, those animal sages that are constantly changing to pers, become so wise and know so much about the tricks of the trade and human nature in general that they finally will not work for any man. It is doubtful if there is a bull elephant more than fifty years old performing in this country. They have not "gone bad," as the saying is, but have learned too showmen say, but have learned too much, picked up from their keepers, and they cannot be worked with safety. An elephant that is going to make trouble turns his back on his intended victim and begins to swing his great body from side to side. Then in a dash he wheels, catches the offender with his trunk and hurls him perhaps twenty feet away, following swiftly to crush the life from his body with his mighty knees.

DENBY SUFFERS DEFEAT

Diekema Also Loses in Race for Re-Election.

Governor and Other State Victors Are Republican, but Detroit Mayor Is a Democrat.

Detroit, Nov. 10.—Michigan Republicans won a sweeping victory on the state ticket and elected ten of twelve representatives in congress. Representative Edwin Denby was defeated in the First district by Frank E. Doremus, Democrat, and Representative G. J. Diekema, Republican, was defeated in the Fifth district by Edwin F. Sweet of Grand Rapids. Doremus' plurality was about 1,200 and Sweet's 580.

The majority of Chase S. Osborne for governor will probably reach 40,000; that of the rest of the Republican state ticket is 30,000.

An overwhelmingly Republican state legislature will elect Charles E. Townsend of Jackson, to succeed United States Senator Burrows.

William B. Thompson, Democrat, was elected mayor of Detroit over Proctor K. Owens by 5,000 majority.

QUESTION TENER'S ELECTION

Plans Being Made to Contest Seat of Candidate in Pennsylvania.

Pittsburg, Nov. 10.—Revised figures have cut down the plurality of John K. Tener, Republican, for governor, to 18,000 instead of 80,000, which had been confidently claimed by the state leaders. The Keystone party leaders claim that Tener was not elected at all, that they will have little trouble in proving fraud at the polls in both Pittsburg and Philadelphia. The open assertion is made by the Keystone people that Berry was elected by at least 70,000 plurality.

In Pittsburg preparations are being made to contest the election of Tener at many points in the state, and if possible to secure an entire new count. Several arrests for alleged crooked work at the polling places have already been made in Pittsburg and more are threatened.

Late Returns from Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—Aldrich, Republican, for governor, is elected over Dahlman, Democrat, by approximately 20,000 majority.

Hitchcock, Democrat, is leading Burkett, Republican, for the United States senate. Indications are that he will win by about 15,000 majority.

O'Neal Elected in Alabama.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 10.—Latest returns show that Emmet O'Neil, Democrat and local optionist, was elected governor over J. O. Thompson, Republican-Prohobitionist, by over 60,000 majority. A solid Democratic delegation to congress from this state has been re-elected.

West is Victor in Oregon.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 10.—Early returns which indicated the election of Jay Bowerman, Republican, for governor, have been reversed, and Oswald West, Democrat, has carried the state by a plurality of 1,100.

R. R. COMMISSION SUCCESS

Republican Party May Well Be Proud of Great Work Accomplished in People's Behalf.

In calling attention to some lines of increased expenditure in Michigan, created through recent years, it is noticeable that Mr. Hemans, the Democratic candidate for governor, avoids making any reference to the splendid results accomplished for the state through some of these same items of increased expense.

One of the most important legislative acts of the Republican party was the creation of the Michigan railroad commission. It has proven the people's forum, as many conditions for which there seemed to be no adequate legal remedy except by resorting to long drawn out and expensive litigation has been adjusted by it promptly and with little or no expense to either party as a large portion of effective work was done by correspondence.

Informal complaints relative to blocking street crossings, highway and street crossing protection, sidewalks at railroad street crossings, establishment of farm crossings and cattle passes, drainage, building and repairing of fences, car service, condition of tracks, safety devices, overhead wire construction, culverts, depot buildings, cars and train service, including baggage and passengers' other belongings receive attention of the commission.

The commission has been very successful in securing the establishment of reasonable rates and refunds to shippers covering charges made in error or based on rates which were irregular or disciminative and in securing pay from the carrier for goods lost or injured in shipment.

One of the most important duties of the Michigan railroad commission is the supervision of the issuance of stock, bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness by public service corporations, and no such securities are permitted to be issued unless the corporation is able to make a reasonable showing of tangible property, to secure the same and that the money received from the sale of such securities is to be expended upon and for the betterment of the properties themselves, and not otherwise.

The safety of travel is being increased through the installation of an additional number of safety devices, reduction of and lighting of curves, the more careful attention to signals and the exercise of greater care in the operation of trains.

The Republican party of Michigan can congratulate itself over the wisdom displayed in the creation of the railroad commission and for giving it such general and specific powers over matters of such importance to the general public.

Detroit Elects Democratic Mayor.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—The latest returns show William B. Thompson, Dem., has defeated Proctor K. Owens, Rep., by about 5,000, in the hottest kind of a mayoralty race. All other Republican candidates on the city ticket are elected by big majorities.

OSBORN'S ELECTION CONCEDED

Indications Point to 50,000 Majority For Soo Man.

Legislature Remains Overwhelmingly Republican, and Townsend's Election Is Sure.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—There was no Democratic landslide in Michigan, and Chase S. Osborn is elected by one of the old-time majorities. Sixty thousand is about the figure, and the rest of the state ticket is elected by even larger numbers.

The election can be considered in no other way than as a striking tribute to Osborn. He is the first man from the upper peninsula to be elected governor of Michigan.

The remainder of the state ticket has been elected by pluralities approaching 30,000.

Hemans has carried more counties than the Republican leaders expected, but in no county in the state did he run with his vote of two years ago.

The congressional delegation seems to have come through with the possible exception of Edwin Denby in the First and G. J. Diekema in the Fifth districts. The majorities are reduced in nearly every case.

The legislature remains overwhelmingly Republican, and Charles E. Townsend is assured election as United States senator from Michigan to succeed Senator J. C. Burrows.

The Democrats gain a number of representatives, but not enough to make a dent in the Republican majority in the legislature. A notable case of a Democratic nominee for the lower house being elected is the Gogebic district, where A. D. Johnston, who was nominated by the Republicans at the primary over "Stoney" Monroe, was defeated by John Holland.

Colin P. Campbell, speaker of the last house and a candidate for re-election at the next session, is having the race of his life in the Third district of Kent county, and it will probably take all the returns to decide his fate.

Another Republican in danger in addition to Speaker Campbell is Representative Ari Woodruff of Wyandotte, who is being run close by Judge Burke of Ecorse.

The upper peninsula vote was comparatively light, but Osborn was given loyal support through the north country.

The vote cast, in spite of the beautiful weather, is very light, some counties showing as low as 60 per cent of the registration and in very few counties was the vote 75 per cent of normal. This light vote undoubtedly greatly reduced the majority given Osborn in the upper peninsula. In nearly all counties north of straits his plurality fell off greatly from Warner's figures two years ago. In the lower peninsula as well there were few counties which Warner carried two years ago where Osborn's majority this year was not smaller, but he made it up in the counties which Hemans carried in 1908. In nearly every one of the twenty-three counties which Hemans carried then his majority disappeared entirely yesterday or shrunk to comparatively small ones.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP THE COUNTRY

Dix, Wilson and Harmon Elected by Big Majorities.

62ND CONGRESS WILL BE DEMOCRATIC

"Uncle Joe" Cannon Re-elected---Milwaukee Will Send a Socialist to Washington.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Democratic party in the country at large has won its first victory since the election of Grover Cleveland to the presidency in 1892. It has elected governors in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Ohio, has upset the Republican majority in the house of representatives and has insured a greatly reduced majority in the United States senate.

In New York state a plurality for John A. Dix, Dem., of about 60,000 is noted. This will probably be somewhat reduced by returns from upstate rural districts.

Henry L. Stimson has sent the following telegram to John A. Dix:

"The present returns indicate your election. I congratulate you and send you my good wishes for the success of your administration."

Bass, Republican, is elected governor in New Hampshire. Cooper, Rep. and fusion candidate for governor, defeated R. B. Taylor, the Democratic candidate, in Tennessee.

Senator Beveridge, according to returns now at hand, was defeated in Indiana by John W. Kern; and eleven out of the thirteen congress districts in Indiana went Democratic.

Massachusetts elected Foss, Dem., governor by a plurality estimated in excess of 20,000. Connecticut probably elected Judge Simeon E. Baldwin, Dem., by a small plurality.

In Kentucky Caleb Powers, thrice convicted for the assassination of Goebel, and not long out of prison, was elected to congress by 3,000, carrying every county in his district except his home county of Laurel.

Incomplete returns from Kansas indicate the election of Governor Stubbs.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the house, is elected by the biggest majority the district has given for ten years. Serena Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee, is elected by a plurality but little short of normal. John Dalzell, another of Speaker Cannon's lieutenants, is reelected in Pennsylvania. J. Sloat Fassett, a supporter of Speaker Cannon, but one of the old guard upholders of Roosevelt at Saratoga, is defeated.

The situation in congress is somewhat of a guess. The best returns indicate the following:

The Republicans lose senators from Indiana, Maine, where the election has already been held; Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New York and Ohio. This result means the Republican majority in the United States senate will be reduced from twenty-five to twelve.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Elections held throughout the country resulted in a political convulsion of far-reaching extent similar to the famous tidal wave of 1882, but even more widespread in its effects.

The national house of representatives was carried by the Democrats, who will control that branch of congress by a safe working majority after March 4, 1911, reversing the present Republican majority of 43.

The United States senate will have a reduced Republican majority as a sult of legislative elections held in many states.

Summed up, the results of the various elections were as follows:

Democratic: Alabama, Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Massachusetts, Nevada, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas and Oregon.

Republican — Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

Doubtful—Iowa and Kansas.

WILSON RUNS FAR AHEAD OF LEWIS IN NEW JERSEY

Newark, N. J., Nov. 9.—Woodrow Wilson is sweeping north New Jersey. No returns from the southern counties are in. Wilson has carried East Orange by about 1,090, and South Orange by about 250. He is reported to have carried Asbury Park by 250. The town has never in its history gone Democratic.

The final figures show the former president of Princeton to have nearly 35,000 majority.

SAVED AN IOWA MAN'S LIFE

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen of West Burlington, Iowa, when after seven weeks in the hospital four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice getting no help from other remedies or doctors five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c at C. A. Wright & Son.

In view of the fact a settlement of such importance was done so quickly which was agreeable to both the railroad and the claimants and without a suit. Mr. Gillespie can be congratulated on the work that he has done and deserves much credit for such a settlement,

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation os the trouble.

Because — It cleanses, heals and soothes the skin

Because—It enables Nature to repair the ravages of disease.

Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure.

Drop into our store today just to talk over your case with us

PRESIDENT WATERS ON THE CHICAGO STOCK SHOW.

Pres. H. J. Waters of the Kansas Agricultural College, on a recent occasion expressed himself as follows:

"The International Live Stock Exposition, which will this year be held from November 26th to December 3rd is the court of resort in all matters pertaining to the improvement of live stock. It is the place where all controversies regarding superior merit are settled for the year, and as such contributes more to live stock improvement than any other single agency in America. As an object lesson it is unequaled on the continent. As a means of awakening interest in improved live stock, it and similar shows are indispensable. It is a liberal education in live stock production for any farmer, breeder or student to attend the International."

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Fleener, Unionville, Ind., J. F. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 1.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

How Old People May Prolong Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

A case is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was breaking down by age and was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people. She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her, but VINOL made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

CANADIAN TREATY BEING DISCUSSED

Agricultural Machinery May Be Placed on Free List.

COMMERCE TRADE INCREASED

Importations for Past Year Show Natural Advance—Imports and Exports This Year Will Exceed $800,000,000 Mark.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—It was announced at the ministry of trade and commerce here that the returns for the first seven months of the present fiscal year show great increases over the last fiscal year, which ended March 31. Last year was a record breaker in Canadian commerce. The total exports and imports last year amounted to $693,211,221, while the returns for the first seven months of the present fiscal year indicate that the total exports and imports for the year will amount to fully $800,000,000 and very likely more. An important and unexpected item among the current fiscal year's exports to the United States is the increase shown in the export of agricultural machinery.

It is stated here on high authority that parliament will speedily remove the tariff on agricultural machinery imported from the United States. Under section 476, of the Payne tariff law, this will operate to place Canadian agricultural machinery on the free list in the United States. The only stumbling block to carrying out this program smoothly is the fact that the United States courts have held that the separate parts of such machinery cannot be entered on the same terms as the machines themselves.

The United States treasury department held that the parts could be entered on the same terms as the machines themselves, but the courts held differently. High authorities here state that an unofficial agreement or understanding has been reached whereby congress will correct the anomily in the United States tariff, thus clearing the way for absolute free trade between Canada and the United States in this industry. Canada's total importations last year of agricultural machinery from the United States amounted to $2,696,410, while her total exports of agricultural machinery to the United States amount to only $96,949. Her exports of agricultural machinery to the states in the first seven months of the current fiscal year exceeded her total of last year.

While the Canadian parliament will deal directly with this subject, it is generally believed that the tariff commissioners now here trying to negotiate a reciprocity treaty have indicated the readiness of the United States to do away with the difficulty in connection with the parts of agricultural machinery.

BUYS GIRL; REJECTS HIM

Jackson Pole Sues Man for Recovery of Money Paid.

Unique Case Started in Michigan Court—Girl Puchased Refuses to Wed Her Buyer.

Jackson, Mich., Nov. 10.—One of the most unique cases ever started in the Jackson courts has been commenced by Johann Wicher against Julius Zirotski for the recovery of $146 paid as a purchase price for Augusta Grunst, aged 18 years.

Zirotski fell in love with Miss Grunst when they lived in Poland. Shortly after he came to this country he sent her money to pay her passage to Jackson. On her arrival here, Zirotski proposed marriage to her but she rejected him. Fearing the loss of his $146, Zirotski offered to sell his interest in the girl to Wicher. Wicher, who had never seen the girl, paid the money and then proposed to the young woman whom he had purchased. She gave him the cold shoulder and he immediately started suit to recover from Zirotski.

Explosion in Colorado Mine Kills Many Workers.

WILLIS EVANS PROVES A HERO

Gave Oxygen Helmet He Wore to One of the Rescued Men and Was Later Found Dying in Mine From Suffocation.

Delagua, Col., Nov. 10.—Thirty-five men are known to have been killed in the explosion that wrecked a portion of mine No. 3 of the Victor American Fuel company here. Nine men were rescued alive.

Willis Evans, a young engineer of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, give his life in the rescue of the four miners taken out alive. Evans, who graduated from the Colorado School of Mines only two years ago, came to Delegua with the rescue car of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

He immediately joined the party searching the fourth north entry, equipped with oxygen helmets. The rescuers worked their way along the entry and heard the faint tapping of a pick on solid rock, the wireless call of the miner. Realizing that at least some of their number were alive, they attacked the fallen mass of rock that blocked the entry with renewed hope. When they tore through the cave they found four Slav miners alive and apparently unhurt.

They were 2,000 feet from the surface and the passages were filled with afterdamp.—The rescuers feared to take the imprisoned men to the surface without helmets and without a moment's hesitation Evans and one of the other rescuers took off their helmets and gave them to two of the rescued men and waited for the return of the rescue party. When the rescuers returned Evans had disappeared.

The rescue party supposed he had followed them without a helmet and went out without searching for him. They discovered he had not reached the surface and another party was sent in after him. They discovered him later unconscious from gas. He had evidently attempted to reach the surface and had been lost. He never regained consciousness and died.

The fire which is blamed for the explosion is believed to have started in a broken entry door which caught fire through some unknown means. The fire has been extinguished.

GYPSY QUEEN DIES IN OHIO HOSPITAL

Deathbed Confession Reveals a Strange and Weird Story.

STOLEN AND SOLD BY GYPSIES

Miss Jessie Habersham Tells of Her Life for Years in Camp and of Being Compelled to Act Slave and Wife to "King."

Toledo, O., Nov. 14.—Stranger than fiction, and almost unbelievable, is the remarkable deathbed statement of Miss Jessie Habersham, daughter of H. G. Habersham, a canning broker, of Baltimore, Md., who died at Seton hospital, Cincinnati, a few hours after giving birth to a baby girl. According to the girl's statement, she was stolen from her home in Baltimore five years ago by a band of gypsies, sold to one of the tribe for $900 and then under hypontic influence, compelled to be the slave and wife of the king of the gypsies. The long search for the past five years in every niche and corner of the United States it is said has ruined the father's health, so that the sister superior, who notified him of his daughter's death by telegram, received a telegram stating that he was too sick to come to Cincinnati at the present time to prosecute the abductors. The shock of the girl's abduction, it was further said, was too great for her mother, who died several months afterwards.

Miss Habersham was 25 years old. Her large brown eyes and perfect features showed that she had been very pretty, but her years of suffering had emaciated her face. She said that she had been enticed away from home by an old gypsy woman who belonged to the tribe that was staying near the Habersham home. She was then sold by this woman to her nephew for $900, and compelled by him to work hard and to endure more than the hardships of the ordinary gypsies.

According to the story told by the young woman shortly before her death some strange influence held her with the gypsies, and, although she made several attempts to escape all were fruitless. It was two years before she even had a chance to write to her father, and then the tribe heard of her doing so and quietly moved away before the police authorities could reach her. The father spent a small fortune in hiring detectives and in newspaper advertisements.

About five weeks ago the young woman was carried to a rooming house on Fourth street by a gypsy who gave the name of J. H. Mitchell, and said that the woman was his wife. He asked if the woman might be allowed to stay there until the child was born. No objection was made to this and Dr. Meade was summoned. He, with the help of a district nurse, cared for the woman until she became so low that they were compelled to remove her to Seton hospital. The child, however, is well and healthy and is being held at the hospital. The man who claims to be the husband of the dead woman, called at the hospital.

WOODS ARE FULL OF THEM

Deer Seekers, That Is, and Old-Time Hunters Are Scared Out.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 14.—Never before in Michigan's history has there been such an army of deer hunters in the wilds of the upper peninsula. So numerous are they that old-time hunters, who have followed the chase during every open season for years are returning home because of unsafe conditions that prevail.

A local hunter coming home after one day in the woods said that he had been shot at twice and had been so busy doging bullets that he had no time to hunt. Lumbermen have taken the precautions of placing bells on their horses to prevent them being shot in mistake for deer.

WIFE STABS HER FATHER

Mrs. Ida Thomas Loses Reason When Wrongfully Accused.

Was Accused of Having Spent Night Away From Home in Company of Man—Father Will Likely Die.

Philadelphia, Nov. 14. — Angered when accused of having spent the night away from home with another man, Mrs. Ida Thomas ran into the kitchen of her home in Westchester and getting a sharp butcher knife, it is alleged, stabbed her father, James Edwards, just above the heart and through the stomach. Then, with the fury of a mad woman, she turned upon her husband, Edward Thomas, and slashed him across the face and severing an artery in his wrist.

Edwards is in the hospital and will die, but Thomas, the husband, will live. Mrs. Thomas was arrested and held without bail by Magistrate Paxson for hearing today. Because of the conflicting stories which were told of the stabbing, Thomas was also placed in jail after his injuries were attended to, while the police are investigating the case.

FOOTBALL PLAYER HELD FOR MURDER

Coroner Rogers Issues Warrant for College Team Captain.

M'COY KILLED OPPOSING PLAYER

Rudolph Munk, Hit in Back of Head While Running With Ball, Dies on Gridiron—Game Referee Gives Damaging Evidence.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 14.—Charging him with the wilful murder of Rudolph Munk, left halfback and captain of the West Virginia University team, Coroner Rogers has issued a warrant for Thomas McCoy, or W. S. Gardner, left end of the Bethany college team. The warrant has been placed in the hands of Constable Wickham, and McCoy will be arrested. The warrant was issued because of the sworn statement made by Homer N. Young, of Pittsburg, a former Michigan University player, who was the official referee of the game. His statement is as follows:

"Rudolph Munk was running down the field in advance of the man with the ball, West Virginia having the ball about thirty yards from Bethany goal. He was not close to the ball on this play. He was met by a man said to be Gardner, as his name was given to me by Townsend, the coach for the Bethany team.

"On this play this man Gardner ran towards Munk, while both were running down the field. About the time they got ten yards beyond the scrimmage line, Gardner from behind Munk, to the best of my recollection, struck Munk on the back of Munk's head with his (Gardner's) fist.

"Munk fell and Gardner fell over him. Gardner got on his feet for an instant, gazed at Munk and started to walk off the field. For this foul I put him out of the game. He made no reply and no protest. Munk was unconscious. Evidently to me the blow which felled Munk was intentional."

The evidence of Refere Young taken is part of the inquest that is being held by Coroner Rogers. This evening the taking of testimony will be completed. At that time McCoy and other members of the Bethany team will be examined by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Maury.

McCoy is the real name of the player who is charged with striking Munk, but in this game he was playing under the name of Gardner. After he had been ordered from the field he passed the bleachers, where several hundred West Virginia rooters were standing. Cries of "Dirty player" and "Tough" came from the crowd, and in reply McCoy said: "Well, he was slugging me all through the game." Munk died without making any statement.

COUNTESS TRIES TO KILL SELF

Wife Deserted With Her Nine Children Attempts to Drown Heself Through Hole in Ice—Count Renounces the World.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—Count Leo Toletoi, novelist and social reformer, who disappeared from his home several days ago, has been found in the old monastery of Kozelsk, in the province of Kaluga. He has renounced the world.

Simultaneously with the finding of the count, his wife, overcome by the desertion of her husband, is reported to have twice attempted suicide by drowning through a hole in the ice. She is in a state of collapse, and it is feared she will not recover.

Before it was definitely settled that the count had entered the monastery, he was seen on the estate the Abrikosoffs, wealthy manufacturer in the Mount Sensky district, Tula province.

The flight of the count has made a painful impression. That he should desire to spend the evening of his days in solitude surprises no one acquainted with his career, but that he should deliberately desert the mother of his nine children is difficult of believe even in the light of his well-known eccentricities of character. The suggestion of a failing mentality is accepted by many in explanation of the count's sudden action.

It is stated that Count Tolstoi's daughter Alexandra and a typewriter followed him to the convent, where the count's favorite sister has long been a nun.

His flight, despite its suddenness, was probably long contemplated. It is well known that that since he made over his property to his wife five years ago, there have been constant disagreements with his family in consequence of their more worldly views of life and the management of the estate. The count was intensely grieved because of his inability to persuade them to place the peasants on the estate on an equal footing with themselves. His refusal to accept the Nobel prize, that was offered him, caused further friction. Count Tolstoi was simply unable to longer endure the comfortable surroundings of his family and home and embraced an ascetic regime.

Tolstoi has been in ill health for some time. He had frequent fainting spells, and on Oct. 18 was unconscious for hours. Later it was reported he had improved somewhat. In his writings Toltoi has condemned suicide as immoral and irrational and as indicating a perverted view of the significance of life.

MAN HUNT STILL ON FOR ROBBERS

Posse of 200 Guarding Swamp in Which Thieves Are Hiding.

BUILDING CONTRACTOR ROBBED

Pickets on Guard Changed Every Six Hours—Thieves Secured $7,000 in Money, $5,000 in Checks—May Have Escaped.

Winsted, Conn., Nov. 14.—A cordon of officers and citizens are guarding the 200-acre swamp in southern Berkshire county, into which the band of masked robbers plunged after forcing, at the point of guns, Paymaster Hines and Superintendent Robinson, of the Woronoco Construction company, and their guard, Deputy Sheriff Truesdell of Great Barrington, to give up two grips containing about $7,000 in money and about $5,000 in checks, have not found a single trace of the brigands, who it is now generally believed were not foreigners, who had been engaged with 600 men in trolley construction work between Great Barrington and Canan, this state, but men disguised as hunters and laborers.

The vigil was maintained throughout the night and Sunday in a snowstorm, scores of acres of the swamp, many portions of which are not penetrable on account of the deep mire, were scoured without a single clew that might aid in the apprehension of the bandits. The belief is growing that the highwaymen and their booty were spirited away in an automobile down through Sheffield, thence to Salisbury and the Harlem valley in New York.

The posses have not given up hope of capturing the robbers, however, and every highway in southern Berkshire county is picketed. Five thousand of the booty was in silver. The only thing that strengthens the theory that the robbers were amateurs, is the fact that when they commanded the paymaster and his two companions to throw up their hands, they did not make them surrender their firearms as well as the money. The pickets on guard are being relieved every six hours.

PERRY MEMORIAL UNVEILED

August Belmont Is Donor in Honor of Grandfather, Commodore Perry.

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 14.—The Perry memorial, presented to St. Mary's church, Scarborough, by August Belmont, in honor of his grandfather, Commodore Matthew C. Perry, the "Father of the steam navy and the opener of Japan," was unveiled here. It consists of a bell captured at Tobasco, Mex., in 1847, by Commodore Perry, and presented to the church in that year. Commodore Perry was one of the founders of the church.

The rector of the church, the Rev. B. Oakley Baldwin, delivered an address in which he reviewed the life of Commodore Perry, who was a brother of Oliver Hazzard Perry, the hero of Lake Erie, dwelling particularly on his having introduced Christianity in Japan. Just as the memorial was being unveiled the congregation sang the hymns sung by Commodore Perry's men the first Sunday the fleet lay at anchor in the harbor at Nagaski, Japan, in 1853.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"You should have picked twelve."

It interested her highness to note that this handsome young fellow was not afraid of the head vintner. So this was Gretchen's lover? He was really handsome. There was nothing coarse about his features or figure.

The pause was broken by Gretchen.

"Pardon, highness!"

"For what, Gretchen?"

"For not having seen your approach."

"That was my fault, not yours. When is the wedding?"

"After the vintage, highness."

Her highness then spoke to the bridegroom elect. "You will be good to her?"

"Who could help it, your highness?"

The pronoun struck her oddly, for peasants as a usual thing never used it in addressing the nobility.

"Well, on the day of the wedding I will stand sponsor to you both. And good luck go with you."

She passed down the aisle, the head vintner following, wagging his head.

The day was ended. The lad swung the basket to his shoulder, and the sun, flashing upon its contents, turned the bloomy globes into dull rubies. He presented his card at the office and was duly credited with three crowns, which, according to Gretchen, was a fine day's work. He man said nothing about dismissal.

"Come day, after tomorrow. Tomorrow is a feast day. You are always having feast days when work begins. All summer long you loaf about, but the minute you start to work you must find excuses to lay off. Clear out, both of you!"

"Work at last," said Dietrich as he and Gretchen started for the city.

Arm in arm they went on. Sometimes Gretchen sang. Often he put her hand to his lips. By and by they came abreast of an old gypsy. He wore a coat of Joseph's, and his face was as lined as a frost bitten apple.

"Will you tell me how to find the Adlergasse?" he asked in broken German. His accent was that of a Magyar.

They carelessly gave him specific directions and passed on. He followed grimly, like fate, whose agent he was, though long delayed. When he reached the Adlergasse he looked for a sign. He came to a stop in front of the dingy shop of the clock mender. He went inside, and the ancient clock mender looked up from his work, for he was always working. He rose wearily.

The gypsy smiled mysteriously and laid a hand on his heart.

"Who are you?" sharply demanded the clock mender.

"Who I am does not matter. I am he whom you seek."

"God in heaven!" The bony hands of the clock mender clutched the other's coat.

The gypsy released himself slowly. "But first show me your pretty crowns and the paper which will give me immunity from the police. Your crowns, as you offered, and immunity; then I speak."

"Man, I can give you the crowns, but God knows I have no longer the power to give you immunity."

The gypsy shouldered his bundle.

"For God's sake, wait!" begged the clock mender.

But the gypsy walked out, unheeding.

* * * * * * *

Two days later, in the afternoon.

"Grumbach," said Carmichael, "what were you looking at the other night with those opera glasses at the ball?"

"I was looking into the past."

"Oh, pshaw! You were following her highness with them. I want to know why."

"She is beautiful."

"You made a promise to me not long ago."

"I did?" noncommittally.

"Yes. Soon I shall be shaking the dust of Dreiberg, and I want to know beforehand what this Chinese puzzle is. What did you do that compelled your flight from Ehrenstein?"

Grumbach's pipe hung pendulent in his hand. He swung it to and fro absently.

"I am waiting. Remember, you are an American citizen for all that you were born here. If anything should happen to you I must know the whole story in order to help you. You know that you may trust me."

"It isn't that, captain. I have grown to like you in these few days. Those opera glasses—it was an idea. Well, since you will know, I was a gardener's boy. I worked under my brother Hermann. I used to ask the nurse, who had charge of her serene highness, where she would go each day. Then I'd cut flowers and meet them on the road somewhere and give the bouquet to the child. There was never any escort—a footman and a driver. The little one was always greatly pleased, and she would call me Hans. I was in love those days." Grumbach laughed with bitterness. "Yes, even I. Her name was Tekla, and she was a jade. I wanted to run away, but I had no money. I had already secured a passport—no matter how. It was the first affair, and I was desperately hurt. One day a gypsy came to me. I shall always know him by the yellow spot in one of his black eyes. I was given a thousand crowns to tell him which road her highness was to be driven over the next day. As I said, I was mad with love. Why a gypsy should want to know where her highness was going to ride was of no consequence to me. I told him. I was to get the money the same night. It was thus that her highness was stolen. It was thus that I became accessory before the fact, as the lawyers say. Flight with a band of Magyar gypsies; weary days in the mountains, with detachments of troops scouring the whole duchy. Finally I escaped. A fortune was offered for the immediate return of the child. At the time I believed that it was an abduction for ransom. But no one ever came forward for the reward. There was a price on my head when it was known that I had fled."

"And no one ever came for the reward? That is strange. Was immunity prohibited?" Carmichael asked.

"It was inferred, but not literally promised."

"Fear kept them away."

"Perhaps. And there is Arnsberg."

"Was he guilty?"

"I never saw his hand anywhere."

"So this is the story! Well, when a man's in love he is more or less in the clutch of temporary insanity. I've a wild streak in me also. But what I can't understand is why you return and put your head in the lion's mouth. The police will stumble on something. If you are arrested I could do little for you. The United States protects only harmless political outcasts. Yours is a crime such as nullifies your citizenship, and any government would be compelled to send you back here if the demand was made for your extradition."

"I know all that."

"I suppose that when conscience drives we must go on. But the princess has been found. The best thing you can do is to put your passports into immediate use and return to the States. You can do no good here."

"Maybe." Grumbach refilled his pipe, lighted it and without saying more went out and down into the

BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE

MONDAY, NOV. 21.

THE BLIND PIANIST

Edward Baxter Perry,

will give a recital and lecture on Musical Themes, at the Bradley Opera House, Monday November, 21st. Mr. Perry is the originator and principal exponent of the lecture-recital idea.

He is only American pianoist who ever played at the

and is the only pianoist, living or dead, of any country, who ever played twelve hundred concerts in ten consecutive years.

PRICE 50c.

PRICE, QUALITY, SATISFACTION.

is what you get with every delivery of fuel from us. In hard coal we have two grades, Chestnut and Stove sizes in each grade.

Plymouth Hard Coal

we have sold for a great many years. It is in a class by itself in regard to quality, to such an extent we have to pay a premium of 25c per ton to get it, but do not charge you any more than the common hard coals.

Scully Hard Coal

is different than any other hard coal. It burns up clean, has no clinkers. Burns to a fine white ash like wood. Is burnes a little more freely, requires less draft, is a little lighter in weight, so you get more bulk for a ton and is cheaper than other coals.

Some do not like this coal. Others like it far better than any other and will have nothing else, even, if it cost more per ton instead of less.

Try some of this coal and see how you like it.

EDWARD BAXTER PERRY

BLIND PIANIST, AT OPERA HOUSE MONDAY NIGHT.

Edward Baxter Perry the blind pianist will be at the Bradley Opera House on the evening of Nov. 21.

Mr. Perry is an artist in every feeling and instinct. He stands before the people not as a blind artist but an artist.

His musical education was carried on in Boston under the instruction of Junius W. Hill. In his European life and study he did not confine himself alone to music but also studied language and arsthatics or the science of beauty in nature and art.

The list of masters under whom he studied were Thomas Kullak, Pruckner Liszt, and Clara Schumaun His memorizing is done by means of a reader who talk of the melodies, chords, rests and in their regular order, and one reading is enough to fix it indelibly upon his memory.

On his return to this country, Mr. Perry entered into a work that was entirely unipue outlining the plan of a lecture recital. For this he deserves the hearty thanks of all musical people. He not only originated this idea but has been the principal exponent of it.

It can be truthfully said that he is one of the most interesting speakers on the lecture platform. Mr. Perry has covered a wide range of music, he is a poet by nature and an artist by profession. What wonder, then, that he has hardly a rival ig his chosen work!

The boundries to Mr. Perrys Concert tour is fixed only by the Atlantic to the Rockies, the lakes to the gulf, nor is his record of Artistic triumphs confined to the United States, his reception in Europe being as flattering as in America

ADRIAN BASE BALL

At present it looks rather dubious of there being a team for Adrian another year. The committees who have been canvassing for money have not met with good success. However they hope that something may come up to insure league base ball for Adrian, if not it will be a thing of the past, as it has been of late years in Tecumseh.

The Origin of the "Marseillaise."

In the reign of terror under Freron and Barras, when hundreds of victims were carved by the guillotine and the people rose against the aristocracy, was born the hymn of France, composed by Rouget de l'Isle. He was an officer of engineers and at a banquet was asked to compose a war song. He wrote it in his room that night before going to bed, and the next morning his hostess, the wife of the mayor of Strassburg, tried it on a piano, and in the afternoon the orchestra of the theater played it in the square of Strassburg, where it created much excitement and gathered many volunteers. Rouget called it a song for the Army of the Rhine, but subsequently it was sung by a regiment of volunteers, mostly assassins, who marched out of Marseilles to Paris, where it was appropriated by the capital and called the "Hymne des Marseillais." But Joseph Rouget, the author, died in poverty.—Deshler Welch in Harper's Magazine.

Westminster Hall.

Westminster hall, England's old hall of the king's justice, is one of the world's notable historical shrines. Built four centuries before Columbus sailed for America, burned, restored, remodeled, it has seen more history in the making than perhaps any other building west of Rome. Here some of the early parliaments met, and here the second Edward was expelled from his throne. Here Richard II. was deposed, Charles I. condemned and Cromwell hailed as lord protector, whose head, if the legend is authentic, was afterward exposed from one of the hall's pinnacles. Westminster hall was the scene of the trial of Warren Hastings. In it sentence of death was pronounced on William Wallace, Sir Thomas More, Somerset, Essex, Strafford and Guy Fawkes.—New York World.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results. Is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 1,500 Caldwell building, Monticello Ill.

LAND GRABBERS ARE INDICTED

Ranchmen Drove Homesteaders Off at Points of Guns.

TAFT CAUSED INVESTIGATION

According to Charges, One Victim Was Incarcerated In Asylum at Hastings, Neb.—Two of Indicted Party Are Members of State Insanity Board.

Omaha (Special).—Indictments returned by the federal grand jury against nine ranchmen of western Nebraska have been made public here.

The indictments charge conspiracy to drive from their claims at the points of guns homesteaders who took sections of semi-arid land under the Kincaid homestead law. Several ranchers, Yeast and his associates among them, depended on this land for their hay. Those indicted are Perry S. Yeast of Hyannis, Neb.; his son, Frank W. Yeast; Leslie E. Ballinger, M. C. Hubbell, Emil Anderson, Willmot Z. Emerson, Harry Sutton, B. B. Hawthorne and Dr. Harry H. Huff.

Dr. Huff, a prominent physician, and Mr. Sutton, attorney for Garden county, are members of the insanity board.

According to the charges made in the indictment, Yeast and his associates carried their efforts so far as to secure the incarceration in the insane asylum at Hastings, Neb., of one of their alleged victims.

The indictment charges that a band of about thirty persons, headed by Yeast, went to the homes of many of the homesteaders and by intimidation and threats of taking their lives and those of their families, forced them to leave their claims.

According to an official of the interior department, the present indictment covers one of the most remarkable attempts at land grabbing which has recently been brought to the attention of the department.

A letter written by one of the victims to President Taft is said to have caused the investigation which resulted in the indictments being returned. A special grand jury was summoned to consider the evidence.

Hit Him Coming and Going.

An attorney went to a livery stable and hired a team for two or three hours and at the end of that time, in a state of absentmindedness, left the team at another livery stable, where it remained eight days. At stable No. 1 there was no worry about the team. They knew the attorney was perfectly good for the pay. They knew that if he kept the team a month the bill would be paid promptly on presentation. They presumed that he knew what he was about and concluded it was his business and not theirs. At stable No. 2 there was equal freedom from anxiety. The attorney came there, left the team and went away, saying nothing. They put the horse into a stall and "chalked it down" on the office slate, knowing him to be a business man who paid cash. Discovery came at last, and the lawyer was presented with two bills, one for eight days' hire and the other for eight days' keep. He paid both bills promptly, but it cured him of being absentminded for nearly a whole month.

The Coffee Cup In Persia.

The expression "to give a cup of coffee" has in Persia a somewhat ominous significance. This is due to the fact that the coffee cup is one recognized medium for conveying poison. Some years ago the governor of Aspadana, having long been at daggers drawn with the chief of a powerful mountain tribe, determined in this way to put an end to all trouble. He professed to entertain a great degree of friendship and esteem for the chieftain and invited him to visit him at his palace. The chief unsuspiciously came, accompanied by his two young sons. For a week they were royally entertained. But at last one morning when the chief came into his host's presence he was coldly received, and an attendant soon stepped forward with a single cup of coffee in his hand, which he offered to the guest. The latter could not fail to understand that he was doomed. Preferring, however, steel to poison, he declined the cup and was thereupon, at a signal from his host, stabbed to death.

How To Stop —A— Stubborn Cough

We don't mean just stop the irritation in your throat—but cure the underlying cause.

Cough syrups cannot do this. It takes a constitutional tonic body builder to do the work properly—and cure you to stay cured. Vinol is the remedy you need.

HERE IS PROOF

Mrs. Minnie Osgood, of Glens Falls, N. Y., writes: "After trying several remedies for a bad cough and cold without benefit, I was asked to try Vinol. It worked like magic. It cured my cold and cough and I gained in health and strength. I consider Vinol the most wonderful tonic and invigorator I ever saw."

If we cannot stop that cough with VINOL—our delicious cod liver and iron tonic—which is made without oil—we will not charge you a cent for the medicine you buy. This seems like a pretty fair proposition—and ought to be accepted. Don't you think so? With this understanding we ask you to try a bottle of VINOL.

Governor General Forbes ordered an investigation of their methods. Mr. Clarke protested, denied the authority of the governor general and instructed his deputies to give the investigator sent by Governor General Forbes no information.

It is understood that Mr. Clarke alleges there has been improper expenditure of money in Baguio. It is expected that Secretary Dickinson will order a complete investigation of the charges.

REPORT CRIPPEN'S WIFE FOUND ALIVE

Woman's Conduct in Alix, Alberta, Causes Belief.

FAINTS OVER HANGING NEWS

General Appearance of the Strange Woman Tallies with the Printed Descriptions of Belle Elmore Crippen.

Alix, Alberta, Nov. 14.—Great excitement has been caused here by the apparently well-founded report that a woman who arrived in town is Belle Elmore Crippen, for whose supposed murder Dr. Hawley H. Crippen is under sentence to be hanged Nov. 23 in London, England.

After the woman alighted from the train she went directly to a livery barn and ordered a team. She left a deposit with the livery man for the return of the team, saying she would send it back by a friend next day.

The horses were returned by a well known farmer.

While the woman was waiting at the barn the Crippen case was being discussed by a group of men standing near her and one of them remarked:

"I guess one of them will make old Doc Crippen squawk over in London."

Hearing the statement the woman fainted, but soon recovered.

Later the woman came into town and while in one of the stores eagerly scanning a number of newspapers she again fainted on reading something concerning the Crippen sentence.

These occurrences, together with several of a similar nature, led to speculations when it was noticed that her general appearance tallied with the descriptions printed of Belle Elmore. The police have the woman under surveillance and she may be arrested.

TRAIN HITS CAR, NINE KILLED

Michigan Central Express Crashes Into Street Car at Crossing.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 14. — Nine persons were killed when the Michigan Central express struck a Main street car. Eleven other persons were injured, some fatally. The names of the known dead are: Ward Abbott, James Breese, Hazel Hart, Miss Bertha Hensler, Harry Holtz, William Shaffer.

Three bodies have been removed from the pilot of the freight engine so badly mutilated that recognition is impossible. Conductor Vern Van Horn had gone on the track to signal his motorman. Standing near the crossing was a string of box cars. Seeing no train he motioned his car ahead. Then the train rounded the curve at high speed, trying to make up five hours lost time.

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND

Remains of Marie Smith, 10, Discovered in Woods.

Little Miss Had Been Murdered and Maltreated After Death—Negro, Missing, Suspected of Crime.

Asbury Park, N. J., Nov. 14.—The body of Marie Smith, the 10-year-old school girl, who disappeared on Wednesday last, after leaving the Bradley school house in Asbury Park which she attended, was found by W. S. Benson in the woods of Wanamassa, about 250 feet from the main road. The body was lying in a pool of blood. There was a deep gash on the top of her head, evidently inflicted by an axe. Coroner Percy was notified. He ordered an autopsy and empanneled a jury.

The autopsy revealed that the body had been mutilated after death. There was great excitement in Asbury Park and a crowd assembled at the undertaking establishment where the body was removed. Suspicion rests upon a colored man who disappeared two days ago, and for whom the police are searching. It is believed the little girl was enticed into the woods where the crime was committed.

SUSPECT FATHER OF CRIME

Frank Kunkle May Be Guilty of Giving Two Sons Poison.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 14.—District Attorney Simons of Wayne county, and Justice of the Peace Smith of White Mills, had physicians perform an autopsy upon the body of the two weak-minded brothers, Edward and Charles Kunkle, who are suspected of having been poisoned. The body of Edward, aged 42, and Charles, aged 49, were found, the first in the barn, and the second under a bed.

The brothers were farm hands, and lived with their 70-year-old father, Frank, who is a farm hand. When the bodies were found by a domestic, the father manifested so much indifference that suspicion was aroused. It is known that the men gave much trouble to their father and that recently he was heard to remark that he wished he was able to place his boys in some institution. After the autopsy, portions of the stomachs were sent to Scranton for chemical analysis.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 14.—United States Senator Alexander Stephen Clay died at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Atlanta sanitarium, to which he was taken ten days ago for special treatment. Senator Clay had been desperately ill for a long time, but death was not expected so suddenly. He had sinking spells during the night, but rallied and seemed better. He was chatting with Mrs. Clay and his son when he gasped and in a moment was dead.

Dilation of the heart is given as the cause of death. But it is understood Senator Clay was afflicted with cancer of the stomach. He will be buried at Marietta. Senator Clay was in his 57th year and had been in the United States senate since 1896 having been chosen to succeed Gen. John B. Gordon.

7 KILLED AND 26 INJURED IN WRECK

Express Train Crashes Into a Trolley Car at Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 15.—Five men and two women dead and twenty-six persons injured, four fatally, all passengers on a street car of the M. U. R. city system and residents of this city, is the toll of the wreck which occurred Saturday night on Main street, when a fast Michigan Central express train, west bound, crashed into the trolley car. Not one passenger in the car escaped injury.

The train was running at a high rate of speed within the city limits, various estimates placing its speed from twenty to sixty miles an hour. The conductor of the car, who had walked ahead of the trolley, was unable to see the train approaching, as his view was obstructed by a freight train in the yards, and also by the transmitter's tower. No whistle was given, it is declared, and when the big locomotive struck the frail wooden car it smashed it to splinters. When the train stopped, four mangled bodies, including that of the motorman, Howard Abbott, were on the fender of the locomotive.

The M. U. R. officials, having flashlight picture of the wreck scene, are prepared to lay the blame on the railroad, claiming that the express was running much faster than permitted within the city limits and that there was no whistle warning of its approach.

State May Have to Borrow.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 16.—By exercising the strictest economy and holding up a majority of the bills, it is possible that the state will not have to borrow any money this year, as there is about $70,000 in the strong box of the state treasury at the present time that is available for general use, but if any pressing claims are submitted it is doubtful whether there will be enough cash to last until the taxes begin to arrive.

ELY FLIES FROM WARSHIP TO LAND

Norfolk, Va. (Special).—Eugene Ely, flying in the Curtiss biplane "Hudson Flyer," Monday made the first successful aeroplane flight on record from the deck of a vessel.

The distance which Ely flew was nearly five miles. The Birmingham, United States scout ship, from which he made his start, was lying in the roads, about that far from Willoughby Spit, on which Ely made his landing.

It is understood that Mr. Ely, by his wonderful flight, won a $5,000 prize offered by John Barry Ryan for the first flight of a mile or more from any ship to land.

HIGH COST OF LIVING TOTTERING

Cudahy Says Bumper Corn Crop Is Cause of Price Reductions.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

Flour by Barrel Is 85 Cents Lower Than Last Week—Prices of Meats of All Kinds on Decline—Sugar Is One of the Staples That Show a Decrease.

Omaha, Neb. (Special).—"The tide has at last turned, and meat prices are on the down grade," says Edward Cudahy of the big packing firm of Cudahy Packing Co.

"Primarily, the decrease in prices is due to the great corn crop produced all over the United States and in fact in other countries also. Prices of meat had reached such a high point that many had ceased eating meat. That permitted the supply to gradually catch up, and then came the announcement of the tremendous corn crop, in the face of an extended shortage. Provisions had reached a price commensurate with a short crop, and when the big crop materialized, those prices were bound to fall."

Chicago (Special).—J. Ogden Armour, head of Armour & Co., said that the whole tendency in the prices of livestock was lower. He also declared that the descent would be gradual and warned the public from accepting too hastily the belief that a decline from the highest to the lowest prices was due.

"The recent high price of meats and packing house products cannot be attributed in any way to the packers, or to any combination of persons or firms engaged in the packing industry. It has been due to conditions that developed from a scarcity and a high price for corn, which is the basis of the supply of livestock."

The following shows some of the reductions here in the last week:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Sugar	5c	5½@6c
Flour, bbl.	$6.05	$6.90
Pork	16 to 22c	20 to 22c
Lamb	13c	18c
Chickens	12½c	15c
Beef	10@18c	12@21c

The declines since the first of October are from 50 to 70 cents on cattle in the bulk.

COMPLETE CANAL IN 1913.

Official Opening of Panama Ditch Will Not Occur Until 1915, However.

Panama (Special).—President Taft Taft landed at Colon Monday from the armored cruiser Tennessee, after a splendid voyage.

Panama (Special).—Colonel Goethels has recommended to President Taft that the canal be fortified by the military government of the canal zone, the army and navy to be represented on the fortification board, and each branch of the service to have control of the matters appertaining to it.

The canal will be completed Dec. 1, 1913. This information was given to President Taft while he was inspecting the famous Gatun dam, on which he spent several hours. The official date of the opening remains Jan. 1, 1915. Colonel Goethals desires one year in which to train the canal tenders and to get the machinery working smoothly. Ships meantime will be granted the privilege of the canal, but at their own risk of delay incident to inexperienced operation.

John La Farge.

Providence, R. I. (Special).—John La Farge, the celebrated American painter, died at his home here. La Farge was born in 1835, the son of a French army officer. A master of portraiture and landscape painting, it was as a worker in stained glass that he achieved his greatest fame.

TOLSTOI DESERTS WIFE AND FAMILY

Russian Philosopher Disappears and Is Later Found Fever-Stricken in Astapova.

Tula, Russia (Special).—Broken down by the hardships of a winter journey, mental strain and a rupture with his family, Count Leo Tolstoi today lies with a high fever in the little railroad station at Astapova.

Tolstoi is attended by Dr. Makovetski, who was his sole companion when he deserted his family a few days ago.

St. Petersburg (Special).—For two weeks Count Leo Tolstoi, one of the world's greatest authors and philosophers, has been missing from his home at Yasnaya Polisna.

The aged count, in company with Dr. Makovetsky, were staying at Shamardino for a time, but they unexpectedly left there, announcing they were going to Moscow. However, they left the train upon which they started at a junction and boarded another train for the south. It is conjectured that the count intends to join the colony of Tolstoians in Caucasia.

Countess Tolstoi, after hearing the suspense caused by her husband's disappearance for nearly two weeks, became frantic, leaped into a pond on her husband's estate and sought death by drowning.

Countess Sophia Tolstoi, after the first shock caused by her husband's sudden abandonment of his home and family, displayed astonishing energy yesterday morning, and insisted upon being taken to the count. Accompanied by her sons and Count Vladimir Tchertkoff, who formerly was Tolstoi's representative in England, she proceeded to Astapova by special train.

Count Tolstoi's queer actions furnishes a world tragedy and comes as a unique climax to a unique career.

"I have lived my life and now renounce the world for some quiet spot where I can await the end," were the words of a letter which the countess found on her table on the day her husband vanished.

The mysterious disappearance of Count Tolstoi has made a painful impression throughout Russia. That he should desire to spend the evening of his days in solitude surprises no one acquainted with his career, but that he should deliberately desert the wife who had borne him nine children is difficult of belief even in the light of his well known eccentricities of character.

SMALLPOX SCARE IS SPREADING

Many Towns Are Posting Notices of Quarantine Against City of Saginaw.

Two Deaths of Saginaw Patients Reported Sunday—State Officials, It Is Said, Will Take Energetic Steps to Halt Dread Disease—Mill Hand Brings Plague to Carsonville.

Bay City, Mich., Nov. 15.—Michigan is aroused over the spread of the deadly smallpox plague, and energetic steps, so dispatches say, are to be taken by the state to halt the progress of the disease. The cry of "quarantine" is heard everywhere, and almost daily the smaller towns around Saginaw, and now nearly all of those along the Michigan Central north, have declared against the stricken city. Heroic measures are being taken there; her police and health departments are working day and night, and now the most rigid steps are to be taken. Dr. Shumway, secretary of the state health board, was there, called by the authorities and business men for the purpose of relieving, if possible, the embargo on Saginaw business. Dr. Shumway left with the serious declaration that the situation was bad enough, although he tempered it with the usual statement that he believed the authorities had the epidemic under control. Along the Michigan Central north, some of the towns have posters out warning persons of the quarantine—legal or otherwise—against Saginaw. Should the state attempt to force communities to give up quarantine, it is probably the matter would go to the courts, as the communities will claim the right of self protection.

MILL HAND CARRIES DISEASE TO CARSONVILLE; TWO ILL

Carsonville, Mich., Nov. 15.—Two cases of smallpox broke out in this community Sunday. Edward and George Sampson, two youths, the sons of Edward Sampson, Sr., have been placed in quarantine with the disease, and the cases are reported serious.

The disease was brought here by George Sampson, who was working in a Saginaw lumber mill and returned to his home about a week ago.

TWENTY-FIVE CASES IN HURON COUNTY

Bad Axe, Mich., Nov. 15.—There are at least twenty-five smallpox cases in Huron county. Seven cases are reported in Lincoln township, three in Dwight and ten in Redman township. It is said that absolutely no quarantine has been established in the townships to prevent the spread of the disease, and that in many cases the farmers are caring for the ill in their families without medical assistance. It is thought an investigation will be made at once of the reported epidemic.

63 COUNTIES GET MORE SCHOOL MONEY THAN THEIR STATE TAX

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 16.—Sixty-three counties in this state receive back more primary school money this year than they paid in taxes, while twenty counties pay more to the state, according to figures made by Auditor General Fuller. These latter counties pay a total of $433,566.55 into the state treasury in excess of their apportionment of primary school funds, while the sixty-three receive $1,296,010.48 more than they pay, leaving a net balance of $862,443.93, which is sent out through the state for the schools, more than is sent here for state expenses. It is noticeable that the older counties of the state are the ones which have the wrong balance. The list is as follows: Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Clinton, Eaton, Jackson, Keewanaw, Kent, Hillsdale, Houghton, Ingham, Ionia, Lenawee, Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw, Wayne.

"SUNRISE;"

A NARRATIVE.

As is customary in such cases Ivan Pyotrovich Vishnevski was attached to the Russian embassy in Paris. Here he became the hero of the hour; his fame had preceded him. "Sunrise" had been translated into every European language and the French translation met with immense popularity both among the critics and public of Paris. Soon after he joined the embassy he made the acquaintance, at a reception held in the Elysee Palace, of two American girls; Florence Foster, the daughter of an American railroad magnate of St. Louis, and Helen Goode, a niece of the American Minister to France. Florence and Helen had been inseparable in Miss Porter's school in Farmington, Conn., roommates and classmates afterwards at Vassar college, and intimate friends subsequently during their six months' sojourn in Paris. How glad Florence was to meet Ivan Vishnevski can be inferred from the fact that "Sunrise" appealed to her as the most delicious thing she had ever read, seemed saturated with the perfumes of the violet, the honeysuckle and the sweet-smelling jasmine. As soon as the formalities of an introduction were over, "Tell us," she asked him in a tone that was between an appeal and a command, "Tell us how you happened to conceive of 'Sunrise.' It came as a surprise to him. Where had he heard that ringing, silvery voice before? He looked up to her. Her keen blue eyes showed will and determination as well as kindliness in them. His gaze wandered from her clear and fair complexion to her tall and graceful figure; surely he had seen her before somewhere!

"I did not conceive it," he replied; "it conceived itself somehow." He told the two girls away from the crowd, and unfolded to them the history of his maiden literary effort.

Ivan had taken the examinations at the institute, and had passed with the highest averages of his class. He had, therefore, been recommended to be sent to Paris to continue his studies. About the time when the minister of public instruction had acted favorably on this recommendation, the first part of his romance had appeared in Mir. Mir was an uncensored monthly magazine, and boasted of the largest circulation in Russia. The furor "Sunrise" had created had been instantaneous and overwhelming.

Ivan's eyes rested on Florence's loveliness as he rehearsed these scenes. Such perfection of beauty was more easily imagined than found in the flesh he thought. The girl his American girl made was one of the wonders of the day. She had been courted in America by the patrician youth for her beauty and her millions, and in Europe, for her millions and her beauty, by descendants of princely and ducal houses. Ivan heard all this, and heard further that, of her numerous suitors and admirers in this fashionable capital, Duke de Longchamps out-distanced all the others. A scion of one of the oldest and most illustrious families in Europe, his name was mentioned in the European chancelleries as a possible successor to Alexander of Battenberg, Prince of Bulgaria. It was rumored among knowing ones that he had asked Miss Foster's hand and was now awaiting a definite answer.

At a mask ball given that season at the Russian embassy, two masks were seen ensconced in a dimly lighted recess.

"Is there any truth in the rumor of your engagement?" asked one mask of the other.

"Is there such a rumor? Besides, what matters it to anyone?"

"Because," proceeded the first mask unheeding, "if it is true, I know someone who will wish you all happiness, and if it is not true"—here he stopped.

"And if it is not true?"

"But is it?"

Florence—the reader has doubtless guessed who the two masks were; you see, Helen had very indiscreetly disclosed to Ivan the secret of how her friend would be masked—made a movement to leave, but he detained her.

"Shall I tell you?"

"As you choose."

"On one condition; I am not to be exiled in consequence of what I may tell you."

"You must run the risk," was the rejoinder.

Ivan hesitated a moment, but fear of being soon interrupted spurred him on. He lifted the cloud under which he lay concealed heretofore, and stood revealed in all the glory of his love for her. "And now?" he queried, when he had poured forth his long pent-up love.

"And now," she answered, "who are you?"

But as she was just then claimed by another mask and was not again seen that evening in the ball room, he had no opportunity to inform her.

When Ivan presented himself next afternoon he was received as if nothing had happened. But he was thrilled through and through on seeing a copy of "Sunrise" in her hands.

"Did you draw this beautiful character, Princess Olga, from life, or is she a product of your imagination?" she asked him as soon as they were seated.

He wished very much to say to her: "'St. Olga' was heretofore a dream to me, but since I have met you she has become a reality."

Ivan was about to change the subject of conversation in order to tell her who the mask was on the preceding evening, when Eugene de Longchamps walked in. They left together. As soon as they were outside de Longchamps turned to his companion with an amiable smile:

"M. Vishnevski, I fear you are not looking well; I believe that your absence from the gayeties of Paris for a month or so just now will do you good."

Ivan drew himself up and replied with some hauteur: "In my country advice is offered only when asked."

Eugene bit his lips. "Monsieur, I am not accustomed to such answers. You will receive a message from me this evening," he said curtly.

"Tre bien."

And they parted.

That evening a meeting was arranged between Eugene and Ivan, and was fought early the following morning on private grounds with pistols at 30 paces. Ivan was removed from the field with a dangerous wound in the thigh; an artery had to be tied. Thanks to the skill of the attending surgeon, general infection was successfully combated. It was a month before he was allowed to leave his bed.

His first act to celebrate his recovery was a visit to Florence. Pain and sympathy flitted over her for a moment when she beheld his wan and pale face. Notwithstanding the secrecy the news of the duel filtered through the Paris press. Florence had not a doubt as to the meaning of it; she was horrified.

"We shall leave Paris within a week," she said as if nothing had happened. Ivan could not help showing consternation in his face at this unexpected announcement.

"Have you seen de Longchamps recently?" he asked in as calm and matter-of-fact voice as he could command, but with his eyes riveted on her.

She glanced at him for a moment. The fact is that, the afternoon of the duel, Eugene, after assuring himself of Ivan's safety, had called to see her; after a brief visit he had returned to his hotel and had left that night for Nice. Her breast heaved like a mighty wave, and a bright color played on her cheeks, as she replied with downcast eyes:

"No, he has not been here for a month."

And Ivan understood.

That evening, in a box at the Opera Comique, Ivan told Florence again how he had written "Sunrise."—By B. Israel, B. A., M. D.

D. T. & I.

Recevership to end about Dec., 1.

The reorganization of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton rail road, seems to be in the near future just what will be done with the property cannot be stated at present, but it is thought it will be in the hands of Eugene Zimmerman for awhile, he is president of the company and with Hoplins of New York is said to control a majority of the business. The road has an excellent business for the last year and is in a better condition than it has been.

HO! FOR FLORIDA!

It was a merry crowd that started out for Florida Tuesday, about 30 men and women making up the company. They had chartered a private car and were in for a journey lasting three days and two nights. They were from the near-by towns of Tipton, Ridgeway, Britton and Holloway.

Among them were Alfred H. Lewis of Ridgeway, Messrs. and Mesnames James Lane, Will Cox, James McIntyre and Horace Holdridge of Holloway, Mis Mary Whelan, Mr. and Mrs. Jewett Whelan, Misses Mary Fisher and Helen Beebe of Tipton. They will make Eustis, Fla., their stopping place, and will make trips through the surrounding country as they feel inclined. We feel sure that they have an enjoyable winter before them and wish we might be there.

PRIMARY MONEY

63 counties in the state this year received back more primary school money that they paid out in taxes while 20 counties pay more to the state.

It is noticeable that the older counties of the state are the ones that have the balance in the wrong scale.

The excess for the 63 counties is over a million dollars while 20 are out nearly half a million.

MICHIGAN MAN WINS FRITZ MEDAL

The Fritz medal that has already been successively given to five different people "for notable, scientific and industrial achievements," has finally come to Alfred Noble, C. E. an alumnus of Michigan.

This was instituted in 1902 by the friends os John Fritz the iron master of Pnnsylvania by a board of 16 practical engineers and is looked upon as a high honor.

CARD PARTY

Mrs. G. J. Ziehr entertained at cards Tuesday evening. Progressive pedro was the game played. Prizes were secured by Mrs. Thomas McCann and Mrs. F. E. Rude. Refreshments were served and a social chat was a pleasing finish to the evenings entertainment.

Plymouth Hard Coal

we have sold for a great many years. It is in a class by itself in regard to quality, to such an extent we have to pay a premium of 25c per ton to get it, but do not charge you any more than the common hard coals.

Scully Hard Coal

is different than any other hard coal. It burns up clean, has no clinkers. Burns to a fine white ash like wood. Is burnes a little more freely, requires less draft, is a little lighter in weight, so you get more bulk for a ton and is cheaper than other coals.

Some do not like this coal. Others like it far better than any other and will have nothing else, even, if it cost more per ton instead of less.

Try some of this coal and see how you like it.

RICH ENOUGH FOR A FUNNY PAPER

What Happens When Just One Line Is Left Out of Copy

Sorry The Post Office Boys Had So Much Work

A little line much mischief made,
Which to the "devil" must be laid,
But friends, if so your mind inclines
You sure can read between the lines,

When to the Post Office you hie,
Their simple merchandise to buy,
The stamps with faces are laid down
To save the people of the town.
For scientists have all decreed
That microbes in the office breed,
And if you stick them with a lick,
The chances are you may be sick.

Most people who go to the postoffice for stamps (probably do not notice that when the stamps are handed to them) they are usually laid on the counter "bottom up." The reason for this is that the department has made a ruling that the side with the mucilage is not to be laid on the counters or window ledges, which are liable to be covered with microbes, and the people will take them into their system on licking stamps.

JENNY LAW-HARDY

LECTURE FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE CIVIC AND TOWN IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY

Large and Appreciative Audience and $35 for the Society

Mrs. J. F. Hicks in a very pleasing manner explained the object of the Society and said how kind it was of Mrs. Hardy to give this lecture for the benefit of the treasury, she then introduced the speaker of the evening. Mrs. Hardy has not only a pleasing manner but a strong personality that impressed her audience with her enthusiasm with her subject "Australasia." She spoke very distinctly and every word could be heard in every part of the house.

The audience was composed, not only of ladies, but of the best representative men of the town, who were deeply interested in her subject. She was ably assisted by J. H. Smith who manipulated the sterioptican. The slides used were unusually good.

She began her subject by showing a map of Australasia, comparing it with the United States showing how much larger it was.

In quick successive slides were shown the country; the mountains and streams, the formation of the rocks in colors, the mountains that had never known the foot of the white man.

Following this were slides showing the flora of the country; the trees of which there are 150 varieties of eucalyptus, palms and ferns, the ferns especially fine with their fairy like fronds; the flowers of the country that grow in such rich profusion the year round; the Japanese chrysanthemums were exquisite in both color and form.

The slides next showed us the animals of the country, the Kangaroo carrying its young in its pouch, many other animals of this country having like habits. The bush turkey was considered the most delicate bird to eat that they have. Mrs. Hardy gave us a fine idea of the sheep ranches, showing one picture supposed to have 10,000 sheep in the flock.

The Aboriginals of the country she defined as "intelligence" none,—habits, "beastly."—Turning from this to the civilization of the country, she showed the cities of Milburn and Sidney, Millburn she pronounced the Paris of Australasia.

Mrs. Hardy stated that there was not another country that paid so much attention to music, and if one showed any talent in that direction a purse was immediatly made up and they were sent abroad to study.

In conclusion she spoke of the rights that had been accorded to woman. Not another country where woman is so protected in all the relations of life — property, marriage and citizenship. And when the last slide with the flag of the country was presented, every one was sorry that the evening was ended.

Mr. Perry possesses an admirable technique and a delightful pianissimo and displayed delicate and thoughtful interpretations, exquisite polish and perfected legato playing.—Stuttgart Merkur.

CROUP

stopped in 20 minutes sure with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One test will surely prove. No vomiting, no disturbance of the digestion. Druggists.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 8,599 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

TEXANS WAGE WAR ON MEXICANS ON BORDER

Austin, Texas (Special).—Another Mexican, Damian Rios, who kept a restaurant at Giddings, thirty miles east of here, was assassinated as he was on his way home.

Much excitement exists among the Mexicans of the Manor community, fifteen miles east of here, over the assassination of a Mexican farmer by two negro boys.

For many days a movement against Americans has been going on in Mexico, and the killing of Americans and the storming of Ambassador Wilson's embassy in Mexico City by rioters is the subject of a demand by the United States on President Diaz for explanation and redress. The matter is diplomatically serious; and on top of it all the citizens of Texas, inflamed by the riots and violence against Americans in Mexico, have been wreaking vengeance on Mexicans on all sides. Last Friday, Antonio Rodriguez was burned at the stake by a mob of Rock Springs citizens.

U. P. Woods Full of Hunters.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 15.—Never before in Michigan's history has there been such an army of deer hunters in the wilds of the upper peninsula. So numerous are they that old-time hunters who have followed the chase during every open season for years are returning home because of the unsafe conditions that prevail. A local hunter coming home after one day in the woods said that he had been shot at twice and had been so busy dodging bullets that he had no time to hunt.

The big clock of the Metropolitan tower at Madison square, New York, is by long odds the costliest and most elaborate public timepiece ever constructed and is the only great clock in the world operated wholly by electricity without the touch of human hands. Some of its other wonders are its size, being the largest four dial tower clock and the third largest clock of any size in the world, and its altitude, which is the highest of any clock in the world. It has also the biggest and heaviest striking bell.

The other three largest clocks are the one face dial of the Colgate factory in Jersey City, which is forty feet across, the next in size of mammoth public chronometers being the dial at St. Bombort's, in the old city of Malines, in Belgium, which is thirty-nine feet across. St. Peter's of Zurich, Switzerland, has a dial face twenty-nine feet, and then in order comes the Metropolitan tower clock, which is twenty-six feet six inches in diameter.

How To Stop —A— Stubborn Cough

We don't mean just stop the irritation in your throat—but cure the underlying cause.

Cough syrups cannot do this. It takes a constitutional tonic body builder to do the work properly—and cure you to stay cured. Vinol is the remedy you need.

Mrs. Minnie Osgood, of Glens Falls, N. Y., writes:—"After trying several remedies for a bad cough and cold without benefit, I was asked to try Vinol. It worked like magic. It cured my cold and cough and I gained in health and strength. I consider Vinol the most wonderful tonic and invigorator I ever saw."

If we cannot stop that cough with VINOL—our delicious cod liver and iron tonic—which is made without oil—we will not charge you a cent for the medicine you buy. This seems like a pretty fair proposition—and ought to be accepted. Don't you think so? With this understanding we ask you to try a bottle of VINOL.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

MICHIGAN.

Grand Rapids—Fred C. Wetmore of Cadillac, former state senator, and manager of Senator Burrows' campaign for re-election in the primaries, has received word of his appointment as United States district attorney for the western Michigan district to succeed George C. Covell, who held the office for many years. Edward J. Bowman, city attorney of Greenville, probably will be his assistant.

Vicksburg—When an extra freight train on the Grand Rapids & Indiana road was pulling into the south yards here Sunday, the boiler of the big Pennsylvania engine exploded, injuring three men, one seriously. Brakeman Thomas Driscoll was knocked off a car. He was standing up on a car a short distance back from the engine, and was probably fatally injured.

Port Huron—James Perkins, a farmer residing north of Berville, was injured while threshing and died Saturday. Perkins opened the door of the blower of the threshing machine, and at that moment a cold chisel, which in some way had got into the machinery, was hurled out with great force. It struck Perkins on the forehead.

Ithaca—Yeggmen entered the front window of the postoffice at Middleton, twelve miles from here, Sunday morning, and blew the safe to atoms with a charge of nitro-glycerine. They secured $300 in stamps and $5 in small change. Detectives are on the track of the bandits, but no trace has been found of them.

Traverse City—Willie Howard Newmarch of Kingsley, aged one year, who was accidentally shot by his grandfather while examining a loaded rifle, is dead. The bullet from the rifle struck a stove, glanced and entered the baby's stomach. A piece of the stove struck the child in the eye.

Port Huron—Twenty-eight citizens are willing to be commissioners of the city under the new form of government and have already filed their petitions with the city clerk. From present indications there will be at least 40 petitions in by the time the limit for filing them expires.

Saginaw—Saginaw county farmers have been enriched by over $200,000. The Michigan Sugar company made its first payment for the beets delivered during seventeen days of October at the Carrollton factory. As high as 1,000 tons of beets are sliced during a day.

Bessemer—The body of John Rickerson, drowned at the mouth of the Black river on Lake Superior, thirteen miles north of this city, has been recovered. It had floated out in the lake under the ice and was frozen stiff.

Jackson—John J. Houpt was killed in a motor car accident here. He was driving toward Michigan Center, and, seeing someone approaching, he attempted to turn out. The machine slewed and turned turtle in a ditch. When extricated, Houpt was dead.

Jackson—Raymond Hall, eighteen years old, whose home is believed to have been in Windsor, Ont., accidentally shot and killed himself Sunday while on a hunting trip with George Kerfoot of this city and two other companions.

Saginaw—August Lang, aged forty-two years, disappeared from home. His body was found hanging from a tree by neighbors. Two months ago he injured his hand and had been unable to work, and he was driven to suicide by melancholy.

Deerfield—James Parker, fifteen-year-old son of Arthur Parker of Blissfield, who was accidentally shot while hunting near this village, is dead. His gun was discharged as he was climbing a fence, the charge taking effect in his side.

Morley—John Gunner Nelson, aged sixty-eight, is dead as a result of internal injuries received a few days ago when he fell into an open cellar way at his home near this village. He had remarked that some time he expected to fall through the door.

Detroit—A recount of the entire city will be taken here. Proctor K. Owens, Republican candidate for mayor in the recent election, who was defeated by W. B. Thompson, charges fraud in every ward in the city.

"COME OUT, ALL."

When Mother Announces Thanksgiving Dinner Is Ready.

In the parlor all except mother, who is bustling at the fount of those Araby odors, are gathered in a studiously indifferent circle. Of course to such the eating part is nothing. They can wait, enjoying conversation. The reminiscences of the evening before around the lamp and hearth are resumed, fascinating then, but now—huh!

"Do you remember, Lou?" asks father. Uncle Lou does. Ha, ha! Ho, ho! Nevertheless—

Will dinner never be ready?

Aunt and uncle and grandparent draw you to them to fondle and banter and query. But how may one know how old one is, or where was Moses when the light went out, or why a hen crosses the road, when one has resolved into stomach and nose and all one's thoughts are in that adjoining room?

Will dinner never be ready?

Grandmother is telling you in her gentle voice of when she was a little girl and not so old as you and they had Thanksgiving. Interesting should such a recital be. But—

Oh, dear! Won't dinner ever be ready?

"Where are you going, Johnny?" demands father sternly.

You want a drink of water—just a drink of water—in the other room.

"No; you stay right in here with us. You'll bother mother."

W-well. But—

Won't dinner ever— Ah! Mother stands upon the threshold. Flushed, warm and triumphant, she bids, "Come out, all."

Since then you have heard by the Dutch ovens of the roundup fire the cook's long yelp of "Chuck!" or on shipboard you have sprung to the galley boy's beckoning wake. You have dropped most willingly into place at the logging camp long table or, tired and spent by a day of strenuous business, in the club's cafe you have sighed with relief as the silent waiter bore in the soup and bread sticks. But mother's smiling "Come out, all," can never be o'ershadowed.—Edwin L. Sabin in Lippincott's.

A Glorious Day.

'Twus a glorious Thanksgivin',
Fer we thanked the Lord fer livin'
In a world that's full o' sunshine soft an' bright,
Fer the sweet birds that are singin',
Fer the joy bells that are ringin'
An' the rest that brings the gentle dreams at night.

A glorious Thanksgivin',
An' a joy to jest be livin'
Under skies with not a cloud in all their blue,
Whar you see the bright lights shinin'
Far—far from all repinin'
An' the angels kiss their finger tips to you!
—Frank L. Stanton.

Thanksgiving Quotations.

To receive honestly is the best thanks for a good thing.—George Macdonald.

There is no better excess in the world than the excess of gratitude.—La Bruyere.

I would have my thanksgiving to be gratitude for all that belongs to my life—for joy and sorrow, for health and sickness, for success and disappointment, for virtue and for temptation, for life and death, because I believe that all is meant for good.—Orville Dewey.

Thanksgiving.

I offer thanks!
No flaming sword my Eden's gate has barred,
No blot of blame has my escutcheon marred.
The good stars of my horoscope have reigned.
No hope deferred my heart's content has pained.
My fireside ring remains a perfect round.
Therefore from my glad lips let this resound,
"I offer thanks!"

I offer thanks!
Welvemonth of plenty and of peace I've known.
No wind of fate contrariwise has blown.
Through tranquil zones of calms my barks have steered.
No sea drowned wrecks have in my ports appeared.
No false mirages have perplexed my ken,
No vexing phantoms crying "Might have been!"
I offer thanks! —Susie M. Best.

Baby's Thanksgiving Dream

Parson Wrote Proclamation.

In days of old only New England governors issued Thanksgiving proclamations. Here is a little story as to how Missouri joined in. An old time Methodist parson writes it:

"In the summer of 1859 I was the guest of an old friend, a good Methodist down in Benton county, and during the afternoon he asked me how it happened that the governor of Missouri never issued a Thanksgiving proclamation.

"I told him that I had never considered the matter, but would suggest it to Governor Stewart as soon as I returned to Jefferson City.

"My friend said that if the proclamation was issued I must be his guest on Thanksgiving day and that a yellow gobbler should at once be put in fattening against the feast.

"In the course of time I got back to the capital and called upon the governor to suggest the advisability of issuing the proclamation.

"'Well, parson,' said the governor, 'that's in the religious line. Suppose you write it.'

"I at once proceeded to write it out."

Some Thanksgiving History.

The manner in which Thanksgiving day was first instituted as a national festival has especial interest. During the war for Independence eight public and general thanksgivings were ordered by the Continental congress, but after the general thanksgiving for peace in 1784 the proclamations were discontinued until 1789, when the first national thanksgiving was proclaimed by President Washington, the time designated being the last Thursday in November.

The special purpose, as recommended to congress, was to give thanks for the adoption of the constitution. In 1795 the suppression of the whisky insurrection was recognized by a presidential call for a national day of thanksgiving. The practice of officially recommending the observance of a thanksgiving festival was gradually adopted by the states until it now has place among the great holidays of the nation.

A Collect For Thanksgiving Day.

I thank thee, Father, for thy sky,
Wherein thy little sparrows fly;
For unseen hands that build and break
The cloud pavilions for my sake,
This fleeting beauty, high and wild,
Toward which I wonder as a child.

And thanks for morning's stir and light
And for the folding hush of night;
For those high deities that spread
The star filled chasm overhead;
For elfin chemistries that yield
The green fires of the April field;
For all the foam and surge of bloom,
For leaves gone glorious to their doom—
All the wild loveliness that can
Touch the immortal in a man.

Father of Life, I thank thee, too,
For old acquaintance, near and true;
For friends who came into my day
And took the loneliness away;
For faith that held on to the last,
For all sweet memories of the past—
Dear memories of my dead, I send
Long thoughts of life and of life's end,
That make me know the light conceals
A deeper world than it reveals.
—Edwin Markham in Success.

THE CASHIER'S THANKSGIVING.

"I'M going to have a regular old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner," said the cashier, who was lonesome, never before having been away from the farm on this festal day.

"Deviled turkey and canned pumpkin," laughed the stenographer. She was a seasoned bachelor girl and thought it her duty to squelch all sickly sentiment exhibited by the cashier.

THEN THE BOY CAME WITH A BASKET.

She knew that Bess was pining in her secret heart for the lover with whom she had quarreled and, on whose account the pretty cashier now was an exile.

"Real turkey and real home made pumpkin pie and all the trimmings," said the cashier triumphantly. "I couldn't bear to eat at a restaurant tomorrow. It would choke me. I've made all the arrangements with Mrs. Brown. She's going to let me cook on her stove, and I've borrowed some dishes to put with ours to set the table right here in our room."

The stenographer looked incredulous.

"It's a fact. I've bought all the provisions and am expecting the boy with them now. We neither one of us work tomorrow, and we'll have such a dinner as never was. We are going to have company, you know."

"Company!" The stenographer gave an amazed little scream. "Who?"

"Arthur," said the cashier, trying to look innocent.

"Oh, you dear, you dear!" exclaimed the stenographer, smothering the cashier with kisses. "You dear, I'll never tease you about Sam again as long as you live. I've a notion to telegraph him to come too."

"I'll never speak to you again as long as I live if you do such a thing," said Bess, turning pale. "And I wouldn't speak to him either."

Then the boy came with a basket, and the cashier made him pour the provisions out in the middle of the floor.

Such an assortment as was there. Turkey, pumpkin, apples, sweet potatoes, cranberries, oysters, a square of fruit cake, a loaf of bread, a bunch of celery, sugar, flour—everything that could be needed, and all in the smallest quantities. Even the turkey was a little thing and the pumpkin not much bigger than a football.

"You've bankrupted us," cried the stenographer in despair.

"Only $2.80, my dear," said the cashier calmly. "You see, I've saved us money. We expected to have a good dinner tomorrow anyway. Now we will have enough left over to last us till Sunday."

"And Arthur is coming, bless his heart," cooed the stenographer. "What a day we will have. If only"— She paused and looked at Bess.

"There are no 'if onlys' in the case. Let's get busy," said the cashier bravely, but there was a tear in her eye. "I will put the turkey and oysters in Mrs. Brown's icebox, and you may cut up the pumpkin. We will stew it tonight and be ready for the pies in the morning."

"Look here, Bess. There's a name on this pumpkin. I am hot on the trail of a romance," said the stenographer.

Bess came and looked over the stenographer's shoulder.

There in rude letters on the pumpkin's yellow skin was carved the name of all names and this unique message:

"Sam Benuefield, Clydemore, Ind., would like to correspond with the handsome young girl who gets this pumpkin."

The cashier burst into tears.

"It is your Sam, isn't it?" asked the stenographer.

"Yes," sobbed the cashier. "And the wretch is trying to get up a flirtation with some city girl. He thinks somebody will see the name and write to him. Oh, how I hate him!"

THE NAME OF ALL NAMES.

To prove that she hated him she threw herself on the bed and wept for half an hour.

In the meantime the stenographer was busy with the pumpkin. But when she cut it up she was careful to keep in one piece the section on which Sam's name was carved.

When morning came Bess was too busy to be lonesome. The landlady gave the two girls the run of her kitchen and furnished them with all the spices they needed for their cooking. She was almost as much interested in the great dinner as the girls were.

Before noon the florist's boy came with flowers from Arthur, and when the table was set and decorated it was a triumph of cozy beauty.

When Arthur entered the hallway at 2 o'clock he found a tall young stranger carefully studying the names beneath the speaking tubes.

"For whom are you looking?" asked Arthur.

"For Miss Elizabeth Grant," said the stranger.

"Oh," said Arthur, eying the stranger critically. He felt that for the stenographer's sake he was the natural protector of the little cashier. His inspection, however, convinced him that the tall stranger was all right, though it was clear that he came from the country.

"You know her?" asked Arthur at last.

"We are old friends," said the tall stranger, blushing.

"Then come with me," said Arthur cordially. "I am going up there now."

When Arthur knocked at the door the stenographer went to open it. Her eyes were shining. Bess turned her back and pretended to be busy at the window.

"THIS GENTLEMAN WANTS TO SEE MISS GRANT."

The stenographer's words of welcome died on her tongue when she saw that Arthur was not alone.

"This gentleman wants to see Miss Grant," said Arthur.

The little cashier turned slowly toward the door. "Sam!" she cried.

"Bess!" He came rapidly toward her and took her hands. "Bess, it was a foolish quarrel. I could not bear to think of your being alone here on Thanksgiving day."

The stenographer hurried around to lay a fourth plate at the Thanksgiving dinner table.—George Weymouth in Chicago Tribune.

Mark's Turkey.

When Mark Twain was editor of a Nevada newspaper somebody sent him a turkey with no card attached. The editor ate the bird. Next day he received a letter asking: "Can you tell us what that turkey died of? There's a bet on about it."

"What! Going?"

"Yes," he replied, "going."

There was a brief silence. Her breathing could be distinctly heard.

"I may as well tell you all," he said in a low, passionate tone. "I came down here to stay through the entire house party, of course. I had no other thought but that. I came, careless and indifferent of anything but idle pleasure."

"You were here. You, whom I had never seen before. I found after the first day that your face was beginning to haunt me—your voice to linger on in my heart. I tried to dismiss you, but it was impossible. I struggled against it, but all in vain. I saw that it was hopeless. And so—I am going away, away where I can forget this brief dream of happiness, where I can drown my feelings, where I can recover from this madness."

He looked at her beseechingly.

"Will you forgive me," he smiled, "for intruding myself upon you? Believe me, I was carried away for the moment; I had no thought of telling you this."

She started forward. There was a strange light in her eyes. Then she spoke—hurriedly, with an enforced calmness.

"Why not?" she whispered. "Why not? We are both of about the same height and age. We both have ambition and youth. We are fitted for each other. Why should we not fall in love with each other?"

He restrained her with his hand.

"You do not understand," he whispered, hoarsely. "But just before I came down here I signed a three-year lease on my bachelor apartment in town, without any subletting clause."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Advice to Fraternal Members.

The present epidemic has awakened members of insurance and as to the fact that assessments must be paid up to date, otherwise no benefits are received. Dr. Emma E. Bower, Great Record Keeper of the L. O. T. M. M., reports certificates and assessments received lately from many members who stand suspended. Other societies give similar statements. Keep up your assessments, is good advice.

A LIBERAL OFFER

We Guarantee to Cure Dyspepsia If We Fail the Medicine Costs Nothing

To unquestionably prove to the people that indigestion and dyspepsia can be permanently relieved and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will bring about this result, we will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give satisfaction to any one using it.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula as well as to the care exercised in their manufacture, whereby the well known properties of Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin have been combined with Carminatives and other agents.

Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin are constantly employed and recognized by the entire medical profession as invalvable in the treatment of indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is prepared by a process which develops its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of tge digestive fluid, and without it the digestion and assimilation of food are impossible.

The carminatives possess properties which aid in relieving the disturbances and pain caused by undigested food. This perfected combination of these ingredients makes a remedy invaluable for the oomplete relief of indigestion and dyspepsia.

We are so certain of this that we urge you to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on our own personal guarantee Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at—The Rexall Store.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Billboard Aug. 20, 1910, says of Lyman H. Howe's engagement in Baltimore, Md., (at Ford's):

"Howe's moving pictures are all the rage and the audiences are distinctly representative of intellect and fashion Pictures representing scenes in foreign countries appeal greatly to the audiences. A picture showing views of the eruption of Mt. Etna evoked the greatest interest and applause. King Edward's funeral was the feature of the week. Large crowds are always in attendance and the demand for admission is greater than the accommodations afford."

The same program will be presented at the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE on MONDAY, NOV. 28.

CONCERT

The musical recital last evening at the opera house was a most delightful social event to the music lovers of Tecumseh.

An appreciative audience was present and every number played by Edward Baxter Perry was listened to with rapt attention as were his wonderful descriptions preceeding his selections. We think those who worked so hard for this concert deserve much praise.

ACCIDENTS

TECUMSEH IN THE TOILS SATURDAY NIGHT

As the 8:32 train was coming in town Saturday evening Mrs. Joe VanNess and her mother Mrs. L. B. Thompson attempted to cross the track, as they were looking for their grand daughter and neice, Mrs. Klapple of Monroe. Mrs. Thompson crossed in safety but Mrs. VanNess was struck by the pilot and thrown quite a distance receiving a broken collar bone and severe wounds on her head and arm. She was taken to Dr. Norths office and made as comfortas possible until an ambulance was summoned to take her home Dr.'s North and Hardy were in attendance. She was suffering intensely and the full extent of her injuries could not be determined

Later came the report of an accident to the auto of H. R. Brewer who with his party was on their way home from Ann Arbor. Just out of Saline in turning a corner the machine skidded striking a tree, R. A. Heesen was thrown a distance of 30 ft. fracturing his sternum and a number of ribs, Thos. Elliott jr. was thrown through the wind shield receiving several cuts and bruises about his head and face, the other three of the party were more or less bruised and shaken up. Telephoning for help P. W. A. Fitzsimmons left at once with his car and a doctor and they were conveyed to their home as speedily as possible.

It was something of a shock to Raynor Brewer when recovering from his dazed condition and wondering why no one answered him he turned and found his car empty and the first thought that came to him was that they had all been killed, he at once started out to find them, and there they were stretched by the road side in a senseless condition, after shaking them thoroughly he roused Messrs Mead and Elliott and they went in search of Mr. Heesen, whom they found in a critical condition. His hurts while not dangerous are very trying and he suffers much pain, but it is hoped that time will bring relief. For so serious an accident it is wonderful that no one was killed.

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Hardy for her able lecture, also to the Masons for the use of their hall for the lecture and Messrs Smith and Mize for operating the lantern for Mrs. Hardy. Historical Committee, Mrs. J. F. Hicks chairman took charge of a short program opened with music.

Piano Duet—Mrs. Look and Alice Bradley. Early Days, what became of them and the time, building and location of the present churches of the town by Mrs. Davidson. Mrs. Rathbun accompanied by Mrs. Hodges sang and Miss Loana Stacy gave a few notes and comments upon the building of the first brick block and public hall the "Union Hall" of Tecumseh, of its uses in the olden times. BANQUET

BUSINESS MEN'S CLASS OF M. E. CHURCH.

Friday, November 18.

The Men's class of the M. E. church held their annual banquet, Friday evening and as usual it was a grand success. The banquet served was of the best in every particular and was in charge of the Epworth League with Miss Harriet Hurry as chairman. Both the toastmaster, Rev. G N. Kennedy, and those who responded seemed to be in the happiest humor and carried the audience with them.

Promptly at half past seven the guests were invited to the dining room and seated at the long tables which had a most inviting appearance.

The Invocation was pronounced by Rev. Dawe of Ann Arbor, the out of town guest, the banquet following. After this feast came the "feast of reason and the flow of soul" as this program was presented.

Toast master—Rev. G. N. Kennedy
Music, "Prayer and Passion"—G. H. Tansley and orchestra.
The Men's class—G. B. Tiffany.
Music—The Ladies Quartette.
A Religious Animal—J. W. Wightman.
Music, "Sincerity"—Orchestra
The Layman's Movement—Rev. B. R. Weld.
Solo, "Happy Days"—Edith Wilson
Recitation, "The Hazing of Valiant"—Nellie Mingay.
Solo, "Winter"—Miss Stella Brush.
The First Test—Rev. W. B. Hartzog.
Music—The Ladies Quartette.
Yesterday and To Day—Rev. William Dawe D. D
"Blest be the tie"—Chorus.
Accompanist—Mrs. Ella Hodges.

Rev. Kennedy, as toastmaster, presented the speakers in a neat little speech on "Fellowship" speaking particularly of the unity of the churches they being really one in heart though living under seperate roofs, that this band of men were one in purpose and in religion though belonging to different churches of our town.

The president of the class, Mr. Geo. S. Tiffany, was then introduced. His toast was "The Men's Class," comparing himself to an ice breaker, he proceeded to open up the way for some beautiful tributes to the class for their kindness and courtesy to one another. He said "We have no teacher in our class; we need no teacher but the Master, who has been with us for the last five years in our study of the word of God, and each one was striving for the kingdom of heaven." Like the maid in the Siege of Lucknow from which he quoted, they too had their ears to the ground listening for the coming of the help that was to the rescue the men of the world through these classes. He urged every man to join some class, for the study of the word.

In commenting on these remarks the toastmaster said, "it is one the signs of the times, that men were being brought more closely into the fellowship of the church through the agency of these meetings.

He next introduced Mr. J. W. Wightman whose subject "A Religious Animal," was rather baffling. We think neither the speaker or the hearers, or the committee themselves quite understood what was meant, but Judge Wightman was not to be phased and rose nobly to the occasion and gave a bright witty talk after which he gave a number of definitions of religion from various authorities. His own definition was the best of all the love of God in the heart; his doctrine, that man should carry his religion into his store, his shop, his business of every kind. His talk was listened to with marked attention and approval.

Next introducing Rev. Weld, Rev. Kennedy remarked how difficult it was to tell to which denomination the several pastors belonged. Rev. Weld would surely be taken for a Methodist from his enthusiasm; Rev. Hartzog for a Presbyterian from his lofty, manly brow, and himself as a Baptist from his rotundity, etc.

Rev. Weld spoke on the laymen and his enthusiasm was thoroughly demonstrated in his remarks. He could not resist a dab at his neighbor and coworker, Dr. Hartzog, and the scintillations of wit were quite sparkling, also the references to the lawyer, comparatively speaking, hard to get on, harder to get honor, hardest to get honest, brought down the house. Of course, it had no reference to the lawyers present. In taking up his subject "The Layman" he went on to say, they had certainly made good, citing the convention held in Chicago last May where 5000 men from every walk in life, the business man, the millionaire, as well as the poor man, met for three days, morning, afternoon and evening, all with the same object in view, the betterment of the world.

Dr. Hartzog being next called upon remarked on the lateness of the hour and that at the last meeting, one lady said to him referring to a very lengthy talk, "that gave me cold feet," and not wishing to cause anyone a like infliction, he would give his time to Dr. Dawe our guest from out of town. There was not a person present who was not disappointed not to hear Dr. Hartzog as he is a favorite after dinner speaker.

Dr. Dawe, the last speaker on the program, evidently felt the chill of those feet for he too abreviated his remarks on "Yesterday and Today." He expressed himself as delighted to find the men today so united in these classes in club work and rocial life such a contrast to the men of yesterday. He thought today the best day that had ever been lived and that in our generation the world would be christianized and that one of the greatest factors in this work is the laymen's movement.

The music of the evening was exceptionally fine. The Ladies' Quartette sang in a most delightful manner and the song "Annie Laurie," touched every heart. They kindly responded to an encore.

Miss Edith Wilson, with Mrs. Hodges at the piano and Lynn Rogers with his violin, sang "Happy Days," in a most charming manner. Miss Stella Brush in a solo "Winter" was highly appreciated. The Sunday School Orchestra of 7 pieces, led by Mr. Tansley with Mrs. Waldron at the piano gave several selections which were much enjoyed by all present.

It seemed very good to see these young men and boys engaged in this way, not only improving in musical knowledge but in their social life.

Miss Mingay gave a very effective rendering of "The Hazing of Valiant" which provoked much merriment, given in her inimitable happy manner.

The audience, rising, then joined in singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds" in such a heartfelt manner that proved its sincerity. After the benediction they went their several ways, each feeling that the evening had been replete with merriment, entertainment and instruction, and that it was good to have been one of the many who were there.

Advertising Monopolies.

There are many public service corporations in Philadelphia which freely make use of newspaper advertising space. The United Gas Improvement company, the Philadelphia Electric company and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company all talk to the people through the only kind of medium that all the people read. Each of these companies has a monopoly of the particular product which it supplies.

It will occur to the average man, upon due reflection, that if a monopolized business needs newspaper advertising a business in which there is strenuous competition stands doubly in need of it. Monopolies have only to cultivate the good will of the public and create new demand. Rivals in trade must do both of these things, and must also direct the demand after it is created. How to create and direct demand at the lowest cost is a vital matter to the enterprising business man.—Philadelphia Record.

An Informal Challenge.

The burly prisoner stood unabashed before the Judge. "Prisoner at the bar," asked the clerk of the arraigns, "do you wish to challenge any of the jury?"

The prisoner looked them over carefully. "Well," he replied, "I'm not exactly wot you'd call in training, but I wouldn't mind a round or two with that there fat old fellow in the corner."

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results. Is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

DON'T GET RUSTY.

Keep Your Body and Soul Clean By Working Them.

The machine that lies idle is far more liable to injury than the machine that runs.

Air and dampness do more damage than wear and tear. Let the machine remain inactive a while and the coating formed by the corosion soon covers the bright metal and the parts become stiff and cranky.

A man neglects the working parts of his body. Normally these parts should be exercised. He indulges his members in idleness. Whatever vitality and working force they may have had when in continued use, neglect causes the macainery to run stiffy. It is the rust.

A man may neglect to exercise his working brain forces. He may have ever so quick a mind, but if he does not use his mental machinery the rust of idleness is soon over it.

A man may neglect to use the moral forces that are in him. There is a weakening somewhere. The machine lets down. And soon the parts are rusted.

When the primary or the convention or the ballot-box — working parts of government—are neglected the rust collects. The machinery works poorly. It may break down.

Keep your body working without friction by systematic exercise.

Keep your mind bright by using it.

Keep your soul clean by working it.

And so for society—nine-tenths of its evils are caused by the idleness of its necessary working parts.

Number of the Stars.

On directing the eye to the celestial vault the impression made upon the mind is that of an incalculable number of stars being visible—a host which our arithmetic will not suffice to reckon. But this is an optical illusion. The twinkling and disorderly position of the stars confuse and deceive the sight. An ordinary eye, it has been estimated, will only discern at one time about 3,000 stars in our firmament under the most favorable circumstances, and including both hemispheres there will not be more than 6,000 visible to a keen and experienced gaze.

Using an instrument of no great size—little more than two inches wide—there have been not less than 310,000 stars charted in the northern half of the heavens alone. It is calculated that the total number visible in the entire celestial vault—with the aid of the larger telescopes—would mount up to 77,000,000.

Inquisitiveness Reward.

When the train stopped at the little Southern station the Northern tourist sauntered out on the platform. There were the usual number of sunbonneted women, tall "crackers" and stray dogs. Under a scrub oak stood a lean animal with scraggy bristles.

The tourist was interested.

"What do you call that?" he queried of a lanky native.

"That be a hawg," elucidated the other.

"What kind of a hog?"

"Rahzohbach hawg."

"That so?"

"Yeas, that's ser."

"Well, what in tarnation is he doing rubbing against that tree?"

"He's stropping himself, mister, jest stropping himself and if you ask any more fool questions around here we'll pull you off the train." And the tourist wisely withdrew.

A New Method of Electric Welding.

L. S. Lachman has devised a new process of electric welding which makes it possible to employ steel instead of malleable iron in the manufacture of numerous articles. As two unequal sections cannot be welded together satisfactorily, Lachman has one piece cast with a projecting edge and the other with a point. The two projections, forced together by a hydraulic press, are included in an electric circuit, of which they form the segment of highest resistance. Hence, when a strong current is caused to flow through them, they are heated nearly or quite to the melting point and, being subjected to great pressure, quickly become welded together, and attach themselves to each other more firmly than they could be attached by means of rivets, because there is no break in the continuity of the metal.

Centre of Glove Industry.

The center of the glove industry is at Grenoble in the south of France. The kids there are tended with the greatest care, the idea being to produce skins that are strong and pliable and at the same time free from blemishes. The finest quality of kid is obtained from animals that are killed before they begin to eat grass at all, because from that time the skins have a tendency to become hard and coarse.

How To Stop —A— Stubborn Cough

We don't mean just stop the irritation in your throat—but cure the underlying cause.

Cough syrups cannot do this. It takes a constitutional tonic body builder to do the work properly—and cure you to stay cured. Vinol is the remedy you need.

Mrs. Minnie Osgood, of Glens Falls, N. Y., writes: "After trying several remedies for a bad cough and cold without benefit, I was asked to try Vinol. It worked like magic. It cured my cold and cough and I gained in health and strength. I consider Vinol the most wonderful tonic and invigorator I ever saw."

If we cannot stop that cough with VINOL—our delicious cod liver and iron tonic—which is made without oil—we will not charge you a cent for the medicine you buy. This seems like a pretty fair proposition—and ought to be accepted. Don't you think so? With this understanding we ask you to try a bottle of VINOL.

PREPARING FOR THE SABBATH.

Influence on Children of the Customs in Orthodox Jewish Holseholds.

The Sabbath, including its complicated variations, is rich and impressive material for a child's imagination. On Thursday evening the mother already prepares dough, goes to market, cleans the fish, etc. In the morning the baking of "chales" (bread). How bewitching for a child to watch the mother making different shapes of dough, smearing it with egg and decorating it with seeds of different shapes and forms. A Jewish child gets the first lesson in what we call modelling by making and believe "chales."

In the evening the mother prepares to meet the Sabbath. The child partakes in the household occupations and thereby gets habits of industry, order and regard for the rights and ideas of others and the fundamental habit of subordinating his activities to the general interest of the household.

This is especially true in regard to Jewish households where everything seems to be prescribed by law. Before darkness sets in on Friday evening the housewife lights in the dining room extra candles or a special lamp in honor of Sabbath and reads the blessing.

Quite often a child not yet able to talk will cover its face with its little palms, imitating the gestures of the devoted mother. Then returning from the synagogue, the appreciative greeting, "Good Sabbath," the Kiddush, the blessing over wine, the special and the holiday spirit of all who participate has undoubtedly a soothing, beneficent influence upon the child. After supper the time is spent in resting.—American Hebrew.

The Mississippi River Boat Theaters.

Acting is the last resource of a river grifter. There were a gambler, a medicine-man, a river fiddler, a house-painter and his wife in three shanty boats at the mouth of the St. Francis river one time a few years ago. There was not a dollar in the pockets of them all. They tried selling medicine, picking cotton, drifting for logs, fishing, trapping and junking without success. They discussed the acute question of something to eat, and decided upon a show.

The gambler knew some card tricks, and had been second fiddler in an Indian territory opera troupe, the medicine-man could play a banjo, the woman could sing, the fiddler was an artist of his kind, and the painter could sell tickets and maintain order. They had a rehearsal in the morning, in the afternoon two of the men went up the bank to advertise, and that night they played to a $10 house. The troupe broke up at Helena a week later with pocket-money earned by the show. Many a river man, hounded by bad luck and down to the point of killing other men's hogs, has recouped his fortunes by a monologue or lightning-change entertainment, specially have gamblers been facile in impromptu shows. Plantation darkies are not critical, and show-boats of the lowest type depend on them for audiences. Many a show-boat exchanges tickets for eggs, corn, flour and other provender. One man with a phonograph worked his way from the upper Mississippi to New Orleans, charging admission to hear the talking machine.

A medicine-boat gives shows to exploit a cure-all. A lecturer and music and doctor to doctor seeking a cure, as all most of them have. The boat drops from landing to landing, advertising a free show and selling medicine to the audience. Some medicine shows are more elaborate. One medicine-man for years gave a play showing a woman seeking health as the heroine. She went from place to place and magic medicine, taking which she the villain led her, obviously, away from the cure, but at last the hero rescued her from the villain, gave her a magic medicine, taking which she was marvelously cured and became marvelously beautiful. — Raymond Sayers in Harper's Weekly.

THE TICKET TO PARADISE.

Mr. Sol Rucker sat on the gallery of Lampton's grocery store, his chair titled back against one of the posts. A little girl came up and said, "Mr. Rucker, won't you please buy a ticket to our missionary entertainment?"

"That I will, Pearlie," he replied, handing her a dollar, the price of four tickets.

"I am astonished at such extravagance, Mr. Rucker," said Sam Foxworth, a young attorney, who had reason to know of the difficulty of parting the old man from his silver from many wrestlings he had had with him in regard to fees for certain eminent legal services.

"You see lawyer," retorted the old man, "some things ain't law, and air worth the money they costs, either fer their own selves or fer the ricollections what they fetches back with 'em."

He paused a minute, and added, "You may think I am stretchin' the blanket, but a ticket to just such a shindig was once to me the same as a through ticket to paradise."

He knocked the ashes from his pipe and settled himself comfortably in his chair. He was evidently in for a talk. The lawyer and the crowd all prepared themselves to listen and to laugh.

"You see," the old man went on, "it was this way, lawyer. Hester and me had had a rucus. It want about nothin', but we both was kinder high-spirited and toucheous-like. We kinder skirmished around untel she said real sharp and hurtish, 'Mr. Rucker (Mr. Rucker—and her havin' called me Sol ever sence she knowed me) you can take back yore ring and yore love, too, for all I cares.'

"I answered most as snappish as she, 'As fer my love, Miss Hester Perkins, I ain't no Injun-giver, and with me what is give is give, and it can't be took back—and as fer the ring, this is what I cares about that,' and I throwed it in the fire right before her face, and before she had the chanct to say a word, I flung outer the door and was coverin' ground fer home.

"There want no stayin' fer me in Marion county after that. It just seemed somethin' all the time was a rubbin' into a sore in my breas'. So I goes down New Orleans, I does, and gits work, stevedoring and fooling with lumber schooners and boats on Bayou St. John and the big river. At firs' it was all right. The new sights and the everlastin' noise and kelter of the town kep' my mind busy. It seemed I never could tire of watching the schooners sailin' over the olly waters of the Lake Pontchartrain and a hearin' the steamboats puffin' and pantin' on the sleepy yallow river, like a lazy nigger in a fodder fiel' in August-time.

"Bimeby, one day two young girls, real ladies, come down where we was unloadin' lumber from the Bong Adventur, and asks us to buy tickets to an entertainment for the orphans.

"Feelin' like a lone orphan my ownself, I bought one of them tickets, and that night 'steader goin' to the dance hall I found myself at the church where the entertainment was to be give.

"Tired, at first? worrit? Well, I should reckon, I was just cussin' myself fer a plum idjut, and thinkin' of applying fer a writ of lunacy for one Solomon Rucker, when the head narator of the show announces, 'We will now have Browning's Love Among the Ruins,' recited by Miss Artimise LeBlonck.'

"I looked up and there standin' on the platform was a scraggy, scrappy gal who seemed nothin' at all exceptin' a pair of big black pinetorchy eyes and a great scruff of hair.

"Well, as the gal closed, I fetched a long breath, and I says to myself, 'Love IS best.' Then I added, 'but not love on jus one side; that gal in the poum loved the boy, too.'

"Then a gal comed forward with a fiddle. She was more audacious than the tother, and I was wonderin' what that kildee had flew in frum, when she squaked her fiddle, a-tunin' it, and then she drawed the bow plum acrost them strings, long and wide and sweepy. It seemed to me somebody had flung into that church a million roses and wild vi'lets, but all made into fiddle notes. I thought to myself that when that gal got to reaven she'd make the angels and the harp players of the kingdom so ashamed of their selves they would go outer the business.

"But presently, will you believe it, lawyer, I forgot all about that gal that was fiddlin'. I was back in ole Marion. I was down on the banks of Pinashook creek. Me and Hester. It was March once more. The yellow jesermines was a streamin' with blossoms, what had been woven outen the sunshine, and every blame bee in the settlement was fussin' and fightin' for the honey, exceptin' when the wind, growed jealous of their gettin all the sweets, shook 'em all outen the flowers. And the wild honeysuckles. O, Lawd, them wild honeysuckles pink, and powdery and tuftel, and the ground all paved and floored with vi'lets. And me and Hester was there toget'.

"As I sayed, I had cleaned forgot that gal war a-fiddlin' and my mouth was gettin' sweet, with the honey of the firs' and onliest kiss I ever had from Hester, when all of a sudden 'squeak' went one of them blame fiddle strings what had done snapped.

"And then there was no creek bank no Hester, no nothin' only me a settin' there in a strange hall; me, carin' for nobody and nobody carin' fer me.

"My heart was overflowin' with tears and the electric lights got all dim, and darksome, though I know I wa'nt a cryin'. The idee of a man what is a man a-blubberin' 'fore a bunch of strangers.

"Well, I got outen that church, though I knowed it want manners and behavior to be a-leavin' before the show was over. As I stood outside in the dark I said to myself, I did, the fellow that writ that poum knowed human nature, he did, even if he were short on language. 'Love is best, to be sure, love IS best, even if it be love all on one side.'

"And then and there without disputin' or leastways argifying with myself, I made up my mind I would go back to old Marion; and go I did the very nex' mornin'.

"When I got to old man Perkins' farm, the firs' thing I run upon was his chap, Si. Says I, 'Are Hester sick.'

"'Nope,' says the chap. 'Not sick, just crazy, crazy about fishin' down on Pinashook, though she don't never ketch nothin'. She's down there now.' And then he turned and chucked a rock at the ole gobbler that was struttin' biggity like among the hens.

"I never stopped to see whether he hit him or no, but made for the creek, and was there before a swif' han' could have shucked enough corn for the feed of one mule. I kep' on until I got to the place which I had seen while that gal was a-fiddlin', and where I had firs' got enough grit to out with my love fer Hester.

"Everything was jus' the same as it was while that girl was playin'. The bees and the wind was scuffin' with one another about them jesermines. The honeysuckles were a nodding their heads and a puckering up their mouths and a beggin' the butterflies to come and kiss 'em. The sunfish were shinin' in the creek like jewels in old King Solomon's crown.

"But nowhere was Hester to be seen! I looked and I looked. I was erbout to bless out that youngster of Perkinses fer a foolin' me, when my eyes lot on a fishin' pole kivered up by the arms of the vi'lets that helt it hugged up to them. Then I knowed that Hester was there, somewheres erbout. I went on a little further, soft and watchful. And then I seen, what you reckon I seen, lawyer? I seen Hester with both of her arms around—around an ole beech tree.

"I hearn a sweet little sob, and I just couldn't help it, but before she knowed it, I was there and had both my arms aroun' her.

"And what you suppose that pore little gal was a-doin' when I found her hugged up to that tree? She was a-kissin' her name and mine which I had jabbed into the bark with my knife that mornin' we both had foun' out somthin'.

"Since then she ain't never had no need to be huggin' trees and kissin' names nor nothin' else, exceptin' youngsters, and a certain ole rapscallion she loves moe' as well as she does a baby, and she is powerful fond of them, specially one what we all calls Sol, Sol Rucker, Jr."—Dalney Marshall.

Lapeer—The smallpox situation in the state home for the feeble-minded, situated near this city, which was believed well under control, took a decided turn for the worse Saturday and Sunday, and it is possible that more soldiers will be ordered to report to take the quarantine even more strict than at the present time.

Ionia—Two Grand Trunk conductors, James Flynn of train No. 11, due here at 8:10 p. m., and George Houghton of No. 14, slipped and fell under the wheels as they jumped from the coach. Flynn had his hip crushed. Houghton grabbed the rods under the coach and was dragged many feet before the train stopped. He was badly cut and bruised.

Grand Rapids—The body of Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion, who was murdered near Springfield, Mo., was exhumed by his three brothers. Belman of Perry, and himself a former resident of this city, had the misfortune to strike a laboring man with his auto one night recently, and kill him instantly. The coroner exonerated Bellman from blame, but the cashier has made the following arrangements for the financial relief for the widow: He has paid all funeral expenses, paid a mortgage of $1,000 on her home, and will give her $5 a month for the support of each of her three children, $18 in all, until they have attained the age of 14. SHOT TO DEATH BY HIS EMPLOYEE

Cohoctah County Farmer Killed in Dispute Over Wages.

Howell, Mich., Nov. 21.—As the result of a quarrel over a small sum of money, Henry Noot is dead and Sidney Line is a fugitive. Line shot and killed Noot in his own home and then made his escape. The tragedy occured about 11 o'clock Saturday night in Cohoctah township, near Oak Grove.

Noot operated a thrashing outfit, and Line has been working for him. A dispute arose over a matter of wages.

After shooting Noot, Line turned from the body of his victim to Mrs. Noot, who had witnessed the shooting, and demanded to know where her husband's money was, and without waiting for a reply stooped down and rifled the pockets of the trousers which Noot had drawn on just previous to the shooting.

Line then left the house and no trace of him has been found since. When Mrs. Noot recovered from her fright she gave the alarm by telephone to neighbors, who in turn notified the officers.

Noot, who was forty years old, was well known about the country. His slayer is but nineteen, and has been looked upon generally as being not right mentally.

TOLSTOI, IDOL OF RUSSIANS, DEAD

Count's Pilgrimage to Caucasus Halted by Grim Reaper.

FAMILY GATHERS AT BEDSIDE

Wife, However, Was Not Recognized by Great Writer-Philosopher — End Comes in Little Railway Station at Astapova—Inflamation of Lungs the Cause of Death.

Astapova (Special).—Count Leo Tolstoi is dead.

Dr. Makovetsky and the other attending physicians and Countess Tolstoi and family were at his side when the end came.

Several of the physicians were greatly overcome by the approaching death of Russia's great writer. One wept.

Tolstoi, accompanied only by Dr. Makovetsky, left his home to end his days in solitude to which he more and more inclined during his latter years. His pilgrimage led him to the monastery of Shamardine in the province of Kaluga, where he remained as the guest of his sister, Marie, a nun in the cloister.

Learning that his retreat had been discovered, he insisted on proceeding on his journey to the Caucasus, where he hoped to spend his last days close to the Tolstoian colony on the shores of the Black sea. But during the railroad journey he was overcome with exhaustion and the cold, and Dr. Makovetsky was compelled to have him transferred to the flag station at Astapova, where he was made as comfortable as possible in the rude wooden building.

For five days he had lain there, suffering first from bronchitis and later from inflammation of the lungs.

Countess Tolstoi was admitted to the sick room for the first time Saturday, but her husband failed to recognize her.

82 SUFFRAGETTES JAILED.

Headed by Mrs. Pankhurst, London Women Fight Police at Parliament Building.

London (Special).—The militant suffragettes reopened hostilities, Saturday, against the government and 1,000 strong closed in on the parliament buildings. The police had a lively fight. The women, many of whom were placed under arrest, were led by Mrs. Pankhurst.

The suffragettes had determined if possible to force the police cordon about the house of commons and, reaching Premier Asquith, to insist on the introduction of a woman's suffrage bill.

The police were ordered to make as few arrests as possible, but eighty-two suffragettes and supporters were thrown into police cells. A large contingent of American bluejackets from the visiting fleet were amused spectators. They cheered the combatants and incited them to fresh efforts.

Advertising Monopolies.

There are many public service corporations in Philadelphia which freely make use of newspaper advertising space. The United Gas Improvement company, the Philadelphia Electric company and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company all talk to the people through the only kind of medium that all the people read. Each of these companies has a monopoly of the particular product which it supplies.

It will occur to the average man, upon due reflection, that if a monopolized business needs newspaper advertising a business in which there is strenuous competition stands doubly in need of it. Monopolies have only to cultivate the good will of the public and create new demand. Rivels in trade must do both of these things, and must also direct the demand after it is created. How to create and direct demand at the lowest cost is a vital matter to the enterprising business man.—Philadelphia Record.

An Informal Challenge.

One burly prisoner stood unabashed before the Judge. "Prisoner at the bar," asked the clerk of the arraigne, "do you wish to challenge any of the jury?"

The prisoner looked them over carefully. "Well," he replied, "I'm not exactly wot you kind in training, but I wouldn't mind a round or two with that there fat old fellow in the corner."

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results. Is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

DON'T GET RUSTY.

Keep Your Body and Soul Clean By Working Them.

The machine that lies idle is far more liable to injury than the machine that runs.

Air and dampness do more damage than wear and tear. Let the machine remain inactive a while and the coating formed by the corosion soon covers the bright metal and the parts become stiff and cranky.

A man neglects the working parts of his body. Normally these parts should be exercised. He indulges his members in idleness. Whatever vitality and working force they may have, had when in continued use, neglect causes the macainery to run stiffly. It is the rust.

A man may neglect to exercise his working brain forces. He may have ever so quick a mind, but if he does not use his mental machinery the rust of idleness is soon over it.

A man may neglect to use the moral forces that are in him. There is a weakening somewhere. The machine lets down. And soon the parts are rusted.

When the primary or the convention or the ballot-box - working parts of government—are neglected the rust collects. The machinery works poorly. It may break down.

Keep your body working without friction by systematic exercise.

Keep your mind bright by using it.

Keep your soul clean by working it.

And so for society—nine-tenths of its evils are caused by the idleness of its necessary working parts.

Number of the Stars.

On directing the eye to the celestial vault the impression made upon the mind is that of an incalculable number of stars being visible—a host which our arithmetic will not suffice to reckon. But this is an optical illusion. The twinkling and disorderly position of the stars confuse and deceive the sight. An ordinary eye, it has been estimated, will only discern at one time about 3,000 stars in our firmament under the most favorable circumstances, and including both hemispheres there will not be more than 6,000 visible to a keen and experienced gaze.

Using an instrument of no great size—little more than two inches wide—there have been not less than 340,000 stars charted in the northern half of the heavens alone. It is calculated that the total number visible in the entire celestial vault—with the aid of the larger telescopes—would mount up to 77,000,000.

Inquisitiveness Reward.

When the train stopped at the little Southern station the Northern tourist sauntered out on the platform. There were the usual number of sunbonneted women, tall "crackers" and stray dogs. Under a scrub oak stood a lean animal with scraggy bristles.

The tourist was interested.

"What do you call that?" he queried of a lanky native.

"That be a hawg," elucidated the other.

"What kind of a hog?"

"Rahzohbach hawg."

"That so?"

"Yeas, that's so."

"Well, what in tarnation is he doing rubbing against that tree?"

"He's stropping himself, mister, jest stropping himself, and if you ask any more fool questions around here we'll pull you off the train." And the tourist wisely withdrew.

A New Method of Electric Welding.

L. S. Lachman has devised a new process of electric welding which makes it possible to employ steel instead of malleable iron in the manufacture of numerous articles. As two unequal sections cannot be welded together satisfactorily, Lachman has one piece cast with a projecting edge and the other with a point. The two projections, forced together by a hydraulic press, are included in a electric circuit, of which they form the segment of highest resistance. Hence, when a strong current is caused to flow through them, they are heated nearly or quite to the melting point and, being subjected to great pressure, quickly become welded together, and attach themselves to each other more firmly than they could be attached by means of rivets, because there is no break in the continuity of the metal.

Centre of Glove Industry.

The center of the glove industry is at Grenoble in the south of France. The kids there are tended with the greatest care, the idea being to produce skins that are strong and pliable and at the same time free from blemishes. The finest quality of kid is obtained from animals that are killed before they begin to eat grass at all, because from that time the skins have a tendency to become hard and coarse.

How To Stop —A— Stubborn Cough

We don't mean just stop the irritation in your throat—but cure the underlying cause.

Cough syrups cannot do this. It takes a constitutional tonic body builder to do the work properly—and cure you to stay cured. Vinol is the remedy you need.

Mrs. Minnie Osgood, of Glens Falls, N. Y., writes:—"After trying several remedies for a bad cough and cold without benefit, I was asked to try Vinol. It worked like magic. It cured my cold and cough and I gained in health and strength. I consider Vinol the most wonderful tonic and invigorator I ever saw."

If we cannot stop that cough with VINOL—our delicious cod liver and iron tonic—which is made without oil—we will not charge you a cent for the medicine you buy. This seems like a pretty fair proposition—and ought to be accepted. Don't you think so? With this understanding we ask you to try a bottle of VINOL.

PREPARING FOR THE SABBATH.

Influence on Children of the Customs in Orthodox Jewish Holseholds.

The Sabbath, including its complicated variations, is rich and impressive material for a child's imagination. On Thursday evening the mother already prepares dough, goes to market, cleans the fish, etc.

In the morning the baking of "chales" (bread). How bewitching for a child to watch the mother making different shapes of dough, smearing it with egg and decorating it with seeds of different shapes and forms. A Jewish child gets the first lesson in what we call modelling by making and believe "chales."

In the evening the mother prepares to meet the Sabbath. The child partakes in the household occupations and thereby gets habits of industry, order and regard for the rights and ideas of others and the fundamental habit of subordinating his activities to the general interest of the household.

This is especially true in regard to Jewish households where everything seems to be prescribed by law. Before darkness sets in on Friday evening the housewife lights in the dining room extra candles or a special lamp in honor of Sabbath and reads the blessing.

Quite often a child not yet able to talk will cover its face with its little palms, imitating the gestures of the devoted mother. Then returning from the synagogue, the appreciative greeting, "Good Sabbath," the Kiddush, the blessing over wine, the special and the holiday spirit of all who participate has undoubtedly a lasting, beneficent influence upon the child. After supper the time is spent in resting.—American Hebrew.

The Mississippi River Boat Theaters.

Acting is the last resource of a river grafter. There were a gambler, a medicine-man, a river fiddler, a house-painter and his wife in three shanty boats at the mouth of the St. Francis river one time a few years ago. There was not a dollar in the pockets of them all. They tried selling medicine, picking cotton, drifting for logs, fishing, trapping and junking without success. They discussed the acute question of something to eat, and decided upon a show.

The gambler knew some card tricks, and had been second fiddler in an Indian territory opera troupe, the medicine-man could play a banjo, the woman could sing, the fiddler was an artist of his kind, and the painter could sell tickets and maintain order. They had a rehearsal in the morning, in the afternoon two of the men went up the bank to advertise, and that night they played to a $10 house. The troupe broke up at Helena a week later with pocket-money earned by the show. Many a river man, hounded by bad luck and down to the point of killing other men's hogs, has recouped his fortunes by a monologue or lightning-change entertainment, specially have gamblers been facile in impromptu shows. Plantation darkies are not critical, and show-boats of the lowest type depend on them for audiences. Many a show-boat exchanges tickets for eggs, corn, flour and other provender. One man with a phonograph worked his way from the upper Mississippi to New Orleans, charging admission to hear the talking machine.

A medicine-boat gives shows to exploit a cure-all. A lecturer and music and doctor to doctor seeking a cure, as all most of them have. The boat drops from landing to landing, advertising a free show and selling medicine to the audience. Some medicine shows are more elaborate. One medicine-man for years gave a play showing a woman seeking health as the prize. She went from place to place in magic medicine, taking which she the villain led her, obviously, away from the cure, but at last the hero rescued her from the villain, gave her the magic medicine, taking which she was marvelously cured and became marvelously beautiful. — Raymond Hitchcock in Harper's Weekly.

THE TICKET TO PARADISE.

Mr. Sol Rucker sat on the gallery of Lampton's grocery store, his chair tilted back against one of the posts. A little girl came up and said, "Mr. Rucker, won't you please buy a ticket to our missionary entertainment?"

"That I will, Pearlie," he replied, handing her a dollar, the price of four tickets.

"I am astonished at such extravagance, Mr. Rucker," said Sam Foxworth, a young attorney, who had reason to know of the difficulty of parting the old man from his silver from many wrestlings he had had with him in regard to fees for certain eminent legal services.

"You see lawyer," retorted the old man, "some things ain't law, and air worth the money they costs, either fer their own selves or fer the ricollections what they fetches back with 'em."

He paused a minute, and added, "You may think I am stretchin' the blanket, but a ticket to just such a shindig was once to me the same as a through ticket to paradise."

He knocked the ashes from his pipe and settled himself comfortably in his chair. He was evidently in for a talk. The lawyer and the crowd all prepared themselves to listen and to laugh.

"You see," the old man went on, "it was this way, lawyer. Hester and me had had a rucus. It want about nothin', but we both was kinder high-spirited and toucheous-like. We kinder skirmished around untel she said real sharp and hurtish, 'Mr. Rucker (Mr. Rucker—and her havin' called me Sol ever sence she knowed me) you can take back yore ring and yore love, too, for all I cares.'

"I answered most as snappish as she, 'As fer my love, Miss Hester Perkins, I ain't no Injun-giver, and with me what is give is give, and it can't be took back—and as fer the ring, this is what I cares about that,' and I throwed it in the fire right before her face, and before she had the chanct to say a word, I flung outer the door and was coverin' ground fer home.

"There want no stayin' fer me in Marion county after that. It just seemed somethin' all the time was a rubbin' into a sore in my breas'. So I goes down New Orleans, I does, and gits work, stevedoring and fooling with lumber schooners and boats on Bayou St. John and the big river. At firs' it was all right. The new sights and the everlastin' noise and kelter of the town kep' my mind busy. It seemed I never could tire of watching the schooners sailin' over the oily waters of the Lake Pontchartrain and a hearin' the steamboats puffin' and pantin' on the sleepy yallow river, like a lazy nigger in a fodder fiel' in August-time.

"Bimeby, one day two young girls, real ladies, come down where we was unloadin' lumber from the Bong Adventur, and asks us to buy tickets to an entertainment for the orphans.

"Feelin' like a lone orphan my ownself, I bought one of them tickets, and that night 'steader goin' to the dance hall I found myself at the church where the entertainment was to be give.

"Tired, at first? worrit? Well, I should reckon, I was just cussin' myself fer a plum idjut, and thinkin' of applying fer a writ of lunacy for one Solomon Rucker, when the head narator of the show announces, 'We will now have Browning's Love Among the Ruins,' recited by Miss Artimise LeBlonck.'

"I looked up and there standin' on the platform was a scraggy, scrappy gal who seemed nothin' at all exceptin' a pair of big black pinetorchy eyes and a great scruff of hair.

"Well, as the gal closed, I fetched a long breath, and I says to myself, 'Love IS best.' Then I added, 'but not love on jus one side; that gal in the poum loved the boy, too.'

"Then a gal comed forward with a fiddle. She was more audacious than the tother, and I was wonderin' whar that kildee had flew in frum, when she squaked her fiddle, a-tunin' it, and then she drawed the bow plum acrost them strings, long and wide and sweepy. It seemed to me somebody had flung into that church a million roses and wild vi'lets, but all made into fiddle notes. I thought to myself that when that gal got to reaven she'd make the angels and the harp players of the kingdom so ashamed of their selves they would go outer the business.

"But presently, will you believe it, lawyer, I forgot all about that gal that was fiddlin'. I was back in ole Marion. I was down on the banks of Pinashook creek. Me and Hester. It was March once more. The yellow jesermines was a streamin' with blossoms, what had been woven outen the sunshine, and every blame bee in the settlement was fussin' and fightin' for the honey, exceptin' when the wind growed jealous of their gettin all the sweets, shook 'em all outen the flowers. And the wild honeysuckles pink, and powdery and tuftel, and the ground all paved and floored with vi'lets. And me and Hester was there toget'r.

"As I sayed, I had cleaned forgot that gal war a-fidd'in' and my mouth was gettin' sweet, with the honey of the firs' and onliest kiss I ever had from Hester, when all of a suddent 'squeak' went one of them blame fiddle strings what had done snapped.

"And then there was no creek bank no Hester, no nothin' only me a settin' there in a strange hall; me, carin' for nobody and nobody carin' fer me.

"My heart was overflowin' with tears and the electric lights got all dim, and darksome, though I know I wa'nt a cryin'. The idee of a man what is a man a-blubberin' 'fore a bunch of strangers.

"Well, I got outen that church, though I knowed it want manners and behavior to be a-leavin' before the show was over. As I stood outside in the dark I said to myself, I did, the fellow that writ that poum knowed human nature, he did, even if he were short on language. 'Love is best, to be sure, love IS best, even if it be love all on one side.'

"And then and there without disputin' or leastways argifying with myself, I made up my mind I would go back to old Marion; and go I did the very nex' mornin'.

"When I got to old man Perkins' farm, the firs' thing I run upon was his chap, Si. Says I, 'Are Hester sick.'

"'Nope,' says the chap. 'Not sick, just crazy, crazy about fishin' down on Pinashook, though she don't never ketch nothin'. She's down there now.' And then he turned and chucked a rock at the ole gobbler that was struttin' biggity like among the hens.

"I never stopped to see whether he hit him or no, but made for the creek, and was there before a swit' han' could have shucked enough corn for the feed of one mule. I kep' on until I got to the place which I had seen while that gal was a-fiddlin', and where I had firs' got enough grit to out with my love fer Hester.

"Everything was jus' the same as it was while that girl was playin'. The bees and the wind was scuffin' with one another about them jesermines. The honeysuckles were a nodding their heads and a puckering up their mouths and a beggin' the butterflies to come and kiss 'em. The sunfish were shinin' in the creek like jewels in old King Solomon's crown.

"But nowhere was Hester to be seen! I looked and I looked. I was erbout to bless out that youngster of Perkinses fer a foolin' me, when my eyes lot on a fishin' pole kivered up by the arms of the vi'lets that helt it hugged up to them. Then I knowed that Hester was there, somewheres erbout. I went on a little further, soft and watchful. And then I seen, what you reckon I seen, lawyer? I seen Hester with both of her arms around—around an ole beech tree.

"I hearn a sweet little sob, and I just couldn't help it, but before she knowed it, I was there and had both my arms aroun' her.

"And what you suppose that pore little gal was a-doin' when I found her hugged up to that tree? She was a-kissin' her name and mine which I had jabbed into the bark with my knife that mornin' we both had foun' out somethin'.

"Since then she sin't never had no need to be huggin' trees and kissin' names nor nothin' else, exceptin' youngsters, and a certain ole rapscallion she loves mos' as well as she does a baby, and she is powerful fond of them, specially one what we all calls Sol, Sol Rucker, Jr."—Dalney Marshall.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

MICHIGAN.

Port Huron—The state retail grocers will meet here Feb. 7, 8 and 9.

Cadillac—The largest Wexford county inheritance tax was paid by the administrator of the estate of Wellington W. Cummer. It amounted to $9,503.63.

Battle Creek—Walking around the gates which had been lowered, Peter Johnson, an aged local resident, was struck and killed here by a Michigan Central train.

Lansing—Governor Warner has appointed W. E. Preston of Mt. Pleasant county, agent of the state board of correction and charities for the county of Isabella.

Battle Creek—Grand Trunk firemen have asked for an increase in wages and think it will be granted. The firemen average from $2.50 to $3.65, and want $3.10 per hundred miles.

Marquette—In view of his mother, Francis Grant, fourteen years old, broke through the ice while skating at Republic, near here, and was drowned. The mother attempted to save him and narrowly escaped the same fate. Men rescued her.

Jackson—Chauncey Risbridger, a Michigan Central railroad car inspector, stepped from a track on which a train was approaching to another on which an engine was traveling unknown to him. He was struck and horribly mangled, death being almost instantaneous.

Kalamazoo—The echo of a partnership suit between Charles F. Ruggles and Edward Buckley of Manistee, in which $104,000 was originally involved, but the main issue of which was $10,000 was decided by Judge H. F. Severns in the United States circuit court in favor of Ruggles.

Lapeer—The smallpox situation in the state home for the feeble-minded, situated near this city, which was believed well under control, took a decided turn for the worse Saturday and Sunday, and it is possible that more soldiers will be ordered to report to make the quarantine even more strict than at the present time.

Menominee—Rodney Stage was shot and killed by the accidental discharge of his own gun at Cedar River. The body of the young man was found by hunters near camp No. 4, frozen stiff. He had evidently been leaning on his gun with both hands over the muzzle when the weapon was accidentally discharged.

Kalamazoo—Bert Holmes, once convicted of murder in Grand Rapids, and in a retrial before Judge Padgham in Allegan county, fined $1,000 for killing a Grand Rapids motorman who accused him, has been admitted to the Michigan asylum in this city. A few days ago his mind became blank and he was brought to the asylum here.

Ionia—Two Grand Trunk conductors, James Flynn of train No. 11, due here at 8:10 p. m., and George Houghton of No. 14, slipped and fell under the wheels as they jumped from the train. Flynn had his hip crushed. Houghton grabbed the rods under the coach and was dragged many feet before the train stopped. He was badly cut and bruised.

Grand Rapids—The body of Stanley Matchel, middleweight champion, who was murdered near Springfield, Mo., was exhumed by his three brothers. They explained they had heard Stanley was beaten to death and not shot. The brothers reported the story was true as they found the bullet holes in Stanley's head. The body was immediately reburied.

Hillman—In retaliation for being "shed" about his love for a pretty girl on whose farm he was working, Russell Conant, aged twenty, shot and fatally wounded David [illegible] aged twenty-eight, and slightly injured his brother-in-law, John Stolcker. The bullet entered Edwards' side, passed through his bowels and lodged in Stolakers side just under the skin.

Cassopolis—Milton Matthews, familiarly known as "Pie" Matthews, was seriously injured in a cutting affray here by his nephew, Ralph Matthews. "Pie" Matthews had been in South Bend during the day and came home intoxicated, it is said. An altercation arose between the two over a trivial matter, and during the passing of words "Pie" slapped his nephew, who thereupon drew a knife and stabbed his uncle in the abdomen.

Owosso—W. C. Bellman, cashier of the First National bank of Hammond, Ind., son of W. F. Belman of Perry, and himself a former resident of this city, had the misfortune to strike a laboring man with his auto one night recently, and kill him instantly. The coroner exonerated Bellman from blame, but the cashier has made the following arrangements for the financial relief for the widow: He has paid all funeral expenses, paid a mortgage of $1,000 on her home, and will give her $5 a month for the support of each of her three children, $15 in all, until they have attained the age of 14. The children are now two, five and seven years old respectively.

GENERAL.

New York—Richard Croker, ex-Tammany chief, arrived Sunday night from London, looking healthier and happier than ever.

Buffalo—A single vote, in a district where over 41,000 ballots were cast on Nov. 8, elected Charles B. Smith, Democrat, a member of congress.

Washington—The population of the state of Kansas is 1,690,949, according to the statistics of the thirteenth census made public by Director Durand. This is an increase of 220,454, or 15.0 per cent over 1,470,495 in 1900.

Chicago—Judge Landis has formally transferred the "beef trust" case to Judge Carpenter in the United States district court. Judge Landis declined to listen to a motion that he certify the case to the United States circuit court as desired by the packers.

Chicago—A total of fourteen dead and forty seriously injured was the price paid for foot ball by its followers during the season just closing, despite the use of the new rules, which were brought into being in an effort to reform the game and make it less perilous to the players.

New York—Careless motorists who have violated the comparatively recent ordinance of the city's department of health by allowing their cars to emit dense smoke while on the streets, have paid $781 in fines since Sept. 20, according to the department figures. In this period 324 persons were arrested, of whom 324 were fined.

Chicago—The United States land and irrigation exposition was formally opened Saturday before a crowd which filled the coliseum. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, delivered the principal address. He claimed the ignorance of the American farmer in not knowing how to raise sugar beets costs the country $100,000,000 a year.

Paris—Premier Briand, while walking with President Fallieres, was struck twice in the face by a royalist Saturday. A vast crowd set upon the premier's assailant, and only determined intervention by guards saved him from being beaten to death. The man said he was a member of the executive committee of the "Camelots du Roi," an organization of young Royalists, and that he wished to strike at the republic in the person of Briand.

SHOT TO DEATH BY HIS EMPLOYEE

Cohoctah County Farmer Killed in Dispute Over Wages.

Howell, Mich., Nov. 21.—As the result of a quarrel over a small sum of money, Henry Noot is dead and Sidney Line is a fugitive. Line shot and killed Noot in his own home and then made his escape. The tragedy occured about 11 o'clock Saturday night in Cohoctah township, near Oak Grove.

Noot operated a thrashing outfit, and Line has been working for him. A dispute arose over a matter of wages.

After shooting Noot, Line turned from the body of his victim to Mrs. Noot, who had witnessed the shooting, and demanded to know where her husband's money was, and without waiting for a reply stooped down and rifled the pockets of the trousers which Noot had drawn on just previous to the shooting.

Line then left the house and no trace of him has been found since. When Mrs. Noot recovered from her fright she gave the alarm by telephone to neighbors, who in turn notified the officers.

Noot, who was forty years old, was well known about the country. His slayer is but nineteen, and has been looked upon generally as being not right mentally.

Count's Pilgrimage to Caucasus Halted by Grim Reaper.

FAMILY GATHERS AT BEDSIDE

Wife, However, Was Not Recognized by Great Writer-Philosopher—End Comes in Little Railway Station at Astapova—Inflamation of Lungs the Cause of Death.

Astapova (Special).—Count Leo Tolstoi is dead.

Dr. Makovetsky and the other attending physicians and Countess Tolstoi and family were at his side when the end came.

Several of the physicians were greatly overcome by the approaching death of Russia's great writer. One wept.

Tolstoi, accompanied only by Dr. Makovetsky, left his home to end his days in solitude to which he more and more inclined during his latter years. His pilgrimage led him to the monastery of Shamardine in the province of Kaluga, where he remained as the guest of his sister, Marie, a nun in the cloister.

Learning that his retreat had been discovered, he insisted on proceeding on his journey to the Caucasus, where he hoped to spend his last days close to the Tolstoian colony on the shores of the Black sea. But during the railroad journey he was overcome with exhaustion and the cold, and Dr. Makovetsky was compelled to have him transferred to the flag station at Astapova, where he was made as comfortable as possible in the rude wooden building.

For five days he had lain there, suffering first from bronchitis and later from inflammation of the lungs.

Countess Tolstoi was admitted to the sick room for the first time Saturday, but her husband failed to recognize her.

82 SUFFRAGETTES JAILED.

Headed by Mrs. Pankhurst, London Women Fight Police at Parliament Building.

London (Special).—The militant suffragettes reopened hostilities, Saturday, against the government and 1,000 strong closed in on the parliament buildings. The police had a lively fight. The women, many of whom were placed under arrest, were led by Mrs. Pankhurst.

The suffragettes had determined if possible to force the police cordon about the house of commons and, reaching Premier Asquith, to insist on the introduction of a woman's suffrage bill.

The police were ordered to make as few arrests as possible, but eighty-two suffragettes and supporters were thrown into police cells. A large contingent of American bluejackets from the visiting fleet were amused spectators. They cheered the combatants and incited them to fresh efforts.

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen of West Burlington, Iowa, when after seven weeks in the hospital four of the best physicians gave him up. For after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice getting no help from other remedies or doctors five bottle of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c at C. A. Wright & Son.

AMUSEMENTS.

Travelling by Proxy.

Traveling is attractive. That is why Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival attracts nearly two million people each season. It affords the opportunity to travel by proxy. And that, after all, is the only way many can travel. It certainly is the most comfortable way. The new "itinerary" booked for the Bradley Opera House on Monday, Nov. 28, will take Howe tourists directly to distant lands and strange scenes without those tedious train journeys, irritating delays, officious custom inspectors, etc., which are the bane of the actual traveler. Everyone who will travel with Mr. Howe can rest assured of getting far enough away from the local environment. There will be a ride up the Eiffel Tower; another through the Alps in wintes; and again another through the fiords of Norway. Then, also, there are scenes showing the recent violent eruption of Mt. Etna; life on a training ship; a Japanese jubilee; building the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad; and an elaborate and exclusive reproduction of the most splendid pageant in all history—the late King Edward's funeral in London and the impressive scenes in Windsor

THE TICKET TO PARADISE.

Mr. Sol Rucker sat on the gallery of Lampton's grocery store, his chair tilted back against one of the posts. A little girl came up and said, "Mr. Rucker, won't you please buy a ticket to our missionary entertainment?"

"That I will, Pearlie," he replied, handing her a dollar, the price of four tickets.

"I am astonished at such extravagance, Mr. Rucker," said Sam Foxworth, a young attorney, who had reason to know of the difficulty of parting the old man from his silver from many wrestlings he had had with him in regard to fees for certain eminent legal services.

"You see lawyer," retorted the old man, "some things ain't law, and air worth the money they costs, either fer their own selves or fer the recollections what they fetches back with em."

He paused a minute, and added, "You may think I am stretchin' the blanket, but a ticket to just such a shindig was once to me the same as a through ticket to paradise."

He knocked the ashes from his pipe and settled himself comfortably in his chair. He was evidently in for a talk. The lawyer and the crowd all prepared themselves to listen and to laugh.

"You see," the old man went on, "it was this way, lawyer. Hester and me had had a rucus. It want about nothin', but we both was kinder high-spirited and toucheous-like. We kinder skirmished around untel she said pal sharp and hurtish, 'Mr. Rucker Mr. Rucker—and her havin' called me Sol ever sence she knowed me) you can take back yore ring and yore love, too, for all I cares.'

"I answered most as snappish as she, 'As fer my love, Miss Hester Perkins, I ain't no Injun-giver, and with me what is give is give, and it can't be took back—and as fer the ring, this is what I cares about that,' and I threwed it in the fire right before her face, and before she had the chance to say a word, I flung outer the door and was coverin' ground fer home.

"There want no stayin' fer me in Marion county after that. It just seemed somethin' all the time was a rubbin' into a sore in my breas'. So I goes down New Orleans, I does, and gits work, stevedoring and fooling with lumber schooners and boats on Bayou St. John and the big river. At firs' it was all right. The new sights and the everlastin' noise and kelter of the town kep' my mind busy. It seemed I never could tire of watchin' the schooners sailin' over the oily waters of the Lake Pontchartrain and a hearin' the steamboats puffin' and pantin' on the sleepy yallow river, like a lazy nigger in a fodder fiel' August-time.

"Bimeby, one day two young girls, gal ladies, come down where we was unloadin' lumber from the Bong Adventur, and asks us to buy tickets to an entertainment for the orphans. "Feelin' like a lone orphan my onself, I bought one of them tickets, and that night 'steader goin' to the dance hall I found myself at the church where the entertainment was to be give.

"Tired, at first? worrit? Well, I jest started out an' was the oldest in point of membership, having joined the lodge soon after its formation, taking his last degree in March, 1855. His memories of this lodge are not unmixed with sorrow for many brothers have passed away. Of the charter members not one is left and he cannot recall one of those who were members at the time he united with them. The links of the chain are dropping one by one to be joined againdn the great hereafter.

OTTO BY-PRODUCT COKE

is much different than the majoriety of cokes for the reason it is prepared differently. It is made in air-tight ovens; is baked (not burned) for 22 hours, it is then pushed out on iron platforms. As soon as the coke strikes air, water is turned on, and the flames quenched. This leaves the coke very dry. This process eliminates all impurities.

Please remember this coke is no higher in price than the cheaper kinds, but is so much more satisfactory. Try a load and see for yourselves.

Oral Hygiene.

One of the diseases of civilization is defective teeth, and the more study there is given to oral hygiene the clearer it becomes that inattention to health of the teeth accounts for not a few other ills of the body. Indifference would bring, dentists with public spirit are now moving for recognition by education of the part which oral hygiene should have in the service of the public school to the child. They are insisting on cental as well as medical inspection of children, not for selfish ends, but to correct, early in life, tendencies which will debilitate the entire system if not checked.

Repairing the Ruins.

"The last time I motored in England," said Craig Biddle the other day, "I was amazed by the spick and span look of all the old castles, halls and manor houses. My companion was an Englishman, a very well informed chap, and I said to him:

"'I thought you people had a lot of picturesque old ruins over here?'

"'We did have once,' said he, 'but your heiresses have come over and put them all in good repair.'"

Breech-Loaders.

Breech-loading cannon were among the earliest used. We find them on English and other ships as early as the last quarter of the fourteenth century, and therefore much before the time of the buccaneers. The cannon was a mere tube, bound with heavy iron rings, and was loaded by the insertion of the "gonne chamber," an iron pan containing the charge, which fitted into and closed the breech. These guns were very clumsy affairs in comparison with the modern breech-loader, but the principle was the same.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results. It is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

STRIPED HORSES OF MEXICO

Search Begun for the Famed Wild Stud of the Sierra Madreas.

A search for the famed wild stud of striped horses in Mexico may be a patient venture after something new, but probably not more so than the present venture at breeding a new type of horses in Colorado under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, to be known as the "American Horse," not litterly with the American flag stamped in his forehead, but all the same a purely American horse. The venture after the striped horse is related as follows by the news from Mexico, which says that Prof. H. Cassar Ewart, a noted educator and naturalist of Edinburgh, Scotland, has arrived here on his way to a remote and unexplored region of the Serra Madres, in the extreme southwest part of the state. He is accompanied by several other scientists, and the object of their expedition is to investigate the oft heard report that there is a large drove of wild horses of most peculiar appearance in that part of Mexico. These animals are said to be striped and bear a close resemblance to the zebra. They are said to make their home in a rich valley which is almost completely shut in by the towering cliffs of the mountains.

It is the theory of Professor Ewart that all horses were at one time striped and their present coloring and absence of stripes are due to intermixing the breed. He has been studying the question for several years and recently finished an exhaustive research into the prehistoric remains of horses on the island of Porto Rico and Jamaica.

The account of the existence of a large drove of striped horses in the Sierra Madreas seems to be authentic. Long before white men had penetrated the almost inaccessible region Indians who lived in the mountains told of having seen this drove of horses. About fifty years ago an American mining prospector named Hampton Bradley, who formerly lived at Parrel, where he owned and operated the Marco mine, made a trip into the mountains. He was gone for about three months, and upon his return he told of having visited the valley where he saw this drove of horses. He said there were several thousand of the animals and that their feeding ground embraced many thousand acres of rich, level land, with a small stream of water, running through it.

Would "Ban Wan Fool."

Not Irish, but delightful, is the story of the automobilist who, in making a cross-country tour in Dakota, had the misfortune to have his machine break down. He saw a small house not far off and cut across to it. The only man about the place was a Swede, who was much amused by the sight of the strange rig the automobilist wore. "My friend," said the automobilist, "my machine has had a bad break and I would like to know if you have such a thing as a monkey-wrench about here?" The Swede looked at the automobilist with greater curiosity than ever, and then laughed. He had met some strange folks and heard some odd things since he had come to America, but this was the worst! "Monkey-wrench?" he asked, sarcastically. "I got sheep ranch and my cousin Ole he got cow ranch, and Meester Ferguson he ban have wan pig ranch, but I tank annywan start monkey ranch in Nord Dakota ban wan fool!"

Jurymen Paid the Fine.

A Texas correspondent tells "Law Notes" how an obstinate juryman was circumvented by his fellow judges of the facts. The offence charged was assault with intent to murder. After the jury had been out about two hours they returned the following verdict: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of aggravated assault, and assess his punishment at $25 fine, and herewith pay the fine." On inquiry as to the meaning of the last clause of the verdict, it came out that eleven of the jurors had agreed that the defendant was not guilty, but the twelfth doggedly hung out for a conviction for aggravated assault, and would not consent to a punishment less than a fine of $25. Finding it a hopeless task to bring over the obstinate one to their way of thinking, the eleven finally decided to agree with him, and "chipped in" enough to pay the fine.

Fur Beards for Farmers.

The protection of farmers and others who are exposed to the heat a great deal is serious and difficult matter. Cancer is on the increase, and farmers furnish a large proportion of the cases, many of them being due to the direct effects of sunlight on the face and hands. A full beard for the farmer is most desirable for his protection.

How To Stop —A— Stubborn Cough

We don't mean just stop the irritation in your throat—but cure the underlying cause.

Cough syrups cannot do this. It takes a constitutional tonic body builder to do the work properly—and cure you to stay cured. Vinol is the remedy you need.

Mrs. Minnie Osgood, of Glens Falls, N. Y., writes: "After trying several remedies for a bad cough and cold without benefit, I was asked to try Vinol. It worked like magic. It cured my cold and cough and I gained in health and strength. I consider Vinol the most wonderful tonic and invigorator I ever saw."

If we cannot stop that cough with VINOL—our delicious cod liver and iron tonic—which is made without oil—we will not charge you a cent for the medicine you buy. This seems like a pretty fair proposition—and ought to be accepted. Don't you think so? With this understanding we ask you to try a bottle of VINOL.

CRUELTY IN FISHING

Most Sportsmenlike Anglers Carry Little Batons to Kill Victims.

Live bait ought never to be used. To take a living minnow and thrust a hook through its back, and then to jerk it 50 or 60 feet through the air in order that it may wriggle in agony at the end of the line until it attracts some other fish to swallow it, is about as wanton a piece of cruelty as anyone could invent, and unsportsmanlike. The skilful fisherman will use a fly or some other device by which the fish he wishes to capture may be deceived and caught. The live minnow is the bait of the blunderer, not of the expert.

Even experienced fishermen sometimes commit another sort of cruelty which ought never to be practiced. They think that their fish must be kept alive as long as possible, and therefore run a string through its gills and throw it overboard, to be hauled after the boat.

This is as foolish as it is cruel. When the fish has a string through its gills it cannot breathe. It is slowly strangled to death, and if it is hauled through the water after the boat it is simply drowned in its own element. Fish, when taken, should be immediately killed. That is the only way to prevent needless suffering, and we may add that it is the best way to bring the fish home in good condition.

Our best fishermen now carry little batons or clubs and kill the fish, as soon as taken from the water, by a sharp blow on the back of the head.

Limitations of Practice.

In an Iowa town an action for ejectment was not long ago tried "by the court without a jury," the suit having been brought by a religious society to recover possession of a cemetery.

The defendant, a physician in active practice, had bought the ground for the use of the society, but when afterward he severed his connection with the organization, it was discovered that he had taken the title in his own name and evidently intended to hold on to it.

After duly weighing the evidence, the court ordered judgment for the plaintiff, stating briefly the reasons for the decisions. Whereupon defendant's counsel desired to be more fully enlightened in the premises.

"Certainly," said his Honor. "In addition to what I have already said, there are but two other reasons. One is that the church seems to need a cemetery and the other is that the doctor has failed to show that his practice is sufficiently large to necessitate his maintaining his own burying ground."

Part of the Treatment.

Tompkins had suffered terribly, and at one time it appeared that his illness might have a fatal termination. But skillful doctors and a pretty nurse tended him most carefully, and the crisis was successfully passed. The pretty nurse was Tompkin's one ray of sunshine during his weary hours, and he fell desperately in love with her.

"Nurse Edith," he said one day, "will you be my wife when I recover?"

"Certainly!" replied the consoler of suffering humanity.

"Then my hopes are realized. You do really love me?" queried the anxious Tompkins.

The pretty nurse stammered. "Oh, no," she said; "that's merely part of the treatment. I must keep my patients cheerful. I promised this morning to run away with a man who has lost both his legs."

THE CANDLESTICKS.

The candlesticks—there were two of them, and they were really fine specimens of old Sheffield plate—stood on a mahogany sideboard that was certainly out of proportion in size to the cottage parlor it half filled. But as a monument to the industry of Mrs. Barber, and the women of her house for several past generations, its high state of polish served an admirable purpose, and as a support to the candlesticks it could not have been improved upon. Together they shared the envious respect of the village, but to Mrs. Barber herself the candlesticks were always "the thing."

"Mahogany furniture's well enough," she would say, feigning a carelessness in appreciation she hardly felt "but it takes a sight of elbow grease to make it look anything particular and as for dusting, sometimes I feel like clearing the whole lot of old sticks out for what they'd fetch to save the dusting, for Dad and me don't sit in this room once in a blue moon—Dad, he can't a-bear it. What is it now? You gets up extry early and gives the place a sweep out and a rub round, and you dusts the bits of chiney and things and opens the door to let in enough of God's fresh air to liven it up and make it smell sweet and wholesome, and come a dusty day and the bicycles a-passing and a wagon or two, and by night the dust is a-lying on everything fit to make you cry.

"But the candlesticks, they shine so easy it's a real pleasure to clean 'em. Made of something they puts more value to than silver, they are, so they tells me now. My old mother died thinking 'em silver and in my young days there was nothing at all set above silver excepting gold. But things are different since I was a gal, and perhaps I've done my share of changing, too, for I don't so much care what they're called, though it's enough to make my old mother turn in her grave after all these years. But it seems they're worth a fine lot of money, whatever they be. They're for my boy. When I'm gone and his father's gone, the candlesticks will be his and he can do as he likes with 'em then. I can't say about that; but I shan't be here to have a hand in it, and, as for me selling of 'em, I'm trinking my old mother'd get up from churchyard to haunt me if I were to sell the candlesticks as she set such store by. Nor I wouldn't rob my son, as the only one left of sight to follow me. Born he was when all the rest was a-lying in their graves and long after I'd give away their bits of clothes and, if I'm anyhow silly like over him, you must excuse me, but part with the candlesticks I couldn't. And for the money"—the old face would sadden and she would pause in her long tale to slowly, monotonously shake her gray head—"we all knows as money is mighty little good to some. They can't help it—likely they're made so—but money melts when they touch it like butter melts in the sun, and precious little good done to anyone. But the candlesticks—well, well, I means to keep 'em, let folks worrit eved so. My Jim can do as he likes when I've give 'em a last cleaning—I'm thinking he won't want what they'll fetch less when he's old than when he's young, and when he's old I shan't be here to screw him out a few shillings now and again when things are tightish. Not that I have n't felt tempted to sell 'em and done with it," she would add, in self-defense.

Yet, one day the sideboard stood bare, robbed of its ornaments; but not after all, because some treasure-seeker had gained his desire and carried them off, and not because of the present necessities of Jim.

"I was fair sick of being worrited, and I couldn't stand it a day longer," Mrs. Barber said in explanation; "so I've just put 'em away, and there they'll be now till I be took off, and then frightened at the temptation to part with them pressing more closely on her with the growth of Jim's needs or whether her simple statement covered the whole situation, it is hard to say, but at any rate, the candlesticks lay in banishment in a box under her bed. All the old flannel petticoats she could spare helped to wedge them in and keep them from "scratching," and any further "worriting" on the part of straying treasure-seekers was successfully put an end to. How she filled up the time she had been accustomed to spend on cleaning them she did not say. For she no longer cleaned them; the fact that the box containing them was carefully nailed down and labeled "For my dere son Jim" prevented that.

During that summer Jim paid the old couple a flying visit—seedy, out-at-elbows Jim, lacking even a touch of his mother's cherry, long-spoken good nature or his father's independence of spirit. Mrs. Barber told half the village that his first words had been "Why, hallo, mother, where are your precious candlesticks?" and seemed to find inexhaustible humor and cleverness in the remark. "My old mother, she'd have been fair pleased," she added, "for she set no end of store by the candlesticks."

Mr. Barber, who looked as if he might well live another 20 years, making light of the accomplishment, died quite unexpectedly during the extreme cold of the following winter, and then the old woman lived on in the cottage alone, growing a little more bent and worn with every month, a changed and drooping figure pitiful to see. But people said it was not her husband's unlooked for death that had wrought the sudden alteration in her; that it had begun before that happened. There were some who professed to set apart a day in their memories when Mrs. Barber withered without warning, yet with no signs of definite disease.

Frail and broken as she was, she lived for several years and every year Jim paid her the accustomed flying visit.

"You'll like the candlesticks when I'm gone, Jimmy," she would say, her faded eyes shifting uneasily about the room, out of the window, anywhere but on her son, and her thin voice breaking a little. "You'll be able to sell 'em if you're a-wanting to, and I shan't be minding either." Jim would doggedly try to turn the current of her thoughts but it was never any good for more than a minute at a time.

And then, one day, Jim Barber, a careless but not un-loving son, knelt at his mother's bedside and she was dying.

"Get out the box, Jimmy," she whispered; "let me just look on the box once again, my dear." He had to set the box on a chair and even then she could not see it, but she could still lift a wasted hand to feel its rough deal lid and fumble for the label nailed there.

"I put 'em away, Jimmy, to save me from being everlastingly a-worrited, five years ago come harvesting. I wrapped 'em up and I nailed 'em down, and I put your name on top, so as there shouldn't be no chance of anyon's mistaking who they belonged to in case of me being took sudden. Five years ago I done it, Jimmy—and it ain't been undone since."

"Mother—mother, I—God forgive me for a cowardly—"

"Jimmy, dear heart, hush. Your old mother, she spoilt you, silly like, but she done it for love only. Eight little graves in the churchyard, and you, as healthy a babe as ever I see, sent to me when I'd give away all their little clotheses and dried my eyes and settled down to live long of Dad for the rest of my days without any little ones to light the way for us and keep our hearts from cooling, and then you come—And your way is harder now, Jimmy, because I spoilt you. They always said I did—Dad, he said so, too, and it was none of his work—but I did it for love. All the love left over from the others and all your own I give you—it's yours now, Jimmy—and, lad, let it help you when I'm gone. Be a good lad, it can't never be too late, my dear—and don't punish your old mother forever and ever for what she's done. I won't ask you to promise, Jimmy—promises are mighty easy broken—but try, dear lad; just keep on trying." She paused, and moved her hand from her son's grasp to touch the box once more.

"The candlesticks have always been the same as your own, Jimmy, and the box hasn't been opened once these five years."

She did not die just then, but those were the last words she was given breath to speak. And those words were a lie—God help her.

For the box had been opened twice, as Jim Barber knew. Once when, alone he opened it to steal the candlesticks; and once when alone also, his mother opened it to verify her suspicion of the theft.—L. Parry Truscott.

Silas—"Hullo Cy. What's new down Frog Creek way?"

Cyrus—Haven't you heard? Geel Zeke Weatherby is the proud pa of a youngster that weighs twenty pounds."

Silas—"Do tell! That's odd. Anything else?"

Cyrus—"Yep! Hank Ryetop is the proud pa of twins. Reckon you'll say that's odd, too?"

Silas—"No, by heck, that's even."

Awful Thought.

"If Turkey really goes to war," said Frayed Fagin, "can't we beat our way over dere an' den come back an' pose as war heroes?"

"No Turkey for mine," replied Gritty George. "I wouldn't go over dere for a fortune. Somebody might give us a Turkish bath."

Quiet Indeed.

The great politician showed the visitor through his private bank. "What a quiet place," observed the visitor. "You could hear a pin drop."

The great politician winked his eye. "No wonder it is quiet," he chuckled. "It is here that I have all my 'hush' money stored."

NATURAL GAS EXPLODES

Several Persons Injured in Dunkirk, N. Y., Disaster.

Explosion Caused by Man Striking a Match to Light Cigar—Loss Will Be Very Large.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Nov. 28. — A two-story brick building, occupied by the Brocton Hardware and Lumber company, was wrecked by an explosion of natural gas which made its way into the cellar by way of sewers from leakage in the pipes. The entire front, including walls and plate glass windows were blown out, and several men who were in the store were blown through the windows. Two of them, L. R. Ryckman, owner of the Brocton Wine Cellars and J. E. Crandall were badly burned about their heads, arms and hands.

Ten persons were in the store at the time. The explosion was caused by a man striking a match to light a cigar. On the second floor, where the family of C. F. Crandall, one of the firm resides, a piano was shattered immediately in front of his two daughters, and other furniture tumbled in fragments about them. They escaped injury. The building did not take fire, but the loss is large.

BULL ATTACKS MAN; MAY DIE

Cyrus Woodruff Badly Injured by Animal at Saginaw Home.

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 28.—Cyrus Woodruff, in attempting to take a bull from the pasture to his barn, was attacked by the angered animal. Mrs. Woodruff went to her husband's assistance, using a pitchfork, but the jabs from the fork seemed to arouse the animal more.

Mrs. Woodruff's screams attracted two men who were passing and they succeeded in driving the bull away. The attending physician found that Woodruff was internally injured and entertains little hope for his recovery.

Capt. Rogers Reports Disappearance of Revolutionists to Governor.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 28.—Capt. J. H. Rogers, commander of a ranger company, who with several of his men has been searching for Mexican revolutionists along the Rio Grande above Laredo, has advised Gov. Campbell that the maurading bands have disappeared from the Texas side of the river.

Beyond the reports of raids upon a few ranches and small communities in different localities of northern Mexico by scattered bands of revolutionists, the government is in complete control of the situation, it is stated.

He fell to the floor unconscious and his wife, being unable to assist him, commenced calling for help. Neighbors heard her calls and came to her assistance.

CANAL STRIKERS LEAVING ISTHMUS

Foreigners May Acquire Land Under New Law.

AROSEMENA DINES AMERICANS

Congressional Party Holding Hearings on Appropriatoins Sailed for New York Today From Colon on Steamship Anson.

Panama, Nov. 28.—The congressional party, who have been holding hearings in connection with canal appropriations, sailed for New York from Colon on the steamer Anson today. The local newspapers publish a statement by Congressman Tawney, chairman of the commission, that the canal will not be fortified until the nations have the opportunity of declaring themselves on the question of observing neutrality in the canal zone. The statement causes much comment.

Mr. Knowles, American minister to Bolivia, will leave Tuesday for his post. He has been entertained by the American minister here. A reception was tendered by President Arosemena in honor of the visiting American congressmen. A large number of guests attended, including the diplomatic corps, the members of the cabinet and a number of ladies.

There has heretofore been much discussion over the difficulties Americans experienced in acquiring land in Panama. A law was recently passed providing that foreigners will enjoy the rights conceded by the law for the exploitation of forests, and also by the law respecting the acquirement of land. This means that the former law prohibiting foreigners from obtaining land, if the same rights are not accorded Panamaians in the country of the foreigner is annulled, thus allowing the holding of land by others than Panamarians.

It is reported that the president of the Boiler Makers' union of the United States has cabled to the boilermakers here requesting them to remain at work until President Taft passes on their petition for increased wages. Nearly all the men have quit work and many of them have left the isthmus.

DAVID HUNT LOSES LIFE

General Manager of Detroit Auto Concern Accident Victim.

Car Skids and Goes Down Embankment—Mr. Hunt Jumped and Was Caught by the Machine.

Detroit, Nov. 28.—David Hunt, Jr., general manager of the manfuctaring for the E. M. F. company, of this city, was instantly killed in an auto accident near Yate, Mich., due to the car skidding and overturning down a steep embankment. His neck was broken. Hunt was standing on the left running board at the time and evidently jumped. He struck the opposite side of the ditch and fell backward just in time to be caught by the automobile, a part of the mechanism falling across his neck.

The unfortunate accident was the culmination of what was intended to be a jolly rabbit hunting trip. His relatives reside in Boston, where the body will be taken for burial.

25 LOSE LIVES IN BIG FACTORY FIRE

Flames Destroys Brick Structure in Newark, N. J.

MANY LEAP FROM THE WINDOWS

Newark, N. J., Nov. 28.—In ten minutes twenty-five girls were burned alive or crushed to death on the pavement in leaving from the windows and fire escapes of a four-story brick factory building at a busy corner in the mill district.

The latest count shows that twenty-four bodies recovered have been identified. The collapse of a wall interrupted further search.

Fifty were taken to hospitals, of whom one is dead and five others are dying. Among the injured is Joseph E. Sloane, deputy fire chief, who was caught beneath a falling wall and buried in bricks and rubbish. He is badly hurt, but may recover.

The rush of the flames was so incredibly swift and threw such unreasoning terror into the huddled working girls on the top story that the body of one was found still seated on a charred stool beside the machine at which she had been busy when the first cry of "fire" petrified her with fright.

Horrible as must have been what went on in the smoke of the crowded upper room, what befell outside in the bright sunlight was more horrible yet. The building was furiously inflammable and the first rush of flames cut off all possible escape by stairways.

On these overcrowded and steep lanes, scorched dancing hot by the jets of flame from lower windows, pressed forward a mob of women, blind with panic, driven by the fire and by the others behind them.

A net had been spread beneath the windows and the girls began to jump. "Like rats out of a burning bin," was the way a fireman described that pell mell descent. They boiled out of the windows like a thick treacle, rolled upon the heads of those below, and cascaded off the fire escape to the pavement, sixty feet below.

Some of them stood in the windows outlined against the flames and jumped clear; others from the landings; still others from the steps where they stood. They fell everywhere—into the net, on the necks of firemen, and fifteen of them on the hard stone slabs.

When the awful rain of bodies ceased there were eight dead in the street and the gutters ran red. Seven more were so badly crushed they died in hospitals. Many are still under surgical care.

The building was a four-story brick structure, occupied on the two lower floors by the Newark Paper Box company and the A. A. Drake Paper Box company; on the third floor, where the fire started, by the Anchor Lamp company and the Etna Electric company, and on the top floor, where the death list ran heavy, by the Wolf Manufacturing company, makers of underwear. The wooden floors were soaked with oil dripping from the machinery, and the flames ate their way through them like pasteboard.

When they warped and weakened the weight of the machinery tore them from the walls, and they fell into the basement in a horrile tangle of hot iron and mangled humanity.

Before any semblance of order could be restored every police reserve in the city had been called out. An estimate of the property loss could not even be ventured. The fire department now guesses $165,000, but no statement from the owners and tenants is yet available.

DEMOCRATS PLAN BALTIMORE RALLY

State and National Leaders to Take Part in Affair.

CLARK ISSUES A STATEMENT

Meeting Will Be Held on Morning of Jan. 17—Night Set Aside for Celebration of Recent Victory in the Elections.

Washington, Nov. 28.—It has been learned that Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, acting in harmony with the views of William J. Bryan, was instrumental in bringing about a change in the character of the meeting of Democratic leaders to be held in Baltimore Jan. 17. This meeting, as originally planned, was to be a "conference." It was announced, to enable the leaders to formulate a policy for the party in the presidential campaign in 1912.

Champ Clark, active friend of Bryan and prospective speaker of the Democratic house, was one of the Democratic who attended a preliminary meeting in Baltimore and it is believed that he opposed the conference idea on the ground that it might be construed as nothing more or less than a conspiracy on the part of the eastern Democrats to reorganize with a view to nullifying the Bryan influence in the Democratic national convention of 1912.

Mr. Clark thereupon suggested that instead of a conference a rally be held as a means of celebrating the recent Democratic victory. If present plans are carried out, this rally will be attended by approximately 1,000 Democratic leaders from the various states. A meeting will be held on the morning of Jan. 17, at which speeches will be made, and the night will be set aside for a monster celebration.

According to statements the Bryan men are not entirely contented with the plans for the rally. They look upon the Baltimore affair with suspicion and will attend it fully prepared for attacks on the peerless leader.

Representative Clark would not discuss the rally except in a general way. He was asked if it was a movement in the direction of harmony.

"The call for the rally speaks for itself," replied Mr. Clark. "It is to be a celebration of our recent victory. No resolutions will be adopted or policies formulated. That is all I care to say about it."

The Baltimore rally, according to the announcements of its leaders, will be a big affair. William J. Bryan, Govs.-Elect Hix, Foss, Baldwin and Wilson; Gov. Harmon, of Ohio; Chairman Mack, of the Democratic national committee, and others, all the Democratic senators and all Democratic members of the house will be invited.

Carmichael watched him through the window.

"He's a queer codger, and it's a queer story. I don't believe I have heard it all either. What was he really hunting for with those glasses? I give it up."

He was not alone with Grumbach, [illegible] more closely than ever. Mad with love that was the phrase. He conned it over and over—mad with love. That excused many things.

Grumbach was indeed perturbed, and this sensation was the result of what he had not told his friend. Gott! And after a time he was in the Adlergasse. And of all that happy, noisy family only he and Hermann left! In one of the open doorways, for it was warm, a final caress of vanishing summer, he saw a fat, youngish woman knitting woolen hose. Two or three children sprawled about her knees. There was that petulance of lip and forehead which marked the dissatisfaction of the coquette married.

"Tekla!" Grumbach murmured.

He was not conscious that he had paused, but the woman was. She eyed him with the mild indifference of the bovine. Then she dropped her glance, and the shining needles clicked afresh. Grumbach forced his step onward. And for this! He laughed discordantly. The woman looked up again wonderingly. Now, why should this stranger laugh all by himself like that?

Hans saw the sign of the Black Eagle and directed his steps thitherward. He sat down and ordered a beer, but did not touch the glass. And what right, he pondered, had conscience to drag him back to Ehrenstein, where he had known the bitterest and happiest moments of his life? And yet, rail as he might at this invisible restraint called conscience, he saw God's direction in this return. Only he, Hans Grumbach, knew and one other. And that other, who?

Fat—Tekla was fat, and he had treasured the fair picture of her youth long years. Well, there was an end to that. Little fat Tekla, to have nearly overturned a duchy! And then Hans became aware of voices close at hand.

"Yes, frau, he is at work in the grand duke's vineyards. And think, the first day he picked nine baskets."

"That is good, but I know many a one who can pick their twelve. And you are to be married when the vintage is done? You will make a fine wife, Gretchen."

"And he a fine husband."

"And you will bring him a dowry too. But his own people—what does he say of them?"

"He has no parents, only an uncle, who doesn't count. We shall live with grandmother and pay her rent."

"And you are wearing a new dress," admiringly.

Gretchen preened herself. Hans dropped the lid of his stein and pushed it away. His heart always warmed at the sight of this goose girl. He counted down the small change for the beer, slid back in his chair and sauntered to the bar.

"Good day to you, herr," was her greeting.

"When is the wedding? I should like to come to it."

"You will be welcome, herr."

"And may I bring along a little present?"

"If it so please you. I must be going," she added to Frau Bauer.

Grumbach walked with her to the Krumerweg, and he asked her many questions, and some of her answers surprised him.

"Never knew father or mother?"

"No, herr. I am only a foundling who fell into kind hands. This is where I live."

"And if I should ask to come in?"

"But I shall be too busy to talk. This is bread day," evasively.

"I promise to sit very quiet in a chair."

Her laughter rippled. She was always close to that expression. "You are a funny man. Come in, then; but mind, you will be dusty with flour when you leave."

Into the kitchen she led him. She was moved with curiosity. Why should any man wish to see a woman knead bread?

"Sit there, herr." And she pointed to a stool at the left of the table.

Gretchen deliberately rolled up her sleeves and began work.

Upon Gretchen's left arm, otherwise perfection, there was a white scar, rough and uneven, more like an ancient burn than anything else. Grumbach's eyes rested upon the scar and became fixed.

"THE SCAR? I DO NOT REMEMBER."

"Where did you get that?" he asked. He spoke with a strange calm.

"The scar? I do not remember. Grandmother says that when I was little I must have been burned."

"Gott!"

"What did you say, herr?"

"Nothing. You can't remember? Think!" tensely now.

"What's all this nonsense about?" she cried, with a nervous laugh. "It's only a scar."

She patted the dough into four squares. These she placed on the oven stove.

"There! It's a fine mystery, isn't it?"

"Yes." But Grumbach was shaking as with ague.

"What is the matter, herr?" with concern.

"I grow dizzy like this sometimes. It doesn't amount to anything."

Gretchen turned down her sleeves. "You must go now, for I have other work."

"And so have I, Gretchen."

He gained the street, but how he never knew. A great calm suddenly winged down upon him, and the world became clear—clear as his purpose, his courage, his duty. They might shoot or hang him as they saw fit. This would not deter him.

The gypsy standing in the center of the way, did not see Grumbach, for he was looking toward the palaces. Grumbach, even more oblivious, crashed into him. Grumbach stammered an apology, and the other replied in the peculiar dialect. The jar, however, had roused Hans out of his single mood. [illegible] the gypsy's eye a flaw in the iris. Hans gave a cry.

"You? I find you at this moment of all others?"

The gypsy retreated. "I do not know you. It is a mistake."

"But I know you," whispered Hans. "And you will know me when I tell you that I am the gardener's boy you ruined some sixteen years ago."

CHAPTER XIV

DISCLOSURES

CARMICHAEL sat in the office of the consulate. His letter of resignation was on its way, but it would be in November before he heard definitely from the department. By that time the great snows would have blanketed the earth and the malir of his discontent would be reached. But what to do till that time? He could ride for some weeks, but riding without companionship was rather a lonesome affair. His own defiance of the chancellor had erected a barrier between her highness and himself. They would watch him now, evade him, put small obstacles in his path, obstacles against which he could enter no reasonable complaint. A withered leaf, a glove and a fan—these represented the sum of his romance.

Two figures moved in the garden beneath. When the two heads came together swiftly and then separated, both smiling, he realized that he had witnessed a kiss. Ah, here was the opportunity, and, by the Lord Harry, he would not let it slip. If this fellow meant wrongly toward Gretchen—and how could he mean else?—he, Carmichael, would take the matter boldly into his hands to do some caning. He laughed. Here would be another souvenir, to have caned—

He jumped to his feet, dropped his pipe on the sill of the window and made for his hat and sword cane. The clerk went on with his writing.

To gain the garden Carmichael would have to pass through the tavern. The first person he encountered was Colonel von Wallenstein. Wallenstein spoke to Frau Bauer, who answered him with cold civility. Wallenstein twirled his mustache, laughed and went into the garden. Neither Gretchen nor the vintner saw Wallenstein. He watched them with an evil smile. After some deliberation he walked lightly toward the lovers.

"A pretty picture!" he said.

"Leave us, Gretchen," said the vintner, with a deceiving gentleness.

Gretchen started reluctantly down the path. As she stepped off the path to go round the colonel he grasped her rudely and kissed her on the cheek. She screamed, and this scream brought Carmichael upon the scene. He saw the vintner run forward and dash his fist into the soldier's face. Wallenstein fell back hurt and blinded. The vintner, active as a cat, saw Carmichael coming on a run. He darted toward him and before Carmichael could prevent him dragged the sword cane away. The blade, thin and pliant, flashed and none too soon. The colonel had already drawn his saber.

"Save him!" Gretchen wrung her hands.

The two blades met spitefully. Half a dozen thrusts and parries convinced the colonel that the raging youth knew what he was doing. Down swooped the saber cuttingly. The blade of the sword cane snapped like a pipestem. The latter came on, and there was death's intent.

Meantime Carmichael had found a short hop pole. He hit the saber with good will. Back came the steel. The colonel did not care whom or what he struck at now. When Carmichael returned the compliment he swung his hop pole as the old crusaders did their broadswords. The saber dropped uninjured, but the colonel's arm dangled at his side. He was in agony. Carmichael's anger abated none.

"You're a fine example of a soldier! Are you mad to attack a man this way? They will break you for this, or my name's not Carmichael.

"I shall kill you for this!"

"Bah! I have fought more times than you have years to your counting," with good, Yankee spirit. "But if you think I'll waste my time in fighting a duel with you, you're up the wrong tree."

"Go to the devil!"

"Not just at present. There's too much for me to do."

Gretchen and the vintner had vanished. Carmachael agreed that it was the best thing for them to do. The vintner was no coward, but he was discreet. Somebody might ask questions. So Carmichael returned to the consulate, equally indifferent what the colonel did or where he went. Of the vintner he thought, "The hot headed young fool, to risk his life like that!" He would see later what he meant in regard to Gretchen. Poor little goose girl!

"Are you hurt, excellency?" asked the clerk solicitously.

"Hurt?"

"Yes. I heard a woman scream and ran to the window. It was a good fight. But that fellow—ach! To run away and leave you, an outsider, to fight his battle!"

"He would have been sliced in two if I hadn't come to the front. A hop pole isn't half bad. I'll bet that lady's man has a bad arm for some time to come. As for the vintner, he had good reasons for taking to his heels."

"Good reasons?" But there was a sly look in the clerk's eyes.

"No questions, if you please."

"Very well, excellency." And quietly the clerk returned to his table of figures. But later he intended to write a letter, unsigned, to his serene highness.

Carmichael, scowling, undertook to answer his mail, but not with any remarkable brilliancy or coherency.

[illegible] condition of mind Grumbach found him—[illegible] accompanied by the old clock mender from across the way and a gypsy Carmichael had never seen before.

"Tell your clerk to leave us," said Grumbach.

"Something serious, eh?" Carmichael dismissed the clerk, telling him to return after the noon hour.

"I have already spoken to you about it," Grumbach returned. "But I am here to ask a favor, a great favor, one that will need all your diplomacy to gain for me."

"Ah!"

"For myself I ask nothing. A horrible blunder has been made. You will go to the grand duke and ask immunity for this gypsy and this clock mender as witnesses to the disclosure which I shall make to his highness. Without this immunity my lips will be sealed forever. As I said, I ask nothing for myself, nothing. There has been a great blunder and a great wrong, too, but God sent me here to right it. Will you do this?"

"SURELY YOUR MAJESTY WILL NOT SHOOT AN OLD FRIEND?"

"But why don't you want immunity for yourself?"

LETTER FROM LONG BEACH

Editor Herald: Patient readers all, please pardon me from indulging in a few comparisons of climatic conditions there and here.

A few days ago I came into the house from where I had been trimming rose bushes 20 feet high and covering the space of a house 20 feet wide. Said house is only about 15 feet from the north side of our own home. Some of the branches of those bushes have lopped over against our house and I have fastened them there in such a manner as to for a little archway or bower qetween our two buildings over a passageway from the street to the rear of the buildings and for weeks and months they are loaded with hundreds, yes, I believe thous ands of white and yellow roses affording a most beautiful sight attracting the attention of all passers by and calling out many expressions of surprise and pleasure.

I commenced to say that I came into the house, picked up my Dowagiac Daily News, which has been a present to me from the editor and his wife who were pupils of mine in that city 20 years ago. For several years it has come as a daily reminder of their friendship and esteem—and read of their first snow storm, Oct. 27.

The next day I continued my work among rosebushes and vines, mowed our lawn, pulled grass from our bed of California poppies, the state flower. In my next paper I read of a couple being snowbound at their lake summer resort with their auto by 10 inches of snow. The next days paper tells me that berries and sleighing mix; that local people pick ripe fruit one day and ride in sleighs the next. In the same paper of Nov. 3, I read that on the 2nd 20 qts. of ripe strawberries were picked and sold at 22c per qt. The berries ripened up before the snow came and though covered with 14 inches of snow they did not freeze and when the snow went off proved as fine as any gathered in the summer.

Then came a letter from our old time school mate Charley Blanchard from Kibbie, Mich., telling of the heavy storm there the snow being so heavy as to break down fruit trees on which the foltage still remained. He afforded relief to his trees by knocking the snow off with a pole. By the way, we found each other through my letters to the Herald and I enjoy his letters very much. They are a happy family and enjoying life on their Winona farm.

Custom in Spain.

One thing specially is vital in Spain: "Costumbre," they say (It is the custom"). It explains commercial honor tersely for the Spanish business man eo keep his word and pay his bills; exactly as it is equally cussomary for him to lack what we call "honor" in some other departments of life. It is customdry to do or not to do, to like or not to like, a thousand things. Why? "Custombre" is the only reply It is customary, moreover, not to yield readily to an improvement or a luxury, even as it if again equally customary, once the Spaniard has yielded to a given thing, to hold to it like adamant.

AMUSEMENTS!

THE ROSAR-MASON CO. COMES HIGHLY RECOMMENDED.

Mr. Ed. L. Mark,
Tecumseh, Mich.

My dear Sir:

I understand you are to have the pleasure of playing the Rosar-Mason Comedy Co. next week. Allow me to mention the fact that the same company has played my house for a week and broke the house record in business for a repertoire show. They gave the very best of satisfaction and the patrons of my theatre have been asking already when are you going to get the Rosar-Mason Comedy company back again. Such is the impression this organization has left with the show-going public of my town, and I understand it's the same in every town they have played this season. It's because the management has the show so arranged that there isn't a dull moment during the performance and there's plenty of goon wholesome comedy. Why, the vaudeville features of the company, seen each night are worth the price of admission alone. You can look forward to a good week's business and first class pleasing performances, I'll guarantee you as you understand it wouldn't justify me to misrepresent anything to you. I remain respectfully yours,

W. M. Williams,
Mgr. Howland Theatre,
Pontiac, Mich.

The above company will play a week's engagement ot the Bradley Opera House commencing Monday, December 5. It is safe to say they are the best stock company ever in Tecumseh

Frank Winch, in the Billboard' says: Never before in all film history has such a hit been made as with the Buffalo Bill's Wild West—Pawnee Bill's Far East pictures. Moving picture men and patrons the country over are most enthusiastic over the films which from a stand point of photography and interest have seldom been equaled.

The Clipper says: Every scene has been photographed and every scene is as life like as if you joined the sweltering crowd and jammed your way into the crowded tent on the road.

ARMY MEETS NAVY IN FOOTBALL BATTLE

NAVY AHEAD

Score 3 to 0

A sturdy "middle," Half Back Dalton, defeated the Army at Franklin field Saturday afternoon score 3 to 0. After six vain attempts to boot the ball from placement between the enemy's cross bars in the first three periods of play the hero of Annapolis succeeded in his seventh attempt.

With but a few minutes of play Dalton dropped back to the thirty-yard line and sent the grimy pigskin accurately between the uprights.

The Navy had won. The fighting spirit of West Point was broken. Tonight Annapolis "plebs" and seniors are lauding Dalton and his famous right foot.

It was a glorious victory for the Navy, Daltons feat was a dramatic climax to one of the hardest fought and cleanest games ever played between the two ancient foemen, and the half back was responsible for the only score made in the annual battle.

This foot ball game between the Army and Navy as represented by the eleven from West Point and the Naval Academy was one of great interest and was watched by thousands. The black, gold and grey uniform of the Army and the blue and yellow of the Navy with a generous sprinkling of large yellow chrysantheum made a brilliant and animated picture.

The Navy Goat was on hand to help along but the Army mule was absent. After the return to the Naval Academy it was learned that Ingraham C. Lowell, the midshipman quarterback had played nearly the entire game with a broken rib and possibly a punctured lung, however he is getting along all right.

After this victory the Midshipman of the Academy think they have one of the leading, if not the leading team of the year, and it looks as if they held the championship of 1910.

Tecumseh was represented by Miss Ruth Cummins, who with a party of friends left for Phiadelphia last week.

The Reason They Moved.

Last Sunday, while explaining the Sunday-school lesson which pertained to the bartering of the Jews in the Temple, the superintendent asked the children, "Why did the Lord send them out of the Temple," (His house)? As no one answered he wished to make it clearer, and put the question in this way: "Why would a man make people move out of his house?"

From the infant class Willie piped up, "Because they couldn't pay the rent."—The Delineator.

Jealous of Jack.

Dick—"Did you enjoy yourself down at the masque ball last night?"

Edna—"Indeed I did. And coming home through the chilly night Jack Frost kissed my cheeks."

Dick—"Lucky Jack! The next time I am going disguised as Jack Frost myself."

Designs on Him.

Gunner—"Bilkins says his girl thinks he is pure gold. Last night when he called the old man and the dog both got after him."

Guyer—"H'm! Then I suppose he was chased gold."

Many a latestaying suitor has had a call from above.

In trying to be "independent" many persons are impolite.

Many a husband's pen checks his wife's extravagance.

Not all of the dark things of life come to pass at night.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1719 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

LONG FIGHT WITH DEATH

Desperate Predicament of Man Caught in Quicksand.

Rescued by a Duck Hunter When Just About To Be Engulfed in the Treacherous Stuff.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Gilbert Stephens is under the care of physicians in his home in Silver Lake Park and may be weeks in recovering from the shock of a long battle with death in quicksand.

Stephens had taken a short cut to his home and stumbled into a hole full of quicksand. The more he struggled to get out the deeper he went in. For two hours he shouted for help, until finally his voice was silenced by the mud which rose about his shoulders and pressed on his lungs so that he could barely breathe.

The quicksand had reached his chin and was pulling him slowly but surely to death by suffocation when William Piscule, a town constable, who was out duck shooting, saw him and came to the rescue.

Piscule picked up an armful of brush and sticks which he threw on top of the quicksand. This gave him a fair foothold and he reached down to Stephens, tying the straps of his gun bag beneath the helpless man's shoulders. Then, after a long struggle, he succeeded in dragging the helpless man to firm earth.

SUED FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

C. G. Hockett Made Defendant in Plea Begun by Miss Minerva Hazard.

Bridge, Mass., Nov. 28. — Carl G. Hockett, a former Worcester technology student, who last September married Miss Laura Moore, of this town, nearly lost the power of speech when he was told he had been made defendant in a breach of promise suit asking for $45,000 damages, brought by Louise Minerva Hazard, a Detroit telephone girl.

Hockett is said to be a son of a wealthy retired fruit ranch owner in Detroit and denied, at first, of ever having heard of Miss Hazard. Miss Hazard says that Hockett kept fooling her for three years and then quietly slipped off and got married. Then, when he came to Detroit and she asked for an explanation, he coolly replied: "Go and see my lawyer."

CASH LOST IN COPPER STOCKS

U. P. Bank Cashier Is Now Short $17,000 in His Accounts.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 28.—Speculation in copper stocks is responsible for the downfall of Charles F. Smith, cashier of the First National bank of Rockland, Ontonagon county, now under arrest on the charge of embezzling $17,000 of the bank's funds.

Smith was given a hearing before the United States commissioner here, and held to the federal grand jury at Marquette.

Stomach Troubles Cured by Vinol

"I suffered so long from stomach trouble and indigestion, that I lost flesh rapidly — VINOL cured me after everything else had failed. It strengthened my digestive organs—gave me a hearty appetite, and I can eat anything without the slightest distress. I do not believe anything equals VINOL for stomach trouble and indigestion."

W. E. WATERHOUSE, Portland, Me.

Mr. Thos. G. Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., writes, "I suffered for years from a chronic stomach trouble. VINOL entirely cured me after everything else had failed."

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL, which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion, and at the same time building up the weak and run-down system.

Try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

BOAT CAPSIZES; FOUR DROWN

Ferryman and Three Passengers Die In St. Mary's River.

THREE OTHERS RESCUED

Ferryman of Night Boat at Soo Attempted to Swim Ashore, but Was Overcome by Exhaustion—Other Victims Sank Almost Immediately After Craft Capsized.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 21.—Four persons died when a rowboat capsized in the St. Mary's river during the night. Three others who were in the boat live to tell about it. The dead are;

FRED PARKER.
CECIL BROWN.
REGINALD LEVI.
JOHN SHERWOOD.

Sherwood was the night ferryman who operated a small boat between the two Soos after the steam ferry ceased its trips at night. The other three, with Clifford Dilks, Samuel Byron and Norman Treganza, had been on this side during the evening and, when they were ready to go home, all insisted on crowding into the little boat at once instead of making the trip in two parties.

The boat was much overcrowded, and when it struck the current from the rapids several waves washed over the side. Bailing was started, but another big wave capsized the craft.

Parker, Brown and Levi disappeared at once and were not seen again, while Sherwood, though a cripple, started to swim ashore. His strength evidently gave out, however, as he was not seen again.

Dilks, Byron and Treganza clung to the overturned boat, and their shouts attracted the attention of the crew of the steel trust supply boat Superior, who blew distress signals. In answer to these a tug hurried out and rescued the three men.

Sherwood was a well known character in both the Soos, and the other three men were prominent in the Canadian city. None of the bodies have been recovered.

MORAN DEFEATS BAT NELSON

Durable Dane Takes Count in Eleventh Round After Gruelling Fight.

San Francisco, Nov. 28. — Battling Nelson of Hewewisch, Ill., no longer will menace the lightweight belt. For the first time in his fighting career the "durable Dane," a shell of the once great squilgist, was knocked out beyond all dispute by Owen Moran, the sturdy lad from Birmingham, England, in the presence of one of the largest crows of spectators ever assembled at a glove contest in this city.

Moran knocked out Nelson in the eleventh round of a scheduled twenty round event, his victory being clean and leaving no room for argument as to the complete mastery over the one time champion. But he was compelled to drop Nelson five times in this round, for despite the force of the Briton's right hand punches on the point of the chin, the wonderful fighting spirit of Bat ever was present.

COL. WETMORE EXPIRES

St. Louis Millionaire Dies of Injuries Due to Wagon.

Was an Ardent Admirer of Bryan and Bland and Member of Democratic National Committee.

St. Louis, Nov. 28.—Col. Moses C. Wetmore died here as the result of injuries suffered when run over by a wagon. Col. Wetmore was a bachelor and was a millionaire. Born in Illinois, he began life as a tobacco stripper and finally became one of the chief owners of the Liggett & Meyers Tobacco company. He opposed the tobacco trust, and when this succeeded in buying his factory he retired.

It is reported that the fight made against the trust while still in the tobacco business cost him $5,000,000, but when he retired he had probably as much more.

An ardent Democrat, Col. Wetmore was a friend of Richard P. Bland and later became intimately associated with William Jennings Bryan. He was a member of the Democratic national committee.

In the accident Col. Wetmore suffered a fracture of his right shoulder, a fracture of his right hip, and concussion of the brain. He had left his office to go to his home when, upon crossing the street, he was run down by a wagon, the wheels of which passed over his body, leaving him helpless and prostrate in the congested street until he was rescued by a patrolman. Col. Wetmore was 65 years old.

MEXICO IN THROES OF REBELLION

Open War Has Broken Out, and Many Have Been Killed.

MADERO HEADS MOVEMENT

Two Troops of United States Cavalrymen Have Been Rushed to the Border — Rebels Have Captured Many Towns, and Situation Looks Serious For Diaz—Reyes Is Coming.

San Antonio, Tex (Special).—Troops K and L of the Third United States cavalry left here for the Mexican border. The troops are equipped for a month's service in the field. Other troops are held in readiness at Fort Sam Houston for instant departure to the front.

Mexico City (Special).—Fierce fighting has occurred at Durango, Torreon, Parral and Gomez Palacio, the latter town falling into the hands of the rebels. Three hundred of the federal troops at Gomez Palacio are said to have gone over to the insurgents.

El Paso, Tex. (Special).—The report is persistent along the border that Gen. Bernardo Reyes, who was made to resign as governor of Neuvo Leon because his friends supported him for vice-president, is coming back from Europe, where he was sent "on a military mission" soon after he was forced out of office, and the revolutionists have faith that he will lead them. If he does, a large part of the army can be expected to follow him.

Eagle Pass, Tex. (Special).—Open war has at last broken out in Mexico as the result of the revolutionary movement headed by Francisco Madero.

Four hundred persons were killed Saturday evening at Zacatecas in a pitched battle between government troops and revolutionary forces, according to official advices which have been received across the border at Ciudad Porforio Diaz, but have been carefully withheld from the American side.

The news comes direct from various sources on the Mexican side, but so well has the telegraph been censored that not a word leaked to the American side until railroad men brought information and a demand on the Mexican officials caused confirmation.

It is reported that fierce fighting occurred at Guerrero. Reports reaching Laredo are that an outbreak took place in that village, and that the federal troops are now in control, exercising martial law.

Revolutionary riots occurred at Allenede, near Ciudad Porforio Diaz, at Iraquato and at other places.

Two cars of guns and ammunition intended for the rebels have been seized at San Antonio. The whole border on both sides of the Rio Grande is seething, and every indication points to a revolution of magnitude unless Madero is captured.

Madero, who was exiled by the Mexican government has been residing in San Antonio, surrounded by many of his faithful followers. The Mexican government had asked the American government to prohibit Madero from crossing the border.

Coroner's Jury Holds Railroad Responsible For Disastrous Wreck at Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 21.—That the negligence of the Michigan Central railroad was responsible for the street car grade crossing wreck here on Saturday night, in which seven persons lost their lives, but that the city of Kalamazoo and the state railway commission are also due for censure for not enforcing speed ordinances and keeping the crossing where the accident occurred in safe condition, was the verdict of the coroner's jury which has been investigating the wreck.

MANY DEER FALL BEFORE FIRE OF ARMY OF HUNTERS

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 22.—Thus far this season a conservative estimate of the deer killed in Houghton and Baraga counties alone would put the number at 1,000. It is the worst slaughter of deer ever known in the upper peninsula. It seems that any man who has sense enough to pull a rifle to his shoulder can kill the two deer for which he is licensed.

The entire line of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, running east and west through the upper peninsula, is lined with deer hunters. Every station sees heaps of slain animals on the platform, every train has a baggage car full of deer.

Chief of Army Engineers Asks For This Sum For Michigan Rivers and Harbors.

PROVIDES BARE NECESSITIES

Estimate Is Intended to Cover Only Minimum Requirements For the Prosecution and Maintenance of Various Improvements—$300,000 For Saginaw River.

Washington (Special).—According to General W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers, U. S. A., who has just submitted to the secretary of war his annual report for the fiscal year ended June 30, last, it will require an expenditure of $23,637,361 for American rivers and harbors for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912. Of this total, $1,987,087 is for Michigan's needs. This estimate is intended to cover only the minimum requirements for the prosecution and maintenance of various improvements. It has been made up from other estimates prepared on the same basis by the various district officers and carefully revised by the division engineers. This was done to keep within the limited total estimate deemed advisable for the next fiscal year and on the supposition that river and harbor work will be provided for hereafter by annual appropriations.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, General Bixby estimates that $625,000 will be required for the improvement of the Detroit river.

Livingstone channel will require $250,000.

ASK HIGHER PRICES FOR SUGAR BEETS

Farmers of Four Counties Protest Against Present Rate.

Corunna, Mich., Nov. 29.—A district meeting of sugar beet raisers, including about 150 farmers from Shiawassee, Gratiot, Saginaw and Bay counties, met at the courthouse here and passed a resolution demanding a higher scale of prices from the sugar factories. Where a flat rate of $5 a ton is now in vogue for beets, they demand $6, and where percentage beets, the basis of which is $4.50 per ton for beets showing 12 per cent of sugar and an increase in price of 33 1-3 per cent for each additional per cent of sugar, the farmers ask $5.50 per ton for the basis and 40 per cent additional for each per cent of sugar above 12.

A committee of six, headed by J. N. McBride of Owosso township, was selected to attend a state meeting of beet growers, to be held in Bay City, Dc. 15, and urge upon the convention the adoption of the scale recommended here.

Detroit's Health Officer Up in Arms.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29.—The latest United States government mortality figures for 1909 give Detroit the highest infant mortality rate of any large city in the country in diametric opposition to the figures of the local health office, which places Detroit among the lowest. "Every figure in the government table is wrong, and I am writing to Washington to have them corrected," says Health Officer Guy L. Kiefer.

CAN'T SELECT PRIVATE BANKS

Attorney General Kuhn Says Supervisors Have No Power to Designate Such Depositories.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 30.—In an opinion, Attorney General Kuhn holds that boards of supervisors are not empowered to designate private banks as depositories for county funds, and that the failure of the bank would make the sureties on the bond of the county trasurer liable in event of loss of the funds.

In another opinion it is held that officers of one county may not arrest and prosecute a person released on probation in another county. The attorney general points out that if this action could be taken it would nullify the action of the court in releasing a man on probation. The prosecuting attorney of Allegan county, who asked for the opinion, is directed that so long as the Ottawa county court allows the probation order to stand against a man wanted in Allegan, officers of the latter country may not interfere.

Answering another question, the attorney general holds that nominations for th office of school commissioner next spring will be made under the convention system.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Meetings are being held in all counties where sugar beets are raised and it is said that the Holland Company has already raised the price to $5.25 per ton for 12 per cent beets and 40 cents for each percentage above. We have not looked into the merits of this demand on the part of the farmers but those interested can get the farmers' idea of this question by reading the advertisement which appears on page 4.

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—D. D. D. always gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation os the trouble.

Because—It cleanses, heals and soothes the skin

Because—It enables Nature to repair the ravages of disease.

Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thonsands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure.

Drop into our store today just to talk over your case with us.

WE FRAME PICTURES

When you buy pictures already framed, you hav to be satisfied with somebody else's taste and ideas, and there are many times when they do not conform to your desires or harmonize with the other furnishings of your home as tqey should.

Besides, nearly every one from time to time gets a pretty picture, that if properly framed, would make a beautiful addition to some room where it is needed, for almost nothing.

We made a specialty of framing all kinds and sizes of pictures and portraits. Bring in one or two and see how we will surprise you with results and prices.

SAD DEATH

MRS. W. A. FROST PASSED AWAY WEDNESDAY MORNING AT HER HOME ON LOGAN ST.

Funeral Friday 2:30 p. m. at the home.

The community was much shocked Wednesday morning to hear of the death of Mrs. Frost as but few realized her critical condition. She had been in poor health for some time but nothing serious was anticipated until about three weeks ago.

Her's was a quiet and unassuming nature, and with her even to the last every thing was all right. She will be missed in church work and in social life and by a host of neighbors and friends to whom she was so dear.

She seemed young to be taken away just in the prime of life, her 52 years having but lightly laid their weight upon her, yet she was ready for the call. In the home is the husband, son and daughter to whom this loss is so great, and in the far away West is the oldest son Fred, who has not seen his mother for a number of years and has only the fond memories of the past to comfort him in his great sorrow.

Gone from our sight, but because life and love are stronger than death, she is our's still, the mother of the dear children, the companion of him who mourns earths greatest loss, and may she not by this very transition wield a stronger force for goodness and truth than ever before

SAVED FROM AWFUL DEATH

How an appalling calamity in his family was prevented is told by A. D. McDonald of Fayetteville, N. C., R. F. D. No. 8. "My sister had consumption," he writes, "she was very thin and pale, had no appetite and seemed to grow weaker every day as all remedies failed till Dr. King's New Discovery was tried and so completely cured her that she has not been troubled with a cough since. Its the best medicine I ever saw or heard of." For coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhage, all bronchial troubles it has no equal. 50c. $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by C. A. AMUSEMENTS!

MOST CORDIALLY RECEIVED

Theatre Crowded to Doors for The Rosar-Mason Comedy Co.

The Rosar-Mason Comedy Company must have pleased with its reception at the theatre on the occasion of the opening of its week's engagement last night for the house was simply jammed with the most appreciative and enthusiastic audience seen at the Oliver theatre in many a day and the company did their share towards making the affair a success and entertained their hearers with a well acted, splendidly costumed and well-staged presentation of Mark Swan's great comedy success "A Good Fellow." Play was extremely amusing and called for a good hearty laugh every minute. Miss Eileen Rosar as Dolly Sevier and Mr. Guy L. Beach as Tom Chance are particularly worthy of special mention. There wasn't a dull mement during the entire performance and the beauty of this comedy was that it was free from vulgarity and horseplay. The specialties between acts were admitted to be the best ever produced by any repertoire company seen in South Bend in years. If the company keeps up its standard af such productions during the week, the show-going people of this city will have the opportunity of seeing high class productions at popular prices.—South Bend Daily.

The above company will play a week's engagement at the Bradley Opera House, beginning Dec. 5.

Cured by Vinol

"I suffered so long from stomach trouble and indigestion, that I lost flesh rapidly — VINOL cured me after everything else had failed. It strengthened my digestive organs—gave me a hearty appetite, and I can eat anything without the slightest distress. I do not believe anything equals VINOL for stomach trouble and indigestion."

W. E. WATERHOUSE,
Portland, Me.

Mr. Thos. G. Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., writes, "I suffered for years from a chronic stomach trouble. VINOL entirely cured me after everything else had failed."

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL, which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion, and at the same time building up the weakened run-down system.

Try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 137 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

A GOOD REASON

Tecumseh People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

John B. Smith, Chicago street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "For several years I suffered a great deal from rheumatism add backache, caused, no doubt, by disordered kidneys. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time I was relieved. I have not had any serious attacks of the trouble since. I have told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills through the local papers and at this time I gladly confirm all I have ever said in their favor."

LAURIER PLEADS FOR DEFENSE ON PACIFIC

SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

Canada's Premier, In Speech Before Parliament, Expresses Fear of Russia, Japan and China.

SAYS EAST COAST IS SAFE

Ottawa, Ont. (Special).—Speaking upon Canada's naval policy before parliament, Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that the new navy was designed entirely for coast defense. He had no fear that there ever would be an invasion of eastern Canada, for such an invasion could be made only by the United States. With Russia, Japan and China as neighbors of British Columbia the situation on the Pacific coast was different, the premier said. Canada must prepare a naval defense on the Pacific.

DISSOLUTION OF TRUST ASKED

District Attorney Alleges Violations of Sherman Law by Sugar Interests.

MICHIGAN CONCERNS IN RING

American Sugar Company and Menominee River Sugar Company, Both Doing Business In This State, Are Included In List of Thirty Concerns Which Have Aggregate Capitalization of $230,000,000.

New York (Special).—Beginning one of the most important federal actions against great corporations under the Sherman anti-trust law, Henry A. Wise, United States district attorney, has filed in the United States district court for the southern district of New York a petition asking for the dissolution of the American Sugar Refining company and twenty-nine other corporations which compose the so-called sugar trust.

The petition charges an illegal combination in restraint of trade, and asks from the court relief in whatever form may be necessary, including a receivership, if deemed advisable.

The thirty companies composing the sugar combine have an aggregate capitalization of $230,000,000 and control a large percentage of the output of sugar in this country. The combine is able, the government alleges, to fix prices arbitrarily. Railroad rebates and customs frauds are mentioned as devices which were employed to raise the combine to the commanding position which it occupies today.

Opposed to the government in the struggle will be some of the most able corporation lawyers of the county.

The following Michigan companies are included in the list of concerns gobbled up by the trust:

American Sugar company, Menominee River Sugar company.

The drowned men are Jacob Boyer, second engineer; Andrew Howard, cook; Frank Lowe, fireman. All have families and live at the Soo.

MESSAGE EAGERLY AWAITED

Short Session Will Open Monday, and Congress Will Remain Republican For Three Months.

Washington (Special).—When congress meets next Monday it will have just three months in which to perform whatever may be the demands of a Republican administration. After that the fate of the Taft legislative program will depend upon the will of a Democratic house and a Republican senate, a condition which will continue until the end of the president's present term of office.

Confronted with a situation strewn with confusion, the success or failure of the approaching short session of the sixty-first congress is believed to rest with the character of the executive message to be sent to the legislative bodies, according to Republican party leaders who are now in Washington. Many of the regular Republicans who were defeated in the recent elections are not expected to carry with the best of grace the blows so harshly administered, and this fact of itself cuts out for the president a task offering difficulties far more complexing than any that had been presented to any executive within a score of years.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ENDS WINTERS TROUBLES

To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost bitten toes and fingers chapped hands and lips, chilblains, cold sores, red and rough skins, prove this. But such troubles fly before Bucklen's Arnica Salve. A trial convinces. Greatest healer of Burns, Boils, Piles, Cuts, Sores, Eczema and Sprains. Only 25c at C. A. Wright & Son's.

A Simple Safeguard for Mothsrs

Mrs. D. Gilkeson, 326 Ingles Ave., Youngstown, Ohio, gained wisdom by experience. "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continuously. My sister recommended Foley's Honey and Tar. The first dose I gave her relived the inflammation in her throat and after using only one bottle her throat and lungs were entirely from inflammation. Since then I always keep a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar in the house. Accept no subsitutes. Sold by all druggists.

OBITUARY.

James Richard Pocklington was born March 20, 1854, in the frame house situated a mile west of Ridgeway and known as the Rappleye House His father, Chas. Pocklington, passed away five years ago and his mother, whose maiden name was Harriet Fuller, died when James was but three years of age. His father then took his three children and together with his mother they moved into a log house about two miles south east of the village.

When the war broke out Chas. Pocklington enlisted and soon after James went to live with his Uncle George and Aunt Sarah Pocklington who continued to care for him until some,ime after the close of the war The family then moved to Ypsilanti when the little girl died. Later they moved to Perrysburg, O., where they resided for several years and until the marriage of James to Emma Trumpy when he returned to Ridgeway. Shortly after this his wife died and in 1888 he was united in marriage to Mrs. Ida Lawton and to them were born two children Harold Lee and Linna May, who together with his brother Frank are left to mourn his departure, his wife having gone on four years ago.

At the time of his death the deceased was, as he had been for many years, a member of the Ridgeway M. E. church. A large portion of his life has been spent in this vicinity where he leaves a large circle of sorrowing friends.

His death occurred Nov. 23, 1910, at Carlsbad, New Mexico, where with his daughter Linna and his brother, he had been spending the last year of his life.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the friends who so kindly assisted in our sad bereavement, to Rev. Jones for the comforting words and to Mr. Ernest Palmer for the beautiful music.

Impressive and touching funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the home, after which all that was mortal of Mrs. W. A Frost was tenderly conveyed to our Silent City.

The services were conducted by her pastor the Rev. Weld, Mrs. Weld rendering a solo in a most sympathetic manner with Mrs. McAlpine at the piano.

A large concourse of friends assembled to pay their last tribute to her memory and the many flowers attested to the esteem in which she was held by them.

Beautiful floral pieces were sent by the following Orders and Societies.

The Doctor's, Woodmen, K. of P.s. O. E. S., School Board, Teachers, Presbyterian church, Men's Class, Wit and Wisdom and two pieces from Alma college from the societies to which Wade belongs. These flowers typical of the life of her we mourn mutely speak the pathos of a parting word and were placed upon the casket by friends who loved the sleeper. On the petals were tears for the parting and hopes for the meeting beyond the Gates.

WE FRAME PICTURES

When you buy pictures already framed, you have to be satisfied with somebody else's taste and ideas, and there are many times when they do not conform to your desires or harmonize with the other furnishings of your home as they should.

Besides, nearly every one from time to time gets a pretty picture, that if properly framed, would make a beautiful addition to some room where it is needed, for almost nothing.

We made a specialty of framing all kinds and sizes of pictures and portraits. Bring in one or two and see how we will surprise you with results and prices.

GRANGE

At the annual meeting of Tecumseh Grange held at Grange Hall last Friday night the following officers were elected for 1911:

Master—C. H. Bramble.
Overseer—Harry Smith.
Lecturer—Mrs. J. O Eaton
Steward—Albert Cadmus.
Assistant Steward—Floyd Bryan
Chaplain—Mrs. Nellie Brown.
Treas.—Mrs J. L. VanDoren.
Secy.—Same Old Duffer.
Gate Keeper—Russell Hall.
Pomona—Lila VanValkenburg.
Flora—Hazel Hazel
Ceres—Edith Smith
Lady Assistant Steward—Mrs. Guy Nemire.
Player—Mrs. C. H. Bramble.
Insurance Director—R. B. Gillespie

Worthy Master Bramble very strenously objected to a re-election but having received ten unamious vote of the Grange he felt constrained to remain at his post for another year. The Grange it espicially gratified that he has so decided.

It is very doubtful if there is another member of Tecumseh Grange who could or would give the time and attention to the work that brother Bramble has given and will give. The entire Grange should give him their hearty support during 1911.

"I suffered so long from stomach trouble and indigestion, that I lost flesh rapidly — VINOL cured me after everything else had failed. It strengthened my digestive organs—gave me a hearty appetite, and I can eat anything without the slightest distress. I do not believe anything equals VINOL for stomach trouble and indigestion."

W. E. WATERHOUSE,
Portland, Me.

Mr. Thos. G. Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., writes, "I suffered for years from a chronic stomach trouble. VINOL entirely cured me after everything else had failed."

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL, which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion, and at the same time building up the weakened run-down system.

Try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

PORTUGUESE REBELS IN ARMS IN MACAO

At Mouth of Cannon, Governor Forced to Grant Concessions.

Macao, Island of Macao, China (Special).—Inspired by the success of the uprisings at Lisbon, the Portuguese troops of the local garrison and the crew of the Portuguese gunboat Patrio revolted here and, taking possession of the city, proceeded to enforce certain changes in the administration of the affairs of this dependency of Portugal.

The revolt began with the landing of the sailors of the Patrio, who marched to the public square, where they fired three volleys as a signal to the troops, who at once forced an entrance to the armory and, arming themselves, joined the seamen.

Several hundred strong, the rebels proceeded to Santa Clara convent, from which they drove out the nuns, ordering them to leave the island. The nuns fled to Hong Kong.

From the convent the rebels proceeded to the government house, before which they mounted a cannon.

An interview with the governor was requested, and when the officers at the government house intervened, they were silenced at the point of the bayonet.

The governor was compelled to hear the demands, which were the expulsion of the religious orders, increased pay for the army and navy and other considerations.

Under threat the government granted every demand.

Macao is an island at the mouth of the Canton river, in China, forming, with small islands adjacent, a Portuguese colony. Its area is five square miles and its population 80,000.

25 GIRLS DIE IN FLAMES,

Four-story Brick Factory Building in Newark, N. J., Gutted by Fire—Fifty Injured in Hospitals.

Newark, N. J. (Special).—In ten minutes, twenty-five girls were burned alive, or crushed to death on the pavement in leaping from the windows and fire escapes of a four-story brick factory in this city. The latest count shows that twenty of the twenty-five bodies recovered have been identified, and that six girls are still missing.

Fifty were taken to hospitals, two of whom are likely to die.

The Social Breakfast.

A London newspaper wonders why we no longer invite people to breakfast. The reason is to be found in the state of mind that usually possesses the free and independent citizen at that hour in the morning, a state of mind that makes him unbearable to himself and to every one who comes near him. Presumably it was not ever so, for invitations to breakfast were once common enough, and not so long ago either. Mr. Gladstone used to have guests to breakfast every Thursday morning as recently as 1884, and it was thought sufficient to supply tea and coffee, eggs, bread and butter and perhaps some cold meat. But the really solid breakfast had come into fashion long before then, and it is said that the English learned the fashion from the Scotch. Motley, when he was ambassador to England, found that the substantial breakfast was grievously opposed to the simpler customs of his own country. He says, "When I reflected that all these people would lunch at 2 and dine at 8 I bowed my head in humiliation, and the fork dropped from my nerveless grasp."—Argonaut.

This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

John B. Smith, Chicago street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "For several years I suffered a great deal from rheumatism add backache, caused, no doubt, by disordered kidneys. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time I was relieved. I have not had any serious attacks of the trouble since. I have told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills through the local papers and at this time I gladly confirm all I have ever said in their favor."

THE PICTURE

...that the picture exerted an influence to crush the souls of men and make them mad. He wondered at it—not understanding, indeed assuring himself a thousand times that the thing was impossible; yet prudently hung a thick curtain across the further end of the long studio, where the huge frame was clamped to the wall.

Thynne had worked on this picture in secret, jealously unwilling that any eye, except his own, should see it until it was finished. On the day of its completion he cleared the end wall of the studio, where the shadows rested deepest, and hung it there, just a trifle above the level of his own vision. His artist's sense told him that this canvas needed, if not gloom, at least the impression of gloom; therefore, on either side, he suspended draperies of heavy black velvet, which swept downward until they rested in folds upon the floor. It was while he was arranging these that he heard the outer door open and shut and then Mervin's footstep behind him.

"Hello," said Thynne, without turning his head. "Find a chair. I will be with you in a minute."

"Mervin!" he cried, grasping the caller by the shoulder and shaking him. "What is it, Mervin?"

The man under Thynne's hands was a young fellow of 29, heavily built, fashionable dressed, wearing a red carnation in his buttonhole, in short, a club man of the better type; but now as he stood facing the picture, his face was blanched to a sickly pallor, his eyes rolled from side to side, as though striving ineffectively to turn away from some fantastic horror and his mouth was relaxed until, in its flabbiness, it seemed incapable of mastering any syllable beyond the unmeaning, "brr-brr-brr-brr-brr," which had first attracted the artist's attention. Under the pressure of the hands on his shoulders, Mervin made a mighty effort to gather himself together.

"Thynne," he cried, forcing the words in his throat, "what—under—but I will do—" Then, suddenly giving up the struggle to speak, he wrested himself loose and fled from the room, screaming as men sometimes scream in the first minutes after a collision at sea, while they are fighting their way from the staterooms to the deck.

Mrs. Schouler Van Tassel was the first caller at Rudolph Thynne's studio the next day.

Three minutes later Thynne, rummaging among his stock of materials, was startled by the sound of a fall. He rushed into the studio and found Mrs. Van Tassel a crumpled mass of lace and fur and feathers, lying in a dead faint before the picture. She had evidently arisen to get a nearer view of it. A dash of water revived her. The artist ran to his corner cupboard for the spirits of ammonia. It puzzled him, for 20 seconds, to lay his hand on the right bottle. When he turned he found Mrs. Van Tassel, on hands and knees, crawling toward the door, moaning and whimpering the while like, as Thynne afterward said to himself—but then Thynne always denied that he had ever said that, even to himself.

"Great heavens, madame," shouted the painter, inexpressibly shocked. "You must not do that!" He stopped, threw his arm about her and lifted her to her feet. The detaining touch seemed to inspire her with the convulsive energy of despair. "Let me go! The picture! The picture!" she cried, striking blindly and fiercely at his face; until Thynne, exerting all his strength, pinioned her elbows to her sides and half dragged, half carried, her down to her coach.

"Home; and as fast as possible," said Thynne to the driver. "Mrs. Van Tassel has been taken suddenly ill."

The painter's feeling, as he returned to the studio, was akin to supefaction.

As Thynne, some hours later, entered the club dining-room, Col. Bridgeton beckoned him to a seat at his table. The colonel was a retired officer of the regular army, whose genial manners and good artistic service record read almost like a romance and, among his fellow wearers of shoulder straps, his reputation for sustained daring was second to none. For a time the conversation ran on indifferent topics. Then the artist, reverting as men will to the subject uppermost in their minds, related the curious circumstances attending the visits of Mervin and Mrs. Van Tassel to his studio; though, for obvious reasons, he suppressed these names. The colonel, as the narrative proceeded, displayed a growing interest.

"And you say there is nothing in the picture calculated to awaken terror?"

"Absolutely nothing, so far as I can judge. The picture is——"

"Stop!" said the colonel quickly. "Lest we are told it will be on the last day. You remember the saying—'They shall call upon the rocks and mountains to hide them.' Is that what you intended—?"

Then, suddenly as a flash of light Thynne understood why three had fled and one had stayed.

"I—I hardly know what I intended," he stammered: "but this I do know, Elizabeth—" He leaned over and whispered the rest in her ear.

Very late that night Rudolph Thynne artist, smilingly, cut his great masterpiece into strips of canvas and tossed them, one by one, on the open fire in the little waiting room.

Then, his task finished, he fell to thinking of Elizabeth.—H. Adelbert Thompson.

According to official figures, the number of merchant marine steamers of Japan at the end of last year was 1618. Of these, 101 were steamers of more than 3,000 tons.

Mrs. Lillian O. Hoag, of Los Angeles, Cal., is believed to hold the record for fasting. She was ill, and thought that fasting would do her good. She is said to have gone without food for 49 days. She says that the cure was a complete success.

That the war on tuberculosis pays immediate dividends in human life is proved by a report of Dr. Bosley, health commissioner of Baltimore. In the monthly health bulletin for July it is shown that the number of deaths from tuberculosis occurring in the city was 92, as compared with 123 for the same month last year.

It is curious that the British naval authorities should have abandoned oil fuel at a time when in foreign fleets it has been decided to substitute oil for coal. The British empire has very limited resources of oil fuel, and at present the navy's supplies have to be imported. These supplies might be cut off in time of war, and it is probably for this reason that oil fuel is being given up.

A woman who recently applied to the Lambeth guardians for relief said that for the last three months she and her five children had lived rent free by "squatting in the rooms of empty houses." In Lambeth there are many such houses which have reverted to the duchy of Cornwall, and the people are permitted to occupy the places until the premises are demolished.

There will shortly be opened in Switzerland the Wiesen viaduct, on the route from Davos to Filsur. It is entirely constructed of stone, at a height of 90 metres, or 292½ feet, and has a central arch of 55 metres and six others each of 20 metres, the entire length of the bridge being 175 metres. It is, according to a Paris contemporary, the most beautiful bridge in the world.

The institute of marine engineers in London recently discussed the subject and H. A. Mayor, of Glasgow, said that the prospects for electric propulsion for ships is very hopeful. Leading shipbuilders have been considering it for some time. W. P. Durtnall said that in the all-electric Paragon method of driving vessels, the electric motors are coupled direct to the propellers, and run at equally high efficiency in either direction. Since the Jetam turbine can only run in one direction, the new method saves the expense of a reversible turbine.

A young man is bringing an action against a graphologist in Paris for substantial damages. A pretty heiress, to whom he was engaged to be married, showed a specimen of his handwriting to the graphologist and asked for information. This is the reply she got: "If you should meet the man who wrote these lines upon your way through life avoid him. He is an egotist and a fool, he has a bad temper and a despicable nature. The existence of the woman who has the misfortune to marry him will be a Calvary." The marriage has been broken off. Hence the action.—London Express.

A minor drawback connected with the use of the electric flatiron has been found to be in the fact that the temperature varied considerably as it was passed from one piece of work to another containing more or less moisture. This has now been overcome by an automatic means of control by which the temperature is maintained at one point within a fraction of a degree. When the flatiron is in use a large amount of current is permitted to pass through the heating coils, but whenever the heat rises unduly a switch automatically introduces the resistance necessary to cut down the current.

The battlefield of Waterloo, writes an American tourist from Brussels, is rapidly being divested of all its interesting features. The houses which sheltered men who helped to make history there are being torn down, the roads and paths are being obliterated, and soon there will be nothing left to remind one of Napoleon's last stand but the great mound capped by the Waterloo lion. The museum, where all the battlefield trophies are on view, uniforms, arms, drawings and pictures, was never a pretentious institution, but no visitor failed to look with interest at the many exhibits behind the glass doors. This also is to be dismantled, and the articles which have been carefully kept for years will be distributed among the provincial museums of Belgium, where as individual exhibits they will lose much in value

DR. COOK WILL RETURN TO U. S.

Arctic Explorer Says Probabl He Did Not Reach Pole.

New York (Special).—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Brooklyn explorer, in an article which will be published in Hampton's magazine, confesses that he does not know whether he reached the north pole or not. Dr. Cook, who has been in hiding for over a year, has informed the editors that he will return to the United States with his wife and children, Dec. 22, to spend Christmas.

In his story Dr. Cook deals with the psychology of his adventure, and says:

"Did I get to the north pole? Perhaps I made a mistake in thinking I did. Perhaps I did not make a mistake. After mature thought, I confess that I don't know, really and truly, whether I got there or not. This may come as an amazing statement, but I am willing to startle the world if, by so doing, I can get an opportunity to present my case. By 'my case' I mean not my case as a geographical discoverer, but my case as a man. Much as the attainment of the north pole once meant to me, the sympathy and confidence of my fellow-men mean more.

"Fully, freely and frankly, I shall tell you everything, everything, and leave the decision with you. If, after reading my story, you say, 'Cook is sincere and honest; half-crazed by months of isolation and hunger, he believed that he reached the pole; he is not a faker, I'll be satisfied.'"

Cook declares that at the time he convinced himself that he had discovered the pole he was half mad. He spent two years in his quest, and during that time endured hunger and privation which, he says, would unbalance any mind. The explorer states that it would be impossible for any man to demonstrate beyond question he had been to the north pole. He characterizes the region as a region of insanity where one cannot believe the evidence gathered by one's own eye.

Dr. Cook and his wife are now in Europe and the children are in a convent in France. Most of the time during his exile Dr. Cook has been in London. He says he has gone about among Americans there with the utmost freedom and at times has registered under his own name.

Peary Has Nothing to Say.

Washington (Special).—Robert E. Peary, commander of the expedition which the National Geographic society recognized as having reached the north pole, declined to make any comment on the confession of Dr. Frederick A. Cook.

When asked whether he would have anything to say after Dr. Cook's article appears, he replied that he thought not.

"BATH TUB TRUST" IN TOILS

Officials of Sixteen Concerns Indicted by Federal Jury.

SHERMAN LAW WAS VIOLATED

Government Officers Assert Mt. Clemens Was Where the Plot That Brought the Combine Into Existence Was Hatched—Jobbers Forced to Buy and Sell at Certain Prices.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7.—The Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company and fifteen other manufacturing firms composing the so-called "bath tub trust" and thirty-two officers of these sixteen firms were indicted by the federal grand jury here on criminal charges.

The contention of the government is that these firms and persons formed a combination in restraint of trade, such combinations being prohibited under the Sherman law.

Mt. Clemens and Pittsburg, generally acknowledged to be the direct municipality in the country, play leading parts. The Michigan city, the government asserts, was where the plot that brought the combine into existence was hatched. Pittsburg is the place where the plan was put into operation. The criminal proceedings were brought in Detroit because Mt. Clemens is in this particular federal district.

One of the contentions of the government is that the so-called trust sent out a book or schedule of prices to the jobbers throughout the country and practically forced them to buy and sell at certain prices.

The evidence was presented to the grand jury by Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the attorney general, and by the United States district attorney, Frank H. Watson, and Joseph Darling, special agent of the department of justice.

FIRST ELECTION UNDER COMMISSION FORM

Port Huron Will Inaugurate New System Jan. 1.

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 5.—Port Huron's first election under the commission plan of government was held Monday, and the results are almost the same as those of the primaries one week ago, with the exception that Charles E. Mudford was the fourth man chosen as commissioner in the place of Harrison W. Maines, who was among the leading candidates one week ago.

John J. Bell was elected mayor of the city, his majority being 72, which is better than he received in the primaries.

The four men who will, with Mayor Bell, guide the affairs of this municipality for the next two years are Sam O. Aikman, Andrew J. Smith, F. J. Dixon and Charles E. Mudford.

The men will take office on New Year's day.

WENDLING FOUND GUILTY.

Sentenced to Life Imprisonment For Murder of Alma Kellner.

Louisville, Ky. (Special).—Joseph Wendling was found guilty by a jury of the slaying of eight-year-old Alma Kellner. His punishment was fixed at life imprisonment.

Wendling was talking to his wife, Mrs. Madeline Wendling, when the verdict was announced. He remained perfectly calm.

"I either killed the little girl or I didn't," said Wendling. "They should either send me to the electric chair or turn me free."

The evidence presented against Wendling was purely circumstantial. Since his arrest and throughout his trial he denied any knowledge of the fate of the Kellner child.

MARY BAKER EDDY DEAD, AGED 90

Founder of Christian Science Faith Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Boston (Special).—Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, died in her palatial residence on Beacon street, Newton, at 10:45 Saturday night in her ninetieth year, following an attack of pneumonia, which feebleness due to old age rendered it impossible for her to survive.

Mysterious goings to and fro among the leaders of the church followed the death of Mrs. Eddy, which was not made public for more than twelve hours.

MRS. MARY BAKER GLOVER EDDY

Mary Baker G. Eddy died consistent in her belief in the adequacy of faith to triumph over death. In the shadow of death she did not waver nor ask for aid outside the prayers of her pupils.

The advance of pneumonia strangled her as she prayed. Not one of the usual stays against death which medical science interposes in desperate moments was requisitioned. The members of her secluded household in Newton stood about the bedside, their hands folded in prayer. The pangs of dissolution, which physicians say are terrible in pneumonia, had their course and left the corpse of an old woman whose face showed no mark of agony.

The body of Mary Baker G. Eddy will be laid at rest in Mount Auburn cemetery, a few miles away from the home at Newton.

United States Forester Graves Tells of Enormous Destruction of Western Forests.

BIG SUM SPENT FIRE FIGHTING

St. Paul, Minn. (Special).—"One of the most striking features of the forests in the western mountains is the enormous destruction by fire. There were altogether over 4,000 fires in the national forests during the season. The cost of fighting them was about $1,000,000," says United States Forester Henry S. Graves.

"The total area burned over was more than 3,000,000 acres. It is probable that between 6,000,000,000 and 7,000,000,000 feet of timber was killed. The money damage will probably reach [illegible]

CONGRESS READS TAFT'S MESSAGE

Chief Executive Recommends Fortification of Canal.

SAYS TARIFF IS BEST EVER

Two New Battleships and Several Auxiliary Vessels Favored For the Navy—Estimates For Next Year Reduced by $52,964,887—Western Census Padders In Danger.

Washington (Special).—Congress Tuesday gave respectful attention to President Taft's message, but there were comparatively few members who were willing to concede the probability of favorable action at the present session of many of the recommendations contained therein. The notable features of the message follow:

Stop legislating on corporations and watch effect of present laws vigorously executed.

Attention should be directed toward economy of administration, increase of foreign trade, building up of home industry and the strengthening of capital in investment. Ship subsidy needed to increase American shipping, especially that in South American trade, otherwise the U. S. will be the only nation that cannot use the Panama canal.

No recommendation for tariff legislation until new congress convenes.

Tariff board should be made permanent. Tariff lauded as best in world's history. Future revisions should be schedule by schedule.

Fortify Panama canal. Appropriation of $19,000,000 asked.

Anti-injunction and federal incorporation recommendations renewed.

Higher postage on advertising sections of magazines urged.

Two new battleships and several auxiliary vessels favored for navy.

Leasing system for coal, phosphate and oil lands and water power sites recommended.

Estimates for next year reduced by $52,964,887.

Cheaper litigation, simpler procedure and relief of supreme court from burden of trivial appeals, and higher salaries for federal judges, recommended.

Parcels post on rural delivery routes recommended.

Peary's discovery of North Pole should be recognized by congress.

Appropriation for valuation of railroads and law fixing responsibility of carriers in the issuance of bills of lading recommended.

Census praised as the best ever taken. Padders will be prosecuted.

Washington (Special).—The last session of the sixty-first congress got under way Monday. At the tick of noon, Vice President Sherman's gravel descended in the senate and Uncle Joe Cannon's in the house, declaring to the assembled members and the crowded galleries that the legislative work for the winter had begun.

The opening scenes of the session were marked by mingled joy and sadness, but the sadness seemed to be in larger chunks. Ninety-eight defeated Republicans, victims of the Democratic landslide, gathered in the house for their farewell session, while over on the senate side, fifteen, among them veterans of many a legislative battle, were taking their seats for final service.

CEDRIC LINE CAPTURED.

Youthful Slayer of Henry Knopp Arrested in Clinton, Ia.

Clinton, Ia. (Special).—Cedric Line, nineteen years old, was captured here, charged with slaying Henry Knopp of Oak Grove, Mich., Nov. 19. He made a statement acknowledging his guilt.

Line's arrest was accomplished as he entered Clinton postoffice for mail, using the name of A. J. Collins. He made no resistance, and didn't deny his guilt. The sheriff from Howell will take him back to Michigan for trial. No requisition was demanded by the prisoner.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

J. W. Greer, Greenwood, La., suffered with a severe case of lumbago. "The pains were so intense I was forced to hypodermic injections for relief. These attacks started with a pain in the small of my back which gradually became fairly paralyzing. My attention was attracted to Foley's Kidney Remedy and I am glad to say after using this wonderful medicine I am no longer bothered in any way by my old enemy lumbago." Sold by all druggists.

LIBRARY NEWS

Many people who have known the Hewitt family of old will be glad to know the exact identity of the Mr. Hewitt who has been so generous in his gifts to the Library. In response to an inquiry he wrote as follows,—

Miss Ann Morgan Hewitt, who made Tecumseh her home for so many years, was a cousin of my grandfather Charles Hewitt. My father was Charles Tibbetts Hewitt and was born in Tecumseh, January 9th, 1843.

His brother, Richard Morgan Hewit is still living in St. Louis. Your humble servant, Clarence Tefft Hewitt was born in Tecumseh in 1878. As a boy I frequently visited Cousin Ann as I lived in Toledo. I have not been in Tecumseh since the autumn of 1899. My grandfather was post-master at Tecumseh, when Michigan was a territory and afterwards served many years as Justice of the Peace.

I have always felt very kindly towards Tecumseh and I wish I could go there and meet the few people now living who knew my father. I am Chief of the Order Department of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburg, my avocation is experimental electricity and like my father and Eugene Field, I incline to baldness.

Hoping that these particulars will enable you properly to classify and annotate me, I remain

Sincerely Yours,
C. Tefft Hewitt,

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION.

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. B. J. Pulver

THE FAIR

Ladies Aid Society, Presbyterian Church

The ladies of the Presbyterian church held a most successful fair Thursday afternoon and evening despite the snow storm.

The various booths were very artistically arranged and the holiday decorations made a scene of beauty, while the liberal display of bunting attested to the loyalty of them all.

The Japanese ladies were dispensing tea and wafers to refresh their guests. The booth most largely patronized during the afternoon was that devoted to aprons for general use while the dolls booth was the delight of the small girl every time.

A booth devoted to fancy aporns was besfeged by Christmas buyers as was that devoted to all sorts of bags. At another booth we were delighted with the display of embroidered goods and dainty jabots, collars and other fancy articles.

The candies, fruits and jellies looked quite appetizing and were finding ready buyers.

The ladies served a chicken pie supper to 225 people. Their receipts were about $175.

CHRISTMASTIDE

Who wonders that the heart of the small youth beats high with anticipation when he or she gazes at the windows of the stores with their elegant displays of Christmas goods.

The Candy Kitchen has a very attractive window with candies and confections to please every one the boatload alone, would satisfy the average small boy.

For the small girl what could please her more than those dollies in the window of The Webster Anderson Co

The cozy room at the Peoples Store with its host of togs proves very attractive to the passer by

At the Novelty Store one has to stop and gaze at the large assortment of everything that Old Santa needs for his pack and already he has began to make his purchases.

The 5 and 10c Store has lots of pretty things to call forth the admiration of the children and surely their stockings ought to bulge with gifts on Christmas morning.

A LETTER RECEIVED FROM FLORENCE HUEY

Of Interest to the Friends of Her Mother and Herself

She writes that they are now pleasantly located in a flat so near the street car line that she has but a few steps to walk to her work or her night school.

It is very interesting to her where she works to study the different nationalities represented, Jewish, Irish, Italian, Syrian and those of our own country. She speaks especially of a little English girl who came over the ocean alone in August to seek her fortune among strangers and was working so bravely.

Florence is taking type writing, book keeping and a general business course at the night school and is making good. Mrs. Huey quite enjoys the noise and bustle of the street as she hears it in her home and every one is kind. The nurse has interested the pastor and ladies of the church and they make life pleasant for her.

The Herald is a most welcome visitor and they both watch for its coming in their mail, it seems like a letter from home

We are very much pleased to hear from them and wish them a happy winter in their new home.

A short time since we received a most interesting letter from Rev. Blanch Young. She reports her mother and herself as quite well this fall after a trying spring and summer for her mother, but now she hoped the winter would be a good one. Miss Young is deeply interestd in club work and their Monday Club taking up Greek history and literature and in connection are studying Mid Summer's Night Dream and King Lear. She is also Leader of a Faust Club. The Herald she calls her letter from home and we hope she may receive many loving messages there by.

After reading all of the accounts of the early setting in of a long and tedious and probably cold winter, will my readers pardon me for reproducing the following pertinent comparison of the climatic conditions there and here under the caption

"BACK YONDER"

By John S. McGroartry.

Away back yonder the wintry winds are chill.
In a winding sheet of snow lies the valley and the hill
The patient cattle huddle in the shelter from the stotm,
And the folks are all housed in round the fire keeping warm;
It's a hard time they having and it sets a man to ponder
How glad he ought to be that he's not back yonder.
I get to thinking of them often, when alone,
Here with the birds and the bees happy drone,
The flowers and the sun and the land of poppies gay;
Somehow through it all my thoughts backward stray,
And I catch myself dreaming of the old place and wonder
If the skating's like it was when I lived back yonder.
I wonder if they gather in the cold, crispy night
With the moon's flooding glory on the fields still and white.
The lusty-throated boys and the laughing rosy girls,
When coasting's at its best and the ice is gleaming under
The bob-sleighs whizzing on the fields back yonder.
I think I see the old folks gathered in the glow
Of the hearthstone's warmth that once I used to know.
The brown jug of cider of Nature's wholesome brew,
And the spoils of the orchard where the luscius apple grew,
I think, and I think, till I've half a mind to squander
The last cent I've got on a trip back yonder.
But, of course, its only dreaming--I wouldn't really go
Back to the howling winds, the blizzards and the snow,
Away from the flowers, and the sun, and the bees,
The balm in the air, and the sunny days like these;
But I can't help knowing as far away I wander,
That there's other kinds of joy and its way back yonder.

To all of which I most heartily subscribe on this, the 9th day of November, A. D., 1910, away out here in the Sunny Southland. W. P. STOCKING.

P. S.—I am writing this post script in a little hamlet nestled among the hills at the foot of the foot hills of the Sierra Mts. and from which it takes its name Sierra Park. It is about midway between Los Angeles and Pasadena on an electric car line with a 30-minute service.

This little hamlet is built up mostly with very pretty modern bungalows which are the homes of a number who are employed in Los Angeles but live out here where they can have plenty of fresh air and with plenty of sunshine; room for for chickens, gardens and flowers with much less expense than in the city and only a fare of 15c the round trip either way.

It is the first time for many moons that we have been away from the murmur and sometimes the angry roar and loud booming of the ocean which come to our ears daily and nightly at our seaside home and we miss it. It has to us a sort of Sunday quiet which we shall enjoy for a few days with friends from Washington, Iowa, whom we first met here in Pasadena a few years ago. W P.S.

"I suffered so long from stomach trouble and indigestion, that I lost flesh rapidly — VINOL cured me after everything else had failed. It strengthened my digestive organs—gave me a hearty appetite, and I can eat anything without the slightest distress. I do not believe anything equals VINOL for stomach trouble and indigestion."

W. E. WATERHOUSE,

Portland, Me.

Mr. Thos. G. Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., writes, "I suffered for years from a chronic stomach trouble. VINOL entirely cured me after everything else had failed."

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL, which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion, and at the same time building up the weakened run-down system.

Try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1110 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains tonic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Going Round the World.

In sailing around the world eastward the days are each a little less than twenty-four hours, according to the speed of the ship, as the sun is met a little earlier every morning. These little differences added together will amount to twenty-four hours. This gives the sailors an extra day—not in imagination, but as an actual fact. They will have done an extra day's work, eaten an extra day's ration of food and imbibed an extra day's allowance of grog.

On the other hand, in sailing westward the sun is overtaken a little each day, and so each day is rather longer than twenty-four hours, and clocks and watches are found to be too fast. This also will amount in sailing around the world to the point of departure to one whole day by which the reckoning has fallen in arrears. The eastern bound ship, then, has gained a day, and the western bound ship has lost one. This strange fact, clearly worked out, leads to the apparent paradox that the first named ship has a gain of two whole days over the latter, if we suppose them to have departed from port and returned together.—Philadelphia Record.

The Languages of Paradise.

Every language has its admirers. In "Lucile" the author, Owen Meredith, maintained that when he heard French spoken as he approved he "found himself quietly falling in love." Edward Hutton is another instance of this lingual fascination. In stating his preference in his enchanting "Cities of Spain" he recalls an interesting mediaeval legend. He says:

"And as I listened to the splendid syllables of the Castilian tongue that rang eloquently through the twilight I remembered the saying of that old Spanish doctor of whom James Howell tells us in his 'Instructions For Forraine Travell'—to wit, that Spanish, Italian and French, these three daughters of the Latin language, were spoken in paradise; that God Almighty created the world in Spanish, the tempter persuaded Eve in Italian and Adam begged pardon in French."

Taste Is Localized.

Taste is curiously localized in the mouth. Put a lump of sugar on the tip of your tongue and you will find it distinctly sweet. Then try it halfway back on the tongue and you will find it tasteless. All sweet or aromatic substances, such as wine, sugar and coffee, can be properly appreciated by the front half of the tongue, a piece of knowledge that every true connoisseur applies when he sips instead of taking a mouthful. With most other substances, however, the reverse is true. In these cases the tip of the tongue serves only for touching—it is the back part that tastes. The sides of the mouth, too, are quite insensible to certain substances not tasteless. Put some salt or vinegar between the teeth and the cheek and you will find them absolutely flavorless.—London Standard.

Wrestling For Rent.

In several cantons of Switzerland the custom prevails of holding wrestling matches and other exhibitions of physical strength at their choral, gymnastic and rifle festivals. The champions taking part in these athletic sports belong to the most diverse ranks in the social scale. Thus at a recent festival at Grenchen, a little town in the canton of Soleure, a wealthy property owner and his tenant, a carpenter, stepped into the arena to wrestle according to the rules of the art. There were to be four rounds, or "falls." The stake for each "fall" was one quarter's rent. After the carpenter had thrown his landlord four times the victor's prize was awarded to him, and he accordingly found himself entitled to live in his house rent free for a whole year.

A GOOD REASON

Tecumseh People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

John E. Smith, Chicago street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "For several years I suffered a great deal from rheumatism add backache, caused, no doubt, by disordered kidneys. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time I was relieved. I have not had any serious attacks of the trouble since. I have told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills through the local papers and at this time I gladly confirm all I have ever said in their favor."

Fairbanks, Alaska—Indians in the Mount McKinley district, 125 miles from Fairbanks, are reported to have killed six white trappers. The information was brought by John McLeod, a trapper of good reputation. Indians are said to be starving because of the extermination of game.

London—The polling in the general election here is in full swing. The results so far merely show that the Unionists now have no possible hope of replacing the Liberal government in power. The only question remaining is whether the Liberals will return with a larger or a smaller majority.

Washington—The provisional arrest of Juan Sanches Azcona, once a member of the Mexican congress, journalist and a member of one of the best known families of Mexico, has been procured here by direction of the department of justice on representations made to the department by the Mexican government declaring that a warrant with a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses had been issued for him in Mexico and that documents containing further details were on their way to Washington.

MACOMB'S SHERIFF KILLED

Belgian Youth Mistook Officer For Burglar at Night.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Dec. 4.—Because he was mistaken for a burglar, and an ignorant Belgian woman was unable to understand his demands for entrance in the name of the law, Joachim Matthews, sheriff of Macomb county, was shot and fatally wounded Thursday night by Benjamin Govare, a fifteen-year-old boy, who believed he was protecting his mother from an intruder. The charge from a 12-guage shotgun fired through a wooden door entered Sheriff Matthews' right shoulder, driving the leaden pellets and the bone into his lung. The sheriff died later.

The tragedy occurred on the George John farm, two miles east of Mt. Clemens. Sheriff Matthews went to the house with a warrant for the arrets of August Govare on a charge of cruelty to animals. The woman and her son were at home alone at the time of the sheriff's arrival, about 5:30 p. m., and in the darkness the sheriff was taken for a burglar. Matthews came up the front steps and demanded admittance in the name of the law, but the old Belgian woman, unable to understand English, became frightened and directed her son to get a gun and shoot.

The boy and his mother were taken to Detroit to escape the anger of a gathering of Mt. Clemens citizens.

MEXICAN REBELS ARE USING TORCH

Reported to Be Burning Property in Reckless Manner.

CREEL DENIES SON'S CAPTURE

Peace Commissioner Amador Gonzales Reports He Is Unable to Treat With Rebels on Basis of Surrender—All Well Armed.

City of Mexico, Dec. 12.—The rebels still hold Guerrero. Information received from a traveler from the north is to the effect that Gen. Navarro will encounter much difficulty in taking the place. The government issued a statement that no battle has been fought. So far the government troops have met with only insignificant opposition on their march. It is not expected that the rebels will stand and fight. A private dispatch states that the troops are proceedings slowly, fearing an ambush. It is anticipated that the troops will delay their attack on Guerrero some days.

Reports concerning the treatment of Americans in the disturbed districts are conflicting. The government states that the rebels are burning property indiscriminately. Sympathizers with the other side say this is all false. They declare that the rebels are paying for everything they take.

The outbreaks near Puebla, and other parts of the country in the south have subsided. Much depends upon the expected battle in the north. Should the government be defeated, it would mean much towards the spread of the dissatisfaction. Should it win, the trouble will degenerate into the work of hunting down bandits. The report that a young son of Minister Creel had been captured by the rebels, who are holding him for ransom, is denied by Senor Creel.

Amador Gonzales, who headed the unofficial peace commission sent by merchants of Chihuahua to arrange terms with the rebels, has arrived in Mexico City. He said in an interview that the commission had been unable to treat with the rebels, who did not care to speak about surrender. He believed the whole district was in arms. He spoke with several, but it was impossible to get them together to consider a body proposition to lay down their arms. One leader suggested that the government cease operations so as to arrange a conference. Senor Gonzales added that he was unable to give any estimate of the number of rebels, but they are very strong in the affected district and have the sympathy of all the people there.

REPORTS REBELS ACTIVE

J. H. Dodd States Bands of Mexicans Terrorize Citizens.

Writes That Town of Terlingua Is Under Patrol, as Residents Fear Attack of Robbery Is Planned.

Austin, Tex., Dec. 12.—J. H. Dodd, state supervisor, who is in the lower part of the Big Bend region of the Rio Grande border territory of Texas, 100 miles from a railroad, in a letter to a friend here says that bands of Mexican revolutionists are terrorizing the people on the American side of river.

The brush is full of so-called insurrectos and the Americans and Mexicans in the mining town of Terlingua, on the Texas side of the border, fear that an attack is about to be made upon the place by the revolutionists for the purpose of robbery. The town is being patrolled by Americans with rifles and pistols. There is much crossing and re-crossing of the Rio Grande by the revolutionists and they seem to be rapidly gathering in force at some designated rendezvous in that locality.

UNITED STATES RANKS FOURTH

Census Shows Country's Population Is 93,402,151.

INCREASE OF 20.9 PER CENT

Announcement Is the Climax of the Months of Work on the Part of Census Director Durand and Assistants.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Official figures of the census of the United States just announced give a population of 93,402,151, an increase of 20.09 per cent since 1900, when the population was 76,303,387.

The new figure for 1910 does not include the Philippines, Guam or Samoa, but takes in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Panama canal zone and those aboard naval vessels.

Illinois is found to be the third largest state and to contain the second largest city. Pennsylvania is next to New York in number of inhabitants. The number of states has been increased in the last ten years from forty-five to forty-seven. There are four territories.

It is now the duty of congress to arrange for a reapportionment of the house of representatives.

The announcement of the population of the United States is the climax of the months of work on the part of Census Director Durand and his army of assistants, who have been laboring with the count of noses since April.

The work, as conducted by Mr. Durand, already has received the compliments of the government officials for speed, efficiency and accuracy. The count, however, was marred by the exposure of gross frauds in the returns for some cities and towns on the Pacific coast. Charges of padding were investigated, and the returns in some cases were reduced.

The most remarkable returns in the entire census were those for Chicago, which showed the metropolis of the west to have a population of 2,185,283, with an increase of 486,768, which is a greater increase than the total population of the city of Detroit. Chicago's increase all inside the city limits, was the greatest in the country, with the exception of New York.

These figures of 93,402,151 do not change the United States' rank in population as fourth country of the world. China leads with 433,553,030 the British empire is next with 394,246,882; Russia is third with 152,009,300.

NEW YORK OWES MOST

Per Capita Debt of the City Is $153.02, According to the Census.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Figures showing the per capita net debt for cities in the United States, prepared by the census bureau, show that the per capita debt of New York city is $153.02; Cincinnati, $125.40, and Boston, $114.63. The large cities with the lowest per capita debt are Detroit, $22.95; and Milwaukee, $31.68. Johnstown, Pa., with a debt of $9.71 per capita, is the lowest on the list.

Of the cities with more than 300,000 population those having the largest per capita payments for expenses are Boston, $28.50; Washington, $25.73; and New York, $24.99.

POSTAL DEFICIT IS LARGELY REDUCED

Eleven and a Half Millions Chopped from Big Debit.

HITCHCOCK MAKES REPORT

Postmaster General Renews Recommendation for Parcels Post—Loss in Rural Mail Service—Policy of the Department.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has issued his annual report which states in part as follows:

"A year ago the fiscal records of the postal service disclosed a deficit of $17,500,000, the largest in the history of the country. In the space of twelve months a reduction of $11,500,000 has been made in this deficit the excess of expenditures over receipts as reported for the year ended June 30 last amounting to only $5,848,566.88.

"It is most gratifying to report that this unprecedented reduction has been made without any curtailment of postal facilities. On the contrary, the service has been largely extended.

Parcel.

"The recommendation made in the last annual report of the department for the introduction of a limited parcel post service on rural routes is earnestly renewed. It is believed that as soon as the postal savings system is thoroughly organized the postoffice department should be prepared to establish throughout the country a general parcel post.

"Next to the heavy loss resulting from the low postage rate on second class mail the principal inroad into the profits of the postal service is that made by the excessive cost of rural delivery. The large expenditures for rural mail service are far most justifiable, however, than are the much heavier payments required to meet the losses incurred on account of second class mail.

Postal Savings System.

"The board of trustees created by the act of June 25, 1910, to control, supervise and administer the postal savings system has made substantial progress in perfecting a plan of operation.

"After a most careful investigation and numerous conferences with leading bankers the board unanimously decided to adopt the plan of using certificates of deposit instead of pass books.

"The department's present policy, as already indicated, is to extend the service as rapidly as it warranted by increasing population and to accomplish its savings not by the curtailment of postal facilities, but by handling in a more systematic and businesslike manner the constantly expending volume of the mails. In furtherance of this policy there were established during the year over 1,500 new postoffices, while the rural delivery system was greatly extended by putting into operation 515 new routes, traversing altogether 12,235 miles."

BURGLARS SECURE RICH HAUL

C. M. B. A. Lodge Loses $950 in Cash and $250 in Checks.

Detroit, Dec. 12.—Burglars stole $1,250 in cash and $450 in checks from Detroit business men when one saloon and two stores were robbed. The saloon of Edward Faber, 205 Benton avenue, was entered through a window and $950 in cash and $250 in checks stolen. The money belonged to local No. 19, Catholic Mutual Benefit association.

Thieves smashed a glass in the rear door of William R. Damrau's picture store, 450 Gratiot avenue, and took $300 in cash and $200 in checks. The wall paper store of Fred Hunter, 562 Gratiot avenue, was entered and $3 stolen.

WILSON DEFENDS DIPLOMACY PLAN

Asks Usual Appropriation for So-Called "Dollar Diplomacy."

GIVES DATA ON GOOD RESULTS

Says Employment of Commercial Experts in State Department Is Imperative and Cites His Reasons for Statement.

Washington, Dec. 12. — Assistant Secretary of State Huntington Wilson defended the so-called "dollar diplomacy," at a recent hearing before a subcommittee of the house committee on appropriations, which is framing the executive bill. He urged that an appropriation of $100,000, which has been made for the last few years for the advancement of the commercial interests of the country, be allowed to remain in the bill. After explaining the different purposes for which the appropriation had been used, Mr. Wilson spoke of the results of the "dollar diplomacy."

"Of course every one knows," he said, "that it was through the diplomatic efforts of the department of state that we secured for American shipbuilders contracts for two large battleships for the Argentine navy, which will bring here $22,000,000 to go to the American workman and be applied to the purchase of American material. We also got contracts for railway equipment in Argentine amounting to $2,400,000; contracts for the building of two ships for the Cuban government to cost about $900,000; contracts for furnishing armour and armament for the Argentine navy amounting to $1,000,000; contracts for furnishing paper to a large Latin-American newspaper, amounting to about $200,000 per annum; the opening up of the Hukuang loan agreement in China, so as to permit Americans to have an equal share with the citizens of foreign government in financing and supplying materials for a railroad in central China, to cost upwards of $30,000,000; contract for construction of a railway in northern china to be financed with American capital and to be supplied in part with American material, together with harbor work and other improvement in Manchuria, representing an investment of $40,000,000.

"We are also assured of succeeding in concluding a loan to China of $50,000,000, which is to be used in the reform of the Chinese currency system, which will greatly improve conditions in China."

Mr. Wilson explained that it was necessary to employ in the state department especially trained commercial experts to keep in touch with foreign trade opportunities in all parts of the world. "The advantage of having an expert personnel," he said, "lies in having enough people here so that nothing can be overlooked in any part of the world that can help America; in having somebody who has the time and the expert knowledge to study the question and to draft and recommend and work out the action which will do the most good.

"In Great Britain they have half a dozen of these bureaus in their foreign office divided the world in a politico-geographical way—experts dealing with American countries, with far eastern countries and so on. The same is true of Russia and in France and in Germany. An astounding degree of efficient operation exists between the foreign service and the commercial and industrial foreign enterprises in the case of every first class commercial nation today. We are just adopting what our competitors have had before us."

Judge R. W. Tayler.

Cleveland (Special).—Judge R. W. Tayler, United States judge for the northern district of Ohio, died suddenly at his home here, after an illness of less than five hours. Judge Tayler was stricken with paralysis.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

When it comes to a pinch there is something to be said for the lobster.

ENDS WINTERS TROUBLES.

To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost bitten toes and fingers chapped hands and lips, chilblains, cold sores, red and rough skins, prove this. But such troubles fly before Bucklen's Arnica Salve. A trial convinces. Greatest healer of Burns, Boils, Piles, Cuts, Sores, Eczema and Sprains. Only 25c at C. A. Wright & Son's.

A Simple Safeguard for Mothsrs

Mrs. D. Gilkeson, 326 Ingles Ave., Youngstown, Ohio, gained wisdom by experience. "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continuously. My sister recommended Foley's Honey and Tar. The first dose I gave her relived the inflammation in her throat and after using only one bottle her throat and lungs were entirely from inflammation. Since then I always keep a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar in the house. Accept no subsitutes. Sold by all druggists.

The doors of opportunity are marked "Push" and "Pull."

TAKE CARE!

When the kindeys are affected, life is in danger. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor. S. W. Walker, Adrian, Mich., says: "I had noticed some time ago an irregularity in the action of my kidneys and bladder and I also had severe pain in the back. About this time md attention was called to Foley Kidney Pills and I got a supply and took them. The pain in my back stopped; the kidney action became natural and I felt very much better, anh I am glad to tell about the benefit I received from Foley Kidney Pills." Sold by all druggists.

Don't call on your neighbor just to borrow something.

Worse than alarm of fire at night is the metallic cough of croup, bringing dread to the household. Careful mothers keep Foley's Honey and Tar in the house and give it at the first sign of danger. It scodtains no opiates. Sold by all druggists.

WANTS TO HELP SOME ONE

For 30 years J. F. Boyer of Fertile, Mo., needed help and couldn't find it. That's why he wants to help some one now. Suffering so long himself he feels for all distress from Backache, Nervousness, Loss of Appetite, Lassitude and Kidney disorders. He shows that Electric Bitters work wonders for such troubles. "Five bottles," he writes, "wholly cured me and now I am well and hearty." It's also a positively guaranteed for Liver Trouble, Dyspepsia, Blood Disorders, Female Complaints and Malaria. J. W. Greer, Greenwood, La., suffered with a severe case of lumbago. "The pains were so intense I was forced to hypodermic injections for relief. These attacks started with a pain in the small of my back which gradually became fairly paralyzing. My attention was attracted to Foley's Kidney Remedy and I am glad to say after using this wonderful medicine I am no longer bothered in any way by my old enemy lumbago." Sold by all druggists.

GERMS IN HER SYSTEM

Every Woman Should Read this Advice and the Generous Offer that Goes With I:

The number of diseases peculiar to women is such that we believe this space would hardly contain a mere mention of their names, and it is a fact that most of these diseases are of a catarrhal nature. A woman cannot be well if there is a trace of catarrh in her system.

Some women think there is no help for them. We positively declare this to be a mistaken idea. We are so sure of this that we offer to supply medicine absolutely free of all cost in every instance where it fails to give satisfation or does not substantiate our claims. With this understanding no woman should hesitate to believe our honesty of purpose or hesitate to put our claims to a test.

There is only one way to overcome catarrh. That way is through the blood. You may use all the snuffs, douches or like remedies for years without getting temporary relief at best. Catarrh in general is a diseased condition of the system that shows locally most frequently in discharges from mucous membranes. Local treatment should be assisted by internal treatment for the general diseased condition if a complete cure is to be reached. That internal treatment should be scientifically devised and faithfully administered.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is scientifically prepared from the prescription of an eminent physician who for thirty years made catarrh a specialty. This remedw is admirably adapted to the catarrhal ailments of women. It purifies and enriches the blood, tends to stop mucous discharges, aids in removing impurities from the system. Soothes, heals and strengthens the mucous tissues and brings about a feeling of health and strenfith.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. If you are not benefited or, for any reason not satisfied, simply tell us and we will hand back your money. Rexall Mucu-Tone comes in two sizes, 50c and $1. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at—The Rexall Store.

Journalism and Pulchritude

A photographer in an Iowa town was called upon not long ago to make some pictures of an old lady of seventy years or so, but of surpriing agility and quickness of perception.

The picture man was, therefore, somewhat surprised to find that no words of address could induce the old lady to speak until after the operation was completed. Then she put her fingers into her mouth, whence she withdrew several wads of paper.

"You wouldn't have me photographed with my cheeks falling in, would you?" she asked the photographer. "I just stuffed two pages of the Des Moines Register in my mouth to fill out."

With the extension and development of the railroads of the eastern part of Canada, the prospects grow brighter for the establishment of a new ocean route between the eastern and western continents. The terminus on this side will be Green bay, Newfoundland, and the other will be at some convenient port of Great Britain and the projectors claim that this will possibly shorten the transatlantic trip by 36 hours between the United States and England. But little railroad construction is required to make the Green bay readily accessible from any point. A great point in favor of this route is that it is claimed to be practically free of fog, and at all seasons of the year vessels may ply this water with speed and safety.

Alma Hollinsworth of Portland, Ore., has made one of the fastest ascents of Mt. Hood. She has far surpassed the climbing records of other women who have gone up the mountain, and only three men have bested her speed, both on the climb and on the descent. With three friends and a guide she reached the snow line in the afternoon. There part of the night was spent, and in a few hours the party began to go through the five miles of snow to the summit. The start was made at 2:30 a. m. and the crest was reached at noon. Here an hour was spent and then the descent began. It was continued all the way down the mountain and on to a hotel, reached at 11 p. m., giving a total distance for the day of 28 miles. A dance was in progress in the hotel and Miss Hollingsworth had enough energy left for a lively two-step.

Origin of the Charivari.

The charivari and missile throwing indulged in by friends on the departure of the wedded twain is a good-humored counterfeit of the armed protest made by the relatives of old when a bride-snatcher came among them.

Effects of Overeating.

"Don't eat too much," says "What to-Eat." Overeating is responsible for many of the ills that afflict humanity. It brings on various diseases, and it predisposes to many kinds of infections. The same stricture may be applied to overdrinking. If one has been so foolish as to eat or drink too much, however, the best thing is to remain in the open air till the effects are overcome. Nothing is so good for an overloaded stomach and a heavy head as great drafts of fresh air. Every lover of "Pickwick" remembers how the jolly Pickwickians had to take twenty mile tramps to walk off the big dinners they ate at old Mr. Wardle's place in the country.

What is a Billion?

A billion in Britain is a million times a million.

But no man is able to count it. You will count 160 or 170 a minute. But let us suppose that you go up as high as 200 a minute, hour after hour. At that rate you would count 12,000 an hour, 28,000 a day, or 105,120,000 in a year.

To count a billion would require a person to count 200 a minute for a period of 9,512 years, 342 days, 5 hours and 20 minutes, providing he should count continuously. But suppose we allow the counter twelve hours daily for rest, eating and sleeping; then he would need 19,023 years, 319 days, 10 hours and 40 minutes in which to complete the task!

An Anti-Ant Building.

Reinforced concrete is the material which will be used almost exclusively in the construction of the new Government buildings to be erected by the United States at San Juan, Porto Rico, for use as a post office, court house and custom house. Wood is to be practically excluded from the structure; the only place about the building where wood will be employed will be in the window sashes on one side of the edifice. The interior doors will be of rattan. The reason why wood is being avoided by the government in this case is because there is a small ant indigenous to the island of Porto Rico which eats its way up through wooden chairs, doors and desks and makes them powder up the instant.

VERY CONSOLING

Mr Brown had gone up the attic and hanged himself. While the sorrow of the widow was keenest, her neighbor, Mrs. Jones, came to comfort her. Mrs. Jones, because of her reputation for always saying the wrong thing, had secured the consent of her family to make the visit only on her promise that she would talk about subjects foreign to the cause of her friend's grief. She commenced on safe ground by talking about the weather.

"Rather nice weather we've been having, Mrs. Brown."

"Yes," said Mrs. Brown; "but it has been to wet to get our washing dry."

"Oh, well, you needn,t worry about that, Mrs. Brown, as you have such a nice attic to hang things in."

MICHIGAN MASONS HONORED.

Will Confer Third Degree in Alexandria, Va., February 22, 1911

Local and state Masons will pleased to learn that Most Worshipful Grand Master G. Roscoe Smith of the F. & A. M. has been invited to bring a team to Alexandria, Virginia, on next Washington's birthday to confer the third degree of Masonary on a candidate for the Alexandra-Washington lodge.

This lodge is the one of which George Washington was a member and also the first Worshipful Master.

Mr. Swift has accepted the invitation and will choose 32 members from the Michigan lodges to compose the team. This move is in the interest of establishing a memorial to George Washington the Mason, rather than George Washington the man. It is very interesting to know that Mr. Swift will occupy the same chair that the Father of our country formerly used The same paraphernalia will also be used to a large extent.

This is an honor that dose not come to the Michigan Masonary very often and the event will doubtless be noted locally — Adrian Times.

Good Dramatic Criticism

The late Richard Mansfield always felt that he owed more to the wise discernment and stanch support of THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD than to any other agency, outside himself, that contributed to his ultimate triumph as an actor. Ask any disinterested observer of theatrical matters today who is the best dramatic critic in Chicago and ten to one he will say James O'Donnell Bennett of THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD. Mr. Bennett is unquestionably the leading critic in his domain in the West. He writes with a fearless fairness and a keen appreciation of real merit that makes his articles a genuine force for the betterment of the stage. His knowledge of the history and principles of dramatic art is sufficient to lend depth to his utterances yet he has the newspaperman's knack making his work breezy and interesting for the average man and woman. His columns are always newsy as well as reliable in their judgements. Any one who will follow the dramatic, musical, literary and art departments of THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD from season to season need have no fear about keeping abreast of all that is latest and finest in the movement of modern culture.

CHRISTMASTIDE

The fruit store is making a fine appearance in its new quarters with their fresh fruits of various kinds.

The City bakery has on its holiday dress and its full display of baked goods, its delicious candies both home made and foreign invite both the old and the young.

Others about town are busy at work getting ready and we will visit them later

What makes a sweeter Xmas gift than a bottle of fine perfume purchased at B. J. Pulver.

HURRAH FOR MICHIGAN!

PLENTY GOOD ENOUGH FOR US THE YEAR ROUND.

Sing "Michigan, My Michigan!"

Tecumseh, Michigan,
December 10, 1910.

Editor Herald:

I have been reading your articles from W. P. Stocking, wherein he compares Michigan climate with that of Southern California and with your permission I will give my experience of the winter in his state for as far as the months from May 1st to Nov. 1st is concerned no comparison so Michigan can beat them by 100 per cent, but if you ever experienced a California "Santa Ana wind" you would say would discount any Michigan "blizzard" that you ever saw. I spent two winters there a few years ago and know whereof I speak.

I started out one morning from Santa Ana, a city just a few miles south of where Mr. Stocking lives, a beautiful morning in February. The sun was shining brightly. After going about three miles the sun was suddenly obscured and the wind commenced to blow. I made my way back to the hotel and stayed 2 days. The alkali dust covered everything, even the table in the dining room. I found out what "Santa Ana glasses" were for.

I went over to Long Beach where W. P. S. lives. There were a few houses at that time and a long pier out into the ocean. Thought I would watch the fishermen who were casting their lines from the pier, haul in a whale but the biggest one I saw was not over 6 inches long. However myself and wife had a very pleasant time while in that state.

Of course, they have some very fertile valleys when they are well irrigated but when you compare the soil with Michigan's. It is nowhere; one acre of fertile soil to 8 or 10 of mountains, foot hills and desert, only fit to grow cactus and perhaps dig some gold but I have heard it said that for every ounce of gold taken from the soil a human life was lost.

Give me "Michigan, My Michigan," the only place where "life is worth living."
HENRY WILSON.

After Grippe

or any Sickness

Vinol Creates Strength

HERE IS PROOF

"After a long attack of Grippe, Mrs. Vaught seemed unable to recover her strength. She was very weak and had no appetite. VINOL rapidly improved her condition and restored her to health. I sincerely recommend its use during convalescence or any run down condition."

JUDGE C. N. VAUGHT,
Huntsville, Ala.

Miss Adelaide Gamm, of Watertown, Wis., writes, "After a severe attack of the Grippe, my system was in a very weakened, nervous, run-down condition. I took VINOL with the best of results, and it made me feel better and stronger than I have been for years."

We have never sold in our store a more valuable health restorer for weak and run down persons than VINOL, and we ask such people in this vicinity to try VINOL with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

RICH MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Body of J. P. Hendricks Found Frozen in a Culvert.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—The body of J. P. Hendricks, a wealthy mining man of New York, Chicago and Denver, who had lived with his family at 6926 Euclid avenue, was found frozen in a culvert near the plant of the Modern Structural Steel company at Waukesha, Wis.

Hendricks had committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple. For months he had been a patient in a sanatorium known as Rest Haven, but disappeared Dec. 1. It is said he had frequently been attacked by a mild form of insanity.

Why Boiled Water Freezes Easily.

Water which is hot of course cannot freeze until it has parted with its heat, but water that has been boiled will, other things being equal, freeze sooner than water which has not been boiled. A slight disturbance of water disposes it to freeze more rapidly, and this is the cause which accelerates the freezing of boiled water. The water that has been boiled has lost the air naturally contained in it, which on exposure to the atmosphere it begins again to attract and absorb. During this process of absorption a motion is necessarily produced among its particles, slight certainly and imperceptible, yet probably sufficient to accelerate its congelation. In unboiled water this disturbance does not exist. Indeed, water when kept perfectly still can be reduced several degrees below the freezing point without its becoming ice.

Gardens in the Ice.

A glacier when it dislodges itself and sails away over the Arctic ocean never travels alone. In the wake of every large one floats a line of similar companions. The Eskimos call this phenomenon "the duck and ducklings," and any one who has watched the progress of the wild duck followed by her brood will appreciate the aptitude of the name. Strange as it may seem, plants grow and blossom upon these great ice mountains. When a glacier is at rest moss attaches itself to it, protecting the ice beneath, just as sawdust does. After a time the moss decays and forms a soil, in which the seeds of buttercups and dandelions, brought by the wind, take root and flourish. Those who have traveled much in arctic lands say the poppy does not bloom during the brief northern summer.

A GOOD REASON

Tecumseh People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

John B. Smith, Chicago street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "For several years I suffered a great deal from rheumatism add backache, caused, no doubt, by disordered kidneys. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time I was relieved. I have not had any serious attacks of the trouble since. I have told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills through the local papers and at this time I gladly confirm all I have ever said in their favor."

ELECTRICITY AS A TONIC.

Victims of the Habit Constantly Dose Themselves With Shocks.

"Of all the habits, the one that sticks closest to a fellow is the electricity habit," said a young doctor. "The drink habit and the cocaine habit are mere summer fancies compared with it. But there is one thing to be said in its favor; it is usually beneficial.

"The electricity habit is contracted just like any other habit. A few currents are administered during an illness, they strengthen and stimulate, and the first thing the patient knows he finds the tonic indispensable. Even after he gets well he craves the treatment. I know one young woman who makes a fair living by calling at the homes of electricity victims and dosing them with a few shocks from a galvanic battery.

"Most slaves to the habit have their own batteries, but they are afraid to apply the treatment to themselves. That is practically a groundless fear, for there isn't one chance in a thousand of a person giving himself an overdose. Still, they prefer an experienced hand to manage the current. Not all the electricity fiends are invalids, by any means. Many of them are now as well as they ever were, yet they have become so addicted to the habit that they require the weekly, semi-weekly, or even daily thrills to tone them up."

Vatican Mosaic Factory.

The Pope maintains a mosaic factory in the Vatican. Here the patient artists works in a gallery lined with 29,000 lockers in which repose sticks of silica of all the myriad varying shades required to reproduce the tints from canvas. A solid wooden-backed panel is smoothly filled with plaster to the depth of an inch. On this the mosaic-worker copies the painting to be reproduced. Then day by day he cuts out little chunks and fills up the gap with inch-long bits of the silica. Thus the picture grows roughly in stone. In three or four years a work 2½ by 3½ can be turned out. It is then ground down to uniform smoothness with water and sand under flat iron disks. Then the painting stands revealed. There is a little gallery full of the work for sale. A piece eighteen inches square can be had for $1,000.

Science and Religion.

Between science and religion there never was, and never will be, the least conflict. Science is "systematized knowledge," while religion is a "sentiment of the soul," and between the two there can be not only no conflict, but not even so much as an argument. Science has nothing to say concerning the truth or falsity of the deliverances of the religious sentiment, for moment science attempts to do such thing it ceases to be science. There are many affirmations of theology that science opposes, but it has no quarrel with the spiritual sense. In a word, science is neither religious nor irreligious. It is simply non-religious—having nothing to say upon the subject, one way or the other.

The Pekin Poor Relation.

"You are pushing me too hard," said Wu Ting Fang to a reporter in San Francisco who was interviewing him. "You are taking advantage of me. You are like the Pekin poor relation:

"One day he met the head of his family in the street.

"'Come and dine with us tonight,' the mandarin said graciously.

"'Thank you,' said the poor relation. 'but wouldn't to-morrow night do just as well?'

"'Yes, certain. But where are you dining to-night?' asked the mandarin curiously.

"'At your house. You see, your estimable wife was good enough to give me to-night's invitation.'"

CAPTURE GOLD THIEVES

Arrest of Six Men and Woman Occurs After Long Hunt.

The Greater Portion of Sum Stolen, $50,000, Is Also Recovered and in Hands of Federal Officers.

San Francisco, Dec. 12. — A three months' hunt after the thieves who stole $50,000 of Alaska gold bullion from the steamer Humboldt last September ended here in the capture of six men and one woman. Secret Service Agent Harry Moffitt says E. C. Smith and his wife are the chief conspirators and it was in their room in a cheap lodging house south of Market street that nearly the whole the whole amount of the stolen gold in pigs of metel metal was recovered and is now in the government's possession.

The other five men were caught in various lodging houses. Smith's procedure was to saw off bits of bullion from the gold bars and peddle them among local jewelers. Suspicion was first directed toward him because of the peculiar light yellow color of these chunks of gold, a color that is found only in gold obtained from the Tanan district, Alaska. As the box of gold stolen from the steamer came from the Tanan district, this clew proved valuable.

The gold formed part of a shipment of $170,000 from Fairbanks to Seattle. There were three boxes and when the shipment reached Seattle one box was found to contain pigs of lead, although the Canadian government seals were unbroken.

No Turnovers In Mass. Elections.

Boston (Special)—Although marked by several sharp contests, both for mayor and on the license question, the results of the elections held in fourteen Massachusetts cities Tuesday showed practically no turnovers No changes whatever were recorded on the license votes and in only one instance did any mayor who sought reelection fail to secure it. The one instance was in the city of Lynn, which for the first time voted under the new commission form of government which provides for the choice of five commissioners, one of whom has the title of mayor.

Neither the wet or dry elements gained an advantage over the other, they breaking about even on all counts.

Farmhand Murders Four.

Kansas City (Special).—The bodies of Mrs. Emeline Bernhard, seventy-five years old; her son, George, forty years old; a trapper named Morgan and a hired man named Worth, were found on the Bernhard farm, near Martin City, Mo., twenty miles south of ehre.

The sheriff of Johnson county is working on the theory that the murder was committed by a former hired hand, with whom the owners are known to have had trouble over money.

Notables at Gridiron Banquet.

Washington (Special).—President Taft was the Gridiron club's guest of honor at the club's annual fall dinner, Saturday night in the banquet hall of the New Willard hotel. Those in attendance, in addition to the president, incuded the vice-president, members of the diplomatic corps, cabinet officers, senators and representatives in congress, governors, governors-elect, editors and writers, officers of the army, the navy and the marine corps and other men of national prominence.

Even Break In England.

London (Special).—While 502 of the 670 members of the house of commons have been elected, neither the liberals nor the unionists have as yet improved their position to the extent of even one seat, for the gains and losses exactly counterbalance. It seems certain now that the battle at the finish will be, as at present, a drawn one, and that the next house of commons will be practically the same as the last.

THOMAS NAVIN IS DEAD.

Well-known Michigan Politician Succumbs to Apoplexy in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14.—Thomas J. Navin is dead. He succumbed to apoplexy at his residence in this city.

Mr. Navin was known throughout the state as a Republican, in the ranks of which party he has always played a leading part.

Mr. Navin for a number of years was a member of the Republican state central committee and at the time of his death was a member of the Jack-

SCHOOL LAW NEEDS AMENDING

Incoming Legislation Looked to to Remedy Conditions.

PER CAPITA FOR 1909 WAS $6

According to Primary Law Money Distributed Among Districts Cannot Be Used Except For Teachers' Salaries. Many Have Surplus of Funls; Others Are Broke.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 14.—There is considerable speculation as to what action the incoming legislature will take in amending the present primary school laws. At present the system used in making the disbursement of primary school money is based on the number of children of school age residing in the district and a certain amount per capita is distributed in each school district in the state. By this system there are various school districts in the state that receive more money and have, hoarded in their treasuries, enough in some cases to pay teachers' salaries for the next twenty-two years.

According to the primary law the money thus distributel among the districts cannot be used except for paying the salaries of teachers. While there are many school districts in the state that have a surplus of funds, there are many that do not receive near enough money to pay their teachers' salaries.

From $21,817.60 of primary school money distributed in the state in 1838, the amount has grown year by year, until for 1909 the amount has grown to $4,479,248.56. The increase in the number of school children sharing in this apportionment was 32,829 in 1838 and 747,276 in 1909. The per capita in 1838 was 66 cents, while in 1909 it reached $6.

STATE GRANGERS AT TRAVERSE CITY

Horton and Hull Will Battle For Leadership.

Traverse City, Mich., Dec. 14.—The city opera house was filled, Tuesday night, when Mayor E. Wilhelm delivered the address of welcome to the State Grange at the open public meeting.

The meeting was in the nature of a public reception in which the people of Traverse City extended a united welcome to the Grangers, of whom there is a much larger number than ever attended a State Grange meeting before.

Helme's opponents in the State Grange are preparing to bring action against him if there is an opportunity. The nature of the accusations which may be made are based upon statements in Helme's paper, the Michigan Patron, that certain members of the legislature were interested in other districts in elections, their basis of strength being their connection with the Grange. The outcome will be watched with interest.

The fight for master of the Grange will resolve itself into a battle between Horton and Hull.

In his opening address President Hull advocated a specific tax on oreg, favored a parcels post, good roads and an equitable distribution of primary school money.

WHITE NAMED CHIEF JUSTICE

Democrat Will Head Nation's Highest Court.

TWO ASSOCIATES APPOINTED

Van DeVanter of Wyoming and Lamar of Georgia Receive Supreme Court Justiceships—Knapp Is Appointed to Be Judge of New Commerce Court. Denison Disappoints Taft.

Washington (Special).—President Taft has sent to the senate the following nominations:

Supreme Court.

Chief Justice—Associate Justice Edward Douglass White of Louisiana.

Associate justices — Judge Willis Van Devanter of Wyoming and Joseph Rucker Lamar of Georgia.

Court of Commerce.

Martin A. Knapp, now chairman of the interstate commerce commission, for a term of five years.

Albert W. Archbold, now U. S. district judge for the middle district of Pennsylvania term of four years.

William H. Hunt, now a judge of the court of customs appeals, term of three years.

John Emmet Carland of South Dakota for a term of two years.

Julian W. Mack, now judge in the appellate circuit court of the first Illinois district, term of one year.

Commerce Commission.

B. H. Meyer of Wisconsin and C. C. McChord of Kentucky.

The announcement that Justice White will be the new chief justice caused some surprise because it had been generally understood that Justice Charles E. Hughes was slated for that honor.

Justice White has been on the supreme court for sixteen years and is new the oldest justice in commission whose age is less than seventy. He is a Democrat.

According to Senator Smith's information, President Taft is much disappointed over the failure to secure Judge A. C. Denison of Grand Rapids for the new commerce court.

"Judge Denison had it," said Senator Smith. "The president told Governor-elect Osborn, Mr. Knox and myself that the place was Denison's, but Denison declined, and the president took Mr. Carland of South Dakota as the next best man."

MEXICAN REBELS DECISIVELY BEATEN

Federals Victorious In First Real Battle of Revolution.

El Paso, Tex. (Special).—In the first real battle between the Mexican regular troops and the insurrectos in Chihuahua, the insurrectos were completely defeated and left sixty killed and as many wounded on the battlefield. The fight occurred at Cerro Prito, four leagues south of Pedernales, where the rebels defeated the federals several days ago.

Confirmation of the fight is given out at Chihuahua, City of Mexico and at El Paso. No statement has been received from the side of the insurrectos, but the reports of the government officials of Mexico state that the insurgents lost sixty killed and as many wounded and that they are in flight before the federals, who are shelling their rear with mountain field pieces.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WASHINGTON LETTER

The Pasadena, California girls refuse to dance with the Japanese naval officers: the ball is called off; the Japanese admiral in high dudgeon sails away, and all Japan resents the affront. The Pasadena girls are with in their rights and they have the sympathy of California girls and the girls of the United States. But what about this International Exposition for which California and the Pacific coast is clamoring? The support of that Exposition, if held at San Francisco, must come from the Orient. It very recently brought us to the verge of war with Japan, and there are possibilities of serious trouble in an International Exposition held on the Pacific slope. The proper place for an exposition to celebrate the completion of the Panama Canal will be the capital of the United States. New Orleans, San Francisco? "a plague on both your houses!"

The Secretary of War has just returned from the Philippines by way of Asia and Europe, bringing the somewhat trite information that our Malayan acquisition from Spain is not fit for self-government. Philippines are less fit, or least fit? It is a positive benediction to some countries like India, Egypt and the Philippines to be governep by an Anglo-Saxon people. All children need guidance and control, and these people are not only "half devil and half child," but devil, ostrich and orphan child in one"

The President's message is the most voluminous ever printed, and is generally considered to be an important, and up-to-date document, few readers will peruse it from end to end and the epitomies furnished by the press are excellent as time savers. The President earnestly favors the fortification of the Panama Canal, and surely if it is worth digging, it is worth defending. Without fortification it could be destroyed by a few pounds of dynamite in a single night. To fortify the Canal is no challenge to the peace of the world, International interests demand its protection.

Opportunity's Mistake.

"This is the opportunity of a lifetime, madam," declared the smooth-tongned canvasser as he stood at the door.

"Seems to me I've heard that before," thought the housewife.

"Opportunity knocks at every one's door—but only once," continued the caller.

"That's where your'e mistaken, young feller," snapped the woman as she reached behind her. "Opportunity has knocked at my door eight times this week so far. I'm out four dollars and ten cents, and nothin' to show fer it. Jest in case he should knock again I be'n savin' this kettle o' hot suds—"

THOMAS J. NAVIN DEAD

PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME IN DETROIT

Tuesday Evening, Aged 54 Years.

Thos. J. Navin, politician, lawyer, statesman and member of the Prison Board, passed away suddenly Tuesday evening of apoplexy. So sudden was the attack that the doctor, who was summoned and arrived in 15 minutes, was too late, the stricken man breathing his last as the doctor entered the house.

Mr. Navin was always active in politics and was especially active as a member of the State Prison Board. It was his idea to remove the prison to a farm just out of Jackson and utilize the prison labor for the good roads in Michigan.

He was well known as a lawyer having been engaged in many of the most important cases coming before the local courts. He was senior member of the firm Navin, Sheehan & Bourke. Mr. Navin was born in Adrian and was well known throughout the state.

CHURCH FAIR.

IN M. E. CHURCH PARLORS

Thursday Afternoon.

The ladies of the Methodist church held a very successful fair in the church parlors Thursday afternoon and evening.

The various booths were arranged in a very tasteful manner in one room Christmas decorations and our national flag giving the desired touch of color and sentiment. Kimonas, aprons, gowns and other wearing apparel found ready sale and the fancy work department was kept busy with those who were buying for Christmas time. The baked goods disappeared fast as also did the candies and fruits. In one room the vegetables and fruits made a fine showing, but these, too, were soon culled out.

Everybody entered into the business of the hour with a hearty good will and the social feature of the evening was very pleasant. The chicken pie supper was delicious and was patronized by a large crowd.

The ladies cleared $125 which was quite a surprise as they had been at work but a few weeks preparing for the fair. This being their first attempt the result is most encouraging for the future.

DEATH OF A FORMER ADRIAN RESIDENT

The funeral was held in Adrian Thursday afternoon.

After Grippe

or any Sickness

Vinol Creates Strength

HERE IS PROOF

"After a long attack of Grippe, Mrs. Vaught seemed unable to recover her strength. She was very weak and had no appetite. VINOL rapidly improved her condition and restored her to health. I sincerely recommend its use during convalescence or any run down condition."

JUDGE C. N. VAUGHT,
Huntsville, Ala.

Miss Adelaide Gamm, of Watertown, Wis., writes, "After a severe attack of the Grippe, my system was in a very weakened, nervous, run-down condition. I took VINOL with the best of results, and it made me feel better and stronger than I have been for years."

We have never sold in our store a more valuable health restorer for weak and run down persons than VINOL, and we ask such people in this vicinity to try VINOL with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Saville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and those statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 11.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

MICHIGAN RANKS EIGHTH.

Wolverine State Stands High on the Latest Census List.

Washington (Special).—In the United States and all its possessions the Stars and Stripes protect 101,100,000 people. This is the official estimate of the United States bureau of the census, announced in connection with the population statistics for the country as enumerated in the thirteenth decennial census. It includes the Philippines, Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Alaska and the Panama canal zone.

Within its borders on the North American continent, exclusive of Alaska, the United States has a population of 91,927,266 inhabitants. During the last ten years the states of the Union had an aggregate increase in population of 15,877,691, which amounts to 21 per cent over the 1900 figures.

Michigan ranks eighth in the matter of population in the list of states.

Washington (Special).—James N. Huston, former treasurer of the United States; Harvey M. Lewis of Buffalo, and Everett Dufour, a Washington lawyer, have been convicted of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud. The three men have been on trial for about three weeks.

Brazilian Marines Again Mutiny.

Rio de Janeiro (Special).—A battalion of marines stationed in the port on the Island Das Cobras mutinied and were supported by the crew of the scout ship Rio Grande do Sul. After a vigorous cannonade by the land batteries and warships in the harbor, the mutineers surrendered. Many of the sailors were killed.

Southern Pacific on Grill.

Los Angeles (Special).—Suit has been filed by the federal government in the United States circuit court here attacking the title of the Southern Pacific company to 6,100 acres of oil lands in Kern county, valued at $10,000,000. Fraud in the patenting of the lands is charged.

Modern Gold Mining.

Up until about 1880 only placer or surface gold was mined—that is, free gold, deposited in the beds of streams, in sands and in the crevices of rocks. Placer mining mainly in new and remote regions, still furnishes a material though not a large percentage of the world's output. Formerly the alluvial gold was separated from the sands and gravels containing it by washing them in pans, cradles, rockers and sluices. In 1852 the hydraulic method was first employed in California. By this means a "giant" stream of water turned against the side of a mountain washes everything before it. The gold settles to the bottom of the tunnel or sluice through which the gravel, sand and water flow. In 1889 dredges or excavators were first used in Australia. Today steam and electric dredges produce a considerable portion of the world's output.—Byron W. Holt in Ev-

Two Negroes Lynched.

Monroeville, Ala. (Special).—Calvin Exele and Sylvester Priton, negroes, were found hanging to a tree at Double Branch, two miles from here. They had been arrested on a charge of robbing the barn and outhouses of Edgar Bass.

A GOOD REASON

Tecumseh People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

John B. Smith, Chicago street, Tecumseh, Mich. says: "For several years I suffered a great deal from rheumatism and backache, caused, no doubt, by disordered kidneys. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time I was relieved. I have not had any serious attacks of the trouble since. I have told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills through the local papers and at this time I gladly confirm all I have ever said in their favor."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

OSBORN GUEST OF PRESIDENT TAFT

Gov.-Elect of Michigan Also Confers With Roosevelt.

Washington (Special).—Governor-elect Chase S. Osborn and W. F. Knox of Saulte Ste. Marie reached Washington Saturday and spent some very busy moments here since their arrival.

At the request of President Taft, Governor Osborn, Senator Smith and Mr. Knox took luncheon at the White House. During their stay in this city they were the guests of Senator William Alden Smith.

Osborn went to New York Monday to meet Colonel Roosevelt, with whom he will talk over the conditions existing in the Wolverine state.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 13.—Quite a sensation has been created in this city by the announcement that Governor-elect Osborn, just before he left on his trip to Washington, submitted a draft of his coming message to the legislature.

To put it mildly, some of the paragraphs in the message made some of his friends' hair stand on end. Those who have seen the document won't talk for publication, but among themselves they declare that the message "outinsurges" anything they have ever read.

Interest Piling Up.

Owosso, Mich., Dec. 13.—That bill of the state against Shiawassee county for $5,708.89, incident to the expense of the mobilization of state troops at Durand during the Grand Trunk railway strike, is now growing at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. The claim was a part of the quarterly tax report received by the county treasurer from the auditor general and as no arrangements have been made to pay the bill, the interest has begun to grow. The bill will be considered at the January session of the supervisors.

Grand Rapids Wins Big Suit.

Washington (Special).—The city of Grand Rapids won a court victory over the hydraulic company, which is the rival to the municipal water plant. The supreme court holds that the hydraulic company must quit business as a corporation, in accordance with a law passed by the Michigan legislature. The court's decision sustains the ruling of the Michigan supreme court.

DOMESTIC.

Mobile—The Eastern Shore liner General Lee, valued at $30,000, was destroyed by fire Tuesday at Fairhope wharf.

San Francisco—Thomas J. O'Brien, American ambassador to Japan, has sailed for Tokio. Most of his time in this country was spent in Grand Rapids, Mich.

El Paso, Tex.—It is reported here that the wires east of Juarez are cut and that the town of Ojinaga has fallen into the hands of the Mexican rebels.

St. Louis—Nine earthquake shocks were recorded by the St. Louis university seismograph. The center of the disturbance was estimated to be 240 miles southwest by west of the lower coast of California.

Chicago—Nathan B. Hyde, former United States commissioner for the southern district of Wisconsin and at one time a member of the New York bar, was found dead in his home here. His head was cut open by a blow from a crowbar, which was found near the body.

Valdez, Alaska—The steamship Olympia lies on Bligh Island reef, enshrouded with ice. The prospects of saving the vessel are not good, nor is it likely that any of the cargo can be saved. The vessel was valued at $250,000 and the cargo at $50,000. All of the passengers of the wrecked steamship were saved.

Washington—Fourteen Shoshone Indians were killed and their bodies, with those of their horses, buried in two trenches in Elk county, Nev., according to a communication sent to the department of justice by T. Barley Lee, prosecuting attorney for Cassius county, Ida., who seeks to have the department's aid in bringing the murderers, who are said to be white horse thieves, to justice.

Pasadena, Cal.—The leading society girls of this city declined to mingle with Japanese naval men of high rank, even to meeting them on the ball room floor. Upon the arrival of the Japanese training ships at San Pedro a few days ago the management of a Pasadena hotel arranged to give a ball for the commander and his officers, but the society girls of this city refused to attend, and the ball was called off. As a result, Japanese-American relations in southern California are severely strained.

FOREIGN.

Pisa, Italy—The river Arno has overflowed its banks, and part of the city is flooded.

Paris—Captain Belanger of the aviation corps flew from Vincennes to Mourbelon, 100 miles, in 70 minutes.

Buenos Ayres—Friendly relations have been re-established between Argentine and Bolivia, ending the Peru-Bolivia boundary dispute.

Paris—Ambassador Bacon and Mrs. Bacon have gone to London, where they will be the guests for a few days of Ambassador and Mrs. Reid.

Rome—The torpedo boat Alcione has run ashore outside Brindisi. The accident was caused by fog. The vessel is fast on the rocks and is considerably damaged.

Hong Kong—John W. Hayes, a sailor on the American cruiser New York, who killed a Japanese child while he was running amuck in the lower quarter of Hong Kong, has been sentenced to three years penal servitude.

Liepsic, Germany—Abdul II., deposed as sultan of Turkey by the revolt of the Young Turks, will lose every cent of the $4,500,000 which he carefully salted away in Germany when the storm clouds began to gather. A suit instituted by the Turkish government to compel German bankers to surrender the money came before the imperial suprem court here and was successful.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

The Illinois and Georgia delegations in the house have held a meeting and have indorsed Champ Clark, the minority leader, for speaker of the next congress.

In twelve months a reduction has been made in the deficit of the postoffice department of $11,500,000, according to the annual report of Postmaster General Hitchcock.

The annual report of Attorney General Wickersham is one long story of frauds against the government. Actions, says the attorney general, are now under way or pending against fourteen so-called trusts.

In record time, and spending money at the rate of $7,000,000 an hour, the house of representatives in about three hours passed the rivers and harbors bill making appropriations amounting to $21,894,861 for rivers and harbors work during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912. The bill was passed by unanimous consent.

Senator Depew has introduced a bill to increase the salaries of the chief justice of the United States to $18,000 and those of the associate justices to $17,500; circuit judges of the United States to $10,000, and district judges to $9,000. The salaries at present are: Chief justice, $13,000; associate justices, $12,500; circuit judges, $7,000; district judges, $6,000.

MEXICAN REBELS DEFEAT REGULARS

Gen. Navarro and Command Gradually Driven Back.

ALL NEWS RIGIDLY CENSORED

Railroad Tracks Torn Up and Government is Making Every Effort to Suppress Details of Military Movements or Battles.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 19.—That the Mexican federal troops are getting the worst of the fighting in the vicinity of La Junta and Pedernales in western Chihuahua, is confirmed. Nothing has been heard in Chihuahua of the relief trains sent out, but it was not believed at Chihuahua that they made much progress, as the insurrectos began tearing up the track in several places when they learned that troops were being carried. Gen. Navarro and his men have been gradually driven back in the fighting and, even if defeated, the news could not be telegraphed out, as the federal government took charge of the telegraph line at the same time it commandeered the railroad, which is private property and owned by associates of F. S Pearson, of New York.

No press dispatches are being sent by the Mexican federal officials that disagree with official reports. Several attempts to send them out of Mexico have met with failure. The Mexican Herald's correspondent with Gen. Navarro's command is getting his dispatches through, because they are first approved by Navarro. The general offered to see that other dispatches got through, first submitted.

Mail advices from Parral state that the rebels are thick around that region and that all but a hundred troops have left the town in an effort to drive the rebels further away or whip them. H. M. Fris, who sent this information to the El Paso Herald by mail, stated that he had been told by a Mexican official that if he was a newspaper correspondent, it would be best for him to get out of the country. Fris is a Michigan man, and has been covering the trouble for the Herald and New York Sun. He has never been able to file messages since shortly after the trouble broke out. Mexico is making every effort to suppress news of the fighting.

MEXICAN BATTLE REPORTED

Rebels Outnumber Federals in Battle at Ojinaga and Mulatos.

Shafter, Tex., Dec. 19.—Tom Worth, who runs a store at Lajos, on the American side of the Rio Grande below Presidio, sent word here that fighting has been going on at Ojinaga, Mulatos and other isolated points in the Mexico side for two days between the regular and insurgent forces of Mexicans.

In addition to the eighteen saddled and riderless horses which crossed the Texas side of the river near Presidio, another lot of about thirty horses several of which bore gunshot wounds, were picked up several miles further down stream. It is claimed that the revolutionists number about 1,200 men in the vicinity of Ojinaga and that the federals are about 800 strong.

FEDERAL TROOPS VICTORIOUS

News of Battles in Mexico Conflicting Owning to Censorship.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Senor De La Barra, the Mexican ambassador has received a dispatch saying that the revolutionists had been defeated by government troops at Pedernales, in the state of Chihuahua.

All organized opposition to the government, the dispatch said, had been broken up in Chihuahua. The rebels, the dispatch added, had scattered and are operating as bands of outlaws

NEARLY HALF ARE DIVORCED

Marriages in Madison County Often Prove Disastrous, Records Show.

Anderson, Ind., Dec. 19. — That 45 per cent of the marriages contracted in Madison county result disastrously was shown by experts in the employ of the state, who are investigating the records in the office of County Clerk Harlan before he turns the office over to his successor Jan. 1.

The records show that of every 100 marriages, forty-five end in divorce.

SUFFERING IN INTENSE COLD

Authorities in New York Unable to Shelter All the Destitute.

New York, Dec. 19.—New York is still in the grip of the first cold wave of the winter. Four deaths have been reported and it is almost impossible to estimate the suffering brought to the starving and homeless by the sudden drop in temperature. One man to get food and shelter even in prison deliberately threw a stone through a plate glass window that he might be arrested and locked up.

The municipal lodging house, which holds 750 persons, is full and the authorities fear they will be unable to meet half the requests for shelter.

ISLAND GOES INTO OCEAN; 170 DEAD

Costa Rica Disaster Happens With Frightful Suddenness.

ALL INHABITANTS ARE DROWNED

Earthquake Shocks Start Early in Evening and Entire Island Sinks Into Ocean With Awful Toll of Death.

Port Limon, Costa Rica, Dec. 19.—At least seventy families, variously estimated at from 150 to 170 men, women and children, were drowned following the sinking of their island home Saturday. The island, in the center of the Ilopanog Lagoon, off Salvadore, disappeared and slid into the depths of the lagoon, carrying with it nearly all of the inhabitants.

The sinking of the island is said to have followed a series of earthquake shocks which were felt throughout the republic. The shocks began early in the evening and grew in frequency and violence as night progressed, until about midnight, when the watchers on shore heard the sounds of guns from the people on the island. Shortly after that a huge bonfire was lighted on the island and at about 1 o'clock, a boat load of frightened women and children reached the mainland. The survivors stated that other boats were coming as fast as they could be filled, as the island was slowly sinking under the feet of the inhabitants.

The boat men of the mainland were appealed to send aid, but in view of the continued shocks and the steadily increasing violence of the sea in the lagon, the boatmen were afraid to venture out. In fact, there was no time. While they debated another and more violent tremor shook the mainland and the fire and other lights on the island vanished. In the morning not a vestige of the island remained. In all it is estimated that about 170 perished in the catastrophe. This is not the first time that small islands off the mainland have sunk after earthquakes shocks in this locality.

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"

Blind Street Singing Pastor Makes Strange Request of Governors.

Battle Creek, Mich., Dec. 19. — "It pays to advertise" is the new motto of Rev. Thomas McKinsey, blind street singer and former minister, who recently wrote to four governors of states, where the electric chair is in vogue, to grant him a ticket to the hereafter.

He no longer fears the poorhouse. He has resumed his street singing and is doing a big business. The people flock around him in droves to see what manner of man it is who made that strange request of the governors.

CHILEAN MINISTER DEAD

Senor Don Anibal Cruz Dies Suddenly of Heart Disease.

Secretary Knox Will Request a Warship to Convey Remains of the Deceased Minister to Chile.

Washington, Dec. 19. — Senor Don Anibal Cruz, minister from Chile to the United States, died suddenly at the Chilean legation. Death was due to heart disease. The news of Senor Cruz's death spread quickly about Washington and came as a shock to many, for Saturday night he was a prominent figure at the banquet of the American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes.

It is probably that Mr. Knox will request the use of a war vessel to convey the body of Senor Cruz to Chile.

SENATE REGULARS SIGN UP MAJORITY

Members Pledged to Organization That Routed Combine.

MEET AT UNION LEAGUE CLUB

Committee Organization to Remain Same as Last Year—Gov. Deneen at Work on Message—Session Starts in January.

Chicago, Dec. 19. — Twenty-six Republican state senators—being a majority of the upper house at Springfield, regardless of the remaining Republicans or the seventeen Democrats—have "signed up" and thus assured continuance of control in the organization that routed the "old senate combine" in the general assembly about to expire. This information leaked out from a gathering of twelve senators in the Union League club, where they gathered for a jubilation and to arrange a program for the legislative session that will begin next month.

Assurance of a working majority ended all talk of a bi-partisan deal in the senate, with the remnant of the "combine" hand in glove with the Democrats.

The total of twenty-six votes of fifty-one in the senate was made possible by the ready acceptance by all the eight new Republican senators of invitations to join the regular organization. They expressed a willingness to leave the management of organization matters in the hands of the older heads, and all was harmony and joy in the regular camp.

At the meeting resolutions were passed that the matters discussed should not be disclosed to the public. Inasmuch as most of the discussion were general, there was not a great deal to disclose; but the fact that twenty-six votes were assured leaked out, as did an agreement that that number of senators will be called into a conference during the week between Christmas and New Year's day.

There was a tacit agreement at the meeting that the committee on committees, which slates the committee organization, shall be the same as that of last year, when it was composed of Charles E. Hurburgh of Galesburg, Henry M. Dunlap of Savoy, W. O. Potter of Marion, Samuel A. Ettelson and Walter Clyde Jones of Chicago.

Gov. Deneen arrived in Chicago about the time the senators were beginning to gather, but he did not attend the meeting or confer with any of those present before leaving for Springfield. He stopped in the city on his way back to the state capitol from Washington, where he and Mrs Deneen had been invited by President Taft. The governor's only political visitor was Roy O. West.

Gov. Deneen intimated that his time until the opening of the session will be fully occupied with the preparation of his message. He already has spent several days on it, but he has on hand a mass of information from all departments which is a record breaker.

TO SAVE MEDICAL BUILDING

U. of M. Alumni Are Seeking to Raise $50,000 Fund.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 19—To save the old medical building, one of the oldest on the campus, the destruction of which was decreed by the regents, a committee of the University Medical society is endeavoring to raise $50,000 to preserve the building as a memorial of the medical department.

The regents have agreed to let the building stand, but have no money with which to put it in safe condition, hence the efforts of the alumni. The project is to practically rebuild the building from the inside, without changing the outward appearance, and make it into a medical library and museum.

LORIMER HELD NOT GUILTY OF BRIBERY

Senator Held to Have Not Been Aware of Vote Buying

SUBCOMMITTEE MAKES REPORT

Filing of Two Reports in Hearing Will Result in Vote in Senate as to Whether the Illinois Senator Was Legally Elected.

Washington, Dec. 19.—There is a revolt in the senate committee on privileges and elections against the plan to exonerate William Lorimer. Two reports were submitted to the committee by the subcommittee which made the investigation. Two reports surely will be submitted to the senate.

Thus the fight over the title of Mr. Lorimer to his seat will be transferred to the senate chamber, and the ninety-two men representing sovereign states sitting therein must decide whether or not the junior senator was duly and legally elected from Illinois.

The report of the investigation was made to the full committee on privileges and elections, which then adjourned till Tuesday to give the members an opportunity to study the evidence and the report made by the subcommittee.

Evidence that there was money passed between certain members of the legislature was not ignored by the subcommittee, but it was declared that if the votes of members charged either with receiving or paying money had been eliminated Mr. Lorimer would have a majority of three votes.

The subcommittee was a unit in asserting that the evidence did not show that Mr. Lorimer had been connected with the alleged distribution of a "jack-pot" or any money to influence the legislature in the preferment for the senatorship.

In discussing the question of bribery it is understood the subcommittee was content with incorporating in the report all the testimony affecting individual members of the Illinois legislature. No effort was made to determine the truth or falsity of this testimony, but it was asserted that evidence was not found that Mr. Lorimer had initiated or been in any manner a party to such transactions as were described by witnesses who told of the alleged "jack-pot" distribution at St. Louis or elsewhere.

Nevertheless the subcommittee sifted all the testimony on the subject of bribery and the conclusion was arrived at that Mr. Lorimer would have been elected without regard to the members said to have been influenced by financial considerations disclosed or charged, whatever the source.

By the deductions of the subcommittee a majority of three votes for Mr. Lorimer was shown after eliminating all votes on which there might be the slightest taint in the testimony given to the subcommittee.

WHITE NEW MINERS' HEAD

Election Returns Indicate Overwhelming Defeat of President Lewis.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Election returns from the miners' union received by labor officials in Chicago indicate that President Thomas L. Lewis has been defeated for re-election. John P. White of Iowa carried the Illinois local unions by 30,000 votes to 3,157 cast for Lewis. These returns are from 170 out of 332 local unions.

Forty-four local unions in Iowa gave White 4,825 votes to 1,291 for Lewis. Twenty-five locals in Indiana gave Lewis 520 votes and White 1,825. Fifty-four locals in Kansas cast a vote of 4,445 for White and 1,381 for Lewis.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

LEGEND OF BLUE-WILLOW WARE.

The legend illustrated by the Blue Willow-Ware decoration is centuries old. It originated in China and forms a pretty love story, so alive with human interest that it never grows old. You may have heard it, in whole, or perhaps only in part. In either event you may enjoy having it set before you in complete form so that when you next see a piece of Blue-Willow you will know the story.

The legend runs something like this though we cannot give it in the flowery language in which it is written.

Once upon a time there was a rich madarin who had a lovely daughter named Li-Chi. They lived in a noble mansion two stories high, surrounded by willow and peach trees.

Now Li-Chi had a lover Chang, who was her father's secretary. When her father discovered this he forbade them seeing each other and betrothed her to a Ta-jin, or Duke, and she was to be wed when the peach tree blossomed.

Chang, however, was faithful, and sent her a message asking if they were to be parted forever. She replied, in effect, that he was to rescue her if possible

On the day of the betrothal, Chang gained entrance in the disguise of a servant and she, putting the nurses dress over her own, they stole away, but her father discovered and chased them over the bridge The good Genii, however, outwitted him and changed them into a pair of turtle-doves.

All this you will find pictured on each plate of Blue-Willow Ware.

Griffith delivered his final discourse on "The Harvest is Past, the Summer is Ended and We are Not Saved."

Mr. Griffith is, a strong platform speaker and some of his sermons rank high. His discourses on Love's Greatest Gift, The Greatest Thing in the World, Seeking a Fortune, or How to Get Rich, The World's Greatest Tragedy, My Bible—What shall I do with It, were brilliant and powerful. Mr. Griffith is specially fitted to go before non-church people in a hall where he would have liberty to speak his mind and expose the wrongs of society. He goes to his home in Detroit for two weeks. January 3 he will begin special meetings at the Tabernacle Baptist church in Grand Rapids.

LENAWEE CO., A GOOD ONE FOR FUR

This statement may seem strange to many, but it is a well established fact that Lenawee county has an abundance of muskrat, skunk and mink.

Every farmer boy who has any ambition captures the muskrat and a few capture the mink. It is left for the more venturesome ones to capture the oderiferous skunk, but they are captured and bring a good price. There are a few other fur bearing animals in the county but those rank first.

STATE GRANGE

BIG FIGHT OVER AT LAST. BOTH SIDES CLAIMING THE VICTORY

After a three days scrap between the Baker and Hull factions the strife ended last Friday each one claiming they were the victors. The report of the executive committee, relative to the National Grange meeting at Atlantic City was suppressed from the official proceedings not withstanding the assurance of chairman Baker and his followers that they would put it through.

This is the report from one side of the controversy. The Baker-Helme faction of the State Grange feels it has won a great victory over the Hull-McNaughters line up The fight seemed to be over, the fact that the Baker-Helme wanted the report incorporated with the regular report of the committee, while the Hull faction wished it presented independantly. It was finally conceded by Mr. Baker that it be a seperate report, but that it should not be read on the floor but printed in the regular proceedings, an inkling of the contents of the report was allowed to circulate and the other side decided that it was a reflection on N. P. Hull State Master, and that by printing these proceedings not 10 per cent of the membership would ever see it. When the report was presented in the afternoon C. H. Bramble moved that the report be suppressed entirely. The motion carried with out further discussion.

After this decision was reached the Baker Contingent claimed it was just what they wanted as the proceedings will show that a report costing over $400 had been suppressed by the State Convention

After a lengthy discussion over the tonnage tax the Grange finally adopted a clause recommending a flat rate, thereby cutting out the proposition for a sliding scale which had been vigorously fought for.

Geo. A. Robertson of Grand Traverse was elected Gate Keeper and Mr. L. E. Corless of Branch county. Flora the two offices unfilled.

The next meeting will be held in Kalamazoo.

OBITUARY

Frederick Joseph, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Seaman Packard, died at the home of his father Oscar Packard in Raisin township, 1 1-2 miles south of town, Dec. 3, aged 3 months and 19 days. The babe had slept on his mother's arm during the night and when she arose to get her husband's breakfast, she left it sleeping soundly. When she went back to it sometime later she found it dead.

The funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. E. A. Fisher of Manchester. Burial was at Brookside cemetery, Tecumseh.

Mr. and Mrs. Packard have only recensly come here from Battle Creek, he being a machinist at the Brewer Co. works. They were staying with his father until they could get located in Tecumseh.

Tender Shepherd, thou has stilled
Now thy little lamb's brief weeping
Ah, how peaceful, pale and mild
In it's narrow bed 'tis sleeping!
And no sigh of anguish sore
Heaves that little bosom more.
In this world of care and pain
Lord, Thou wouldst no longer leave it
To the sunny heavenly plain
Thou dost now with joy receive it;
Clothed in robes of spotless white,
Now it dwells with tnee in light.
Ah, Lord Jesus, grant that we
Where it lives may soon be living,
And the lovely pastures see
That its heavenly food are giving;
Then the gain of death we prove,
Though thou take what most we love.

Mr. and Mrs. Seaman Packard,
" " Oscar Packard,
" " Wm. Tice.

ONE OF TECUMSEH'S BIG INDUSTRIES

Williamson Bros.

Few of the people in Tecumseh realize the magnitude of the business done by Williamson Bros.

This business brings farmers from all over the country with their produce, and while they receive vast amounts of money they also are generous in expending the same in Tecumseh. Mr. Karcher of Britton received a check of $3000 for the poultry brought in, in three days.

Last week they shipped eight carloads of poultry to the N. Y. market, and in all for their holiday trade have shipped 200,000 lbs. of dressed poultry.

How is that for Tecumseh?

After Grippe
or any Sickness
Vinol Creates Strength
HERE IS PROOF

"After a long attack of Grippe, Mrs. Vaught seemed unable to recover her strength. She was very weak and had no appetite. VINOL rapidly improved her condition and restored her to health. I sincerely recommend its use during convalescence or any run down condition."

JUDGE C. N. VAUGHT,
Huntsville, Ala.

Miss Adelaide Gamm, of Watertown, Wis., writes, "After a severe attack of the Grippe, my system was in a very weakened, nervous, run-down condition. I took VINOL with the best of results, and it made me feel better and stronger than I have been for years."

We have never sold in our store a more valuable health restorer for weak and run down persons than VINOL, and we ask such people in this vicinity to try VINOL with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.600 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

MEYER ASKS SIMS TO EXPLAIN TALK

Speech, If Correctly Quoted, Held to Have Been Indiscreet.

GERMANY DISLIKED REMARKS

Talk of Commander of Battleship Minnesota at Guildhall in London Created Unfavorable Impression in the Report.

Washington, Dec. 19.—It will probably be several weeks before Commander William S. Sims, commanding office of the battleship Minnesota, will send an explanation of his speech at Guildhall, London, on Dec. 3, when the officers and men of the fleet were entertained by the Lord Mayor of London and city of London. Secretary of the Navy Meyer has asked Commander Sims if he made the statement that Great Britain would probably receive assistance from the United States in the event of a foreign war, as he was quoted in press dispatches from London. Commander Sims' explanation is awaited in naval circles with considerable interest because of the fact that he is well known in Washington. He was naval aide to President Roosevelt during the last administration. He was identified with the coterie of naval officers who became prominent through their criticisms of the alleged structural defects of battleships.

This is the sentiment which it is said has caused Secretary Meyer to ask for an explanation:

"I am sure that if the time should ever come when the British empire was seriously menaced by an external enemy, its people might count upon every man, every dollar, every ship and every drop of blood of their kindred across the ocean."

This statement was cabled to German newspapers, where it is said to have created an unfavorable impression. The Germans have been speculating as to the probable reason why the vessels of the fleet were not sent to German ports. Prominent German newspapers have criticised the United States government for failing to include a German port in the itinerary of the battleship fleet on its present cruise. Some officers of the navy department regard Commander Sims' statement, if he was correctly quoted, as somewhat indiscreet. No action will be taken, however, until Commandmander Sims has had a full opportunity to explain his side of the case. While it is a serious breach of naval etiquette for a naval officer to discuss diplomatic affairs with too great freedom, such instances, except in unusually flagrant cases, are usually disposed of by reprimand or warning.

A GOOD REASON

Tecumseh People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

John B. Smith, Chicago street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "For several years I suffered a great deal from rheumatism add backache, caused, no doubt, by disordered kidneys. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time I was relieved. I have not had any serious attacks of the trouble since. I have told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills through the local papers and at this time I gladly confirm all I have ever said in their favor."

POLICE SEEK SLAYERS

Italian Youth's Body Is Found Frozen In Old Quarry.

Stories Told of Quarrels Over Wife of One of Suspects—Jealousy May Have Caused Crime.

Thornton, Ill., Dec 19.—Three men are sought by the police here in connection with the death of 19-year-old Alphonso Palombi. Palombi's body was found frozen in the ice in a water filled pit of an old quarry. His throat had been cut with a knife. A broken revolver was found near, but there were no bullet marks on the body.

The Thornton authorities believe that a love affair probably led to the young man's murder, and an Italian with whose wife Palombia is known to have been on friendly terms, is under surveillance pending the arrest of other men.

Vidtor Gamuch, a boarding house keeper, identified the victim as one of his boarders. He admitted the man disappeared two days ago. It was learned there had been a fight in the boarding house among workmen of the quarries.

The murdered man had been out of work several months but recently had been supplied with plenty of money from some source and spent it freely.

Out of the Fire

By JOSEPHINE R. MARTIN.

Day after day the forest fires had crept nearer and nearer the little clearing where Bunt Doble's cabin stood, away back toward Cat Mountain. The sky was lit each night by the sickening glare, the air was full of smoke, and terrified and strange birds flew wildly about.

Sometimes the smoke stifled them, then as the wind shifted, for a little while they breathed easier, but still the great army of flames marched steadily onward, while overhead blazed a relentless sun in a cloudless sky, with no promise of rain to end the dreadful destruction.

"Pears like we ain't goin' ter hev no more rain. I guess it's the end of all things a comin' slowly," remarked Bunt Doble, and Lora wearily assented. To Lora it did not seem to matter much; she looked out on life with beautiful, tired eyes. Forced into an early and unwilling marriage with Bunt Doble, by her French Canadian father (who owed Bunt money, and thought that was the best way of paying his debt), she rebelled against fate with all the strength of her beautiful young womanhood. She hated the little clearing, thick set with tangled shrubbery; she hated the thick forest, and the mountains farther away that seemed to shut out all that was great and good in the big world beyond; she hated more than all Bunt Doble, gaunt and gray, with an ugly leer in his green eyes, and a fierce set of his lean jaw; and sometimes she even hated herself, her own beautiful face and perfectly formed womanhood.

Bunt Doble, outlaw, and the terror of all game wardens the country through, was certainly no fit mate for the beautiful wild creature who was bound to him for life; and Lora was afraid of him, so afraid that she pailed before the leer in his eyes and the firm set of his hateful mouth.

All this day they had fought the fire, with their few bits of household goods packed in readiness for flight, but at night the wind had shifted and the gentle patter of rain on the leaves brought the belief that the worst was over. Bunt wearied beyond endurance drank deeply, and threw himself down in stupid sleep, but Lora crept out to the edge of the clearing to cool her hot face in the water of the brook. As she plunged her wrists deep in the coolness, a whisper startled her, and a dark, handsome face peered out of the bushes. "It's only Peter, Lora," he whispered. Pete Carson, the young guide, who had loved Lora long and hopelessly and Lora loved him, too, but would not acknowledge it, for was she not bound to Bunt?

"I only wanted to make sure you was all right, Lora; that brute will kill you yet, and I'm always fearful. I wish I could take you away, Lora." Pete's voice was full of feeling.

"Don't, Pete," she half sobbed, "I'm his wife, you know, and I'd ought not be here talking with you, but, oh, Pete, I wish I could die." She sobbed softly and Pete watched her, his face full of misery.

"If you want me, Lora, I'll be near," he said gently. "You can call; I'm never far away; I guess the worst is over, but come to me if you want me. I must go," and with a reassuring grasp of her hand he went silently away. It was after midnight when Lora awoke with the sensation of smothering. She sprang up and rushed out of the cabin, fighting her way through the smoke; the wind had shifted again and the fire was creeping up closer, the cracking of the boughs sounded like the firing of musketry, the heat was unbearable, the smoke stifling, there was no time to lose, already the brands, glowing red, were falling in to the clearing.

Lora rushed back to the cabin, "Bunt," she cried, "wake up, the fire is upon us, but Bunk deep in drunken slumber was not so easily aroused. A feeling of frenzy arose in her heart, "Lie there," she cried. "Lie there and burn; it'll be the best night's work the fire has yet done." Hastily snatching a few things she rushed out and plunged into the thicket toward the road leading to Pete's cabin." But even as she flew onward, remorse flew more quickly and overtook her; with a groan she stopped and wrung her hands. "I can't do it," she moaned. "I know he's a brute, but I'd feel like a murderess. I must not leave him so."

Back through the underbrush she plunged again, her eyes smoke blinded; the trees were falling everywhere with crash and roar, while overhead the stars shone mockingly in the clear rainless sky.

Lora had almost reached the clearing when she stumbled over the body of a man. "Get up, Bunt," she cried, realizing he was overcome by heat and smoke. "Get up or you'll burn. I'll help you." She helped him struggle to his feet, her eyes so blinded she could not open them; roused by her words the man staggered blindly on, dragging on her helplessly; but fear gave her strength and half leading, half dragging him she plunged on until they reached the river, then summoning all her courage she half carried him in her strong arms across the foot log, and dropping her burden sank beside him. Dipping her hands in the cool water she bathed her smoke blinded eyes until the smarting ceased, and then in the darkness she filled her hands with water and dashed it into the face of the unconscious man. "I've saved you, God help me," she murmured.

The dash of cold water aroused the man and he staggered to his feet, and as the glare of the fire fell upon his face Lora gave a startled cry, for it was not Bunt who stood before her, but Pete, brave, handsome Pete, who had started to save her and had been overcome in the clearing.

"Oh, Pete, Pete!" she cried. "He's back there in the cabin! I thought you were him, and I tried to save him. Oh, Pete, what can we do?" Pete lifted the terrified girl to her feet, the realization of what she had done sweeping over him. Suffering as she had from the brutality of that man, she had risked her life to save his so worthless.

"Lora, you are an angel," he said reverently. "God knows you did your best to save him, and he knows, too, that you have borne your burden long enough. See, it is too late to go back now," and even as he spoke a great tree blazing fiery red fell across the little cabin, blotting out the worthless life within. Praying softly, Lora covered her eyes from the dreadful sight, and then Pete's arm was about her, and he drew her hands gently down and turned her face toward him. "Lora, you are his wife no longer. I have waited long; will you come to me now?"

Lora gave him her lips for her answer, and regardless of the destruction sweeping down upon them, Pete gathered her in his arms and kissed not only her lips, but her eyes and face and dusky hair as well, and then with his strong arm about her, they turned their backs on the scene of death and desolation, and plunged down the trail leading them away from the forest which had held for them little besides misery and sorrow, out into God's country, under the silent stars, leaving the old life behind them and going forward into the new, a better and cleaner life, purified by fire.—Boston Post.

Her mother went along as her nurse.

For the past week the little girl has complained of feeling ill, but it was believed that fever caused her condition. She has been kept away from the St. Peter and Paul cathedral school on Parsons street since she first complained. It is now the only case of smallpox known in Detroit.

OSBORN WON'T PLAY POLITICS

Gov.-Elect Reiterates He Will Serve but One Term.

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 21.—Governor-elect Osborn was tendered a brilliant reception at the Saginaw club Tuesday night.

In a statement given out here, Mr. Osborn strongly denied all rumors that he would be a candidate for either president or vice president in 1912. He put emphasis on the fact that he would retire to private life after his two years at Lansing, as he intended to make a business campaign during his term and he could not carry out his plans unless he took this action.

"I would have to play politics," he said, "if I wanted another term, and this I won't do."

MEXICAN REBELS AMBUSH FEDERALISTS

Reinforcements On Way to Relieve Navarro Cut to Pieces.

El Paso, Tex. (Special).—The Mexican government's effort to commandeer a railroad and send reinforcements into the disturbed region of western Chihuahua proved an utter failure. The first train sent out with troops aboard was attacked and returned hauling twenty-one dead and forty-two wounded, including Colonel Guzman and the commander. Although they carried mountain guns with them, the troops were unable to use them. They were ambushed and riddled by a fire of the rebels from all sides.

The ambuscade took place in a pass, and the rebels simply tore up the track in front of the train and began a merciless fire into the troops when they came to a halt. The rebels were behind rocks and temporary breastworks on the two sides of the pass. The federal troops poured out of the cars and stood their ground for five hours, but had to retire.

The reinforcements were making an effort to reach General Navarro at Pedernales, who has been fighting since last Sunday with only occasional respites. In communication over the telegraph wires, which they control, the rebels learned when the train started out of Chihuahua with troops, and immediately began to tear up the track.

That the rebel ranks are gaining daily is a certainty. From 200 to 500 Mexicans are going into Mexico from the United States through this port every night, and many of them openly declare that they are going to join the revolutionists.

INADEQUATE TO ACCOMMODATE

Lapeer Home Report Pleads For Appropriation.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED

There Are More than 100 Applications For Admittance on File at Present Time, but Accommodations Are Unavailable—$137,450 Is Asked For. Home Is $40,000 In Debt.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 20.—In its biennial report presented to Governor Warner. Monday, the board of control of the Home for the Feeble-Minded and Epileptic at Lapeer urges that the legislature be directed to grant an appropriation amounting to $137,450, for the purpose of making certain improvements and enlarging the buildings, which are said to be inadequate to accommodate a large number of children throughout the state who have been unable to gain admittance to the institution.

When the report was compiled, at the conclusion of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, there were 1,000 inmates confined at the institution, and Dr. George L. Chamberlin, the medical superintendent, states that there are more than 100 applications on file at the present time. An eloquent appeal is made in behalf of the unfortunates, and the legislature is urged to take action that will provide suitable accommodations for those who should become wards of the state.

If the legislature grants the appropriation asked for in the report, two new cottages will be erected that will accommodate 170 more patients, equally divided as to sex. An addition to the present dining hall will be built, a separate dining hall for the employes at the home erected, a two-story industrial building constructed and a house for the home physician provided. There are other improvements needed of a less important nature.

In the report it is set forth that the law permitting the board of state auditors and the governor to fix the rate of maintenance is beneficial, but the failure of the act to carry with it any provision for maintenance the first three months of operation under it worked to a disadvantage. As a result of the omission due to the lack of proper care on the part of those having the bill in charge, the board was obliged to borrow money for current expenses, by having all claims against the institution assigned to banks which would lend on such security. The amount borrowed has averaged $40,000.

SIMPSON FOR WARDEN.

Rumored Jackson Prison Board Will Choose Van Buren Man.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 20.—A meeting of the Jackson state prison board at Jackson will be held Dec. 28, and Nathan T. Simpson of Van Buren, present deputy auditor general, will, in all probability, be chosen warden.

John S. Haggerty, a member of the Wayne county road commission and a brick manufacturer, is expected to succeed the late Thomas J. Navin as a member of the board of control of Jackson prison.

No official announcement to that effect has been made as yet, but it is known that this program was framed up at a meeting held in Lansing Sunday.

Clark's Mansion Finished.

New York (Special).—The $7,000,000 Fifth avenue home of ex-Senator William A. Clark of Montana has been completed after eight years of work, and it will be occupied early in the new year. It is said to be the costliest residence ever built in America. The taxes assessed on it by New York

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS THIRTEEN

New Power Station of N. Y. Central Scene of Holocaust.

FIFTY PERSONS WERE INJURED

Trolly Car Filled With Students Blown From Track, Four Passengers Being Killed and the Others Injured—Property Damage Will Exceed $500,000, It Is Estimated.

New York (Special).—Thirteen persons lost their lives, fifty were injured and 1,000 badly shaken up in an explosion of car lighting gas tanks and dynamite in the new six-story power station of the New York Central railroad, under course of construction at Fiftieth street and Lexington avenue. Nine bodies have been recovered, and the bodies of four workmen are believed to be in the wreckage.

A trolley car filled with a dozen high school students was blown from the tracks on Lexington street. Four passengers were killed and the others injured.

Ceilings and windows in hospitals, schools and apartment houses were shattered by the explosion which caused innumerable hurts of workmen and people in the affected territory.

There were two explosions. Chief Croker, of the fire department, says that in his opinion the first was that of lighting gas and the second that of a hundred weight of dynamite which lay within 50 feet of the gas tank.

The explosion, which could be heard for many blocks, partly wrecked the fire engine house nearby and prevented the firemen from getting their apparatus into the street.

At the postoffice sub-station, Fiftieth street and Madison avenue, the explosion slightly injured several clerks and threw the mail all over the floor.

The power house, which is built of stone and brick and six stories high, took fire after the explosion, and the interior was practically burned out. Just what caused the double explosion may never be known.

The damage to the power house and other buildings will likely exceed $500,000.

SEA SWALLOWS ISLAND; 170 PERSONS PERISH

Awful Catastrophe Follows Earthquake In Salvador.

Port Limon, Costa Rica (Special)—More than 170 persons perished Saturday when an island in the center of the Ilopango lagoon, off Salvador, suddenly was swallowed up by the sea.

The sinking of the island is said to have followed a series of earthquake shocks, which were felt throughout the republic of Salvador.

The Ilopango lagoon is a lake of Salvador, southeast of the city of San Salvador. It is about five and a half miles in length. A minor volcano cone rose from its waters in January, 1880. The lagoon is about twenty-five miles from the Pacific coast, in mountainous country.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

There were 24 charter members.

At the next regular meeting of the Grand Chapter of Michigan a charter was issued under the name of Tecumseh Chapter, No. 51, Order Eastern Star, and the same officers were re-elected.

The present membership is 365. Eleven of the charter members have gone to join the majority.

This order is in a most prosperous condition at the present time and is steadily adding to its membership. Its endeavor is to do good, to lend a helping hand to the needy in the families of its Masonic friends wherever they may be. While in no ways a part of the Masonic lodge, yet it is closely allied to it in this, that no one can become a member except the wife, daughter or sister of a Mason.

WASHINGTON LETTER

The events of the week in Congress have been full of interest and there are indications pointing to what the national legislature may be able to accomplish during the present short session.

Andrew Carnegie, whose benefactions among now to 180 millions of dollars has just added a donation of ten millions of dollars for the promotion of peace throughout the world. The nations will continue to build battleships and levy armies, but it is impossible that a donation so munificent shall not have the influence of its inspiration. The Secretary of was has just returned from a trip around the world and has started Congress by a confidential document sent to the House of Represenatives stating that this country is unfit for was, lacking the right kind of men, guns, ammunition and fortifications. This confidental report is said to be sensational in its details. In view of Mr Carnegie's ten million dollar donation to the cause of peace, this report from the Secretary of war is peculiarly clashing.

Representative Hobson of Alabama he who sank the old ship in the harbor entrance at Santiago has introduced a bill in Congress for the appointment of a Board of National Defense, the object of which is to secure co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the government with a view to harmony in a defensive policy. By the terms of the bill the War Secretary is to be president of the council and the other members the Secretary of the Navy, the Chairman of the House Military and Naval Affairs, and also the Senate and House Finance Committees.

Mr. Carnegie continues his fight against dying rich, but the odds are against him.

Mr. Rockefeller's proposed foundation gift of more than $100,000,000 is again before Congress which seems to be appalled at the immensity of the benefaction and afraid it may have a flare back.

The notable biographical feature of THE CENTURY during 1911 will be a history of "Martin Luther and His Work," written by Dr. A. C. McGiffert, Professor of Church History in Union Theological Seminary—a biography which aims to picture not only the stern monk whose rebellion against the church of Rome changed the religious history of the world, but also as a man, a real, living, human man. The life will present much new material in both pictures and text.

A REAL TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF TOM NAVIN AT FUNERAL

One of the pathetic tributes to the memory of Tom Navin, which occurred at the funeral in Detroit on Saturday last, was the appearance of two little street gamins at the door, who stood there hats in hand and asked in husked tones the privilege of seeing the remains. Of course the request was granted and in a reverent and subdued manner the two lads approached the bier. The smallest lad dropped upon his knees and silently wept and prayed, while the other lad just as devoutly dropped a beautiful rose near the face of his departed friend and stood for a moment in devotion. Upon the stem of the rose was a slip of paper and written in a scrawling hand were the words, "He was good to de gang."

BEAT IT!

One of the amusing incidents of Newspaper life was enacted in the HERALD OFFICE one day this week, when a representative of one of the Adrian papers tried to sell us a years subscription. We informed him that we were now getting it for nothing, could he do any thing better? but he was bound to speak his piece and insisted that it was bargain day. We wondered if they were giving the Adrian paper away with a prize to any one who would take it, still he was not convinced until we informed him that this was the Tecumseh Herald Office, when he turned and fled as if shot from a cannon.

Stuart Ballou.

Stuart Ballou formerly of Britton, but of late living with his daughter Mrs. Wm. Bennett, died Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock, from a general breaking down. His funeral will be held at the house Friday morning at 10 o'clock with burial at Lake Ridge.

After Grippe
or any Sickness
Vinol Creates Strength

HERE IS PROOF

"After a long attack of Grippe, Mrs. Vaught seemed unable to recover her strength. She was very weak and had no appetite. VINOL rapidly improved her condition and restored her to health. I sincerely recommend its use during convalescence or any run down condition."

JUDGE C. N. VAUGHT,
Huntsville, Ala.

Miss Adelaide Gamm, of Watertown, Wis., writes, "After a severe attack of the Grippe, my system was in a very weakened, nervous, run-down condition. I took VINOL with the best of results, and it made me feel better and stronger than I have been for years."

We have never sold in our store a more valuable health restorer for weak and run down persons than VINOL, and we ask such people in this vicinity to try VINOL with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

DYNAMITE IS USED IN LABOR TROUBLE

Llewellyn Iron Works Partly Wrecked By Explosion.

FIRM'S STRIKERS ARE BLAMED

Explosive Placed on Outside of Los Angeles Plant Does Great Damage and the Night Watchman Is Injured.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26. — The Llewellyn Iron Works at Main and Redondo streets was partially destroyed by dynamite exploded by some one from the outside of the building early in the morning. No one was injured, except Night Watchman J. T. Asbury, who was slightly hurt by splinters. Although the business office of the firm and the upper floor was wrecked by the force of the explosion the machinery on the lower floor escaped all damage. Because the firm had had trouble with the Metal Workers' union for several months the explosion is believed to have been the work of union labor sympathizers.

So great was the force of the dynamite explosion that residents in West Lake Park district, two miles away, were awakened by the shock. All the glass in neighboring buildings was smashed and small damage was done to the Lacy Manufacturing company's plant, Johnson Machine works, and other plants.

The force of the explosion was so great that it tore a hole eighteen inches deep and six feet in diameter in the ground just at the wagon entrance to the plant. A wooden shed which contained stored iron by the entrance was totally wrecked.

The main factory building was a three-story frame structure and only the front of this, occupied by the office and shipping room, was wrecked. All the valuable machinery on the first floor further back in the building escaped. There will be no stoppage of the plant.

The only man who witnessed the explosion was Police Officer Cahill, who happened to be passing near the front of the building. He said:

"I suddenly saw a flash and heard a sharp report like the cracking of a whip. Immediately the whole front of the Llewellyn Iron Works crumbled and fell in a heap and the air was thick with dust. I rushed up and called out: 'Is any one in the buildings?' and hearing a cry for help from Asbury found him and dragged him from under some timbers that had pinned him to the earth."

Coming so soon after the terrible explosion of the Times office this crime has aroused great indignation. The Llewellyn Iron Works has been conspicuous among those in Los Angeles who opposed the demands of union labor. On June 1 last the metal workers struck for an eight hour day and a uniform wage of 50 cents an hour. Much bitterness was shown on both sides. Many threats had been received by the Llewellyn people, but they regarded these as mere bluffs and supposed they had their place well guarded by employing a night watchman. The police have no clew.

ENGINEER'S PAY IS INCREASED

Settlement Affects 33,700 Engineers and Embraces 61 Railroad Systems in West and Southwest Portion of United States.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—There will be no strike of locomotive engineers. Mediation efforts of United States Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill succeeded in averting the threatened strike and bringing about a settlement on the basis of an increase of 10 1-3 per cent in the wages of the men.

A compromise peace proposition offered by Commissioner Neill as a last resort was accepted by both sides at the final conferences held and Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and W. D. Scott, chairman of the general managers' committee, affixed their signatures to the new agreement.

The settlement will add a total of $4,000,000 a year to the payroll for engineers on sixty-one western railroads. This is $400,000 more than the railroads offered originally, and represents the amount yielded by the roads to prevent a disastrous strike.

While far from what the men had demanded, it was regarded as a good settlement. Both sides were compelled to yield several points in order to meet Commissioner Neill's compromise. The men demanded a raise of about 15 per cent and the railroads offered an average of 9½ per cent.

Under the new agreement the engineers on Mallet compound engines will receive a raise of 75c and $1 a day, depending on the size of the engine. Engineers on passenger, suburban and through freight service, pusher and helper engines, wreck, snow plow, work and mixed trains will receive a raise of 40 cents a day of 100 miles or less.

Engineers in way freight service will receive an additional differential of 25 cents a day, making their raise 65c a day of 100 miles or less. On through freight engines the men will get an additional differential of 15c a day on all engines of 215,000 pounds driving power, making the raise in this class 55c a day of 100 miles or less.

The railroads yielded on the dispute over gasoline motor operators and granted jurisdiction to the engineers over this class of employes, who also were given a raise of 40c a day of 100 miles or less.

The settlement affects 33,700 engineers employed on railroads covering a territory from Lake Michigan to the Pacific coast and from Fort William, Ont., to the Gulf of Mexico and the Rio Grande. Negotiations began on Sept. 26 and were broken off the first week in November, when a strike vote was ordered. This resulted in an overwhelming vote to strike. Commissioner Neill's aid was invoked by the railroads and federal mediation conferences began on Dec. 17, continuing uninterruptedly until peace was assured. Wage negotiations of conductors and trainmen on the same lines of railroads were postponed until Tuesday of this week.

FIRE HEROES' FUNERALS

Burial of Great Stockyards Fire Victims Being Held.

Three Funerals Saturday, Nine Sunday and Eleven, Including Chief Horan's, Was Held Today.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The long series of funerals of the victims of the stockyards fire was begun Saturday and will continue until Tuesday, when the bodies of the last of the twenty-four men killed by the falling wall will be laid away.

Three of the funerals, including that of Assistant Chief Burroughs, passed through crowds making ready for Christmas. Nine more were held Sunday. Eleven of the heroes, including Chief Horan, were carried to their graves today.

While all Chicago felt its bereavement as soon as the results of the fire were heralded, its true meaning came home to thousands of citizens who watched the slow processions of the first funerals, marked by long rows of uniforms and of carriages filled with men known in public life. Almost every section of the city will see at least one cortege of a similar nature.

DRINK CRAZED MAN SHOOTS PARTNER

A. Hansen Also Tries to Murder Hotel Porter While Mad.

SHOOTS SELF AND MAY EXPIRE

Crime Results as Sequel to Christmas Celebration During Which Slayer Imbibed Freely of Intoxicating Absynthe Until Crazed.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Dec. 26. —A Christmas celebration at the Columbus hotel, 301 East Third street, ended in Andrea Hansen, one of the proprietors shooting Joseph Dinavie, his partner in the hotel business, and Morris Babuluad, the porter, after which he tried to end his own life. All three men are in the Mount Vernon hospital in a serious condition. Hansen is the most seriously wounded, and it is believed he can live only a few hours.

The police were enjoying their Christmas dinner when word of the shooting came, and at the hotel they found the porter and Dinavie lying in the hallway, while Hansen held a revolver in his hand. He was covered by the policemen's guns, but made for the stairway and reached his room before the officers could stop him. Several minutes later shots were heard and Hansen was found with a bullet in his throat. He was unconscious and appeared to be bleeding to death. Clutched in his hand was a French revolver with six empty shells.

It is said that Hansen had been drinking absynthe while celebrating with his friends which crazed him. He first shot his partner near the heart and then fired three shots at the porter, all of which hit him in different parts of the body. Then the crazed man, when he saw the police, tried to kill himself.

New York, Dec. 26.—Mrs. Kate Flannery was burned to death in her apartment on the fourth floor of 412 West Twenty-Fifth street. Harry Bovington, who lives across the hall on the same floor, was awakened by Mrs. Flannery's cries. Hampered by a heavy plaster cast on his lame leg Bovington got into Mrs. Flannery's flat. It was in flames and Mrs. Flannery was afire.

Bovington got a shawl about the woman and had dragged her to the door when she kicked his injured leg, hurting him so that he released her. She ran back into the burning room and, as the flames were spreading, Bovington thought it time to save his own life and that of his wife and child. After the firemen had put out the fire they found Mrs. Flannery's body under a window leading to the fire escape.

SCOTCH FLYER WRECKED

Eight Instantly Killed, Several Burned to Death and Fire Reduces Entire Train to Ashes.

Kirby-Stephen, England, Dec. 26.—Eight passengers were killed, some of them instantly, and the others burned to death, and twenty-five more injured in the wreck of the Scotch express near Hawes' Junction.

The express carried 500 persons bounds for their homes in Scotland to spend Christmas. It was running at its ordinary speed, when near the junction it collided with a pilot engine and was derailed.

Fire broke out in the wreck and the whole train with the exception of the locomotive and a rear baggage car was reduced to ashes.

It was thought at first that but two persons had been killed and that the others had had time to escape before the flames swept through the coaches. A search of the debris, however, resulted in the discovery of charred bodies and by the time that the whole wreckage had been gone through eight bodies had been recovered. Most of the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Man Who Shot Detective Is in Turn Killed by the Comrade of the Murdered Sleuth.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Detective Jesse Gilman of the Chicago avenue station is dead from a bullet wound inflicted by Gregori Garcio, who subsequently was fatally shot by Detective William Burns, Gilman's partner. The shooting caused panic among scores of persons who witnessed it.

The trouble began at Franklin and Ontario streets when the two detectives who had been searching for Gracio endeavored to arrest him. Without warning the man, whose hands were in his pockets, opened fire through his overcoat. Burns reached for his own revolver as Gilman exclaimed: "I'm shot, Bill."

As the wounded detective reeled and fell to the pavement Gracio wrenched himself free, with Burns in pursuit. Many bullets sped after the man until at Ontario and Cass streets he fell mortally wounded and died in a few minutes.

FLAMES DESTROY PAPER MILL

Loss to Kokomo Plant, Due to Spontaneous Combustion, $20,000.

Kokomo, Ind., Dec. 26.—The stock building of the Lewis Knerr paper mill, which was stacked to the very rafters, was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $20,000. The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion, a small explosion blowing out the west wall, when the flames shot upward to the roof.

The company had on hand so much old paper that it had refused to purchase more of local dealers. The machinery and main plant was saved from the flames. It is possible that the factory will be shut down for some time until the paper supply is replenished.

A foolish impulse caused him to thrust his hands into the furnace and pull the timepiece out. His hand and arm were terribly burned.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Above must be some one for the duke to punish," heroically; "otherwise he will refuse."

"Still, suppose I bargain for you too?"

"When you tell him my name is Breunner there will be no bargaining."

"What has this clock mender to do with the case?"

"He is Count von Arnsberg."

"By George! And this gypsy?"

"The man who bribed me. Arnsberg is an innocent man, but this has to be proved."

"I will do what I can, Hans, and I will let you know the result after dinner tonight."

"That will be enough. But unless he concedes do not tell him our names."

"You have me a bit dazed," Carmichael admitted. "I ought to know what this blunder is to have something to stand on."

Grumbach shook his head. "Later every question will be answered, and remember at this interview Herbeck must not be present."

"Very well. I promise to see his highness this afternoon."

The three of them solemnly trooped out, leaving Carmichael bewildered. And while he was racking his mind he heard steps on the stairs. The door above shut noisily.

"By George, I'll attend to that this minute. We'll see what stuff this yellow haired boy is made of."

He mounted the stairs without sound. He grasped the handle of the door, boldly pushed it open and entered, closing the door and placing his back against it.

The vintner snatched a pistol from the drawer in the table and leveled it at Carmichael.

"Surely your majesty will not shoot an old friend?" said the American.

CHAPTER XV.

THE KING.

THE vintner slowly lowered the pistol till it touched the table. Then he released it.

"That is better, your majesty."

"Why do you call me that?"

"Your face was familiar, but I failed at first to place it rightly. It was only after you had duped me into going after the veiled lady that I had any real suspicion. You are Frederick Leopold of Jugendheit."

"I shall not deny it further," proudly. "And take care how you speak to me, since I admit my identity."

"This is Ehrenstein. Here I shall talk to you as I please."

The king reddened, and his hand closed again over the pistol.

"I have saved your majesty twice from death. You force me to recall it to your mind."

The king had the grace to lower his eyes.

"The first time was at Bonn. Don't you recollect the day when an American took you out of the Rhine, an American who did not trouble himself to come around and ask for your thanks, who, in truth, did not learn till days after what an important person you were or were going to be?"

"For that moment, herr, I thank you."

"And for that in the garden below?"

"For that also. Now, why are you here?"

Carmichael went over to the table. He bent over it and with his face close to that of the king, "I demand to know what your intentions are toward that friendless goose girl."

"And what is that to you?" said the king angrily.

"It is this much: If you have acted toward her otherwise than honorably, well"—

"Go on. You interest me."

"Well, I promise to break every bone in your kingly body. In this room it is man to man. I recognize no king, only the physical being."

The king pushed aside the table, furious.

"You shall die for this insult!" said the king as quietly as his hard breathing would allow.

"I have heard that before. But how?" banteringly.

"I will waive my crown—man to man!"

"Sword sticks, sabers or hop poles? Come," savagely, "what do you mean by the goose girl?"

So intent on the struggle were they that neither heard the door open and close.

"Yes, my dear nephew, what do you mean by Gretchen?"

Carmichael released the king and with feline quickness stooped and secured the pistol which had fallen to the floor. Not sure of the new arrival's purpose, he backed to the wall. He knew the voice, and he recognized its owner.

"Put it in your pocket, Mr. Carmichael, and let us finish this discussion in English since there are many ears about the place."

"His royal highness?" murmured the king.

"Yes, sire! True to life!"

"A fine comedy," cried Herr Ludwig jovially, folding his arms over his deep chest, "a rollicking adventure! Well, nephew, you have not as yet answered either Mr. Carmichael's question or my own. What do you mean by Gretchen?"

"I love her," nobly. "And well for you, my uncle, that you come as you do. I would have married her. Wrong her? What was a crown to me, who till now have never worn one save in speech? You have been the king."

"Bodies must have heads; kingdoms must have kings. I have made an experiment, and this is the result. I wanted you to grow up unfettered by power; I wanted you to mingle with peoples, here and there, so when you became their head physician you could ably minister to their political diseases. And all this fine ambition tumbles down before the wooden shoes of a pretty goose girl."

"Now, Mr. Carmichael, what is your interest in Gretchen?" asked the king tartly.

Carmichael trembled with joy. Here was an opening for a double shot. "My interest in her is better than yours, for I have not asked her to become a king's mistress."

His royal highness bit his lip.

"Uncle!" cried the king, horrified at this article.

"Mr. Carmichael evidently has applied his ear to a keyhole," Herr Ludwig replied, recollecting well the day when he suggested to the beautiful young girl how easily and quickly she could secure the riches, the pretty things and the advantages she desired. It occurred in the tap room of the tavern the day he had the mysterious interview with the aged clockmaker. Yes, well did Herr Ludwig remember how he had told Gretchen that she could win the gowns, the carriages and the jewels her girl's heart coveted solely through her beauty, "by the supreme right of her beauty alone."

"No, no, not through the keyhole!" retorted Carmichael. "The window was open. My clerk heard you plainly."

"Uncle, is this damnable thing true?"

"Yes. What would you? You were determined to make a fool of yourself. But rest easy. She is ignorant where this offer came from, and, moreover, she spurned it, as Mr. Carmichael's clerk will affirm. Oh, Gretchen is a fine little woman, and I would to God she was of your station!" And the mask fell from the regent's face, leaving it bitter and careworn. "Our presence is known in Dreiberg; it has been known for three days at least. And in coming up here I had another errand. Oh, I haven't forgotten it. In the street there are at least ten soldiers under the subchief of the police. Rather a curious conjunction."

The king turned white.

Carmichael ran to the rear window. He shrugged. "There's half a dozen in the garden too."

"Is there any way to the roofs?"

"None that would serve you."

"Mr. Carmichael," said the king, offering his hand, his handsome face kindly and without rancor, "I should be an ungrateful wretch if I did not ask your full pardon. I am indebted to you twice for my life, little as it amounts to. And in my kingdom you will always be welcome. Will you accept my hand as one man to another?"

"With happiness, your majesty. And I ask that you pardon my own hasty words."

"Thank you."

"He is only young," sighed Ludwig.

The king emptied the drawer, put the contents in his pack, tied the strings and put it under his arm.

"What are you going to do?" asked the uncle, vaguely perturbed.

"I am going down to the soldiers. I am no longer a vintner; I am a king!" And he said this in a manner truly royal.

"Gott!" burst from the prince regent. "This boy has marrow in his bones, after all. But the incarceration will not be long. There are 10,000 troops on the other side of the passes."

"Ten thousand? Well, they shall stay there," said the king determinedly. "I shall not begin my reign with war. I will tell the duke the truth. He will not dare go far."

"He will be a good politician, too," said Ludwig, with a smile of approval at Carmichael. "No, boy, there will be no war. And yet I was prepared for it, nor was I wrong in doing so. Already, but for Herbeck, there would be plenty of fighting in the passes. Ach! Could you but see the princess!"

"I have seen her," replied the king. "Heaven would have been kinder had I seen her months ago."

"Say to his serene highness, then, that you are willing to marry her."

"I'm afraid you do not understand, uncle," the king replied sadly. "I have the supreme happiness to love and to be loved. Of that nothing can rob me. And for some time to come, uncle mine, I shall treasure that happiness."

"And the little Gretchen?"

"Yes, yes! I have been a scoundrel. And the king's eyes grew moist. "You are happy, Mr. Carmichael. You have no crown to weigh against your love."

And from that moment Carmichael's heart warmed toward the young man, whose sorrow was greater than his own, for the king was giving up the woman who loved him, while Carmichael was only giving up the woman he loved, which is a distinction.

"Come, uncle," said the young king; "let us see what is going on downstairs."

Carmichael followed them down.

"There they are, men!" cried the subchief. "You are under arrest!"

"I am the king of Jugendheit," calmly announced Frederick Leopold. "Will you subject me to public arrest?"

"And I," said the uncle, "am Ludwig, prince regent."

The subchief laughed uproariously. The king of Jugendheit and the prince regent! This was a good joke indeed!

"Your majesty and your royal highness," said the subchief, his eyes twinkling, "will do me the honor of accompanying me to the Steinschloss. You are accused of being military spies from Jugendheit."

"May I retain this bundle?" inquired the king.

"Yes. I know what is in it. Forward, march!"

Carmichael made as though to protest, but Prince Ludwig signed for him to be silent.

An hour later Gretchen appeared before Frau Bauer. Gretchen had gone home immediately after the termination of the fight in the garden.

"He was not hurt, frau?" she asked timidly.

"Oh, no! The two of them gave themselves up readily. They are snug in the Steinschloss by this time."

"The Steinschloss!" Gretchen blanched. "Holy mother, what has happened?"

"Why, your vintner and Herr Ludwig were arrested an hour ago, accused of being spies from Jugendheit."

She groped blindly for the door.

"Where are you going, Gretchen?"

"To her highness! She will save him!"

Her highness was dreaming. She had fallen into this habit of late. A maid of honor announced that the young woman Gretchen sought her presence.

"Admit her. She will be a tonic," said Hildegarde.

Gretchen appeared, red eyed and disheveled. Instantly she flung herself at the feet of the princess.

"Why, Gretchen!"

"They will not let me see him, highness!" Gretchen choked.

"What has happened, child?"

"Mr. Carmichael has applied his ear to a keyhole." Herr Ludwig replied, recollecting well the day when he suggested to the beautiful young girl how easily and quickly she could secure the riches, the pretty things and the advantages she desired. It occurred in the tap room of the tavern the day he had the mysterious interview with the aged clockmaker. Yes, well did Herr Ludwig remember how he had told Gretchen that she could win the gowns, the carriages and the jewels her girl's heart coveted solely through her beauty, "by the supreme right of her beauty alone."

"No, no, not through the keyhole!" retorted Carmichael. "The window was open. My clerk heard you plainly."

"Uncle, is this damnable thing true?"

"Yes. What would you? You were determined to make a fool of yourself. But rest easy. She is ignorant where this offer came from, and, moreover, she spurned it, as Mr. Carmichael's clerk will affirm. Oh, Gretchen is a fine little woman, and I would to God she was of your station!" And the mask fell from the regent's face, leaving it bitter and careworn. "Our presence is known in Dreiberg; it has been known for three days at least. And in coming up here I had another errand. Oh, I haven't forgotten it. In the street there are at least ten soldiers under the subchief of the police. Rather a curious conjunction."

The king turned white.

Carmichael ran to the rear window. He shrugged. "There's half a dozen in the garden too."

"Is there any way to the roofs?"

"None that would serve you."

"Mr. Carmichael," said the king, offering his hand, his handsome face kindly and without rancor, "I should be an ungrateful wretch if I did not ask your full pardon. I am indebted to you twice for my life, little as it amounts to. And in my kingdom you will always be welcome. Will you accept my hand as one man to another?"

"With happiness, your majesty. And I ask that you pardon my own hasty words."

"Thank you."

"He is only young," sighed Ludwig.

The king emptied the drawer, put the contents in his pack, tied the strings and put it under his arm.

"What are you going to do?" asked the uncle, vaguely perturbed.

"I am going down to the soldiers. I am no longer a vintner; I am a king!" And he said this in a manner truly royal.

"Gott!" burst from the prince regent. "This boy has marrow in his bones, after all. But the incarceration will not be long. There are 10,000 troops on the other side of the passes."

they have arrested him as a spy from Jugendheit, and he is innocent. Save him, highness!"

"How can I save him?"

"He is not a spy."

"That must be proved, Gretchen. I cannot go to the Steinschloss and order them to liberate him." She lifted Gretchen to her feet.

"I have been there, and they will not let me see him. I love him so!"

"I can arrange that for you. I will go with you myself to the prison."

"Thanks, highness, thanks!" Gretchen was hysterical.

The king and his uncle had been given adjoining cells on the ground floor. The princess and her protegee were admitted without objection. The sergeant in charge of that floor even permitted them to go into the corridor unattended.

Voices.

"Hush!" whispered her highness pressing Gretchen's arm.

"Ach! Wall, dear nephew; beat your hands upon the bars, curse, waste your breath on stone. Did I not warn you against this very thing when you proposed this mad junket? A fine scandal!"

"Woe to the duke for this affront!"

Gretchen started to speak, but the princess quickly put her hand over the goose girl's mouth.

"Uncle, I will have revenge for this!"

"Good! Bang—bang! Slash and cut! War is a great invention—on paper. Come, my boy; you were sensible enough when they brought us here. Control yourself. Be a king in all the word implies. For my part, I begin to see."

"And what do you see?"

"I see that the duke knows who we are, even if his police do not. He will keep us here a day or two and then magnanimously liberate us with profuse apologies. We shall be escorted to the frontier with honors. His highness loves a jest too well to let this chance escape. Besides, I see in the glass the fine Italian hand of Herbeck."

"Gretchen, Gretchen!" said the king.

Gretchen could stand it no longer. She wrenched herself free from the grasp of the princess, who, with pitying heart, understood all now. Poor, unhappy Gretchen!

"Here I am, Leopold," the goose girl cried, pressing her body against the bars and thrusting her hands through them.

"The devil!" murmured the man in the other cell.

"You here, Gretchen?" The king covered her hands with passionate kisses.

"Yes, yes! They have made a dreadful mistake. You are no spy from Jugendheit."

"No, Gretchen," said the voice from the next cell. "He is far worse than that. He is the king, Gretchen, the king."

"Uncle!" in anguish.

"Let us have it over with," replied Prince Ludwig sadly.

"The king!" Gretchen laughed shrilly. "What jest is this, Leopold?"

The king, still holding her hands, looked down.

"Leopold!" plaintively.

Still he did not speak, still he averted his head. But God knew that his heart was on the rack.

"Leo, look at me! You are laughing!" Gretchen cried. "Why, did we not work together in the vineyards, and did we not plan for the future? Ah, yes! You are a king only to me. I see. But it is a cruel jest, Leopold. Smile at me! Say something!"

"Gretchen, forgive me!" despairingly.

"He asks me to forgive him!" dully. "For what?"

"For being a villain! Yes," his voice keen with agony, "I am the king of Jugendheit. But am I less a man for that? Ah, God help me, I have a right to love like other men! Do not doubt me, Gretchen; do not think that I played with you. I love you better than my crown, better than my honor!"

OBITUARY

There is a reaper whose name is Death
And with his sickle keen
He reaps the bearded grain at a breath
And the flowers that grow between.

Once more this dread reaper has entered our midst and this time he has taken from among us one of the fair young flowers.

Hollis Biddle Frost was born in Macon, Oct. 29, 1899, and departed this life Dec. 16, 1910. For 11 years he has brightened the home and made glad the hearts of the dear ones now so sadly bereaved. His short life throughout was one of thoughtful kindness to those with whom he came in daily contact. His was a disposition of patience and unselfishness a quality exhibited always in his home as well as elsewhere. With him the mother so often trusted the care of the baby brother and never in one instance did he by carelessness or neglect prove himself unworthy of the trust. The counsel of father and mother were never disregarded by him, for to obey and be truthful were two sterling qualities in his character.

If there was one thing which he prized above all else it was the companionship of his mother, and the lessons learned from her were regarded as sacred by him. Hollis had in him the qualities of a noble man, punctuality, honesty, truthfulness and kindness. He was thoughtful and considerate beyond his years, to those who were older than himself, and many will look back and remember with pleasure the many little attentions and kindly deeds.

He was full of life and ambition, a leader in all the frolics and sports of his playmates, and ever prompt and faithful in the performance of his duties. The love and respect he felt for his teacher endeared him to her and it will be long ere the vacant place can be witnessed without a feeling of deepest sadness. He loved music and books and desired to stand foremost in his classes. He was of a serious thinking disposition and only last winter made the decision to live his life for the Master and publically acknowledged his love for Him.

One week ago last Friday he complained of not feeling well and went home from school for the last time. Medical aid was immediately called and all that human power could do was done to relieve the intense suffering but he was beyond human aid and Friday night at 11 o'clock the gentle spirit took his flight.

Sad indeed was the parting but our loss is Heaven's gain and we do not weep as those who have hope for.

He has only gone before us to that heavenly land,
Waiting there to meet us with the angel band
Dear one, we will meet you in your home on high;
Meet when Jesus calls us in the Sweet Bye and Bye.

The funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the M. E church Rev. Pollock officiating. The body of little Hollis was laid away in the Macon cemetery.

Card of Thanks

Words fail to express our thanks to the kind neighbors and friends for help and sympathy shown us in our time of sorrow and bereavement in the loss of our loved one; also to the organist and singers for their sweet music; to the pastor for his kind words of sympathy and for the many beautiful floral offerings.

The Spirit of Liberty.

It was in the town that modern democracy had its rise. Despite all the efforts of the kings and barons to prevent it, the spirit of liberty began to assert itself in the larger towns in the shape of the charters which guarantee to the people certain commercial and political rights—rights which, once obtained, were never to be surrendered. Before the middle of the eleventh century there were many of these "chartered" towns which possessed the right of electing their own magistrates, sheriffs and judges and regulating their own taxes. The wretched serfs from the country were welcomed by the townspeople and aided to larger freedom. These free towns were first known in Spain, from which country they slowly spread over Europe. The burgesses naturally offered protection and freedom to all who would flee to them from the feudal estates, and thus slowly, but surely, the good work went on until the ancient despotisms were destroyed.—Arena.

RUSSELL-BACON

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon occured one of the most beautiful of the early winter weddings when Miss Jessie Bacon, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bacon of 2010 Fifth avenue was married to Elmer LaVern Russell of Tecumseh Mich., Rev. Amos Walkins, rector of Trinity church, reading the ring service in the presence of relatives and a few friends only. The brides chosen colors were green and white and these shades were carried out in the decorations throughout the house. A banking of ferns and palms was arranged in one corner of the parlor, making an effective setting for the bridal party, who decended the stairs to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Wm. Hamilton.

The stair casing, archways and chandeliers were festooned with smilax while huge clusters of chrysanthemums were attractively disposed. Following the ceremony a delicious wedding supper was served in the dinning room where a mound of chrysanthemums formed a center piece for the bridal table.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with pearl and chantilly lace trimmings, the clover trimming following the front panel down to meet the train. Her veil of Bussel's net was held with white rose buds and she carried bridal roses. The bride was attended by Mrs. Lawrence Martindale as matron of honor, who wore her wedding gown of white satin stripe marquisette and carried white carnations, while her sister, Miss Ida Bacon assisted as maid of honor. She was attired in a gown of pale green messaline draped with white marquisette, with trimmings of chantilly lace and carried white carnations. Herbert Russell of Tecumseh served his brother as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell left for a trip to Chicago and after February first will be at home in Tecumseh.

Among the out of town guests were Joseph Russell, father of the groom, Misses Elizabeth and Jennie Russell of Pontiac and Mr. and Mrs. John Woolfitt of Flint.

A FINE RECORD

In a late Detroit paper we find a tribute to Geo. H. Turner of Flint who for 27 years has been an active worker in rescue work among the juvenile delinquents. He has been county agent for all these years and his interest in the work has never flagged. He says it is his firm belief that in ninety-nine cases out of the hundred it pays to fight for the redemption of those who go estray. He receives hundreds of letters from those who in past years were going wrong but whose career was changed by his personal interest. When a case is brought before him he visits the home and takes in the environment, then has a heart to heart talk with the culprit. He claims that of the hundreds who have come under his supervision less than 60 have been sent to Adrian or Lansing. A man with such a record deserves all praise and the heartfelt wish of his days may be long in the land, where he has done so much good. The Herald takes special interest in Mr. Turner as he is a much valued friend, his son Frank is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Stacy.

MILLIONS OF LIVES

An Awful Toll Collected by Consumption. Many Unnecessary Deaths.

If people could only understand that systemic catarrh is an internal diseased that external applications can not cure, they would not need to be warned so often about this malady, which when neglected paves the way oftentimes for consumption, at the cost of millions of lives every year. Yet catarrh may be cured, if the right treatment is employed.

The only way to successfully treat catarrh is by employing a medicine which is absorbed and carried by the blood to all parts of the system so that the mucous membrane or internal lining of the body is toned up and made capable of resisting the infection of consumption and other diseases.

We have a remedy prepared from the prescription of a physician who for thirty years studied and made catarrh a specialty and whose record was a patien restored to health in every case where his treatment was followed as prescribed. That remedy is Rexall Mucu-Tone. We are so positive that it will comyletely overcome catarrh in all its various forms, whether acute or chronic, that we promise to return every penny paid us for the medicine in every case where it fails or for any reason does not satisfy the user.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our recommendation and guarantee. We are right here where you live and you do not contract any obligation or risk when you try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Very often the taken of one 50c bottle is sufficient to make a marked impression upon the case. Of course in chronic cases a longer treatment is necessary. The average in such instances is three $1.00 bottles. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Tecumseh only at our store—B. J. Pulver.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of their day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken during that difficult act was knocked from pillar to post for years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review of Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach for less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

CHRITMAS IN OUR CHURCHES

Each church in our community was fully imbued with the Christmas spirit and every service was full of the story of Him who was born on that day

At 7:46 a. m. the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed at St. Peters church, a fitting beginning for Christmas day. At 4 p. m. the choir rendered the grand cantata, "The Hope of the World," which told the stary of Him whose birth this day commemorates.

At the Baptist church the morning theme was "The Birth of Jesus and the Angels Sermon," with special music beautifully rendered by the choir. In the evening a chorus of 25 voices sang "Christmas Carols," each of which was given with the spirit and understanding of the occasion.

At the M. E. church the sermon was from the text "He was a Man" anp the personality of the Christ was finely portrayed. At the 5 o'clock service the Sunday school and choir gave a Christmas concert that was greatly enjoyed by all.

At the Presbyterian church the pastor had for his theme "No Room at the Inn" and it was a very interesting sermon and in the evening "The World's Cradle" was a fitting finish for the morning sermon.

At all the churches in the various men's classes, Leagues, Endeavor and other societies the Christmns spirit was present and the day was one of peace and good will to all.

Telephone Girl up to Her Business.

The People's Bank in Britton was the scene of some lively work on Thursday morning when it was discovered that the yegg men were busy trying to blow up the safe. The first explosion wakened. Harry Gill who lived just across the way, he soon discovered what was going on and going to the telephone called deputy sheriff Gibson and then notified the Hello Girl, who immediately called up every one in the vicinity and soon the bank was surrounded by a posse of men. One of the yegg's was attracted by some noise and called to his pals firing into the crowd point blank, making their escape but were all captured in less than 12 hours.

The building was badly damaged but the safe proved to be all that it was represented and they failed to reach the funds. The yeggs made their escape on a hand car which they finally deserted and sought safety in the woods but the officers and men were to much for them.

LOVELY COMPLEXION

A Clear Skin and Bright Eyes are Easy to Get-

All the beauty creams in creation won't improve your complexion if your stomach is out of order.

Belching of gas and heartburn mean bad food in the stomach. Bad food means bad blood and bad blood means a bad complexion.

Try MI-O-NA stomach tablets for stomach misery, billousness, dizziness and indigestion. They relieve in a few minutes; they make rich red blood. They are guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son to cure or money back:

Read what a Kansas woman says:

"I had been doctoring a year for stomach trouble and found nothing that did as much good as MI-O-NA. I only have the second box and they have relieved all pain in my stomach. For stomach trouble or indigestion MI-O-NA can't be beaten. MI-O-NA has done a world of good for me when doctors failed."—Mrs. Cordelia B. Mann, 207 E. 11th St., Junction City, Kans.

How to Cure Chronic Colds and Bronchitis

Bluevale, Ont., May 4, 1910.

"I was sick for two years with a chronic cold and bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors, and had to give up work. VINOL was recommended and from the second bottle I commenced to improve—I gained in weight and strength, my cold and bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again. I want to recommend VINOL to anyone who is in need of such a medicine."—Thomas Higgins.

It is the combined action of the curative elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL which makes it so successful in curing stubborn colds and bronchitis.

VINOL is a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles, not a palliative like cough syrups.

Try a bottle of VINOL. If you don't think it helped you, we will return your money.

Sample Helps Frail Women

So many women are dragging out weary lives just because their digestive organs are weak. The result is poor circulation, nervousness and the verge of invalidism. It is often very unnecessary and the woman's own fa:

The first thing to do is to look to the welfare of your bowels. There the trouble usually lies. All physicians know that a large percentage of women are habitually constipated, and from this results indigestion, piles, weariness, etc., that women constantly complain of. But there is no use taking "female remedies" and things of that kind until you have started your bowels to moving. You will find that when the bowels move regularly once, or twice a day all your pretty ills will disappear. Take a good, mild laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for awhile and you will find yourself rapidly getting better and stronger, your bowels will regulate themselves and work at stated times, and then your headaches and dizziness will disappear. Don't take strong cathartic pills or salts, but just such a mild and pleasant-tasting remedy as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You can obtain a bottle of your druggist for fifty cents or one dollar, and either size may be enough to permanently cure you. Thousands of women keep it regularly in the house and will no longer be without it, as it cured them and can be used with safety by every member of the family, down to the youngest child, but if you have never used it take the advice of Mrs. Earl S. Fox, 409 Twenty-fifth street, Moline, Ill., and Mrs. Ellen Dungan, Muncie, Ind., and send to Dr. Caldwell for a free trial bottle, as they did, and learn for yourself what it will do in your own case. That it will cure you, as it did them, there is no doubt.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FRAZIER DISSENTED.

Lorimer Investigation Committee's Verdict Not Unanimous.

Chattanooga, Tenn. (Special).—United States Senator James B. Frazier of Tennessee has denied that he signed the report of the sub-committee of the committee on privileges and elections of the senate which found the election of Senator William Lorimer of Illinois free from scandal. Instead, he says, he filed a statement in which he declared his belief that seven of the votes cast for Lorimer in the legislature were tainted. It had been generally reported that all members of the sub-committee signed the report which gave Lorimer a clear record.

BLOW ON JAW PROVES BLOOD POISON

Quarrel Over Bill Results Seriously for Saginaw Physician.

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 26.—A dispute over an itemized bill which had been rendered one of his patients by Dr. J. L. Passmore, a prominent physician of this city, led to an argument which grew in such proportions that the patient endeavored to hit the doctor with his fist. The doctor warded off the blow and swung hard, hitting him in the mouth, loosening all of his front teeth.

A little skin on Dr. Passmore's knuckle was broken and about thirty minutes later blood poisoning set in. Although it is not expected that the doctor will die, his condition is considered serious.

AT THE TURN OF THE ROAD

I made no secret of my errand, and I knew the landlord's eyes were glued to the back of my head, as, in the public room of the Royal Inn, I cleaned and loaded my pistols. For in truth was I desperate. Three weeks before, to the music of the dice box, had my last sovereign left me, and now, for a lack of that gold of mine that lay securely in London, my breeches and doublet were becoming much the worse for wear, while my whole person, which two months before had rubbed elbows with the gayest bloods in Whitehall, was becoming most outrageously cavernous. And all because a gouty king, moved to anger o'er a choice bit of sword-play, had seen fit to outlaw me.

Perchance, as has been claimed, the rogue was in his cups. I know not if 'twas so, for I gave it little thought. With his foul lips he was smirching the good name of a lady who might some day have taken mine, and almost ere those who surrounded us could draw a breath, our swords had crossed, and his tongue was stilled forever. And then, not to mince the misfortunes that were mine, the king, with rare wit, put Sir John Myles and the runners on my track. Need I say, when once 'tis known we were each in the other's path of love a thorn, Sir John would be assiduous in his endeavors to bring me in, dead or alive?

Turning on my heel, my eyes, of a sudden, clashed with the troubled gaze of mine host, and then, as I clapped my pistols into their holsters, and took my cloak from the table, standing dull and heavy in the center of the room, his portly form came out of his chair, and he waddled toward me.

"'Tis better left undone, lad," quoth he. "'Twill net thee but a visit to Tyburn Hill."

"What matter?" I cried pettishly. "My king saw fit to outlaw me, and if I take to the road, 'tis but living up to my name."

"Aye, but if 'tis death?"

"Then," said I, quite recklessly, "'tis fate."

"Are there none who would grieve?"

A little gasp came from my lips, and with a half-muttered oath, I made for the door.

"Stay," he persisted, "not even Mistress Cavandish?"

I turned.

"No," I answered slowly, and a note of sadness crept into my voice, "not now. Once, perchance, ere I brought her name to the lips of all London, but now—" A gust of wind swept open the door, and turning my back on him, I stepped out into the night.

Wrapping my cloak about my body, I bent my head before the storm, and entered the forest-bound Newbury road. Weary and lonely at heart, the wildness of the night wind singing through the leafless trees, seemed but the wail of some kindred spirit, a-foot as was I, and when of a sudden I came upon a bowlder, large enough, of necessity, to shelter three men and set at a point where the road turned abruptly to the right, there was little of thankfulness in my breast for this haven. And, moreover had it not been the spot from which I had elected to ply my trade, methinks I would have wandered on through the rain, indifferent to all things save the thoughts that filled my brain.

With my body pressed hard against the rock, I slipped a mask o'er my face, and turning my eager eyes Londonward, I waited. For, mayhap, a matter of 20 minutes, I crouched there in the dark, wet and shivering with cold, and then, with a suddenness that caused me to stand upright, there came to my ears above the noise of the storm, the sound of advancing footsteps.

There were two of them, and as they stopped a scant foot in front of me, I crouched low to the ground again. And then of a sudden, something from my pistols, came into my nostrils with my breath, and in another moment I had awakened the echoes of the forest, with a truly monstrous sneeze.

The time for deception was past, and as I stood up I heard a duet of startled oaths and the ominous click of drawn pistol triggers. Then, on a sudden, through the blackness loomed their forms, and I found myself staring at a couple of faces, masked as was mine, and at four barkers, held by four hands that were quivering and shaking—perchance with cold.

For a moment we stood as though posing for some number of canvas, and then the taller of the two broke into a nervous laugh.

"'Fore God," he cried, "'tis in sorry straits we are when 'tis necessary for us to hold pistols at one another's heads. Come, sir, what say you? Shall we all go in together? "We," he continued, indicating his companion, a mere dwarf, with a wave of his hand, "are not here for pounds or peace."

"Well," said I at length, "if 'tis not money, what then?"

"Then—" He stopped and looked askance at me, while my hand crept to my side, to close round the butt-end of my pistol.

"Come," I cried sharply "out with it. Do think I am dolt enough to throw in my fortunes with gentlemen whose mission is a secret and of whose very plans I know naught?"

Again my tall unknown laughed nervously.

"Faith," said he, ruefully, "if the truth were known, 'tis knight-errants rather than knights of the road we are. The lady—"

"The lady is a—a—" I ventured.

"Fair?" He anticipated my query and bubbled over with confidential joy. "Sure I have yet to see a fairer one."

"And," I slipped in adroitly, "she loves you, and unrelenting father—"

With a great oath he interrupted me, while the smaller man, to whom, I found, Providence had denied the power of speech, slapped his knee in silent mirth.

"'Fore God!" he cried, "dost think I'd be on the Newbury road tonight if she did?"

"You say," quoth I, picking up the thread of his story, "that the one she loves is outlawed?"

A sturdy nod was his answer.

"Then why fear him?"

"Because," he cried, and, 'twas as though he but mouthed the words to add firmness to my determination, "because she is now on her way to meet him with a pardon from the king."

"Swearing as lustily as might any highwayman, I took my place beside them, and as the coach, its two great lamps throwing a white light on the six straining horses and the tall trees at the wayside, came almost upon us, we three stepped out into the road, and with all the strength of our lungs bawled out that cry so oft heard on the king's highway:

"Stand and deliver."

A dozen sleepy, frightened faces peeped out at us as the coach stopped short, but we waved them back with our pistols. Close at hand was the climax of this game of cross-purposes, and the blood ran dizzily in my veins and my fingers closed eagerly round the barrels of my weapons as fair Romeo stepped out from us and advanced to the coach, made a profound bow to the row of scared faces that once more lined the winds.

"Faith, gentlemen," quoth he, "'tis a lady rather than your purses I am after, and if Mistress Cavandish—"

I heard no more. As I write these lines I wonder I did not shatter the stillness of the night with some wild cry, but, albeit burning with rage, with the utmost precision I turned, and with my pistol-butt I dropped the speechless one, as his lips opened to give some guttural cry of alarm, and instead, gave out but a feeble groan.

Two flashes of fire stabbed the air, two bullets clipped past me, and I stood unharmed. For a moment he stood staring at me, and then, without more ado, as though 'twere but a mere incident, he cast his pistols from him and drew his sword. Likewise did every nerve of my body tingled into new life as I gazed into his unmasked face, and as I felt the antagonistic bending and giving of his blade, a thrill of joy ran through me. For the hand that controlled that slip of steel belonged to none other than my newly come friend, Sir John Myles.

White with anger did I grow in the first few minutes of that mellay, and in my eagerness to reach him, all thought of skill left me, until of a sudden, his sword point ripped along my side, to chill every nerve as the cold steel touched my body.

Thereafter I was more careful, and soon he was on the defensive. The look of derision died from his face as I followed him back and forth across the road, ever thrusting and hacking, and his eyes grew round in fear, as, bit by bit, his defense was beaten down. Wilder and wilder grew his parries, until, lifting his arm in la carte, he fumbled his blade, and the next instant I had three quarters of my own bilbo through him. For a moment he lurched stupidly on his feet before me, and then, with a sigh and a cough, he pitched forward on his face.

Straight to the coach I strode, and opening the door I stepped within.

"Mistress Cavandish—Lucy," I whispered.

"You want me, sir?"

"I want you," I cried passionately, and my hand went up to tear away the mask, "aye, Mistress Cavandish, 'tis you alone I want."

Slowly there came to her face a look of dumb surprise.

"Tom," she whispered eagerly, "'tis you, Tom?" Then as I nodded, she swayed a little on her feet, and ere I knew what I was doing I had placed my arm around her, and together, we sank into the seat.

She was a woman, and perforce first must she weep. For a matter of some minutes I left her to her passions and then, taking her hands from her face, I told her my story.

For a while after I was finished she sat silent, staring straight before her. Then:

"Twice," said she softly, "have you risked your life for me. And now—"

"Now?" I took her hands in mine, and gazed full at the slender, wistful face she turned to me, "Now, sweet mistress, I offer it to you forever."

"'Tis a long time, Tom."

"Were it twice as long, 'twould never tire in your service. Come," I pleaded, "can not have a little of your love?"

"Nay, Tom, because—"

"Not a little?"

"Nay—"

"I started to move from her, and then did the smile on her lips become an open laugh.

"Why, Tom," she cried, "'tis because you have it all."—William Heiliger.

A Bridge of Coffins.

When the British forces were marching to Pekin in 1860, after the capture of the Taku forts, one of the rivers became so swollen with the heavy rains that it was rendered almost impassable. While in this quandary a bright idea suddenly struck one of our officers. Being well aware that the Chinese generally order their coffins years in advance and keep them on the premises and also that they are perfectly air tight, he consulted with his brother officers, with the result that orders were given to search all the houses of the village and collect every coffin. With the aid of a few empty casks the soldiers constructed a pontoon bridge of coffins sufficiently strong to bear the artillery, and the river was thus passed in safety.

A Spiritual Carrot.

The lay preacher has his rewards, but he has also many discouragements. A veteran brother once, at a conference of lay preachers, gave them some cheer. He said: "When I was a lad I used to drive a donkey-cart. Sometimes the donkey would not go, but I tied a carrot on the end of my whip and dangled it in front of his nose, and then he went. My brothers, let me dangle a spiritual carrot before you—'Be not weary in well doing, for in due time ye shall

Syracuse—Howard Morrow of Benton Harbor, Mich., won the middleweight championship of western New York and stamped himself as one of the cleverest middleweights before the public at the present time, when he knocked out Hugh Ross of Oswego, before the largest crowd of fans which has witnessed a boxing bout in this city in years.

Detroit—A body of a man, stark naked, was found half buried by snow and leaves, a quarter of a mile outside of Highland Park, a suburb of Detroit. The man had been murdered. The legs had been dissevered at the knees, and a deep cut at the right elbow indicated that the fiends had intended completely to dismember the body, but had evidently been scared away. No clue.

Grand Rapids—The C. D. Crittenden company, which filed a trust mortgage a few days ago for the benefit of creditors, has been thrown into bankruptcy on petition of some creditors who were not included in the schedule annexed to the trust mortgage. The firm was one of the largest commission houses here and the cause of the failure is said to have been the defalcation of a young lady bookkeeper two years ago.

Lansing—An autopsy has been held on the body of Edward C. Jamison, who died after the cutter in which he was riding had been struck by an automobile driven by James O. Mathews. The post mortem revealed the fact that Jamison had a fatty heart, but that there was no blood clot on the brain. That Jamison's death was due to the shock he received when thrown out of the cutter was the opinion of the doctors.

Eaton Rapids—During the Christmas tree exercises in the kindergarten department of the public schools here, the wig and whiskers worn by the little chap who played the part of Santa Claus caught fire from the candles on the tree, and for a time there was great excitement among the children. The prompt action of the teacher in separating the boy from his Santa Claus make-up put an end to the excitement.

TAKES ISSUE WITH WILSON.

Ex-Senator Smith Asks Gov.-elect to Prove Assertions.

New York (Special).—Ex-Senator James Smith, Jr., of Newark, N. J., in a statement, takes direct issue with Governor-elect Wilson in respect to a statement which Mr. Wilson made in a recent formal plea for James E. Martine's candidacy; the statement that Dr. Wilson had been assured by a spokesman for Mr. Smith that the latter would not be a candidate for the United States senatorship in the event of New Jersey's legislature being Democratic on joint ballot in this winter's session.

Mr. Smith challenges Dr. Wilson to name the spokesman who gave such assurance and removes any seal of secrecy which Dr. Wilson may feel binds him not to make the revelation.

Reptiles That Walk Erect.

Lizards of several sorts can walk and run easily on their hind legs. The Australian water lizard, which is three or four feet in length, keeps quite erect when traversing long distances on land. It is found in the neighborhood of river banks and passes much of its time in shallow water.

The frilled lizard of Queensland also travels on its hind legs on level ground, keeping the frill folded when running. When attacked it expands this fold of skin, which stands out like a ruff at right angles round the neck, giving it a most formidable aspect, so that dogs that attack and kill larger lizards will often retreat before a frilled lizard at bay.

There is also a tree lizard in Australia that moves in a similar way. All these species walk on all fours when merely moving about or going short distances.

Why the Wind Waits.

In his book on "The Picturesque St. Lawrence" Clifton Johnson tells of the curious superstition of Montreal which explains why the wind is always blowing at the point where St. Sulpice and Notre Dame streets meet. It is by the towering cathedral

"It seems that one day, while the church was in process of building, the wind and the Devil were walking down Notre Dame street, and the Devil after regarding with a frown of disapproval the graceful outlines of the new edifice rising before him exclaimed:

"What is this? I never saw it before."

"Very likely not," responded the wind, "and I dare you to go in there."

"You dare me to do that, do you?" yelled the Devil, with a sneer. "Well, I will go in if you will promise to wait here until I come out."

"Agreed," said the Wind.

So his satanic majesty went in. But he has not come out yet, and the Wind is still waiting for him at the corner.

RECENT RULINGS BY KUHN.

Attorney General Holds Enrollment in Spring Unnecessary.

Lansing, Mich., Jan 2.—In an opinion Attorney General Kuhn holds that a township board cannot accept the name of a woman for registration before a meeting of the board, as he claims the board really does not exist until it comes together. He said that a woman desiring to be registered as a voter must appear personally before the board and present her name.

The attorney general also rules that it is not necessary to have an enrollment in March prior to the spring election. According to the general election law, the first Monday in April preceding the general election has been designated by the statute as enrollment day, and he can find no provision for a spring enrollment next year.

Coupled with this opinion is another to the effect that delegates to the county convention, nominated by primary system in the fall, cannot act as delegates to the county convention in the spring unless re-elected under the caucus or convention plan.

In another opinion the attorney general holds that the county is responsible for the sheriff's fees where a prisoner is held for non-payment of alimony. On several occasions questions have arisen regarding this clause, and it seems to be the common opinion in many counties that the sheriff cannot collect such an account.

Unless a member of a board of supervisors resigns as a member of the board, he is not eligible to the office of county drain commissioner, according to the attorney-general.

Govare Boy Out on Bail.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 29.—Benney Govare, the fourteen-year-old boy charged with murder in the first degree for the killing of Sheriff Matthews of Macomb county, was admitted to $2,000 bail by Judge Murfin on the motion of Judge Spier, former judge of probate of Macomb county, acting as attorney for the accused. His mother, whose trial is set for next Tuesday, was held without bail.

Lapeer Home Again Quarantined.

Lapeer, Mich., Dec. 29.—After four or five days out of quarantine, the Michigan Home for Feeble-minded is again in quarantine, another case of smallpox having been discovered. It is not expected that it will be necessary to place as rigid a quarantine as before, as the employes realize more fully what it would mean to their friends were they to take the risk of leaving the institution.

COMMITTED TO MAD HOUSE.

New York Banker's Finance Juggling Was Under Inspection at Time.

New York (Special).—Joseph G. Robin, described at present as a banker, has been committed to a mad house at the instance of his friends, while two state departments were going through his banking and insurance performances and invoking the offices of the district attorney. His bank, the Northern, at 215 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, with deposits of $7,000,000, was closed by the banking department. It has nine branches which were closed simultaneously. The insurance department set things going against Robin through an inquiry into the financing of the Aetna Indemnity company of Hartford, by Robin, who, the department says, treated the assets of a lot of companies he controlled as his own personal property.

Battle Creek—One barrier to organized labor in "open shop" Battle Creek has been broken down by th first establishment of the first big "closed shop" in the community. The shop is that of the Michigan Carton company.

Eaton Rapids—This town has become so thoroughly infested with tramps during the past few weeks that the council is considering passing an ordinance establishing a city stone pile.

Nearly all those who were not killed outright were roasted to death.

Assistant Chief William Burroughs and Lieutenant Fitzgerald were with the marshal under the canopy when it fell. They went to death with him.

Pasadena Man Accomplished Feat at Los Angeles Meet—Feared Carbureter Would Freeze in Intense Cold—Spectators Carried Flyer on Shoulders After He Alighted.

Los Angeles (Special).—Arch Hoxey, the Pasadena aviator, before a great crowd of 75,000 people, broke the world's record for altitude, soaring up to a height of 11,474 feet, or nearly 1,000 feet above the record of La Gagneux, at Pau, France.

Hoxey accomplished the feat in the face of a forty mile an hour wind. He was carried twenty miles by the wind until he was over Venice-By-the-Sea. He alighted on the field in a series of spiral glides. The crowd went wild and carried him up and down in front of the grand stand. He said:

"It blew so hard my machine could hardly hold its own against the gale. It was so cold I feared the carbureter would freeze, but I kept on going up, determined to beat the altitude record."

SEPARATION CAUSED TRAGEDY

After Pleading Vainly With His Helpmate to Return to Him, Edward Patterson Fires Bullet Into Her Head, and Then Attempts Suicide—Fired Three Shots at Himself.

East Jordan, Mich., Dec. 28.—The efforts of a remorseful husband to get back his wife from whom he had been separated ended in a tragedy which may result in at least one death.

Two weeks ago Edward Patterson and his wife quarreled, and a separation resulted. Ever since Patterson has been trying to get her to come back to him, but she has refused. Early Monday morning he called again at her home and pleaded with her, but in vain.

Their baby's picture next attracted his attention, and he demanded it. When she refused to give it to him, he drew a revolver and fired point blank. Th ball entered her forehead just above the eye and glanced, coming out just below the nose. Mrs. Patterson, who was sitting on a chair, could do nothing to escape.

As soon as Patterson fired the shot he went outside on the veranda and attempted suicide. He fired three shots at himself, but only one took effect.

His chances of recovery are very slight, but Mrs. Patterson is not severely wounded, although she will be disfigured for life.

GOVERNORS' MESSAGES ANXIOUSLY AWAITED

Communications to Legislature Will Be Interesting.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 28.—The first message to the legislature from Governor-elect Osborn and the last message from Governor Warner will furnish the lawmakers and the people with an opportunity to consider two widely different views relative to some phases of state administration.

It is generally understood that the incoming governor will advocate the abolishment of many state boards and many radical changes in the management of state institutions and state affairs. He has spoken for civil service and will undoubtedly reiterate his belief in the adoption of that policy for all state departments.

Those who are in touch with Governor Warner's attitude regarding these matters expect him to set forth some of the changes brought about during his six-year tenure of office and enter into a statement of the condition of the institutions and departments over which he has been supervisor, with a view to showing that they have been efficiently conducted for the best interests of the state. He will refer to men who have been promoted as showing that it has been his policy to reward good service, and will urge continuation of that policy rather than the adoption of civil service.

Mention will undoubtedly be made of some boards which have accomplished good things for the state. On many questions the outgoing and the incoming chief executives are diametrically opposed in view, and their messages will be of unusual interest on that account.

Board Should Enforce Game Laws.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 28.—The legislative committee of the Michigan Association for the Protection and Propagation of Fish and Game was in session here to organize and prepare to present to the legislature bills which will radically revise the game and fish laws of the state. Chief among the proposed changes is that of placing these matters under control of a non-political CHAPTER XVI.

TWIN LOCKETS.

CARMICHAEL tramped about his room restless, uneasy, starting at sounds. He was waiting for Grumbach and his confreres. Anything but this suspense. A full day! And deeper, firmer, became his belief and conviction that Grumbach's affair vitally concerned her highness. He welcomed the knock on his door. Grumbach came in carrying under his arm a small bundle.

"Where are your companions?"

"They are waiting outside."

"The duke agrees," went on Carmichael. "He will give us an audience at 8:30."

"Did you mention my name?"

"No. I went roundabout. I also obtained his promise to say nothing to Herbeck till the interview was over."

Grumbach spread out on the bed the contents of the bundle.

"Look at these and tell me what you see, captain."

Carmichael inspected the little yellow shoes. He turned them over and over in his hand. He shook out the fold of the little cloak and the locket fell on the bed.

"When did you get this?" he cried excitedly. "It is her highness'!"

"So it is, captain, but I have carried it about me all these years."

"What?"

"Yes, captain. Count von Herbeck is a great statesman, but he made a terrible mistake this time. Listen. As sure as we are in this room together I believe that she whom we call the princess is not the daughter of the grand duke."

Carmichael sat down on the edge of the bed numb and without any clear idea where he was. Free! If she was not a princess she was free, free!

* * * * * * *

The duke allowed the quartet to remain standing for some time. He strode up and down before them, his eyes straining at the floor, his hands behind his back.

"I do not recognize any of these persons," he said to Carmichael.

"Your highness does not recognize me, then?" asked the clock mender.

"Come closer," commanded the duke. The clock mender obeyed. "Take off those spectacles." The duke scanned the features, and over his own came the dawn of recollection. "Your eyes, your nose— Arnsberg, here and alive? Oh, this is too good to be true!" The duke reached out toward the bell, but Carmichael interposed.

"Your highness will remember," he warned.

"Ha! So you have trapped me blindly? I begin to understand. Who is this fellow Grumbach? Did I offer immunity to him?"

"I am Hans Breunner, highness, and I ask for nothing."

"Breunner! Breunner! Hans Breunner, brother of Hermann! And you put yourself into my hands?" The tone developed into a suppressed roar. The duke took hold of Hans by the shoulders and drew him close. "You dog! So you ask for nothing? It shall be given to you. Tomorrow morning I shall have you shot! Hans Breunner! God is good to me this night! Thanks, Herr Carmichael, a thousand thanks! And I need not ask who that damnable scoundrel is who has the black face and heart of a gypsy."

"Your highness," said Von Arnsberg quietly, "all I have left in the world are these two withered hands, and may God cut them off if they ever wronged you in any act. I am innocent. Those letters purported to have been written by me were forgeries. Tonight I shall leave this palace a free man, and you shall ask pardon for the wrong you have done me."

There was no fear in the voice. The duke glared at the speaker somberly, recalling what Herbeck had often said.

"What you say still remains to be proved. Now, what is at the bottom of all this?" was the demand.

Hans crossed the room to the duke's desk and spread out his treasures under the flickering candlelight. The duke, with a cry of terror, sprang toward the secret drawer. His first thought was that the shoes and cloak, upon which only his eyes ever rested now, had been stolen. Nothing was missing. He was overwhelmed, but he steadied himself. He came back to the desk and fingered the locket. The duke opened the locket, looked long and steadfastly at the portrait and shut it. Then he went to the drawer again and returned with the counterparts. He laid them side by side. The likeness was perfect in all details.

"Carmichael," he said, "will you please help me? Do I see these things or do I not? And if I do which is mine, and what does this signify?"

Grumbach answered: "This, highness, I took these from the little princess with my own hands. They have never been out of my keeping. Those you have I know nothing about."

The duke rubbed his eyes. "My daughter?"

"The Princess Hildegarde is not your daughter, highness," said Hans.

"Gott!" The duke smote the desk in despair. "Herbeck! I must send for Herbeck!"

"Not yet, highness; later."

"But if not Hildegarde— I believe I must be growing mad!"

"Patience, your highness," said Carmichael.

"Patience!" wearily. "You say patience when my heart is dying inside my breast! Patience! Who, then, is this woman I have called my child?"

"God knows, highness!" Hans stood bowed before this parental agony.

"But what proof have you that she is not? What proof, I say?"

"Would there be two lockets, highness?"

"More proof than this will be needed. Produce it."

"Speak," said Hans to the gypsy.

"Highness," said the gypsy, bowing, "he speaks truly. He came with us. For fear that the little highness might be recognized as we traveled, we changed her clothes. He took them, together with the locket. One day the soldiers appeared in the distance. We all fled. We lost the little highness, and none of us ever knew what became of her. She wore the costume of [illegible] Von Arnsberg."

"Damnable wretch!" said the duke, addressing the gypsy.

The other shrugged. He had been promised immunity. That was all he cared about unless it was the bag of silver and gold this old clock mender had given him a few hours gone.

"I am summoning her highness," said the duke as he struck the bell.

"And, highness," added Grumbach, "there is also some one for Gretchen, who lives in the Krumerweg."

"The goose girl? What does she know? Ah, I remember. She is even now with her highness. I shall send for them both."

Gretchen? Carmichael's bewilderment increased. What place had the goose girl in this tragedy?

"Now, while we are waiting," resumed the duke, his agitation somewhat under control, "the proof, the definite proof!"

"Her highness stumbled one night," said Hans, "and fell upon the fire. I snatched her back, but not before her left arm was badly burned."

The gypsy nodded. "I saw it, highness."

And that was why Grumbach went to the military ball with opera glasses! Carmichael was round eyed. But Gretchen?

"The Princess Hildegarde has no scar upon either arm," continued Grumbach. "I have seen them. They are without a single flaw."

"More than that," reiterated the duke. "That is not enough."

They became silent. Now and then one or the other stirred. The duke never took his eyes off the door through which her highness would enter.

Hildegarde came in presently, tender with mercy, an arm supporting Gretchen, who was red eyed and white.

"You sent for us, father?"

How the word pierced the duke's heart! "Yes, my child," he answered, for, it mattered not who she was, he had grown to love her.

"I am sorry you sent for Gretchen," said Hildegarde. "She is ill."

Gretchen sighed. To her the faces of the men were indistinct, and, besides, she was without interest, listless, drooped.

"My child, will you roll up your left sleeve?" said the duke.

"My sleeve!" Hildegarde thoughtfully looked around.

"I cannot roll up this sleeve, father," blushing and a trifle angry at so strange a request.

Hans opened his knife and laid bare her left arm. She tried to cover the arm.

"Let me look at it, Hildegarde," requested the duke. To him she presented her arm. But there was neither mole nor scar upon the round and lovely arm.

"Why do you do this, father?"

No one answered. Hans unceremoniously ripped open Gretchen's left sleeve. The ragged scar was visible to them all. And while they grouped around the astonished goose girl they heard her highness cry out with surprise.

"What is this?" she said, pointing to the two pairs of shoes and the two cloaks. She held up the locket, the twin of which hung around her neck. "Where did these come from?"

"My child," the duke answered, unashamed of his tears, "only God knows as yet what it means. But the outward sign testifies to a strange and horrible blunder. The locket you hold in your hand was taken from you when you were an infant. The one you wear around your neck is, according to the statement of one of these men, not genuine."

"And the significance?" She grew tall, and the torn sleeve fell away from her arm.

"I know you to be brave. Strengthen your heart then. These men say that you are not my daughter."

"And that Gretchen is?" spoke Hans.

"I?" Gretchen drew closer to Hildegarde.

The duke studied the portrait of the mother and then the faces of these two girls. Both possessed a resemblance, only it seemed now that Gretchen was nearest to the portrait and Hildegarde nearest to the doubt.

"You say she wore the costume of a gypsy child when you lost her?" said the duke.

"Yes." Von Arnsberg took from under his coat a small bundle, which he opened with shaking fingers. He had been in the Krumerweg that afternoon.

"Why, those are mine!" exclaimed Gretchen excitedly.

"You see?" said Von Arnsberg. "Would you not like to be a princess, Gretchen?"

A princess! Gretchen's heart fluttered. A princess! She laid her head on Hildegarde's shoulder. She was weak, and this was some dream.

"But who, then, am I?" asked Hildegarde.

"Tell what you know," said Hans to the gypsy. "Highness, he alone knows the man who brought about all this."

"The archplotter of this damnable conspiracy?" The duke's eyes became alive, his face, his whole body. Every beat of his heart cried out for vengeance. "Who is he? Tell me! Give him to me, man, and all of you shall go free. Give him into these hands. His name!" The duke's hands worked convulsively as if they were already round the throat of this unseen, implacable enemy. He was terrible in this moment.

The gypsy produced a letter. It had to be held carefully, as it was old and tattered. The duke read it. Beyond that it made the original offer it was worthless. The handwriting was palpably disguised. The duke flung the missive to the floor.

"Fool! Is that all you have? Tell me what you know, man, or I shall have you shot in the morning, immunity or no immunity! Quick!"

"Highness," said the gypsy, thoroughly alarmed, "this is how it happened. My band was staying at the time in Drelberg. We told fortunes and exhibited an Italian puppet show. The letter came first. I was poor and sometimes desperate. I was to take her away and leave her with strange people."

"Ah!" interrupted the duke, with a

"Why did you not leave us all in peace?"

"Highness, a great wrong has been done, and God brought me here to right it."

"You are a brave man," darkly.

"I am in your hands, highness," sturdily. "In a mad moment I committed a crime. I would not accept till I had talked personally with him. He came at last. His face was hidden and his voice muffled. But this I saw—when he gave me the first half of the money I was certain I should know him again."

"How?"

"By his little finger, highness."

"His little finger?" Von Arnsberg repeated.

The two women, large eyed and bewildered, clung to each other's hand tensely. These were heartbreaking times. Gretchen's mind, however, absorbed nothing, neither the words nor the picture. Her thoughts revolved around one thing—if she were a princess she could be happy. But the other, from under whose feet all tangible substances seemed to be giving way, she was possessed by two thoughts which surged in her brain like combatants. If not a princess, what was she? If not a princess, she was free. She stole a swift glance at Carmichael, who seemed far removed from the heart of this black business, and had he been looking at her he would have seen the gates opening into Eden.

"What was this little finger like?" asked the duke, shuddering.

"THE MAN WAS TALL?"

"One time it had been cut or mangled."

"The man was tall?"

"Yes, highness."

The duke silently toyed with the little yellow shoes. Suddenly he laughed, but it was the terrible laughter of a madman.

"Come, all—you, Gretchen, and you, Hildegarde; come, Carmichael, and you, Arnsberg, all of you! Let us go and pay a visit to our good friend Herbeck."

FREE ANNOUNCEMENTS

The finest musical of the season will be given Sunday eve Jan. 1 at 2 o'clock at the M. E. Church. All are invited.

A NOTABLE VIOTORY

Midnight of December 31st, 1910, will be welcomed by no one more gratefully than by the Great Hive officers of the Ladies of the Modern Maccabees.

This is because the ordeal, which this order of women has been passing through for months, will not be at an end until the dawn of the New Year draws the curtain over the trials and tribulations of the past. New Year's Day for them will be truly a new year of sunshine and happiness.

Since this intelligent organization of women bravely faced the task last June of readjusting its rates of insurance, the officers have labored day and night to make plain to their 63,000 members in Michigan, the self-evident fact that adequate rates should be adopted for the future. They had to combat the fallacious argument that "the society had grown big and paid every dollar of its $5,000,000.00 obligation as it came due for the past 25 years and therefore could continue to do so in the future." It was difficult to make members understand that rates of insurance in the past were inadequate. Added to this misconception, certain other societies did not hesitate to foment and even increase this trouble. The spirit of true fraternalism was lacking. Anything to disrupt this order—the oldest in America of its kind—was resorted to in an effort to accomplish the design. Dissension from within, attacks from without, was the continual report.

How all these conditions were finally straightened out is a matter of history. The obstacles were overcome, however. It is now known for a certainty that the L. O. T. M. M. will begin the New Year with a very large proportion of its old members on the membership roll, which will insure the permanency of the order; with a lot of "dead timber" removed and a large cash surplus on hand to guarantee the payment of all obligations.

When the New Year comes around, the officers and members of this society may well congratulate themselves on the successful accomplishment of a task that would stagger the utmost efforts of even man himself!

It will put flesh on the bones of the tired, overworked, thin man, and will keep the aged man or woman in condition to resist colds or pneumonia in the winter.

RECEPTION

A very pleasant reception was that given at the home of Joseph Russell on Wednesday evening in honor of his son Lavern and wife.

Quite a large company assembled and seven tables of 500 were played. Miss Mary Meyers won first prize with the ladies and Floyd Ager with the gentlemen, Lester Heesen winning the consolation.

Refreshments were served later and the evening passed away in music and song. The fine sleighing and the jolly sleighloads were not least of the evenings entertainment.

CARD PARTY

Mrs. Geo Tiffany entertained about 16 young people Tuesday evening at cards, in honor of her guest Miss Sevalwel. Four tables were played.

An elegant buffet lunch was served and the evening was a most delightful one to all present.

THE HOLIDAY TRADE

From all reports the holiday trade has been very satisfactory, while the rush may not have been as great as in past years, yet trade beginning earlier kept up the average. People have learned that those who start out at the first of the season have a much better chance for choice as well as price.

The stores were thronged with customers all the week but not to excess and the merchants are all delighted with their holiday business. We congratulate them all and wish them a happy and profitable New Year.

How to Cure Chronic Colds and Bronchitis

Bluevale, Ont., May 4, 1910.

"I was sick for two years with a chronic cold and bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors, and had to give up work. VINOL was recommended and from the second bottle I commenced to improve—I gained in weight and strength, my cold and bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again. I want to recommend VINOL to anyone who is in need of such a medicine."—THOMAS HIGGINS.

It is the combined action of the curative elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL which makes it so successful in curing stubborn colds and bronchitis.

VINOL is a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles, not a palliative like cough syrups.

Try a bottle of VINOL. If you don't think it helped you, we will return your money.

Sample Helps Frail Women

So many women are dragging out weary lives just because their digestive organs are weak. The result is poor circulation, nervousness and the verge of invalidism. It's often very unnecessary and the woman's own fau

The first thing to do is to look to the welfare of your bowels. There the trouble usually lies. All physicians know that a large percentage of women are habitually constipated, and from this results indigestion, piles, weariness, etc., that women constantly complain of. But there is no use taking "female remedies" and things of that kind until you have started your bowels to moving. You will find that when the bowels move regularly once or twice a day all your petty ills will disappear. Take a good, mild laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for awhile and you will find yourself rapidly getting better and stronger, your bowels will regulate themselves and work at stated times, and then your headaches and dizziness will disappear. Don't take strong cathartic pills or salts, but just such a mild and pleasant-tasting remedy as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You can obtain a bottle of your druggist for fifty cents or one dollar, and either size may be enough to permanently cure you. Thousands of women keep it regularly in the house and will no longer be without it, as it cured them and can be used with safety by every member of the family, down to the youngest child, but if you have never used it take the advice of Mrs. Earl S. Cox, 409 Twenty-fifth street, Moline, Ill., and Mrs. Ellen Dungan, Muncie, Ind., and send to Dr. Caldwell for a free trial bottle, as they did, and learn for yourself what it will do in your own case. That it will cure you, as it did them, there is no doubt.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 2,500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Rain Poor Substitute for Irrigation.

Irrigation is better than rain, infinitely better. That also sounds like a paradox, but instead it is almost a truism. What is better—to give a plant just as much and no more water than it needs and just when it needs it; or to parch it or drown it according to the whim of the clouds? The rain falls upon the just and upon the unjust alike; upon your strawberries that cry for it and upon your sugar-beets that want uninterrupted sunshine. Rain is all right in its place, but it is a very poor substitute for irrigation. Otherwise why would the lawns of cities be sprinkled or irrigated, instead of leaving them to the tender mercy of the clouds? No. Arid lands are more fertile than ordinary lands and irrigation is better than rain.

THE DOYEN'S STORY.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring."

Thus quoted Burphy, doyen of the repeater corps. The great main room of the New York Western Union office had stilled down as much as it ever does; the last of the beef ciphers were played; the cable loop had sent out "30" to Newspaper Row, and all of the local and city wires were silent. In the corner near the south windows the Associated Press repeaters banked and rattled away still, with a sound like the drumming of hail on a tin roof, for down in Washington an ecclesiastical drumhead court-martial was holding an all-night session upon a higher critic who had dared to hint that the teachings of the Shorter Catechism were as foolishness compared with those of Darwin. I had been listening to the rhythmic swing of the coded Morse fleeting westward, while I watched the veteran nurse his set, admiring the skill with which he corrected the many variations in current caused by a violent thunder storm then sweeping over the Jersey meadows. Knowing that his remark would serve as a text for a story, I waited, while his hand went from helix screw to armature spring and from armature spring to local adjustment. The heads of the great corporation value that hand sufficiently to move them to keep its owner upon what is virtually a pension, that they may be able to lay claim to its service to coax a president's message out of the Jersey fog, or the beef ciphers from the clutches of the aurora.

"I have no manner of use for the Presbyterian Shorter Catechism," he began in his pleasant brogue, the niceties of which mere ink and paper can never reproduce, "but I will say that when it is nailed into folks when they are young it sticks. Prentiss might have known this, being of an old Presbyterian family, but then he never did care to know anything, except how to have his own way.

"He was depot laborer and freight handler for the Northwestern Pennsylvania road when I went to Freeboro as operator and station agent just after the big iron discoveries here in the late seventies—a big, licking sort of a fellow with the soul of him all shriveled up with the hell fire of evolution that fellow Darwin," jerking his thumb over his shoulder in the general direction of Europe, "stirred up. He had a turn for reading and investigating odd things and attended a lecture on the 'Ascent of Man' or something like that about a week after the Presbyterians of Freeboro turned him down when he wanted the place of deacon. Being in a rage against his church at the time and, moreover, having a mind incapable of holding more than one good big idea at a time, he gave himself over entirely to the Adversary of Souls, may he never rest in peace. His change of heart killed his wife, who left him a daughter, Kitty, who was about 12 years old when the mother died. Before the mother went he succeeded in setting the girl's faith on a firm foundation, and the father never made it loosen a peg with all his blasphemies, nor, to tell the truth, did he try very hard, for he loved the girl as much as he hated the church. He could yank boxes and barrels about with one hand, but that hand was always light and tender when it patted Kitty on the head when she brought his dinner to him at noontime. She had been keeping house for the old codger about seven years when I came to Freeboro, and was a fine girl—a fine girl she was. But no matter, a bald-headed old singer like me mustn't be thinking of the likes of her—she married a better man long ago.

"Prentiss and Jack Malcolm long to find it out after he came down from Pittsburg to take charge of the books at the iron mines. Jack was a bright fellow, who had picked up a bit of telegraphy, but found bookkeeping a better way of making a living.

"Prentiss and Jack were great friends at first, and the boy might have made his way into matrimony pretty easily, if he had not become mixed up in the big Presbyterian revival that swept over western Pennsylvania that year. But after he joined the church Prentiss turned sour on him and then the young couple's love making began to go hard. But young folks have ways of their own, and one day when Kitty brought her father's dinner, Malcolm came into the depot with her and told the old fellow that he loved the girl and that they wanted to be married. I was in the office at the time and the three of them had the part of the depot used as a freight room all to themselves. Just what words were passed no one ever knew, but at last Jack came out, his face as white as chalk, but alone. About half an hour later Kitty came out, also with her head in the air, walking as stiff as a major, for she had lots of her father's spunk in her. Lastly, out came Prentiss, trundling a barrel of cement on his truck, and never a word did he say, only nursed his wrath and spite close into his withered heart.

"The next day was Saturday, and a close, sultry day it was—such as only the Blue Ridge country can produce in midsummer. There was a shower early, just enough rain falling to make the air more heavy and muggy still. After the shower passed the great, black masses of clouds piled up all around the edges of the hills that wall Freeboro in, and these were lit up every few moments by flashes of lightning, each electrical discharge out on the sky line being followed by a crackling on the switchboard in the stuffy little depot office, which seemed at times fairly ablaze with the blue flames. We had no safety devices to care for the lightning in those days, and a severe thunder storm nearly always damaged either the instruments or switchboard.

"During the morning a load of beams intended for the mines were shunted off upon the switch, which left the main line a little west of the depot. The single track to the mines crossed a creek on a trestle about half way over the meadows, and one of the beams jostled off the load while on the bridge, snapping the telegraph line as it fell, the wire being strung along the trestle on arms which extended outward from the ties. One of the trainmen, noticing the accident, told Malcolm of it, and as Saturday was a half holiday for those in the office, he got excused a bit early and started to repair the break, turning up at the station about 11:30. He saw me in the office and hailed me from the platform through the open window, asking me to disconnect the mine wire, as he was afraid to work on it while the lightning was coming in over the main line so sharply. After doing so, I lent him the office repair kit and a piece of wire to splice the break with, and he started off up the switch toward the trestle.

"After Jack left the depot, having hunted up my dinner basket and, nothing to do for the moment, I taking a seat in the main room near the benches, ate my midday repast. After this, feeling rather comfortable and easy, as one always does after an agreeable meal, I tilted my chair back against the wall and read a bit from a paper that I found lying on one of the benches. I could hear Prentiss going about his work as usual as he made ready for the coming of the 1 o'clock milk train. After the clang of the cans ceased I heard him wheel his truck against the front of the station. Then he opened the door and came in softly. I could see him plain enough but it was not the same Prentiss somehow, or at least the face was not the same—it looked like a devil's. He came over to where I was, looked me over narrowly and then, turning quietly about, went to the office door, which stood open. Through this he passed and closed it after him. Prentiss went right up to the switchboard and, taking down from behind it a diagram of the wires I had made for Jack, he first took every plug out of the board and then slowly and deliberately placed them in the line of holes directly opposite the binding post that held the mine wire, thus placing the entire main line in connection with it and converting it into a veritable magnet, which would attract every bolt of lightning that hit the line for miles on either side of us.

"My vision seemed to reach its climax as, after a last look at the diagram, he picked up the very plug I had taken from the board to disconnect the mine wire, and viciously jabbed it into its proper position, thus making the connection doubly sure. The floor of the depot seemed to open and he fell through and I slid after him, and we began to fall, fall, fall, as though over a precipice. We struck with a crash, I on top. I started toward the door, but paused as I heard a smothered groan from inside. Hastily stepping forward, I threw open the door and was horrified to find Prentiss stretched on the floor, holding his hands to his eyes. Bending over, I asked him what the trouble was, but received no reply, as he was unconscious. The doctor brought him around all right, but he never saw again—there was a burn on the ball of his left thumb and a white fused streak across the bridge of his nose. He said afterward that he went into the office to see me and that he was near the switchboard when a big flash came in."

"Well," I asked, "did Malcolm marry the girl?"

"He did that," he replied decisively, "and I was best man and kissed the bride. And they lived happily ever the after and boarded the old blind villain to the day of his death, free of charge."

"Don't you consider that a hard name to call him, considering his misfortune?"

"Well, I don't know. You see, I found the plugs on the switchboard just as I saw them in my dream or whatever it was, and Prentiss had the one that we used to connect the mine wire clenched in his hand when I reached him."

"Did you tell any one about your dream?"

"Not I. I knew the minute I saw him that he was past doing further harm, and that he would have to depend either upon the young people or charity for a living after that; so I held my peace."—George Gilbert.

At the home of an Atchison couple a cat and dog were lying close together, sound asleep in the sun. "That cat and dog don't quarrel," said the wife; "why do we?" "Tie them together," replied the husband, "and see what will happen."

Where Great Writer Lived.

Craigenputtock, where Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus" was written, has just been the scene of a notable wedding. The bride was Miss Mary Carlyle of Craigenputtock, a grand-niece of Thomas Carlyle, and the bridegroom James Carlyle, a farmer of Pingle, Dumfriesshire, a son of Thos. Carlyle's favorite nephew. Pingle is about four miles from Ecclefechan, Carlyle's birthplace, and this village is the original of the Entuphl of "Sarto Resartus."

Window Glass at Pompeii.

Recent discoveries in the ruins of Pompeii prove that the ancient Romans used window glass; but for centuries houses in England were without window glass, the place of which was frequently supplied with waxed linen or oiled paper. At the end of the eighteenth century there were men living whose occupation it was to paste oiled paper into window-sashes.
